Mrs. T. Douglas was the winner of the door prize.

New Textbook Aids The Home Nurse

"What should I do when illness strikes?" Call the doctor, of course, but a newly published St. John Ambulance Home Nursing textbook shows how any woman (or man, for that matter) can do an efficient job as the doctor's chief assistant, the home nurse.

Everything from how to recognize the early symptoms of disease, how to economize on linen, or improvise a bed table out of a wooden box, is covered in the handy pocket-size book.

Lessons include: rest and comfort in illness, a plan of nursing care, natural body defences against disease, importance of observation, simple treatments, administration and care of medicines, food for the patient, prevention and nursing care of communicable diseases, care of aged and chronic patients, nursing care of children, prevention of home accidents.

The new textbook has been prepared with the help of leading Canadian medical and nursing authorities to suit Canadian conditions. The course in Home Nursing (for which it is used) comprises 12 lessons of about two hours each. It is not intended as training for professional nursing but, says Miss Mary Acland, St. John's Chief Nursing Officer, "we have found that many of the girls and young women who take the course consider it a useful way to find out if they are suited for the nursing profession".

Emphasis in the new textbook is on the practical side and how to cope with nursing in the average home and "make do" with a minimum of expense. Wording has been kept simple.

St. John Ambulance has been teaching home nursing for 60 years. Instruction is being stepped up across Canada because of Civil Defence requirements, the current hospital-bed stortage, the increase in the number of aged needing care, and a conviction that this is the kind of useful knowledge that will come in handy in any home.

Ministerial Group Has Talk On Ephesians

NORWOOD — (ENS) — The January meeting of the Campbellford and District Ministerial Association was held in the Presbyterian Manse in Norwood on Monday afternoon with Dr. Smith of Campbellford presiding.

The worship service was led by Capt. Baker of the Campbellford Salvation Army Corps.

A letter of appreciation was read from the Norwood United church treasure. A letter was also received from the Rev. Cole of Hastings United Church stating with regret that they could not entertain the ministerial group for their Ferbruary meeting. The Rev. A. E. Toombs of Campbellford Presbyterian Church extended an invitation to the Manse there. It was moved by the Rev. Gordon Whitehorn of Seymour United charge and seconded by the Rev. R. D. Duncanson of Norwood Presbyterian Church that the invitation be accepted. This was approved.

It was decided that the devotional period next meeting would be conducted by the Rev. Howson of Christ Anglican in Campbellford, Rev. W. G. Fletcher of Wooler United Church would give a paper on 1st Timothy.

The Rev. R. D. Duncanson presented a paper on the Epistle to the Ephesians. After the talk there was a lively and lengthy discussion of the material presented. The Rev. H. K. Wright of Norwood United Church thanked Mr. Duncanson.

Mrs. Duncanson, hostess for the afternoon, served refreshments and the Rev. Howson thanked the Rev. Duncanson and Mrs. Duncanson for their hospitality.

250 Pairs Of Shoes Now In Edmonton Collection

EDMONTON (CP) — Mrs. E. Tracy of Edmonton owns more than 250 pairs of shoes. But she doesn't wear them; they're collectors' items.

The chance gift of a pair of wooden clogs from a Dutch friend 13 years ago sparked the interest of Mrs. Tracy and her university student daughters Joan and Marion in their unusual hobby. Now they have a cabinet packed with miniature and full-sized footwear.

The Tracys bought a few shoes for the collection but most are gifts from friends—and strangers—all over the globe.

GLASS SLIPPER

Many of the shoes could be classified as antiques. A baby's glass feeding bottle in the shape of a slipper was used by a friend's great-grandmother. A baby's felt buttoned shoe was worn 65 years ago and a Hawaiian embroidered slipper just five inches long graced the tiny foot of a Japanese woman in the 1870s.

One prized item is a brass shoe from India, hand-carved with the mustard-seed motif used in Hindu temples. It was bought at a Canadian handicrafts exhibition. Miniature Mexican huraches, mukluks from Eskimo country, a gardenia in a golden slipper and slippers of spun glass from Oregon are other pieces marked with the dust of travel.

Cigarette? Mrs. Tracy will light it for you from one of two silver shoe cigarette lighters shaped by craftsmen in Yellowknife and Japan.

The collection includes personal treasures—the Tracy girls' first hard-soled baby shoes, and a clay boot made by a niece at the age of 10.

Mrs. Higginbottom, The Drake, Ducks Into Trouble

DALLAS, Tex. — (NEA)—Mrs. Higginbottom, who ain't no "she" but is a "he," ducked her—er—himself into some judicial hot water recently.

His troubles began when a neighbor's cats came to his house and teased him. Probably about his acting.

You see, Mrs. Higginbottom is a drake and has the leading role, that of a mother, in an all-color movie being produced in the back yard of his Dallas home by his owner, Mrs. Margo Pisillo.

In the movie, titled "The Unchaperoned Daughter," Mrs. Higginbottom plays the mother of Susie Q. Higginbottom, his adopted son, George, a cat. Mrs. Pisillo is making the movie, and is also writing a children's book along the same lines.

Susie Q. is a man chaser. In the film she chases a rabbit and a dog, the other male characters in the show, and Mrs. Higginbottom is chasing Susie Q. From all advance notices, the movie will be an action-packed thriller.

But back to Mrs. Higginbottom's legal troubles.

Mrs. Higginbottom has always tried to be a lad—er—gentleman, and steer clear of backbiting bickerings. But when those flighty felines from next door came over and started belittling his dramatic ability, he got his tail feathers up.

Now it is a known fact Mrs. Higginbottom is not a cat lover, with the exception, of course, of his adopted son Susi—uh—George. So when those unwelcome visitors from next door started ruffling his down in the wrong direction, he ran them home.

Everything would have been just ducky if he had been satisfied with removing the trespassers from his property, but his success went to his head.

Flushed with victory, but now a trespasser himself, he went to work on the neighbor's asparagus bed and left it in ruins. Then he uprooted some flower beds.

When the neighbor saw the havoc wrought in her favorite flower plot, she called in the local constabulary and had the drake summoned to court. It took the combined efforts of Mrs. Higginbottom's owners plus George, without whom he absolutely refuses to do anything, to get him there.

Mrs. Higginbottom got himself into deeper water and flirted with a contempt citation by opening his big bill and quacking loud and long while the judge was hearing testimony.

Mrs. Pisillo explained a wire enclosure had been constructed in her back yard where the culprit could be housed, so the judge sentenced Mrs. Higginbottom to a life of incarceration.

Mrs. Higginbottom doesn't seem to mind his sentence as long as he has George, the cat, for company.

LIFE SENTENCE: Here's Mrs. Higginbottom taking a bath in the wire enclosure where he (that's right, he) has been jailed.

CO-STARS: Mrs. Higginbottom and George, the cat, pose for their boss, Mrs. Margo Pisillo, who's putting them in a movie.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Planning Refreshments For Home and School Dance

This letter prompted the suggestions below: ". . . am member of committee of Home and School Association who are planning a square dance party . . . and would like some suggestions from you regarding refreshments . . . the committee doesn't care to make a profit but would like to serve a lunch which would cost the patron between 35c and 50c . . . using paper plates and forks and spoons, no knives. People will have to balance their refreshments on their laps . . . no table space. There will be a pre-party committee meeting and we would like to have something from you at that time . . ."

✧ ✧ ✧

Considering the appetites of the square dancers, and the paper plates and forks, these are my suggestions, which, incidentally, are based on experience.

1) Homemade Chili Con 'Carne (mildly flavored), buttered rye bread, homemade cole slaw, coffee.

2) Dagwood Hamburgers (meat cake, relish, tomato slice, cheese slice (last optional), cocoa.

3) Chicken a la King on Zwieback or patty shells, celery, tea.

No mention of the number to attend the party was made, and, as I recommend the Chili Con Carne most strongly, I will give a recipe that will serve 50. (We served this to a mixed group and they were most enthusiastic.)

CHILI CON CARNE

(50 to 55 servings)

Nine lbs. ground beef, 2 lbs. ground pork, 1½ cups chopped onions, 1 cup drippings, 12 cups cooked kidney beans (or 1 No. 10 can OR 5 to 6 cups dried red kidney beans, cooked), 20 cups (1 gallon) canned tomatoes, — this is 160 oz., 2½ tablespoons chili powder, 5 talespoons salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, 3 tablespoons sugar. Brown the meats and onions in the drippings on top of stove or in an oven of 425 deg. Fahr. stirring frequently. (If dried beans are used, wash and soak overnight. Drain, add 10 cups boiling water and simmer until tender; drain and add to browned meat). Add tomatoes and seasonings and simmer on top of stove or in 350 deg. Fahr. oven for an hour. If this is not thick enough to suit you thicken it with a water and flour paste. If canned beans are used we decided that they should be added just long enough before serving time to heat them through.

CHICKEN A LA KING

(50 Servings)

Buy 15 to 17 pounds fowl, purchased weight, or have ready 4 pounds cooked fowl, boned and diced, two 7-oz. tins pimiento, cut in strips, 1½ cups diced green peppers, 1½ pounds sliced mushrooms, 1 cup chicken or other mild fat, 20 cups chicken stock (4 quarts), 2½ cups chicken fat, 4½ cups flour, 3 cups milk, 1½ cups heavy cream or evaporated milk, ⅓ cup salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, 50 slices zwieback, or patty shells, or slices toasted bread or halved tea biscuits (or 5¼ cups rice cooked in 2½ gallons boiling water with ⅓ cup salt; this is 2½ pounds rice). Prepare fowl. Cook vegetables in first quantity fat until they are limp and tender but not brown. Heat stock; melt second quantity fat and stir in flour then stir this into the hot stock until thick. Add the milk, cream, chicken, and sauteed vegetables, and carefully heat through.

Norwood Group Installs Officers

NORWOOD (ENS)—Officers for 1954 were installed by the Rev. Mr. Wright when the Evening Auxiliary of the Norwood United church met at the home of Mrs. J. J. Stewart this week.

Miss Weir, the president, had charge of the meeting and opened it with a poem, "Thoughts for the New Year." The treasurer, Mrs. A. Atkinson reported that the allocation was reached, $325.00 having been sent to the presbyterial treasurer during 1953.

Mrs. A. McNab and her group took charge of the program. The devotional period, with meditation and prayers, was led by Mrs. McNab assisted by Mrs. Irvin Warner reading the scripture. The topic entitled "The Four R's of Europe," outlined the work of the christian church in Europe during and after World War II, under the headings: resistance, relief, reconstruction and reconciliation. These parts were taken by Mrs. John McConnell, Mrs. J. J. Stewart and Mrs. K. Pakenham.

Lunch was served by the group and a social time enjoyed.

China Spends More Money On Improving Education

By O. M. GREEN

LONDON (OFNS) — Whatever else China may have to go short of in the coming year — the opening of which was heralded by passionate exhortations from Peking to the nation to work harder, stop purchasing all but bare necessities and invest more in capital construction — it will certainly not go short of education.

No less than £24,400,000 it is said, is to be spent this year on new higher educational establishments and "middle schools" for workers and peasants, besides £10,700,000 for laboratory apparatus and machinery. In Peking alone, 360,000 square metres of floor space were added last year — sixteen buildings put up and three enlarged — to accommodate fifteen thousand students of iron and steel, geology, mining, the petroleum industry and aeronautics. Besides the usual lecture rooms there are to be living quarters for students and professors, dining halls, recreation rooms and gymnasiums.

In the past year, it is said, 11,500 new students were entered in peasants' and workers' middle schools. Of these, nine-tenths were described as "revolutionary cadres;" and of 1,680 who passed into higher institutes of learning, many are destined for further teaching in Russia. "Correct thought" must never be left out of general education.

INTERESTING DIRECTIVE

On primary education there is an extremely interesting directive from the state administrative council. It must be realized, the council says, that most primary school children will have to go into "productive work"; only a limited number will be able to rise to higher education. But, owing to remnant traces of the old social system, "many parents do not understand this and think that their children will remain uneducation unless they can carry on to higher learning."

"This is a perfectly natural feeling, derived from the practice of more than 2,000 years, in which the only passport to the ranks of scholars and mandarins (the most revered class in China) was through proficiency in the classics, in which men might go on taking new examinations until they are quite elderly.

China's problem is paralleled in Britain, where if a boy fails at eleven to pass into a grammar school he goes to a modern secondary school. This leads to a new form of class distinction since the grammar school boy is regarded as being superior and entitled to hold his head higher than the boy who failed to pass. But in China the Communists have tackled the difficulty with their usual ruthlessness, telling the parents frankly that there must be two classes of citizen: those who give orders and those who obey them.

The Communists are equally frank about another difficulty (also known in Britain): there are still not enough schools and teachers. So the recently introduced five years of primary schooling must temporarily be cut to four.

One interesting form of cultural propaganda is the work of the foreign language press, which plans to publish one hundred new Chinese books in English, French, Russian, German and Indonesian. Seventy such translations were published and sent abroad last year. Among them were books by the Chinese leader, Mao Tse-tung — "On Contradictions" and "On Practice" — and two novels which won Stalin Prizes. One of these, "The Sun Shines Over the Sangkan River," by Communist China's leading woman writer, Ting Ling, "depicts land reforms in a typical North China village." We are told that "'in fresh, moving style Ting Ling describes the complex and acute class struggle involved and the changes in class relationships that resulted."

FILM INDUSTRY ACTIVE

In lighter methods of education the film industry has been increasingly active, with the production last year of seventeen feature and educational films, thirty-one documentaries, ninety-six newsreels, a cartoon and a puppet show. These were exhibited to audiences totalling seven hundred million. Communist policy is evidently the main theme throughout. Thus, we are told that "the educational films have proved a most effective and welcome means of mass education, popularising advanced working methods in industry and agriculture."

Prominent newsreels and documentaries are "The Great Land Reform," "Resist American Aggression and Aid Korea," "The Signing of the Korean Armistice." Even feature films depict victories of the "People's Liberation Army," and Tibetan life under the blessings of Communist rule.

China's first full-length coloured film is shortly to be produced, based on a famous Chinese play which tells the tragic story of "two young lovers parted by feudal marriage custom." The title is not given, but it sounds rather like "The Red Chamber," which might be described as the Chinese counterpart of the stories of Paulo and Francesca, Romeo and Juliet or Tristan and Isolde.

Finally, there is the report on the great Peking Library at the end of 1953. It was here that, some twenty years ago, Mao Tse-tung held a starveling post, which kept him alive, but which enabled him to read voraciously foreign books on socialogy and economics. In the past four years the library has received fifty thousand books and magazines from eighteen countries in Europe, Asia and the Americas and has sent out thirty thousand in exchange. Special mention is necessarily made of rare editions of Marx, Engels, Lenin et al sim among books received. But one has a feeling that the writers of the report are actuated more by pride in performance than by interest in politics.

The Peking Library, now containing more than two million five hundred thousand books, both Chinese and foreign, is a truly great heritage. Among its treasures are books written by hand in the Fifth century; books printed from wooden engravings in the Ninth century; 4,300 of the Buddhist Canon printed from wood blocks in the Sung Dynasty (roughly coeval with the Normans in England); and one hundred and forty volumes of the vast Yung Lo Chinese Encyclopedia completed early in the Fifteenth century. The writers of the report say that in all the world there are probably not four volumes of this rare work in existence.

Party Honors Couple In Warkworth

WARKWORTH (ENS) — The neighbors and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Yabsley (nee Vivian Russell) gave a party in the town hall to honor them on their recent marriage.

The Rev. A. L. Sisco of St. Paul's United church was master of ceremonies for the program. Miss Ruth McCubbin sang a solo with her mother, Mrs. Gordon McCubbin, accompanist. Piano solos were given by Garth Allen and Miss Ferne Killingbeck, and humorous readings were given by Mrs. Douglas Langford (aunt of the bride) and Miss Helen Anne Knox.

An interesting item on the program was a wedding parade where eight young women dressed in bride and groom costumes, paraded in costumes that represented modern times, those of 15 years ago, those of 25 or 30 years ago and those of the half century wedding anniversary. As each couple came forward on the stage a song was sung representing that particular age period. Those taking part were: Miss Claire Windover (as bride) and Miss Ferne Weatherup (groom) represented a modern wedding couple and the song "I love you truly" was sung. Miss Beth Pearson (bride) and Miss Ferne Hamill (groom) represented a couple of 15 years ago and the song "Let Me Call You Sweetheart" was sung. Miss Helen Anne Knox and Miss Marion MacFarlane represented a couple of 25 or 30 years ago and the song "Down by the Old Mill Stream" was sung. Miss Mae Macfarlane and Miss Ferne Killingbeck represented the golden anniversary couple and the song "Put on Your Old Grey Bonnet" was sung.

At the close of the program, bride and groom were called to the stage and Mrs. Fred Skinkle, Wor Mistress of the LOBA Coronation Lodge presented the bride with a rhinestone pin on behalf of the members and officers of the lodge of which the bride was a member. The bride expressed her thanks.

Following this Mr. Ray Kelly read an address presenting the gifts from the community — a chair, a feather-weight electric iron and a pop-up toaster.

The bride and groom thanked their friends for the lovely gifts. The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing.

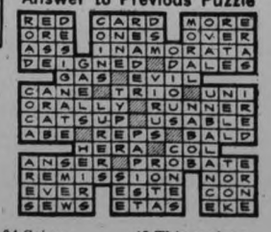
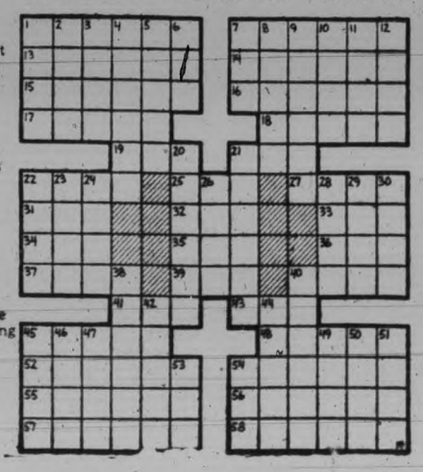
Answer to Previous Puzzle





DOROTHY DIX:

Girl 16, Broods Over Boy's Neglect

DEAR MISS DIX: A year ago I met Charlie, who was, I thought, the most wonderful boy in the world. We dated for three months, and I had good times together. Then it was discovered that I had heart trouble, and I was sent to a hospital, where I was for several months. Charlie came to see me, and wrote every day, for a month. Then — Silence. It's been eight months since I saw him, but I still think of him and wish he would, at least, write. I'm 16 and he's a year older. Naturally, worrying about him isn't helping me recuperate, but I don't know how to forget him.

LORNA

UNSTABLE YOUTH

ANSWER: There are two features of your problem that you must face squarely and acknowledge honestly. One is that a 17-year-old boy hasn't the capacity to fit into the requirements of your situation. You like Charlie, whom you had come to regard as a firm friend, and expected, without question, that he'd continue to stand by through your long illness. A young lad just doesn't have that sort of stability. A boy of 17 wants fun, companionship, someone to share the problems of school and the activities of his group. That you weren't able to fill the bill for more than three months wasn't your fault, certainly, and neither was it Charlie's. One of the tragedies of a prolonged illness is that it cuts one off so completely from the normal routine of living. In the case of youngsters, this is particularly hard since teen-age life is so concentrated. Don't hold the boy's dereliction against him.

The second fact you must bear in mind is that brooding over Charlie will most definitely retard your recovery. I would suggest that you take your mother into your confidence. She will find something new to occupy your time so that the loss of Charlie's attentions won't be uppermost in your mind. It might also help if you'd enlist the aid of a favorite nurse. There must be other patients about your age in the hospital; even if you can't visit them, you might exchange notes.

Your illness is an interruption to your outside life, but it will only be temporary. Soon you'll be back in circulation ready to make new friends.

DEAR MISS DIX: Ever since my marriage, two years ago, my in-laws have run the household. My sister-in-law came to live with us right after our wedding and took charge of things as if I were an outsider. When my baby was born, she left and set up her own apartment. Now she wants to come back. I don't want her, but my husband does. She has a good job, lots of friends, and can quite easily get along without us.

MARCIA T.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Even at the risk of having a fuss with your husband, I don't think your sister-in-law should return to your home. If she needed a home, or help, it would be different, but as she's well able to be on her own, let it be that way. The arrangement, as it stands, is better for her too. It provides a much better background for social activity, and — ulterior motive par excellence—more opportunity to meet bachelors. After all a household that includes a baby is not conductive to much entertaining by an unmarried aunt.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Though Les and I have known each other quite a while, and are compatible he often gets spells of just not talking. He's 18 and I'm 17.

SARA K.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The boy may be moody, quiet by nature, or not inclined to join in small talk. Again, perhaps you spend so much time together that he's talked out. Many people prefer occasional silences to constant chatter.

6—In Memoriam

ANDREWS—In loving memory of Roy M. Andrews, who passed away January 19, 1946.
—Lovingly remembered by daughter Florence, son-in-law Ben and grandson LeRoy.

CLANCY—In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Daisy Clancy, who passed away January 19, 1946.
We miss you now, our hearts are sore,
As time goes by we miss you more.
Your loving smile, your gentle face,
No one can fill your vacant place.
—Ever remembered by husband, Joseph; Gerard, Marie, Peter, Patsy, and Joan and Bill Thomas.

RUSSELL—In ever loving memory of our beloved mother, Eliza Ellen Russell, who entered the presence of her Lord, January 19, 1952.
In sorrow we waited day by day
And watched her suffering there;
Slowly but surely passing away
From the pain she scarce could bear.
And then God called from His throne above.
Her suffering and pain is past;
We know she has gone to realms of love
And in Heaven has peace at last.
—Sadly missed by her family.

ROGERS—In loving memory of Richard Rogers, who passed away 10 years ago, January 19th, 1944.
Today recalls sad memories,
Of our dear son gone to rest.
And the ones who think of him today
Are the ones who loved him best.
—Lovingly remembered by mom and dad.

STEVENS—In loving memory of Elizabeth Stevens who passed away January 19, 1953.
The depths of sorrow, we cannot tell
Of the loss of one we loved so well
And while she sleeps a peaceful sleep
Her memory we shall always keep.
—Ever remembered by mother sister and brothers.

STEVENS—In loving memory of Elizabeth Stevens who passed away January 19, 1953.
Sweet memories will linger forever;
Time cannot change them, it's true
Years that may come cannot sever
My loving remembrance of you.
—Ever remembered by Florence and Bill and the children.

7—Card of Thanks

I wish to take this opportunity to thank attending doctors and staff of Civic Hospital, Rev. Ivan C. Morgan and all the friends who remembered me with flowers, cards and visits during my stay in hospital.—Mrs. Harry Welch.

Mrs. E. Cuthbertson, 599 Braidwood Ave., wishes to thank attending doctor and assistants, the staff of the Civic Hospital and also the Peterborough Bus Drivers for their kind inquiries.

'Teen-Age Pair Killed In Crash

HAMILTON (CP) — Pauline Nestorovich, 18, of RR 1, Wellandport, was killed instantly, and Silvio Deyme, 19, of RR 1, Wainfleet, died in St. Joseph's Hospital here a few hours after the car in which they were riding crashed into the rear end of a loaded tractor-trailer on Highway 57 about midnight, one-half mile south of Bismark.

The front end of the car was driven six feet under the end of the trailer.

William Stinson, of Welland, driver of the tractor-trailer, told police that his outfit had developed motor trouble and he had stopped only a moment before the crash, with his right wheels on the shoulder of the highway.

Northey Given 30 Months In Penitentiary

Carl Northey of Peterborough was sentenced to two and a-half-years imprisonment by Magistrate W. R. Philp Q.C. in court today. Northey pleaded guilty to five charges of stealing cheques at a total value of $452.22.

Alleged to be associated with Northey in this series of thefts were James Hutchison and Mrs. Delphaine Provencher, both of Peterborough. They are still awaiting trial. Hutchison is accused of theft and Mrs. Provencher with receiving stolen goods.

Before giving sentence the magistrate asked Northey if there was any redeeming feature of the case he would care to submit to the court. Northey said there was nothing he could say.

Crown attorney John A. Bradshaw informed the magistrate that Northey had asked for a penitentiary term instead of one in a reformatory.

LENGTHY LIST

"Your list of previous convictions is so long that it is doubtful whether there is any likelihood of you going to a reformatory," commented the magistrate to Northey. "Anyhow, I'm afraid I cannot take any notice of where you would prefer to go".

"You are quite young and you may change yet", he continued. "However, with the record you are building up for yourself, you cannot expect any court to deal leniently with you in the future."

The charges of theft were laid last November when it was alleged Northey had followed the mailman on a country route, taking the cheques from mailboxes. On each of the five charges he was sentenced to two and a-half years, but as they are to run concurrently, he will serve only one term of that period.

OBITUARIES

CECIL R. B. HOPE

Cecil R. B. Hope, 253 Mark St., died in hospital Monday after a short illness. Born in West Bromwich, England, son of the late Charles A. Hope and Hannah Lane Gilbert, he first came to Canada in 1917, settling in Cornwall. He came to Peterborough in 1945, and until the time of his death was employed at the De Laval Co. Ltd.

Mr. Hope is survived by his wife, the former Clemina Long, two daughters Sandra and Lynda of Peterborough, two brothers Reginald of Toronto and Horace of Peterborough, and one sister Mrs. J. Forbes (Pansy) of Peterborough. Another sister, Mrs. George Walker (Queenie) predeceased him.

A member of St. Luke's Anglican church, funeral service will take place Thursday from the residence, 253 Mark St., to St. Luke's church, at 2:30 p.m. Canon Walter Gilling will officiate, and burial will be in Little Lake cemetery.

ALFRED EDWARD KYLIE

The death occurred Monday, at his home 71 Aylmer St., of Alfred (Fred) E. Kylie, suddenly, in his 75th year. Born in Otonabee township, son of the late James Kylie and Ellen Burke, he retired to Peterborough in 1947 from his farm, RR 2, Keene.

Surviving are his wife, the former Maude Crowley, daughter Mrs. Lorne Corkery (Helen), son Joseph of Otonabee, and one granddaughter Coleen, brother Herbert of Peterborough, and two sisters, Mrs. Vernon O'Dette (Georgina) and Mrs. James Fitzgerald (Mary), of Peterborough.

Mr. Kylie was a member of the Sacred Heart church and of the Altar society and Holy Name society of that church.

Funeral services will be on Thursday from the home of his brother Herbert, 340 George St. south, to the sacred Heart church, for solemn requiem high mass at 10:00 a.m.

Burial will be in St. Peter's cemetery.

WILLIAM HENRY FAYLE

William H. Fayle, 11 Burnham Court, died suddenly today at his residence in his 68th year. Born on the Isle of Mann, son of William Fayle Sr., and the former Eleanor Kelly, he came to Canada 43 years ago. He lived in Port Hope for some time, Lindsay for 12 years, and his last four years were spent in Peterborough.

Surviving him are his wife, the former Rachel Simoneau; daughters, Mrs. W. Allcock (Mona), of Cobourg, Mrs. G. Lowes, (Grace), of Port Hope, and Frances, at home; sons, William, of Peterborough, Edward, of England, and Harold, of Oshawa; sisters, Mrs. G. Ling, Mrs. M. Roche and Mrs. A. Burgess, all of Port Hope.

Mr. Fayle was employed as a stationary engineer at the Peterborough Canoe Co., had served with the infantry during World War 1, and was a member of the Canadian Legion.

A member of the Immaculate Conception church, his funeral will be from the Kaye funeral home, to Immaculate Conception church, on Thursday, for solemn high mass at 9:00 a.m. Burial will be in St. Peter's cemetery.

Two Liquor Charges Bring Heavy Fines

In court today, Dudley Shilling of the Curve Lake Indian Reserve pleaded guilty to having been in possession of liquor on the reserve. Magistrate W. R. Philp, QC, fined him $50, costs $5. The charge was laid by RCMP Constable Daniel A. Carreau.

For being impaired while in charge of a motor vehicle, Elmer Lean of Apsley was fined $75, costs $2.50.

VOYAGEUR—Jean Bartholdi, 24, of Vancouver plans to paddle across Canada in a kayak. An expert at handling the cigar-shaped Eskimo craft, Swiss-born Jean plans to follow the natural Canadian waterways as far as possible. He got the idea for the trip while reading tales of the old pioneers and the Canadian north. He worked his way across Canada, after leaving his native Lausanne two years ago, and since then has saved for his dream journey. Jean hopes to set out March 20, but "financial troubles," may postpone the trip until next year.

Russians Content

Class distinction is just as much a reality in Russia today as anywhere else. The upper class is made up of artists, writers, high party officials and army officers; the middle class, of factory foremen and junior party officials; and the majority, the proletariat of peasantry.

Strangely enough, there is no apparent resentment toward those who are better off. The common realization semes to be that different stratas of life are necessary and that one may elevate one's self if the ability, time and effort are forthcoming.

It is true that in recent months the people have become a bit restless and apathetic. They've gone though a war, and many years of five-year plans, and plenty of hard work and privation, but there is no sign of discontent that could lead to an uprising.

TIRED NOW

Ever since 1917 the Russians have concentrated on building up their country industrially—power projects, munition plants, and factories. At first the people tackled this construction with a kind of idealism. But now they're tired, and that idealism in building impersonal objects, has faded. Still the results are there. Today, Russia is the secnd greatest industrial power in the world.

The most important thing the western world must realize, if these two powers are to harmonize, is the importance of knowing truthfully, conditions in Russia today. The mass misconception, imagined and accepted, of western people concerning life behind the Iron Curtain, must be rooted out and replaced by truth.

Mr. Clark exemplified: "Some of the streets in Moscow are tremendously wide, and the traffic was heavier than I had expected. Not as heavy as here, perhaps, but with many more cars, taxis, trucks and autobuses than I'd imagined. Yet, when I returned home and was questioned by friends who asked, for instance, 'Are the streets in Moscow paved?' and I said, 'yes, they're paved', they looked me up and down suspiciously as though I'd fallen for the party line."

The Russians have had a reaction to the streamlined morals of the '30's. No longer is free love considered the thing. It's frowned on as is easy divorce. It's just as difficult to get a divorce in Russia today as it is in Canada.

The consumer goods drive has resulted in some reconversion in heavy industry that naturally would be concentrating on such things as tanks and guns. The average wage is equivalent of $50 a week, and while items such as an electric iron are classified and priced in the luxury bracket, the essentials such as bread and cabbage, are low. Rents run to about five per cent of a man's salary.

The question of political freedom is a different matter. The regime has had 36 years to eliminate any kind of freedom that might have existed and to build up a fear of the west. The last two or three generations know nothing but the propaganda they've been fed by the party. On this matter there is no individuality among the common people—they all have the same thoughts.

Because they know no other way of life and because the one they do know provides them with all the basic necessities of life, the Russian people are content. They can even afford what they call "freedom of religion." A few churches are open and are constantly jammed — but with elderly people. The young people have been won by a new religion — the religion of communism.

"Just as we ridicule the Russian way of life, so they ridicule ours and in many cases, we're as guilty of feeding them ammunition. Sometimes they can afford to run without slanting or altering a word, an account on Russia written by a supposedly dispassionate westegn observer. I have a feeling that, propaganda-wise, too frequently we broadcast the same programs as the Russians — only under different sponsors.

"The straight facts speak for themselves (1) That no Canadian in his right mind would want to trade places with a Russian (2) At the same time, the Russians are quite wrapped up in their own system.

Mr. Clark was introduced by Ford M. Warren and thanked by K. C. Dalyrmple.

Fear Shortage Of Deer In Near Future

Concern that there may be a shortage of deer in this section of Ontario has prompted the Lake Simcoe zone of the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters to distribute a questionaire for deer hunters.

After compiling the hunters' observations, Cam Rowatt of Peterborough, secretary-treasurer of this zone, will pass the information along to the department of lands and forests. The data should prove of assistance to the department in deciding on game management.

"This census is important to every deer hunter, whether he is a member of an organized fish and game club or not," said Mr. Rowatt. "We solicit his co-operation."

While many hunters in the Peterborough district got their bag this year, others complained of a shortage of deer. Checks indicated that local hunters were luckier than fellow sportsmen in other parts of the province, equally well known for their large deer population.

NUMBER DECREASING

"Behind it all is a very real fear that the number of deer is decreasing," said Mr. Rowatt. "The number of licenses being issued is going up. In a few years we may find the season cut down because of the scarcity of deer — This survey should help us get some facts."

Here is a list of questions that hunters are asked to answer: number hunting in the party, number of hours or days huning, how many deer seen (male or female), how many killed (male or female), use of dogs, locality where hunt took place, and an opinion on whether the opening of the deer-hunting season was too soon or was satisfactory.

Hunters belonging to clubs will send the information to their club secretaries, who in turn will send it to Mr. Rowatt, 400 Dublin St. Unattached hunters are asked to send their infomration direct to Mr. Rowatt.

Mr. Rowatt hopes to have the results ready before the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters hold their annual convention, February 13-14, in Windsor. Other zones in Ontario are expected to follow the lead of the Lake Simcoe zone giving the federation and the department a picture of the deer situation throughout the province.

Challenge Sending

because "there would always be a house 100 feet outside the fringe area."

Mayor Graham stated that both Otonabee and North Monaghan townships were considering making agreements for fire protection of sections close to the city. His Worship suggested a meeting with the township fathers.

Ald. John Dewart suggested that, until an agreement was reached with the townships, the city should rescind the resolution prohibiting fire service to them. There was no point in having a bylaw if it was going to be broken.

Ald. Beggs said he had understood the resolution merely reaffirmed a bylaw. But City Clerk E. A. Outram said there was no such bylaw.

"Then why did they say I broke a bylaw when I didn't?" asked Mayor Graham.

"I was under a misapprehension; I apologize," said Ald. Beggs.

"I'm speaking to the press," said His Worship. "They said I broke a bylaw."

Ald. Art Burrows said he couldn't support Ald. Dewart's proposal to rescind the resolution because it had been passed on the advice of the late fire chief, George Smith, "for a very good reason," to restrict the use of the fire department's equipment.

ESTABLISH POSITION

"I would like to see Ald. Rehill's position quite firmly established," Ald. Burrows said. "You are going to have a job to administer this thing haphazardly."

Mr. Outram said the city had a piece of fire-fighting equipment specially designed for fringe area protection which carried its own water supply, but there were many questions involved, including those of manpower, expense and, above all, where to locate the equipment.

In answer to a question from Ald. Stan McBride, Mayor Graham said that the mayor and chairman of the fire, water and light committee were authorized to send fire-fighting equipment outside the city. But when this was challenged by Aldermen Beggs and Dewart, the city clerk said the authority had existed prior to the 1949 resolution but existed no longer.

Mr. Outram explained that the resolution was the result of a fire outside the city limits on Lansdowne St. when two pumpers, drawing water from a creek, had been put out of commission for three weeks and the firemen had asked for extra pay for giving extra protection.

"In that case, I take it the fire chief has no authority to take such orders from any member of the council," said Ald. Pat Anglesey.

". . . and if he does so, he is at fault," added Ald. McBride.

Saying he was not satisfied with the mayor's statement that the matter had been settled, Ald. Rehill asked His Worship what he had meant by saying earlier that if the fire had involved a $100,000 property, the fire department would have gone and nothing would have been said.

"I'm simply saying the fire department would have gone," His Worship retorted." "I'm not making any insinuation at you or anyone else. And you'll notice I didn't make any insinuations against any member of this council during the election."

WINS SCHOLARSHIP—Robert Moon, 28-year-old Regina Leader-Post reporter, has been awarded a Kemsley scholarship in journalism. It will enable him to spend a year in Britain gaining experience in the various offices of the Kemsley newspapers. Born in Moose Jaw, Mr. Moon graduated from the University of Saskatchewan. He served for a year during the Second World War with the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals. For the last four years he has been The Leader-Post's political and legislative reporter.

Cut 25 Trees Man Fined $25

It was just 15 days to Christmas when Allan Haywood of Gooderham decided to get himself a load of Christmas trees. He showed the right spirit at the right time, but unfortunately for him he chose the wrong place to get them when he did a little cutting in the government reserve.

In court today he faced a charge of stealing 25 evergreen trees, the property of the Ontario Province. He pleaded guilty and Magistrate W. R. Philp Q.C. fined him $25, costs $2.50.

Haywood said that he had not had the opportunity to sell the trees.

Principals Seek Uniform Pay Rate

SUDBURY (CP) — A uniform maximum salary schedule and a boost in their present maximum salaries to $6,000 is being sought by the principals of Sudbury's nine public schools.

The principals are "one hundred per cent opposed" to the three-category system under which principals' maximum salaries now are divided into three groups dependent on the size of the school. Principals in schools up to eight rooms receive $5,000 per year; from nine to 15 rooms, $5,200; and over 15 rooms, $5,400, with annual increments of $300 up to the maximum. Additions are paid for special degrees and certificates.

The principal's case was placed before the Sudbury public school board Monday night by a committee appointed by the principals.

May Save $65,000 Naming Buyer

KITCHENER (CP) — Appointment of a purchasing agent will be considered by Kitchener council this year.

"I know of no other organization that spends over $3,000,000 a year and hasn't got a purchasing agent," Alderman Fred Dreger, finance committee chairman, said today.

Alderman Frank Harber, who introduced the topic, said centralized purchasing, according to experts, might create a saving ranging from 10 per cent to 25 per cent on municipal buying.

Kitchener might save $65,000 to $75,000 a year he said.

Protest Medal Award To Communist MLA

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Civil Service War Veterans' Association Monday night turned down a suggestion that the association protest the presentation of a Coronation Medal to J. B. Salsberg, Labor-Progressive (Communist) member of the Ontario legislature for Toronto St. Andrew riding.

Harry Robson, newly-elected association president, moved that a protest be made to Ottawa over award of the medal to Mr. Salsberg but his motion was turned down. The medal was given to all members of the legislature and their wives.

Millionaire Abducted Freed For $32,620

SINGAPORE (Reuters)—A Chinese tobacco millionaire who was kidnapped with his chauffeur last Friday has been released after paying a ransom believed to be more than $32,620, police said tonight.

Lim Kok-gin and the driver were set free in a Singapore street Monday night and made their way home. They were imprisoned in a small hut and given only water during their three days of captivity.

Chatham Jet Fighter Base Important Defence Against Enemy Bombers

CHATHAM, N.B. (CP) — The RCAF jet fighter base here is classed as an operational training unit, but it's also an aerial shield for New Brunswick against enemy bomber attacks.

Manned by combat-tested pilots and senior students ready for battle two squadrons of Sabres—40 or more aircraft — could be sent against any foe winging toward N.B. targets.

Four Sabres, fully armed with six 50-calibre machine guns, are kept on an around-the-clock alert. Pilots are detailed to "scramble" to them should need arise for emergency interceptor missions.

PASS ON KNOWLEDGE

Pilots with combat experience in the Second World War and in Korea are passing on knowledge to younger men converting to jet aircraft. Among the battle-wise veterans are seven who flew against Red planes in the Korean conflict.

The station's commanding officer is Group Capt. A. G. McKenna, 39-year-old bomber pilot who earned a DFC in the Second World War. He has over-all command of Canada's only training base for Sabre pilots, the RCAF's day fighters. A comparable station at North Bay, Ont., trains pilots for the two-man CF-100, classed as an all-weather fighter.

At Chatham, the work of about 550 men and women in uniform centres on training the young fliers.

HELP TO AREA

Group Capt. McKenna told a press conference about $180,000 is paid to officers and enlisted personnel every two weeks. This does not include the wages of approximately 240 civilian employees at the base. Most of the money is spent in the Chatham-Newcastle area.

The commanding officer estimated the station represents a capital investment of $75,000,000, including $250,000 for each Sabre. Other types in daily service include the T-33 jet trainer; the Mustang, which tows targets for air-to-air firing practice, and the Beechcraft, a utility plane. A helicopter is also based here for search and rescue jobs.

A $12,000,000 construction program, including the lengthening of runways, is about 75 per cent completed.

Pilots coming for the big jump to Sabres have about 300 hours in Harvards already logged. When checked out after 18 weeks as ready to join squadrons, they have rolled up 80 to 85 hours in jets. Usually about 72 pilots are taking the operational training. Between 10 and 15 per cent fail to make the grade.

400 PILOTS TRAINED

More than 400 jet pilots have been trained at Chatham since 1949 when the base was re-opened after a shutdown at the close of the Second World War. Average age of the student pilots is 21.

Squadron Leader W. W. Fox, 34, of Toronto, who flew 29 combat missions in Korea, says the Sabre is "much superior" to the Russian-built MiG. He "wouldn't trade one Sabre for a dozen MiGs." The only advantage held by the Red plane was a slight one in maximum altitude.

"The MiGs were elusive and hard to get," Fox said in an interview. "Their pilots were very reluctant to come out and fight, even when we would deliberately get into position for them."

He served a tour of duty with the United States Air Force and said pilots in the USAF squadron were certain Russians were sometimes at the controls of the MiGs but the U.S. airmen couldn't prove it.

In general, it was "obvious" that the training standards of U.S. and Canadian pilots were far ahead of the Chinese.

Mrs. William Borland

The funeral of the late Mrs. Marion Borland, who died January 14 in her 81st year was held Friday from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Stewart Elmhirst, Lot 24, Concession 4, in Otonabee township.

Pallbearers were six of Mrs. Borland's nephews: Arthur, Percy, Phillip and Richard Elmhirst and Gavin and John Shearer. The Rev. A. S. Roblin of Park St. Baptist Church, Peterborough officiated.

Mrs. Borland was predeceased by her husband, William in 1947. She was buried in the family plot in Fife's cemetery.

Urges Asia Join Against Reds

NEW DELHI (AP) — Ceylon's prime minister, Sir John Kotelawela, called on the people of southeast Asia Monday night to join forces against "the ugly form of Communism lying on our doorsteps." He pledged his country's all-out support in fighting the Reds.

Addressing a public meeting in India's Parliament House, the visiting premier declared: "Communism thrives because we in democratic countries honor the liberties of our citizens, and Communism is entirely foreign to the religious, cultural and social traditions of our people."

Ceylon has been the target of American criticism for trading with Red China, but Kotelawela has contended the association is only an economic one involving no friendship on his part.

Kotelawela, who just ended a three-day conference with Nehru, following a similar parley with Prime Minister Mohammed Ali of Pakistan, wants the chiefs of five South Asian states to get together next spring.

Moon's Eclipse Seen In Cold Port Arthur

PORT ARTHUR (CP) — Port Arthur residents saw Monday night's eclipse of the moon perfectly but below-zero weather kept the number of outside observers to a minimum.

The eclipse was first noticed about 7:45 p.m. EST and required until midnight for the full passage.

Those who braved the cold saw an almost perfect eclipse as the earth's shadow blanked out the moon but some maintain they were able to see a small piece of the moon at all times. The shadow took on a reddish glow.

The sky was cloudless.

Water Safety Instructors

The water safety examiner clinic, sponsored by the Peterborough Branch of the Canadian Red Cross was a "great success," Mrs. J. P. Watts, local director of the water safety section of the Red Cross said today.

The Examiner clinic, held Saturday morning, named four full-time water safety instructors for the Peterborough area. The instructors: Mrs. Pansy Forbes, coach of the Peterborough Ornamental Swimming Club, Gordon Minty, YMCA swimming coach, Miss Roslyn Stone, YWCA swimming instructress and Miss Betty Nerritt of the Lions' Pool. At a tea in the YWCA that afternoon, the examiners and their Red Cross hosts discussed with water safety experts the best way to implement the decisions for uniform water safety standards reached at the pool-school that morning.

The local water safety program has been worked out as closely as possible to parallel standards set by the head office of the Red Cross (water safety branch) in Toronto. Warren Clayson, "principal" of the Saturday swimming school, is the provincial director for swimming and water safety.

'Brutal Attack' Proven Suicide

HANNOVER, Germany (Reuters)—K. Peter, chief of Hannover criminal police, said today that the death of Kurt Steggewentze March 30 last year was "a clearly proved suicide."

Steggewentze, 22, was found hanged by his necktie from a tree in the garden of a Hannover restaurant, the Wittekind. The Wittekind was one of the main meeting places of soldiers of the 27th Canadian Infantry Brigade, which was stationed in the area at that time.

Peter said reports that Canadian soldiers had "murdered" Steggewentze were "completely unfounded." He said the reports all came from the Communist press, which has played up the case, calling it a "brutal attack by Canadian soldiers."

Peter said Steggewentze's suicide resulted from jealousy over a girl, Else Wesemier.

Cancer Object

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario division of the Canadian Cancer Society today set $500,000 as the objective for its 1954 campaign. This is the same goal as last year when contributions to within $5,000 of the amount were raised.

Canadian - Educated Doctor Sparkplug Of Resistance

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (Reuters) — A Canadian-educated doctor, drugstore tycoon and union chief is the sparkplug behind the passive resistance program organized in British Guiana by the left-wing People's Progressive Party to embarrass the British government and protest suspension of the colony's constitution.

Dr. Joseph Prayag Lachhmansingh, former minister of health and housing in the deposed leftist government and now acting head of the party, openly boasts that his party will win a majority in the next election.

But he is keeping mum on future PPP plans to embarrass Britain and Governor Sir Alfred Savage.

Lachhmansingh was behind the general strike called in British Guiana for the second week of October, after the government of Dr. Cheddi Jagan was deposed. The strike was unsuccessful.

He was appointed acting party chairman when Jagan and his first lieutenant, former education minister Linden Forbes Burnham, left the colony on visits to Britain and India.

Lachhmansingh gave up school teaching in 1922 to study medicine at Dalhousie University, Halifax. He graduated eight years later.

Returning home, he built up a wide practice among the East Indian sugar workers.

He also began a dairy business and drugstore chain, and organized a trade union — the Guiana Industrial Workers Union—to rival the Manpower Citizens Association, recognized by sugar manufacturers for 15 years.

SET OFF RIOTS

When his demands for union recognition failed, Lachhmansingh called strikes, which repeatedly flopped. A strike on June 16, 1948, led to riots in the east coast sugar belt in which five persons were killed and eight wounded.

Lachhmansingh was elected to the house of assembly last April, and was appointed minister of health and housing.

Five months later, in an attempt to get his union recognized, he called a general strike with PPP support and shut down all 14 sugar factories in the colony.

When the constitution was suspended Oct. 8, Lachhmansingh was stripped of office.

Found In Pit Man Said Amnesia Victim

SARNIA (CP)—Police said Monday they believe 28-year-old Edgar Ducharme of Montreal was a victim of amnesia. Ducharme was found unconscious and half-frozen in a snow-filled gravel pit Sunday.

In hospital he was reported recovering although both feet were frozen.

Provincial Constable James Wood said Ducharme is subject to periodic spells of amnesia. He evidently boarded a train at Chicago for Montreal with a ticket and plenty of money but at Sarnia he told the conductor he had no ticket.

He was taken off the train here. As it pulled out, he broke away from a railway policeman and hung onto a bar at the rear of the train. He was dragged 75 yards before the train was halted.

Failing to catch another train, he ran to the street and jumped on the rear bumper of a slowly-moving automobile. He was found Sunday by Mrs. Jack Cochrane.

Police said he must have lain more than 24 hours in the near-zero weather without his overcoat.

Centenarian Dies

COLLINGWOOD (CP) — Mrs. Rebecca Pleasance, 100, oldest resident of this Georgian bay town, died Monday. Mrs. Pleasance, a native of Cambridgeshire, England celebrated her 100th birthday last Nov. 3 by receiving a number of friends at her home. She is survived by four sons, one daughter, 23 grandchildren, 50 great grandchildren and one great great grandson.

Protestant Clergy Criticizes Government Action On Nuns

HAMILTON (CP) — A motion strongly criticizing the Ontario government's action in ordering two Roman Catholic nuns of an Ontario high school to conceal their crucifixes was proposed Monday by two Protestant ministers.

The motion was put to the Hamilton Council of Churches—representing all major protestant denominations in the Hamilton district—by the Rev. Calvin McQuesten, a retired United Church clergyman who termed "shocking" the order given the nuns by Education Minister Dunlop.

The motion, seconded by the Rev. W. H. Daw, senior minister of Blessed Trinity church, Hamilton, caused an uproar at the council meeting and was finally referred to the executive committee for further study and for a report at the council's next meeting Feb. 15.

Education Minister Dunlop's orders were issued Dec. 31 after protests from Hawkesbury that the sisters were not following the Ontario High Schools Act which prohibits exhibition in classrooms of religious objects of a denominational nature.

NEW MOTION INTRODUCED

Rev. Forbes Thompson of MacNab Presbyterian church put a substitute motion declaring that the council "rather than censuring the education minister, should ask that the question of the nuns teaching should be discussed."

The McQuesten-Daw motion said the council "utterly condemns the action of Dr. William Dunlop, Ontario minister of education, in ordering Roman Catholic nuns who teach in a new district high school at Hawkesbury where there are only two Protestant children in classes taught by them, to stop wearing their crucifixes where they can be seen and to use proper names in classrooms rather than religious names, prefixed by 'sister.'"

"The Council of Churches regards such action as high-handed, intolerant and completely at variance with the spirit of religious toleration which is a vital principle of the Christian churches holding the reformed faith in Canada."

Elect Park Board Members At Harwood

HARWOOD (ENS) — The Harwood Memorial Park committee elected the board for 1954 at its annual meeting in the community hall at the weekend.

Those elected were:

Two years to serve: W. O. Harvie, Garnet Isaac, A. Sandercock and Jack Patch.

After the business meeting a social hour was held, with dancing, and refreshments.

The park committee will meet during the week to plan their program for the coming year.

Canada's Lowest Fare To Disappear Friday

GUELPH (CP) — Four-for-a-quarter bus tickets, believed the lowest fare in Canada, will disappear from Guelph next Friday.

The Ontario municipal board Monday gave the Guelph transportation commission leave to raise the adult fare for three tickets for 25 cents. The children's rate will go to six tickets for 25 cents for the present eight.

The commission's representatives at the hearing said it has been losing money with the existing fares.

NATHANIEL MILLS, a suspended General Electric Co. employee, is removed from a room in Boston where Sen. Joseph McCarthy is conducting a senate committee hearing on Un-American activities. Mills threw the hearing into an uproar when he stood up and accused McCarthy of "conspiring with the company and getting the jobs of the General Electric people."

General Motors Announces Billion Dollar Expansion Program By 1956

NEW YORK (CP)—General Motors today announced another billion-dollar expansion program.

Sixty per cent of the funds will be spent this year and the remainder by the fall of 1955. The program is designed mainly to provide additional capacity for GM's automotive divisions.

Harlow H. Curtice, GM president, disclosed the undertaking, along with an optimistic outlook on American business prospects, in an address to 500 business and industrial leaders at a luncheon preliminary to the opening here Thursday of GM's "Motorama of 1954."

He said his company has spent $2,000,000,000 on expansion since the end of the Second World War.

"No depression is in my vision," he said. "It is my belief the national economy will be strong and healthy throughout the year."

SEES LITTLE CHANGE

He looked for little change in the over-all level of employment. Consumer expenditures "should continue substantially at present high levels as a result of well-sustained incomes and lower taxes."

He predicted his corporation's volume of sales "in physical and dollar terms in 1954, should not be far from the high level attained in 1953. Last year, he reported, GM's dollar sales exceeded $9,000,000,000 "by a substantial amount."

For the auto industry specifically "I estimate the domestic market should absorb in the area of 6,300,000 cars and trucks. Unit production, including Canada and for export, should approximate 7,000,000 cars and trucks."

SECOND LARGEST

Factory sales in the United States domestic market last year, he said, totalled 7,000,000 cars and trucks. Including Canada and units produced for export, industry sales amounted to about 7,800,000 units, the second largest volume in history.

He noted that GM produced almost 3,000,000 cars and more than 500,000 trucks in 1953. Production of GM's 1954 models required an outlay of about $350,000,000 for equipment, tools, ties and engineering. He said the destruction of GM's Livonia, Mich., transmission plant by fire last August cost about 100,000 units of output.

Curtice did not detail just where GM will spend the billion involved in the expansion program.

Millbrook Cubs Receive Badges

MILLBROOK (ENS) — Parents of the boys of the recently formed St. Thomas' Cub pack were invited to their meeting held in the parish hall on Friday evening. Cub master, the Rev. L. R. Pocock, and his assistant, Miss Jean Smith, were in charge and the cubs gave demonstrations of their work and games. Don Kent, the other assistant master was unable to be present.

Each cub received his neckerchief in Royal Stewart plaid, his tenderfoot and province of Ontario badges, and the triangle designating to which six he belonged. The sixers and seconders also received their stripes. For the blues they are Don Winslow and Melburn Hawkins, for the Greys, Alan Fowler and Tom Pocock, for the Whites, Gary Lewis and Russell Jewison and for the Reds, Donald Reid and Gordon Gibson.

Single-Trunk Twins Taken Home By Ind. Parents

PETERSBURG, Ind. (CP)—Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hartley and their three daughters settled down to family life today with their single-trunk twins, home from hospital after five weeks.

The babies were asleep after the 122-mile ride from Riley hospital in Indianapolis Monday night, and their excited sisters jumped out of bed to see them.

"Isn't he cute?" cried Connie Sue, 4. Shirley Ann, 2, looked in silent wonder.

"Why does he have two heads?" asked Mary Lou, 5, the only one who had been told the babies weren't normal.

Nobody could answer.

ONLY SOURCE OF HEAT

Ire Denzil Hartley, 20, Hartley's son by a previous marriage, had a brisk fire going in a coal stove in the living room, the only source of heat for the four rooms in the Hartley's half of an old duplex house.

A nurse who rode in the heated ambulance with the parents and the baby stayed overnight to get Mrs. Hartley, 27, started on the babies' care.

Hartley, a 44-year-old ordnance depot worker, was given written instructions on the feeding formula when he took the twins quietly from the hospital Monday.

The parents waited a day after the originally scheduled release, saying they wanted no publicity.

The hospital, where the babies had been since birth Dec. 12, said they no longer needed hospital care.

IN GOOD HEALTH

Dr. J. W. Elbert, the family physician, pronounced the babies in good health after the arrival.

Dr. Elbert himself helped arrange for the Hartleys to move from their virtually inaccessible log cabin in the woods three miles northeast of Petersburg. He had insisted on such a move before the twins were brought home.

The babies had lost some weight, but now are back to the original 10 pounds, seven ounces.

Mrs. Hartley didn't appear at the hospital for the release. When her husband brought the babies to her, she said:

"Gracious, I'm glad this waiting is over."

The parents had chosen two names, Donald Ray and Daniel Kaye, although a single birth certificate was issued at Washington, Ind., where the babies were born by caesarean section.

"We know that doctors say it is impossible to tell how long our babies can live," Mrs. Hartley said. "We know that most of them like ours haven't lived to full maturity. We love the babies and want to do right by them.

"I know we don't have any money, but we'll do the best we can."

Hartley, a former coal miner, had to miss a day's work at the naval ammunition depot to get the babies from the hospital. He rides 97 miles a day, round trip, to his $50-a-week laborer's job. He also pays a support allowance for two minor children by previous marriage.

The father said he hopes to install a water heater in the house. Mrs. Hartley cooks on a coal stove, and there are no rugs on the living-room floor.

Garment Walkout Called Illegal By Union Head

TORONTO (CP)—More than 300 cutters and trimmers employed by Toronto garment factories left their jobs Monday in defiance of union officials who termed the walkout an irresponsible, wildcat action.

Sol Spivak, manager of Local 212, Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America (CIO-CCL), said members were told their action was illegal.

The local has been seeking a new contract providing a 50-cent hourly wage increase over the present basic rate of $1.75.

NO FOUNDATION

Mr. Spivak said there was no foundation for charges made by a shop steward that agreements had been signed by union leaders without ratification or discussion by members of the local.

Isaac Calmus, the international union's secretary here, said "trouble-makers", outside union ranks were partly responsible for the walkout.

"Local 212 is not a Communist local," he said, but "there are a few individuals whom we believe are Communists."

It was believed a prolonged work stoppage would put Toronto manufacturers at a heavy disadvantage to Quebec factories in producing summer styles.

Fined $15 and Costs

For having liquor in a place other his residence, Raymond R. McFaul, 83, Vine Ave., Toronto, was fined $15, costs $2.50, by Magistrate W. R. Philp, QC, in police court Monday.

Leslie Dewar, Patterson St., was fined $10, costs $2.50, for causing a disturbance in a public place.

Queen Personally Visits Armless Typist, Eager Fan

By GOMER JONES

CHRISTCHURCH, N. Z. (Reuters)—An armless war veteran who learned to type with his feet tapped out a quick, flawless message of welcome to the Queen today.

The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh were visiting a centre where disabled servicemen of New Zealand are taught new skills and trades. They watched, impressed, as 30-year-old James Parkinson typed out: "We loyally welcome Your Majesty and your royal highness to this centre."

They autographed the message. Premier Sidney Holland commented: "His typing is much better than some I've seen," and the duke rejoined, "It's certainly better than mine."

VISIT TOO-EAGER FAN

Earlier today the couple visited Christchurch hospital and saw 16-year-old Juliet de Castro, who tumbled off a window sill and knocked herself out in her eagerness to see them Monday.

"I did not expect to get such a good view of the Queen when I set out from home," Juliet said.

Between 70,000 and 80,000 cheering persons lined the streets as the Queen and the duke made their 40-minute ceremonial drive from the Clarendon Hotel to the veterans' rehabilitation centre. The Queen wore a white silk dress with green and grey floral pattern, with a half-length emerald green coat and a green straw bonnet trimmed with green velvet.

This evening the couple will attend a service in the cathedral.

Fined $75 For Assault

SIMCOE (CP)—Patrick Hurley and Harry J. Kealy, both of Toronto, were fined $75 Monday on a charge of assaulting a dance hall manager. They were also ordered to pay two doctor bills amounting to $22.50 or serve 30 days in jail. Witnesses said the two started a fight in a Delhi dance hall Dec. 19 in which manager Cyril Paulett suffered a broken nose, bruises and cuts.

Civic Leaders Greet New Magistrate

LINDSAY (ENS)—A packed courtroom Monday greeted Col. R. I. Moore, QC, of Lindsay, on his elevation to the Victoria-Haliburton county bench of magistrate's court. He succeeds Magistrate E. A. Gee, who retired last Friday after almost 20 years of service in the town.

Crown Attorney Lorne Jordan acted as master of ceremonies for the official observance of the event while Magistrate Gee joined Col. Moore on the dias at the head of the council chamber.

After greeting the new magistrate, Crown Attorney Jordan introduced the members of the Lindsay Bar Association, who also expressed their pleasure at his elevation to the bench and promised their co-operation in his work. Included in this group were A. M. Fulton, QC, H. E. Richardson, D. M. Thomson, A. T Lacey, QC, Joseph Staples and J. A. McQuarrie.

PREMIER SPEAKS

Mayor A. E. Hick, on behalf of the town, welcomed Col. Moore to the bench. Premier Leslie M. Frost spoke his personal regards for the new magistrate and his pleasure on learning of his elevation.

Members of the Lindsay Kiwanis club were present in a body. Two spokesmen, Ford Moynes and Leroy Brown offered any assistance they might give Col. Moore especially thanked the club for the offer, commenting that it might be taken up at times in work with underprivileged children and juvenile delinquents.

Other speakers followed, including George Stephenson, president of the Chamber of Commerce, Dr. Berry Armstrong, representing the Lindsay Ministerial Association, A. M. Fulton, notifying Magistrate Moore of his election to the Twenty club of Lindsay, and Col. George Weeks, an old friend of the magistrate's from cadet corps and First World War days.

Chief Dave Gordon, of Fenelon Falls, expressed the feeling of the police officers of Victoria and Haliburton counties at the elevation of Col. Moore to the bench. The chief has been in his Fenelon Falls position for 26 years, serving under three magistrates in Lindsay.

The 13 officers in the courtroom came to attention when Chief John Hunter of Lindsay presented retiring magistrate Gee with a pen and pencil set on behalf of the law enforcement agencies of the two counties. Magistrate Moore made a suitable speech of thanks to all concerned for their attendance at his inauguration.

JET CRASHES IN RESIDENTIAL AREA—Six persons died when a U.S. Air Force F-36 Sabrejet crashed into a row of houses in Long Beach, Calif. The plane was one of two on a training flight which were caught in a closing overcast. Air Force [illegible] n say the pilot was burned beyond recognition and only tentative identification of the other victims was immediately possible because of the badly burned condition of the bodies. The other plane made a safe landing.

Djilas Sought To Bolster Lagging Yugoslav Party

By RICHARD LOWENTHAL

BONN (OFNS)—While the Yugoslav leaders were forging ahead with popular support in building up a new society, the party lagged behind—an ideological rearguard and a brake on progress rather than the vanguard of Leninist theory. There can be little doubt that Tito himself and the men closest to him have realized this, and worried about it for some time. But Milovan Djilas, president of the national assembly, has been the first to face the problem with brutal frankness and to call for the end of the party regime as the remedy.

In his articles he develops the idea that a disciplined party of the Leninist type was necessary during the revolutionary struggle for power, and the laying of the foundations of a new socialist society, but is no longer required now that the new society is developing its own democratic life. He argues that the class struggle is gradually subsiding as the result of the successful revolution, and attacks as counter-revolutionary the attempt to keep reviving the class struggle, and to interfere with the legal order of the new society in its name.

He attacks the nostalgic hankering after the revolutionary past, and the priggish morality of the "partisan aristocracy" that goes with it, as harmful to the solution of present problems. He denies that the Communists, whatever their past merits, still embody any superior consciousness of the tasks now before the country, and unmasks the claim to such superiority as a cover for outworn privileges and an obstacle to democratic development. He concludes that the Communist League should drop the claim to political leadership and should free its members from the obligation to meet regularly and to defend a common "line" on all current questions in the mass organizations and organs of self-government.

Instead, he says, the League should become a mere discussion club whose members voluntarily study social problems in a Marxist spirit, and otherwise do their duty in society as individuals. The full-time Party officials should be pensioned off altogether.

If these suggestions were followed, Yugoslavia would definitely cease to be a Party dictatorship. True, the "Socialist Alliance of the Working People" would retain its monopoly of political activity for the time being; but without the control of the disciplined Communist minority in its ranks, its discussions would become truly democratic and would sooner or later lead to the formation of new groupings by ideology or interest. The work of the district councils and parliaments, the trades unions and the new chambers of agriculture, the work councils and the producers' councils, would be similarly freed from Communist control.

It is only logical that Djilas has chosen the extraordinary method of publishing his ideas without submitting them first for internal discussion in the Communist Central Committee: evidently he had no hope of approval there, and wanted to arouse public opinion in advance against the expected Communist resistance. It is equally logical that the Communist officials soon began to complain that the articles were being used against them by "reactionaries" all over the country, and that the Party's twelve-man executive has now condemned the whole series, has prevailed on Djilas to stop further publication and forced him out of the Party and government office.

The surprising and significant thing is not that Djilas has been stopped, but that he could go on as long as he did in the Party's central organ: it is hardly conceivable that he could have done so without at least tentative backing from the highest quarters.

As it is, Djilas, offensive may well be defeated for the time being because conditions are not yet ripe for the liquidation of the Party regime. It is doubtful whether alternative means of effective propagandist and administrative liaison between Government and people are yet fully developed; it is even more doubtful whether the regime, despite its wide popular support in general, will feel sure enough of the acceptance of its agricultural policy to afford genuine democracy in the villages.

But even if the call for an end to Party rule has been premature, it has come from too high an authority and in too resounding a fashion to be silenced again. As things stand, even the solemn condemnation of Djilas' views by the Executive Committee will not be the end of the discussion—only its beginning.

Resort Operator Dies

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. Arthur Minett, associated with her husband in ownership of Cleveland's House Hotel in Muskoka for more than 50 years, died Monday. The couple sold the hotel last fall.

Exercise Banned As Punishment

OTTAWA (CP)—Army personnel in detention barracks no longer will be ordered to engage in difficult assault courses as a form of punishment.

The defence department announced Monday that the practice has been discontinued as a result of the death last summer of Pte. Frederick Joseph Burke, 29, of Regina, at Petawawa military camp.

"Assault courses as a form of exercise and training for personnel in detention barracks have been discontinued," the department said in a reply to a question tabled in the Commons for Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre).

A native of Ottawa, Pte. Burke died July 16, 1953, shortly after he collapsed while drilling on the camp's obstacle or assault course. He was under seven days' detention for being absent without leave.

A coroner's inquest, held at Pembroke, blamed death on an illness aggravated by detention punishment.

No Action On Fluorine

TORONTO (CP) — Works committee of Toronto's new metropolitan council decided Monday to take no action on the question of fluoridation of water supply. Alderman Joseph Gould had suggested that the committee poll area boards of health for opinions.

Use Wheat Board Unclaimed Funds For Scholarships

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Howe Monday night supported a Saskatchewan Liberal member's resolution that unclaimed funds of the Canadian wheat board be used to provide university scholarships for sons and daughters of Prairie farmers.

Spokesmen for Opposition parties in the Commons, generally speaking, approved a motion sponsored by J. H. Harrison, member for Meadow Lake, that money not claimed after six years, now totalling $458,000, be invested in government securities and the interest used for scholarships at the University of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

The resolution urged the government to consider amending the Canadian Wheat Board Act to allow the scholarships scheme to become effective.

John H. Dickey, parliamentary assistant to the defence production minister, spoke briefly and adjourned the debate. The resolution thus was talked out and is not likely to be debated again this session.

Overstayed Time At Parking Meters

Seven parking meter offences were heard by Magistrate W. R. Philp, QC, in court Monday. In each case he entered a fine of $5, costs $2.50.

The offenders were Mona T. Datcheler; Arvid A. Petterson; Ronald F. Rodwell; Donald G. Anderson, and the Mobile Radio Service, all of Toronto, and Edward Conway, Pembroke, and Kathleen M. D. Smith, Pickering.

Mill Loss $20,000

EXETER (CP)—Loss was estimated at $15,000 to $20,000 in a fire that destroyed part of the Huron Lumber Company mill here Monday night. Mill employees Monday sifted and watered tons of shavings to prevent another outbreak of the fire that burned down a shaving shed and damaged the main part of the mill.

Ex-Warden Gives Oath

BARRIE (CP)—Reeve D. Smith Campbell of Oro township was elected warden of Simcoe county on the first ballot at the January session of Simcoe county council. He was sworn in by Mr. Justice Stewart of the Ontario Supreme Court, himself a former warden.

Gilmour Church Reviews Year

The annual business meeting of Gilmour Memorial Baptist church was held Friday evening, with a good attendance.

C. E. Moore, chairman of the deacon's board, was elected chairman. Mr. Moore spoke briefly on the loss of the congregation clerk, Vera J. Scott, through sickness and of the church members looking forward to the coming of a new pastor, the Rev. E. C. Smith, of Smiths Falls.

Ferdinand Rowland was appointed new church clerk. A. E. Edminson, secretary - treasurer, gave the financial statement for the preceding year.

Reports from each of the various organizations indicated a year of progress. Phyllis Moore, superintendent of the Sunday school, spoke enthusiastically of the value of the work and reported a good attendance for the year.

Hazel Kidd moved a vote of thanks to all who had helped to make the year a success.

Mrs. James Young closed the meeting with prayer.

Trinity Church WA Officers Installed

APSLEY (ENS) — The Women's Association of Trinity United Church met at the home of Mrs. M. C. Tucker with 15 members present.

Mrs. H. Montgomery conducted the worship service with a reading and a devotional talk.

Mrs. Wellington Lean conducted the installation of officers for 1954.

Thank you and Christmas cards were read.

An invitation to the annual meeting of the Peterborough Presbyterial W.M.S. on January 26th was read. It was decided to send $5 to the W.M.S.

The treasurer reported $74.04 on hand. Suggestions were made to arouse interest in monthly films being shown in Central School. Mrs. Gerald Watson presented a tentative list of hostesses and helpers for 1954 meetings. Various articles for the spring bazaar were on display. The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction.

While lunch was being prepared by Mrs. M. C. Tucker and Mrs. Walter Tucker, Mrs. Gerald Watson conducted a Bible quiz which was won by Mrs. Flora Dafoe.

Ritchie Now Denies Statement

Has No Knowledge Of People Involved Prisoner Declares

WINDSOR —(CP)— Donald Ritchie, the elusive Reuther case tipster now in Essex county jail, today denied, in a statement issued by his lawyer, any knowledge of or connection with the 1948 wounding of the UAW-CIO leader.

The statement, signed by Ritchie, was handed to the Windsor Star by Bernard Cohn, who joined Donald R. Morand in Ritchie's defence after Ritchie's capture last week.

It was a complete denial of everything Ritchie is alleged to have told Michigan authorities about the shooting. It was these first statements which led Wayne county prosecutor Gerald O'Brien to issue warrants charging attempted murder for Ritchie's uncle, Clarence Jacobs, Carl Renda, Sam Perrone and Pete Lombardo.

Jacobs and Renda were arrested on the warrants, Perrone is still being sought and Lombardo is in prison in Indiana.

In Detroit today O'Brien said he has heard of Ritchie's statement. "It's not a surprise," he said. "After all, the man's a defendant in the case."

UNUSUAL PARAGRAPH

The cryptic last paragraph of Ritchie's statement set authorities wondering. It said:

"When the complete facts are known it will become apparent that the methods adopted to ob-

France Orders Warships To Algeria

Warns Spain Against Move Trying To Split Morocco Protectorate

PARIS (AP)—France sent a squadron of warships today to the Mer-el-Kebir base in Algeria—within easy striking distance of Spanish Morocco—to back up her warning against any move to split the Madrid-ruled protectorate from the real of the Sultan of Rabat.

The naval array, including a cruiser and an aircraft carrier, was ordered to the Mediterranean base after the French foreign minister announced Spain has been warned that France would resist "with all means at her disposal" any attempt to divide the sherifian empire.

This "empire" includes both French and Spanish Morocco and the international zone of Tangier. The sultan, whose palace is in Rabat, in the French zone, is the spiritual ruler. He also is nominally a temporal ruler but actual authority is exercised by the French and Spanish officials in the two North African protectorates.

The French expressed official concern over a pro-Spanish demonstration by religious and civil leaders of Spanish Morocco called for Thursday by the anti-French caliph of Spanish Morocco, Moulay Hassan Ben el Mehdi Ben Ismaili.

FRENCH FEARFUL

The French fear the leaders may proclaim as the true sovereign of Morocco's approximately 9,000,000 Moslems the man dethroned as sultan by the French last August — Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef.

The sultan, whose palace is in Rabat, French Morocco, has always been regarded as chief of the Sherifian empire, which includes both Spanish and French Morocco and the international zone of Tangier. The sultan is the spiritual ruler. Nominally he is also a temporal ruler but actual authority is exercised by the French and Spanish in the two protectorates.

The present sultan is Sidi Mohammed's aged cousin, Moulay Mohammed Ben Aarafa.

Arrest Made After Second Calgary Fire

Two Men Killed In St. Thomas Blaze; None Die In Hostel

TORONTO —(CP)—Ontario Fire Marshal W. J. Scott said today that Frank J. McNulty, now held at Calgary and for whom a murder warrant has been issued, has been sought ever since two persons died in a fire which burned down the YMCA at St. Thomas last Nov. 15.

(Enquiries were being made today as to whether the Frank McNulty arrested in Calgary is of Peterborough. Frank J. McNulty of Peterborough is the son of Dr. and Mrs. F. J. McNulty of Lindsay and formerly of Peterborough. Circulars have been out for some time wanting McNulty for questioning by the police.)

The fire marshal disclosed that Ontario fire authorities were en route to Calgary to question him when he was picked up by Calgary police for questioning in connection with a fire at the Salvation Army hostel there where he had been staying.

Police said a Frank W. McNulty was registered in the St. Thomas YMCA the night of the fire.

Today's announcement was the first public disclosure of suspicion that the St. Thomas fire may have been started deliberately. Authorities said their investigation indi-

Indians Turn Over PoWs

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Long columns of chanting Chinese and Korean prisoners-of-war marched six abreast from stockades in Korea's neutral zone today and headed south toward United Nations lines and a promise of quick freedom. The transfer of 22,039 anti-Red prisoners from Indian custody back to the UN went smoothly despite angry Communist charges that it was illegal. However the southward flow was interrupted briefly on two occasions. No Koreans appeared for an hour early in the evening, without explanation. A dispute over a prisoner asking repatriation held up the movement of Chinese prisoners for a time.

By 8 p.m. the last of the more than 7,600 Korean prisoners crossed the border into South Korea.

Indian officers predicted the compounds would be emptied by midnight, 24 hours ahead of schedule. The Allies have promised the prisoners freedom at midnight Friday.

A handful of U.S. and South Korean prisoners and one Briton, who chose to stay with the Communists, remained in their neutral-zone compound. The Indians had planned to turn them back to the Communists but the Reds refused to take them.

Robert Stevens, United States Army secretary, here for the prisoner transfer, said any of the 21 Americans who asks for repatriation before midnight Friday is welcome to return home.

FREED AS CIVILIANS

Under the Allied interpretation of the Korean armistice, all unrepatriated war prisoners are to be freed as civilians at midnight Friday. The Communists say they should be kept in custody until a peace conference decides their future.

The first of the 14,321 anti-Communist Chinese prisoners returned to the UN were sped to U.S. landing ships in nearby Inchon harbor. They are scheduled to sail early Thursday to the Chinese Nationalist island of Formosa.

Trainloads of North Korean prisoners moved southward today toward the South Korean Army post at Munsan, where they will be held until midnight Friday.

Seguin May Have Made Own Poison While In Jail

CORNWALL (CP)—Authorities said today convicted murderer Henri Segpuin was no stranger to poisons and may even have manufactured the potion he used to cheat the gallows at Cornwall jail just before midnight Tuesday. Officials of the penitentiaries branch said that Seguin, who died in convulsions in his cell an hour before he was scheduled to be hanged, was believed to have been involved in a poison plot while in Kingston Penitentiary.

HENRI SEGUIN, convicted in the shooting of a Cornwall taxi firm proprietor, cheated the hangman's nose when he died just an hour before his execution. The coroner has announced he died from a dose of poison.

The prisoners, Seguin among them, were reported to have manufactured a poison from disinfectants acquired in the penitentiary and planned to attempt to poison guards by putting it in their food to pave the way for a mass break.

However, though the guards' food was analyzed, no trace of the poison was ever found.

INQUEST OPENS TONIGHT

An inquest will be opened by Ontario chief coroner Smirle Lawson tonight into the death of Seguin, who was to have been hanged for the murder of Leonard Hurd, Maxville, Ont., taxi operator, in August, 1952.

Coroner Lawson has said that a glass vial Seguin spat out just before he died and which was later discovered in his cell is of the kind that usually contains potassium cyanide. However, the type of poison he used to commit suicide will not be definitely established until an autopsy is completed.

Jail guards were questioned in an attempt to trace how Seguin obtained the poison. Police said it was possible Seguin had it in his possession when he was captured in a British Columbia gun battle with police after an attempted bank holdup in December, 1952.

As preparations went forward for the inquest, workmen dismantled the gallows in the jail courtyard.

Other workmen filled in a grave that had been hacked out of the frozen ground in the jailyard in the expectation Seguin would die in Cornwall's first execution in 28 years.

2 Abductors Split On Story; Penalty Heavy

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Two one-time private detectives jailed as abductors in the "case of the kidnapped twin" split up today—police said one confessed and blamed the other, who denied some of the story but essentially wouldn't talk.

The victim, short, round-faced Leonard Moskovitz, 36, was rescued unharmed and smiling Tuesday after 2½ days of captivity. No ransom was paid despite demands of first $500,000 and then $300,000.

Under California law, kidnapping with bodily harm carries a maximum penalty of death and a minimum of life without parole. Kidnapping without harm carries a penalty of life with the possibility of parole.

Moskovitz said he was not injured, but district attorney Thomas Lynch told reporters the interpretation of bodily harm is up to a jury, which could decide that cruel bonds or the like could mean injury. Moskovitz was bound and shackled during most of his imprisonment.

CAUGHT IN PHONE BOOTH

The two men arrested were seized separately. The first, Joseph William Lear, 43, of Sacramento, Calif., was caught in a telephone booth making a ransom call to the victim's identical twin, Alfred.

Police said Lear led them to a rented house, where a stocking-foot raiding party broke in, rescued Moskovitz and arrested 57-year-old Harold Jackson of Sacramento as he stood in his shorts. Jackson was shivering with fright, said inspector Al Nelder, who captured him.

Ottawa Making Highway Audit

TORONTO (CP) — Public Works Minister Winters said Tuesday that a federal treasury audit will be made as a "routine matter" into federal trans-Canada highway expenditures in the Lakehead area where a provincial investigation has disclosed road-building irregularities.

The minister saw provincial Highways Minister Doucett during his one-day visit here.

He said Mr. Doucett had kept him informed about the provincial investigation which resulted in the laying of charges against five provincial employees in the Fort William provincial highways division other irregularities.

Mr. Doucett has said the amount involved at Fort William will be about $25,000 but other published reports have placed the figure as high as $1,000,000.

Mr. Winters said in an interview that he had no evidence federal employees in the Lakehead area were involved in the irregularities and "There is no reason to believe that insofar as the Dominion government's part is concerned, that the taxpayer is not getting his money's worth."

Scottish Duke Monrose Dies

STIRLING, Scotland (Reuters)—The tattooed Duke of Montrose, inventor of the world's first aircraft carrier and chief of the clan Graham, whose ancestor restored kilts to the Scots, died today at his home near here. He was 75.

The versatile duke, James Graham, who headed a Scottish trade mission to Canada in 1932, held nine titles and was sixth of the line since the dukedom was created in 1707. He was taken ill suddenly during a holiday last weekend.

One of his ancestors persuaded the British government to permit the wearing of kilts again in Scotland after they had been banned following the Scottish rebellion in 1745.

The duke designed a naval aircraft-carrying ship in 1912, but the admiralty did not order one until the First World War was under way in 1914. The first carrier, H. M. S. Argus, was not completed until the war ended.

The duke was also credited with having designed and built the first sea-going heavy-oil motorship.

Five Casualties In RAF Crash

SALISBURG, England (Reuters) An RAF Valetta airliner with 12 persons aboard crash-landed near here today, killing the navigator and injuring four others.

The plane, en route for the Middle East with air force personnel and dependents, was fitted with backward-facing seats which officers credited with preventing further fatalities.

The eight passengers included two women and two children. One child suffered a fractured skull. Other passengers and the three remaining crew sustained light injuries.

In another crash in the same area, an RAF twin-engined Varsity training plane crashed near its base at Hullavington today, killing the crew of four.

Dr. Claims Treatment For Atomic Burns

LONDON (CP)—Dr. Evan V. Shute says his Shute Institute has developed a treatment for atomic radiation burns that could be provided to every man, woman and child in Canada at a cost equal to that spent on cigarettes.

Dr. Shute told a meeting of the Waverly Guild that the treatment using vitamin E should be given consideration by the armed forces. He said an elderly man who suffered a severe radiation burn during treatment for cancer had the wound healed in three months with vitamin E.

He said treatment would cost about the price of a package of cigarettes a day.

"The whole population could have it and treat themselves if an atomic attack comes," he said.

Jobless Hit Post-War High

OTTAWA (CP)—Unemployment in Canada has hit a post-war high.

The labor department and the bureau of statistics, in separate monthly surveys made public today, reported mounting jobless figures for the early part of December as Canada's defence-inspired expansion slowed down.

The labor department's national employment service at Dec. 10 had 338,066 looking for work, though an unknown percentage of these were not actually out of jobs.

However, on the same basis, the previous post-war high was 312,000 in the late winter of 1950 before the Korean war stimulated employment.

The NES figures showed a jump of 100,873 from a year earlier, and of 72,023 in the three weeks preceding Dec. 10.

The bureau of statistics figures, obtained by a sampling of 30,000 households, indicate 190,000 persons without jobs and looking for work during the week ended Dec. 12. This was an increase of 39,000 from the week ended Nov. 21.

Bus Crashes Tree Passengers Shaken Up

FRUITLAND, Ont. (CP) — A Canada Coach Lines bus skidded on the slippery pavement here just before noon today and crashed into a tree. Police say some passengers in the bus were shaken up but none was injured.

Send Freak Beast To U.K. For Study

CALCUTTA (Reuters) — Malaya's "Thing No. 2," a squat, hairy animal that looks like a cross between a bear and a wild boar, is on its way to possible identification and a new home in a London zoo, according to reports reaching this Indian city today.

The freak beast was caught on the fringe of the Malayan jungle recently after terrified natives had reported seeing fanged "ape men"—classified as "Thing No. 1"—in the same area.

Donald MacDonald, animal specialist accompanying it, said "Thing No. 2" is refusing any type of food, but "has drunk water fitfully since its capture." It has spent most of its time sleeping.

At the time of its capture it was described as having "the fierce look of an old wild boar, with short legs, a thick stiff tail which seldom moves, and a thick wrinkled skin."

Bugles Sound Freedom Note

PANMUNJOM —(AP)— The mournful wail of a Chinese bugle cut jagged slashes in the icy air—as it did so many times during the Korean war.

The long, sad, chilling notes floated from hill to hill and died among the frozen paddies.

From the north came the throb of a big drum, the roar of frenzied cheering, and waves from the human sea rolled south for the last time.

Once, not so long ago, that eerie music would have chilled the hearts and prickled the skin of the waiting South Korean and American soldiers.

It would have set them crouching over rifles and machine-guns, and loosening pins of grenades.

Today, despite the tenseness, waiting men stamped chilled feet on the frozen ground, turned to each other, and smiled.

"They're coming!"

It was 8:52 a.m., and the first of the Chinese and North Korean prisoners-of-war marched peacefully out of compounds in Korea's neutral zone.

STRANGE EXPERIENCE

For the chanting, cheering marchers it must have been a strange and piquant experience.

For among them were thousands who had stormed down that same road before, in 1950 and 1951.

Then they had swept across the Imjin river ice, over the barbed wire, through the mine-fields, and into the Allied trenches, killing and being killed.

Now, laughing and smiling, they climbed into big U.S. trucks, shouting and chattering like boys on the last day of school, while South Korean Army bands played.

TAIPEH, Formosa (Reuters)—Chinese Nationalist troops today ringed Formosa's northern port of Keelung, where 14,331 Chinese prisoners-of-war from Korea are expected to land in the next few days.

The prisoners, handed over to the United Nations command today in Korea, have refused repatriation to the Chinese mainland. Troops are on guard against any interference at the port.

"Liberty bells," throughtout Formosa will ring out a welcome from all schools, churches, temples, factories and public places and a "monster welcome" is being arranged in central Formosa, where five large compounds have been built to house the ex-prisoners.

FREEDOM ROAD—U.S. authorities in Korea are taking no chances with the some 22,000 anti-Communist prisoners being released today. The prisoners are travelling this road as they are set free and to make sure there will be no Red-inspired rioting, tanks, machine guns and barbed wire have been posted along the road.

DISCUSSING THE STONES Curlers from Eastern Ontario today began the Peterborough Curling Club's largest bonspiel for the Canada Packers trophy. More than 200 curlers will take part in the three-day event which carries on Saturday and Sunday. In the second draw today Orillia curlers, George Fitzpatrick and Dr. A. Asselstine (left) discuss the lay of the stones with Peterborough curlers, Dr. M. G. McCartney, club president, and Ossie Price.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Willard Waterman Elected Warden of County For 1954

Willard G. Waterman, reeve of North Monaghan township, on Tuesday afternoon was elected warden of Peterborough county for 1954. There was no opposition and Mr. Waterman, on the first ballot, received the unanimous vote of his colleagues. He succeeds Ernest J. Leeson, reeve of Havelock village. Mr. Waterman is a veteran of municipal politics. He dropped out of the picture for a number of years; then he was elected reeve in 1951 and he has held that office for four years.

In the 1954 county council are, altogether, 21 reeves and deputy-reeves—more than ever before. They are:

Belmont - Methuen — George Newton, reeve; Gardner Gawley, deputy reeve;

Burleigh-Anstruther — Sidney McCauley, reeve;

Chandos—Clive Hoard, reeve;

Ennismore — James Gifford, reeve;

Dummer — Stewart Clysdale, reeve; Harold Clifford, deputy reeve;

Galway - Cavendish — Peter Pearson, reeve;

Harvey—Charles Flynn, reeve; James Irwin, deputy-reeve;

North Monaghan—Willard G. Waterman, reeve;

Otonabee — David McIntyre, reeve; William Chambers, deputy reeve;

Smith — Gordon Fitzgerald, reeve; Robert McAdam, deputy reeve;

Asphodel—Max Scott, reeve;

Lakefield—William C. Grant, reeve;

Norwood—John Nixon, reeve, and Havelock — Ernest J. Leeson, reeve.

NEWCOMERS

Seven of the 21 are newcomers — Messrs. Gawley, McCauley, Clifford, Irwin, Chambers, Scott and Nixon. Among the others: Mr. Newton has replaced William E. Griffith after an election, and Mr. McIntyre has replaced Dick Stewart who retired.

First order of business when the county council met at 2 p. m. was the voting for a 1954 warden. Mr. Waterman was proposed by ex-warden Ernest J. Leeson and Stewart Clysdale. In a standing vote everybody chose Mr. Waterman, except, of course, Mr. Waterman who remained seated.

In a brief thank-you speech Mr. Waterman went on to stress the necessity of economy so that the rural ratepayer would not be taxed too heavily.

"I recall that a year ago Mr. Leeson asked all the committees to see that they finished within their budgets," he said. "I'm going a little further. I'm going to ask the committees to try and reduce their estimates. The rural ratepayers are less able to meet the financial burden than before."

LOOKING AHEAD

Harold R. Scott, Ontario minister without portfolio, echoed Mr. Waterman's theme about careful economy. He reminded the council that last year the municipalities were "shocked" when their road appropriation bylaws were cut by the province. But, suggested Mr. Scott, it could be that Highways Minister Doucett could see farther ahead than some other spending bodies.

Other speakers included two ex-wardens—Dick Stewart and Peter Mather, both of whom were reeves of Otonabee; also Floyd Curtis of the suburban area road commission.

At 4 p.m., accepting a special invitation from Norman Graham, mayor of Peterborough, county councillors and count officials went to the city hall for tea with the mayor and members of city council.

The session is continuing today.

Hold Engineer In Jail 10 Days

RUTLAND, Vt. (AP)—A Yugoslavia-born engineer, who walked across the Canadian border into West Berkshire, Vt., Jan. 7, in hopes he could reach Washington with his plans for a "revolutionary" design for a new jet plane engine, Tuesday pleaded guilty to illegal entry and was sentenced to 10 days in jail at Woodstock.

Federal Judge Ernest W. Gibson said he was putting Dusan Premovic, 37, in "protective custody" until the engineer received a receipt from the defence department for his plans which were forwarded to Washington by local immigration officials.

"I want you to get a receipt or some kind of an acknowledgment for your plans," Judge Gibson told Premovic.

Replying in German through a woman interpreter, Premovic said "I'm not worried—I trust the United States government."

U.S. district attorney Louis J. Whitcomb told the court the defence department has informed his office it has Premovic's plans, but their value has not been ascertained.

Young Mother Rescues Baby

OSHAWA — Her clothing ignited by embers from an exploding coal stove, Mrs. Neda Noble, 21, Phillip St. Tuesday grasped her 17-month-old son, Ray, and carried him to safety. She suffered severe burns to her face, arms and legs and her hair was badly singed. The child was unhurt.

The mother said she was standing near the stove preparing dinner when the blast occurred. The stove, she said, fell apart. Pieces of metal fell on her leg and embers sprayed her dress.

"I never thought of anything but getting my child outside. He was sitting in a high-chair, eating, about two feet from the stove at the time," she said. "How he managed to escape unhurt I'll never know."

Always Possibility Film Board To Stay

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said Tuesday there is "always a possibility" the government may change plans for moving the National Film Board to Montreal from Ottawa.

Replying in the Commons to a question by Opposition Leader Drew, the Prime Minister said the government is discussing the tenders received for construction of the new film board building in Ville St. Laurent, a Montreal suburb.

Mr. St. Laurent said the tenders are "all of very substantial amounts."

Mr. Drew asked if that means the government is reconsidering plans to move the film board.

"No decision has been reached in that regard," Mr. St. Laurent replied.

U.S. Dollar At Discount

MONTREAL (CP) — The U. S. dollar was at a discount of 2 25-32 per cent in terms of Canadian funds at noon today. Tuesday's noon rate was 97 9-32 cents. Pound sterling $2.73 7-16, against $2.73⅝.

Dunlop Denies Making Ruling

TORONTO (CP) — Education Minister Dunlop of Ontario said Tuesday he has "made no rulings nor have I issued any orders" dealing with religious dress and emblems in secondary schools.

He issued a statement commenting on a report from Hamilton that a motion strongly criticizing the Ontario government's action in ordering two Roman Catholic nuns at a high school in Hawkesbury, to conceal their crucifixes was proposed by two Protestant ministers.

The motion was put to the Hamilton Council of Churches—which represents all major Protestant denominations in the Hamilton district—but was deferred for further study.

Mr. Dunlop's statement said in part:

"Neither the law nor the methods used to meet the requirements of the law are mine. Section three, subsection one of regulation 24 made under the high schools act which dates back to 1891 reads: 'No religious emblem of a denominational nature shall be exhibited in a high school during school hours.'

"The same regulation applies to continuation and vocational schools."

Worst Cold Grips Prairies

With the exception of Churchill, Man., no centre on the Prairies was warmer than 30 below zero overnight. It was -21 at the Hudson bay port.

Coldest spot in western Canada was Watson lake, just north of the British Columbia-Yukon border, where the mercury plunged to -49. Not far behind were six centres on the prairies—Vermilion, Alta., -47; Saskatoon -46; Dafoe, Sask., -45; Medicine Hat, Alta., -44; Prince Albert, Sask., -43 and Regina -42.

The weather offices at Edmonton and Winnipeg said the Prairies would get no warmer than -15 throughout today. The bitter temperatures were to be accompanied by biting 10- to 15-mile-an-hour winds.

Ritchie Now

tain the statements will explain their existence."

This, apparently, was a reference to the $5,000 which Ritchie received from the UAW-CIO after he had made what he claimed was a confession to prosecutor O'Brien. The arrangement at that time was that Ritchie would receive the $5,000 if he gave information which would enable the authorities to issue warrants for the men who tried to kill Reuther.

Ritchie made a statement to O'Brien, which, it is reported, he did not sign. In this statement he named his Uncle Clarence as the triggerman in the Reuther shooting.

TEXT OF STATEMENT

The statement which Ritchie issued today:

"I regret that at this time I am unable to make this announcement personally. However I have requested this statement to be released.

"During the past few days I have had an opportunity for sober reflection and I sincerely feel that in the interests of justice the time is ripe for certain disclosures. This should put an end to all speculation as to any knowledge or information I may have concerning the Walter Reuther affair.

"I desire to make it clear that I was not present at, nor did I actively engage or participate in the Walter Reuther shooting. I have no knowledge or information who were the person or persons involved. Further, I was not a party to a conspiracy to commit such a crime, nor do I have knowledge or information as to the persons who so conspired.

STATEMENT TRUTH

"If this statement is in conflict with any previous statements I am alleged to have made to any persons in authority in the state of Michigan, as would appear from newspaper accounts, then such previous statements are inaccurate as this statement embodies the actual truth.

"When the complete facts are known it will become apparent that the methods adopted to obtain the statements will explain their existence."

WASN'T KIDNAPPED

Wayne county prosecutor O'Brien today said Ritchie came to Detroit voluntarily and made his statements.

"He wasn't kidnapped," Mr O'Brien said. "Now we are proceeding with the extradition o Ritchie."

The prosecutor said the evidenc against Ritchie will be brought ou at the extradition hearing.

Previously it was indicated tha much of the state's case hung o the Ritchie testimony but ther was a hint that the state ha "other" facts to present.

Obituary

JAMES M. ANDERSON

James M. Anderson, 75, died suddenly Tuesday when he suffered a heart attack while working in his barn in North Monaghan township on the Port Hope highway.

Born in Lucknow, Ont., he was a son of Rastus Anderson and Jane Bell, both deceased. He had farmed most of his life in North Monaghan township.

He was a member of the Free Methodist church in Peterborough.

He is survived by his wife, the former Maude Everson; two daughters, Mrs. Orville Wells (Mildred), Lindsay; Mrs. Kenneth Laidlay (Marian), Toronto; two sons, Walter, Prince George, B.C. and Howard at home.

The body is resting at the Nesbitt funeral home. The funeral service will be held Friday at 2 p.m. at the Free Methodist church, the Rev. K. Bauder officiating. Burial will be in Little Lake cemetery.

India Turns

As darkness fell tonight, U.S. troops moved huge searchlights into position along the south border of the neutral zone to guide the returning PoWs.

The Chinese and North Koreans set some prison enclosures afire before beginning their march. A pall of smoke from burning tents hung over the Panmunjom area.

The prisoners sang and cheered as they crossed the line. They carried anti-Communist banners and Republic of Korea and Nationalist China flags.

The Indians attempted to cull out a few prisoners they believe want to return to the Communists, but were largely prevented by the anti-Communist majority. Eleven Chinese and North Koreans asked for repatriation today as they came out of their compounds.

The Chinese prisoners told AP correspondent Jim Becker through an interpreter that an Indian major told them any who wanted repatriation to Red China should step out of line.

Two groups of 500 Chinese who arrived late said their return was delayed about 90 minutes in protest against an alleged Indian "screening."

Chrysler Strike Remains Deadlocked

WINDSOR (CP)—Chrysler Corporation of Canada has taken a half-page advertisement in today's Windsor Star to place its side of a crippling strike before the public.

A walkout Sunday midnight by 27 power house engineers cut heat and compressed air off from the plant and forced 6,000 production workers off the job. The men struck to enforce demands for time and a half for all Saturday work.

John Dunklee of the Ontario labor department's conciliation service arrived here Tuesday night and immediately conferred both with Chrysler spokesmen and with representatives of the striking engineers.

Office workers worked Tuesday under difficulties because of insufficient heat, and reported for work again this morning.

Chrysler took a quarter page in Tuesday's paper to tell employees not to return to work until they received individual orders to do so. The men were ordered home Monday when the buildings became too cold for work.

TURNED DOWN OFFER

Advertisements scheduled for Wednesday editions set out facts concerning negotiations and offers by the company. The recommendations of a conciliation board are also outlined under the heavy black heading, "Facts about the Chrysler strike."

Negotiations began last June when Chrysler signed a contract with production workers granting a six-cent-an-hour increase. The production men are members of the United Automobile Workers' union (CIO-CCL).

A similar raise was offered the engineers who turned it down and asked for 20 cents an hour, two additional paid holidays and time and a half for all Saturday and Sunday work, whether or not it involved overtime.

The advertisement says the case went to a conciliation board Nov. 6. The board report, handed down Jan. 4, approved the six-cent raise over the basic $1.97 for second class engineers and across the board. The report also recommended time and a half for all Sunday work. The company accepted both recommendations.

The union asked that the wage increase be made retroactive to June, when negotiations began, and time and a half for all Saturday work as well as Sunday. Negotiations broke down after the company refused.

Arrest Made

cated it started with gasoline in a ktchen on the second floor of the four-storey building.

TWO MEN DIED

The two men who died in the fire were Thomas Dunn, 73, of St. Thomas and R. Russell Grimmond, 57, of nearby Port Stanley. Both had rooms on the third floor. About 30 roomers escaped.

The fire, on a Sunday, was discovered at 5:15 a. m. by Constable Joseph Bingman who was patrolling the area. He heard a loud "poof" and when he rushed to investigate saw flames bursting from second-storey windows of the YMCA.

Last week the Ontario fire marshal's department reported in its quarterly summary of fire losses in Ontario that loss in the St. Thomas fire amounted to $150,800. Tuesday it was learned here that the YMCA board will receive an insurance settlement of $130,166 on the building plus an undisclosed amount from a $15,000 policy on contents.

Rebuilding plans have been held in abeyance pending the insurance adjustment. It is expected to cost some $200,000 to replace the building.

McNulty, 40, was arrested last Thursday after he allegedly tried to burn down the Salvation Army Hostel here.

Officials discovered the blaze before any damage was caused to the five-storey building housing some 200 persons. The fire originated in a bundle of clothing in a basement room.

RELEASED TO ARMY

McNulty, reported to be a salesman, made his first appearance in police court here on the arson charge Jan. 15 and was refused bail.

He had been staying at the hostel for about a month. In December he was charged by police with obtaining a meal by fraud and was released in probation in the care of Major Joshua Monk of the Salvation Army.

The arrests ended San Francisco's biggest manhunt and broke the best-kept secret of years. On police request, all news outlets voluntarily held back the story until Moskovitz was safe.

Police said Lear, a soft-faced and fearful hearing-aid salesman, confessed after he and Jackson had been booked on suspicion of kidnapping.

BLAMING JACKSON

Frank Ahern, chief homicide inspector, said Lear blamed the plot on Jackson. He said Lear told him he had believed he was working with Jackson on a detective case until Moskovitz was bundled into a house rented by Jackson and threatened with death unless Moskovitz' family paid $500,000 ransom.

Moskovitz himself said Lear kept muttering "didn't know it was to be this kind of a job or I wouldn't have gone into it."

"Jackson seemed to be the leader," Moskovitz said.

Want Better Jail Protection

TORONTO (CP)—More protective devices to prevent another case like that of Henri Seguin, who committed suicide at the Cornwall jail Monday night, were recommended today by the Ontario legislature's select committee on reform institutions.

Chairman W. J. Stewart called for a complete and full report from Deputy Reforms Minister Basher on how Seguin had obtained the poison. The report is to be made following tonight's inquest.

The committee had visited the jail Oct. 21 the day before Seguin was admitted, Mr. Stewart recalled today, and that that time had suggested increasing the jail's seven-man staff since it provides for only one man on duty between 7 p.m. and 7 a.m. Three experienced men had been sent to the jail, Col. Basher told the committee.

A plate or armored glass between inmates and visitors with only telephone communication permitted was suggested as an effective barrier by Mr. Stewart. He said use of fluoroscopes to detect any metal should be considered.

Committee members said Whitby jail was the worst they had visited.

Most Groups Higher On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO (CP) — Most groups were higher in active early afternoon stock market trading today.

Motors made the top spot in an industrial rise as Canadian Tire added $1, Ford was up 37½ cents in heavy trading and General Motors was also strong. In liquors, Walkers was up $3.50 in heavy trading, and in the constructions, Canada Cement was $2 stronger.

Juniors and seniors were weaker golds. Prospects were quiet.

Uraniums and Bathurst-area base metals were ahead although all gains were small Beta Gamma gained 13 cents.

Western oils' gains and losses were almost evenly balanced.

Base metal seniors were stronger, led by juniors. New Calumet was up 15 cents, and Mindamar 15 cents. Senior gains by Quemont, Consolidated Smelters and Falconbridge ranged to 12½ cents.

Dispute Six Ballots In Stirling Recount

STIRLING (ENS) — A re-count of the ballots to decide whether Dr. E. A. Carleton or Earl Fox would serve on the Stirling board of education resulted in the judge removing six ballots and giving the two contestants three days to bring a lawyer to decide whether these ballots should be rejected. In case this is not done the judge will make the final decision.

Killed Few Hours Before Retirement

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Percy New, 65, a customs officer, was crushed and killed beneath the dual wheels of a tractor-trailer in the Ambassador bridge compound this morning just a few hours before he was to retire.

At 5 p. m. today he was due to end his 25-year career with the customs and excise department, and his fellow workers had planned a farewell party, with presentations, for Friday night. Friday was his official finishing date, but he had two days' leave due.

In his pocket, when his body was picked up from the yard for transportation to the morgue, was a little speech he had typed out to reply to his workmates on the presentation night.

The truck, driven by Lucien Larocque of Windsor, backed over Mr. New who was standing with his back to it.

Dulles Ready Meet Molotov

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Secretary Dulles prepared today to thresh out with Foreign Minister Molotov of Russia how to talk over the United States proposal to pool atomic energy resources for peaceful purposes.

Dulles met Tuesday for a second time with Russian ambassador Georgi N. Zarubin. Afterward the state department said the next talks will be between Dulles and Molotov at Berlin.

Dulles, who flies to Berlin Thursday, apparently is pressing for early agreement on when, how and where full-scale "atoms for peace" talks can be held.

President Eisenhower suggested the talks in a United States appeal on Dec. 8. He said they should be private and should be aimed at creating an agency which, under UN auspices, would handle atomic materials and knowledge for peaceful uses, such as in medicine and electric power generation.

President Addresses Bancroft Ministers

BANCROFT — (ENS) — "The Secret" was the title of an address delivered by the Rev. Theo Smith to six members of the North Hastings Ministerial Association at their regular meeting, held at the Pentecostal parsonage, Bancroft, on Monday.

The speaker, with many illustrations from world and church life in the past two centuries, and numerous quotations from present day writers, sought to show how Christianity was most influential when those proclaiming it were men of prayer.

Those present were: The Rev. Alan Borland, United Church, Bancroft, president; the Rev. M. Esler, Pentecostal Church, Bancroft; the Rev. Leslie Hardy, United Church, Coe Hill; the Rev. E. Owen Johnston, North Hastings Anglican Mission; the Rev. Theo Smith, United Church, retired; and the Rev. Sam Fuller, United Church, St. Ola.

The meeting closed with prayer and benediction by Mr. Hardy.

Fire Razes Factory

MONTREAL (CP)—Fire early today destroyed a four-storey brick factory in east-end Montreal, causing an estimated $200,000 damage. There were no injuries but 28 persons, including 24 children were forced to flee from a nearby house dressed only in night attire.

Plan To Hold Night Session On Seaway

Hoping To Bring Debate To Head As Argument Drags

WASHINGTON (AP)—The first night session of the new United States congressional session became a possibility today as the Senate went into its sixth day of debate on the St. Lawrence seaway.

Majority leader William F. Knowland (Rep. Calif.), blocked by Senator Wayne Morse (Ind. Ore.) from limiting debate at this point, announced he is considering a night session to bring the debate to a head.

The Senate is arguing a bill to allow American participation with Canada in building the 27-foot-deep waterway up the St. Lawrence from the Atlantic to the Great Lakes. Canada will go ahead with the project alone if the U. S. fails to come in.

WON'T BE "TOO LATE"

"I do wish to put the senators on notice," Knowland said Tuesday "that we may have a session Wednesday night." He added that if one were held it would not be "too late."

Morse objected to cutting off debate until he is satisfied there has been a reasonable discussion. He said he will make it his "general policy" to object to all debate limitations at this session.

Some Senate supporters of the seaway, meanwhile, are speculating that Senator Everett Dirksen (Rep. Ill.), regarded as a foe of the project, is considering a switch.

They have a fairly solid reason Dirksen, who voted against seaway legislation in 1952, told the Senate Tuesday his "hostility" to the seaway has lessened.

Chief reason for this change, he said, is the stress that President Eisenhower, his cabinet, and the national security council have put on the defence aspects of the project in urging the necessary legislation be passed.

It was this persuasion, Senator H. Alexander Smith (Rep. N. J.) said, that induced him to reverse his former position of opposition. Smith announced Monday that he would vote for the bill.

Try To Protect Missionaries

TORONTO (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson has assured Toronto Centre presbytery of the United Church of Canada that the Canadian government will do what it can to see that the rights of Canadian missionaries in Spain and Colombia are respected.

A letter from Mr. Pearson was read to the presbytery Tuesday. It was in reply to a protest sent to Mr. Pearson in November which said that when Roman Catholics were persecuted the Canadian government took action but that the same action was not taken when protestants were persecuted.

Mr. Pearson said he is aware of "certain disabilities imposed on protestants in Spain and Colombia" and added "I deplore any government's interference with religious freedom of any kind."

Select 2 Areas For Clean Up Otonabee Valley

As the result of a tour on foot which members of the city committee on the Otonabee valley conservation took last month, several reaches of the river within the city boundaries got a verbal working-over at Monday night's meeting. Two areas were designated for special consideration of the investigation and planning sub-committee. The area on the west bank between King and Simcoe streets, now a litter of rails, brush, dump, scrap iron, piled lumber and a CPR shunting yard, is Area No. 1.

Hugh F. Waddell remarked that the first view train travellers from the east had of Peterborough was this. What can be done to improve it?

R. R. Faryon threw out the suggestion that several rows of Lombardy poplar could be planted. They grow fast, are thick from the ground up, and make a good screen against unsightly things and also against sound. (Shunting trains disturb the tranquility of the river and Ashburnham at that point.) The subcommittee is going to consult with Parks Superintendent Armar Butcher about his plans, if any, for that area, and also with Trent Valley Canal people.

The other specific area under consideration, No. 2, was the east bank of the river immediately below the Inverlea bridge and Nicholls Oval. This seemed to members of the committee a splendid spot crying out for preservation on a modestly extensive scale. Reference here was made to the Faludi report on Peterborough's town planning, which had condemned Inverlea bathing beach because of the strong current, and recommended a sandy beach south of the bridge.

ASSURE CO-OPERATION

Mr. Faryon who is a member of the investigation and planning sub-committee and also president of the Quaker Oats Company of Canada whose property some of this is, assured the group of his company's whole-hearted co-operation. At Mr. Faryon's direction a re-definition of the company's holdings on the river banks is now being made.

One of the problems facing the committee is: who owns the banks of the Otonabee within the city? Where does the river become unnavigable and thus not under the authority of the federal government? Where is the jurisdiction of the Trent Valley Canal, a federal agency?

The meeting was somewhat divided on the approach to its sphere of interest. Mrs. Charles Ray felt that, instead of embarking on specific projects for specific areas, an over-all plan should be envisaged.

Visions of a bull-dozer waddling up the Jackson Park creek to clear the creek of debris were forthcoming after a motion by T. J. Allen, seconded by Hugh Waddell, that the committee investigate at an appropriate time the pros and cons of the creek as an asset to the centre of the city.

Charles Kingan opined that you could not stand in the way of progress; he referred to Glasgow where creeks had been completely enclosed, as has happened in Peterborough on Charlotte St.

Mr. Waddell, last year's mayor, said that the Trent Valley Canal had its head office and chief workshops in Peterborough. Their shops here were notably well equipped and he thought that the co-operation of the Canal people could readily be secured for any worth-while project. Alderman Burrows expressed his keen interest and from his knowledge of the areas under discussion gave the committee his authoritative backing.

A name has finally been achieved for the committee. It is to be known as the "Otonabee Valley Conservation Committee," in brief, OVCC.

In the corresponence dealt with was a letter from H. Oakman, offering his free service as aerial photographer. The offer was gratefully accepted.

The chief unanimous motion of the OVCC was not to ask for a grant from the city council. Preliminary costs are being met by contributions from OVCC members. Alderman R. E. Knox, who was appointed head of the investigation and planning sub-committee, is expected to be the dynamo of some future reports.

Mrs. John Nornabelle chaired the meeting. The secretary is Arthur Smoke. The meeting was held at the Chamber of Commerce.

NEW WARDEN of Northumberland and Durham counties council, Reeve Reginald McCann of Brighton township, who was elected by a vote of 35 to 11 over his opponent, Reeve Gordon Honey of Cramahe township.
(Murray Smith Photo)

COBOURG (ENS)—Reeve Reg. McCann of Brighton township was elected warden of Northumberland Counties Council on the first ballot at the opening of the January session last night. Nominated for warden were Reeve McCann by Deputy-Reeve L. Cole of Brighton township and Deputy-Reeve Garnet Rickard of Darlington township; Reeve Gordon Honey of Cramahe township, nominated by Deputy-Reeve G. Gummer of Cramahe township and Reeve I. Post of Colborne.

When the votes were counted, Reeve McCann had polled 35 and Reeve Honey 11. Like the 1953 election in which Reeve J. H. Lowery defeated Reeve A. Beer, the election was on the first ballot an dold timers recalled occasions in years past when more than a dozen ballots were called before an election occurred. The majority for McCann was the largest since the time when Bruce Andrew of Murray township was elected warden.

Following is how the voting went last night:

"It is a great honor and a privilege," said the new warden when he took the chair. "I hope I can fulfil your confidence. I certainly will try hard. Last year was one of the best in many years and I hope that this year is another good one. I welcome the nine new members to counties council and I hope you make yourself heard because new men have new ideas. Every department last year had a small surplus and it is a great credit to the retiring warden, J. H. Lowery. I want to introduce one who has been a great help to me and bore patiently the inconveniences that one's attendance at counties council causes at home. I want to introduce my wife," said the new warden.

Mrs. McCann spoke briefly, thanking the council for the honor bestowed on her husband.

A number of ex-wardens, including George Hooten, who was warden in 1931, were on hand and spoke briefly. They were J. H. Lowery, Harry Campbell and Herman Morrow.

Mr. Hooten wound up a short speech with the observation that life was filled with alternatives to every situation that developed, saying that one either did one thing or accepted the alternative of doing the other and when life came to an end there again were two courses. One was to go to Heaven where there was no further occasion to worry or to go below "where you will be so busy shaking hands with all the old county councillors that you will not have time to worry." This is one of the favorite observations of Mr. Hooten and it never fails to provoke a hearty laugh.

The new warden was born in Percy township 43 years ago, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Murney McCann and farmed with his father until 1936 when he bought a 150-acre farm in Brighton township. His father is retired and resides in Campbellford. He entered municipal life in 1946 as township councillor and was elected deputy-reeve in 1948 and reeve in 1951. He is president of the Northumberland crop improvement association and a director of the Campbellford cheese factory. He is a member of the United church. He and his wife have three children, a girl, 18 and two boys, one 14 and one nine years of age.

Students Agree To Record Ban

KINGSTON (CP)—The student government of Queen's University agreed Tuesday with requests of the Kingston local of the AFL Musicians' Union to ban dancing to records in Grant Hall, the university's main auditorium.

Record dances have been held by various campus organizations in the hall since November. Union officials complained the hall is listed as requiring a 10-man band costing about $100 a night for any dancing.

Norman Vail, president of union local, said the union will permit campus organizations to hire fewer than 10 musicians for future dances. No limit was set on the number to be hired and Mr. Vail said that will be arranged when campus groups call the union secretary for musicians.

The union's ruling does not affect dances held in smaller campus halls. In those halls records are permitted.

Hospital Auxiliary Spent $3,000 In 1953

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS)—The Memorial Hospital women's auxiliary has released a financial statement covering the activities of the organization during the past year.

Expenditures included a $150 donation to the hospital for operating room equipment and a like amount for kitchen equipment. The remainder of the expenditures, amounting to nearly $3,000 covers towelling, sheeting, and similar material that is now in use in the hospital.

Receipts include donations from the IODE, SS No. 6 Percy, bingos, opportunity sales and bazaars, recitals and afternoon teas totalled $2,687.72

Food Ad Color Boosts Linage

CHICAGO (AP)—A newspaper executive said today that the use of color in food ads and supporting editorial feature material "has been at least indirectly responsible for a substantial increase in advertising linage in this classification."

Jack Spear of Wichita, Kans., advertising director of the Wichita Eagle, told fellow newspaper ad men that his sales of retail food advertising for a nine-month period last year after color was adopted were 71 per cent greater than for the comparable period of 1952, before color was used.

He said "It is my sincere belief that the possibilities with the color service in the matter of local ads, campaigns and special sections are limited only by a newspaper's manpower and mechanical limitations."

T. J. Carley New President Little Lake Cemetery Co.

T. J. Carley was elected president at the annual meeting of the lot owners of Little Lake Cemetery Company, Monday. He succeeds William P. Eastwood.

The other officers are: vice-president, W. Ross Thompson; directors, James Hamilton, E. H. Howson, Herbert I. Bradburn, W. P. Eastwood, E. Melville Turner, Hugh F. Waddell, and Fred Hills.

Secretary-treasurer is Miss E. J. Saunders and superintendent, Willon S. Wildman.

The directors report by Mr. Eastwood showed the financial position of the cemetery to be "strong and healthy." Investments increased $15,270 last year; a surplus of $801.33 on the cemetery affairs in 1953 was offset by depreciation charge of $1,440 for a net deficit of $638.67 as compared with a surplus of $240.06 in the previous year.

A departure from the usual policy is set out in the following paragraph: "Your directors have discussed the possibility of arranging for pre-need sales of lots on a time payment basis, believing that many prospective purchasers of lots would appreciate this accommodation. It is intended to arrange these facilities in the immediate future."

"We record with sorrow the untimely passing of the former superintendent, Frank Kitney, who served us faithfuly many years.

Willon Wildman, a young man brought up and educated in this city, a veteran of World War II, succeeded Mr. Kitney at his retirement last summer. He is displaying fine initative and rendering very capable service."

The report also gratefully mentioned the work of Miss Saunders and the other employees. Value of the lots sold during the year was $16,960. Interments last year were 272 and 23 lots were placed under perpetual care.

Won't Increase Export Quota Of Pulpwood

TORONTO (CP) — G. Arthur Welsh, acting lands minister of Ontario, said today that the government has decided not to increase the export quota of pulpwood from the Hearst area of northern Ontario.

Mr. Welsh said it was decided at a cabinet meeting Tuesday that the lands and forests department will seek to help producers increase the domestic market.

A delegation from the Hearst area, 125 miles northwest of Timmins, met Premier Frost here last week to ask help for the area which they said was fast becoming "destitute."

Delegates said farmers are caught in an economic squeeze between decreased pulpwood quotas and a depressed lumber market. The district's troubles began in 1948 when a government quota on pulpwood went into effect.

P. H. Philbin, president of the Hearst Chamber of Commerce and a delegation member, said the quota forced woods' operators to leave mature stands of pulpwood and sawlogs to be "eaten by bugs." More than 350,000 cords were left to rot each year, he said.

Ontario's "Dynamic, Expanding Economy"

Premier Frost's address on Monday on the challenge of Ontario's "dynamic, expanding economy" naturally emphasizes how well his government was meeting the challenge, but it also described the expansion in robust terms. Mr. Frost expects that the Province's population will be six millions before this decade is out; it is already five millions. Those of our readers who went to school thirty years ago and memorized the fact that Canada's total population was nine millions are probably more impressed than the present crop of school youngsters who are growing up in this era of bigness. Incidentally, the annual crop is big—130,000 children were born in this province last year, and about 52,000 additional pupils are now entering our schools each year.

* * *

Premier Frost says that "we can be confident that 1954 will surpass the best record of the past." There is good reason to expect a continuance of expansive times. The economy of Ontario seems to be soundly based, and to be its own dynamo. All those children! Half of all the immigrants to Canada! More and bigger factories! More houses! A new big Toronto (which encompasses a quarter of Ontario's population)! Big powerful things afoot at Niagara! Gas from Western Canada! Atomic energy! A car for every three or four of the Province's people! The St. Lawrence Seaway at our door! And we should not forget to include in our exclamatory parade (Mr. Frost did not): the 24th Legislature of Ontario! (Headed by Mr. Frost!) Hooray for Ontario!

What's Happened To Hockey?

Since the war, complaints about the roughness of hockey games have been frequent, and if we may judge by press reports of the current season offences against the rules and against sportsmanship are worse now than ever before. The latest case to attract attention is that of a game in Montreal where the referee had to stop proceedings after he had twice been hit by players who were angry at his decisions.

We have all heard a good deal, all our lives, about hockey as the great Canadian game, as the maker of men, as the king of winter sports. Even so our fathers before us heard loud praise of lacrosse. But lacrosse became so rough, so unsportsmanlike and so crooked that it faded into nothingness, and only recently has it been able to make a comeback. The same thing could happen to hockey.

A game like hockey is only popular if the players are heroes to the fans, and especially to small boys. Nobody remains a hero if he is a sorehead who punches the umpire, and tries to disable his opponents. Fathers will not take their sons to see hockey matches which end in fights, and in which violence takes the place of sportsmanship and skill. Parents will not encourage their children to make heroes of hoodlums.

Hockey could roughouse itself into oblivion.

Goods Costly In Canada

Economists and businessmen on both sides of the border have been predicting that there must be an adjustment of Canadian prices to bring them down into line with American prices. The fact is that Canadian prices become so high that they have sometimes gone out of reach of the Canadian buying public, and have gone far beyond the ability of foreign customers to pay.

The Montreal banker Mr. James Muir gave instances of high Canadian prices —and most of us know within our own experience that his examples are not far-fetched. A British book which retails in the U.K. for about $3.92 sells for $5 in New York and $7.50 in Toronto. A piece of equipment of British manufacture retailing at about $112 in the United Kingdom, brings $219 in the United States and $275 in Montreal. An American piece of household equipment sells for $77.50 in New England and thirty miles across the border, in Montreal, sells for $149.

These high prices are charged Canadian buyers. And when Canadians want to sell their goods abroad (machines, wheat, meat, cheese) they either cannot, because the price is too high, or do so only because the Government provides a subsidy, for instance, buys and processes pork at 60 cents a pound and sells it abroad for 15 cents a pound. The difference is made up by the Canadian taxpayer.

Taxes? In many cases the taxes are no greater than the taxes which American governments impose on their manufacturers. Labour too high? In some instances wages may be higher than for similar work in the U.S. (e.g. in the southern states); Plants inefficient? Workers not producing as much by the hour as American workers? Canadian mass markets not sufficiently big to provide for the highly organized mass production methods and sales turn-over which exist in the States? Middle-man mark-ups greater in Canada than in the States? Distribution costs too high, distribution not efficient?

Whatever the reasons, the fact exists that our money buys less for more than in either Britain or the U.S. and that high costs and prices are putting Canada at a competitive disadvantage in trying to sell produce abroad and to open new markets for Canadian goods. Obviously a change must come.

Dig A Canal To Peterborough, Then

In this Canadian age of plenty, strange scarcities develop. We permit ourself to remark that the newest bottleneck is gravel. The Department of Highways is constantly patrolling for new sources of good concrete aggregates. The Federal Department of Public Works is also hungry for gravel. The most ravenous of all at this moment seems to be Ontario Hydro. In addition to needing millions of tons of concrete for other power plant projects, it now needs massive quantities of suitable gravel for the St. Lawrence River power development.

It has been reported that Hydro is disappointed in its search for gravel close to the site of the power works. The Cornwall area seems to be deficient in the precious, lowly stuff. Hydro may have to go elsewhere for its gravel, and haul the concrete aggregates to the St. Lawrence site. We have a suggestion to make.

Every farmer in this Peterborough district knows he has gravel and to spare. Why, in the northern part of the county, the farmers grow their cabbages on granite and the bears hibernate in quarries. Peterborough could handily supply Hydro with really good gravel for its St. Lawrence power works. And simply, too. Let the St. Lawrence seaway makers merely dig a canal from Port Hope to Peterborough, and gravel from this entire district could be floated down the Kawartha Lakes, into the canal, into Lake Ontario, and presto! there it is, right on the Cornwall spot.

Fantastic? Less so than the canal suggestion was eighty years ago. It was then seriously proposed that Peterborough should be linked to the Great Lakes by way of a canal connecting the Otonabee and Rice Lake with Port Hope. Now that Peterborough is a thriving industrial city, catering to the markets of the world and buying from them, too (by these markets we do not mean Toronto only), a canal dug to transport gravel would be merely a primary reason for having it. Inland Manchester has a ship canal. Are Peterburians not as needful of a seaport in town as are Mancunians? What? Do we somebody in Toronto or Ottawa say No!

When Is Speed Dangerous?

Our comment yesterday on the speed limit in the province of Quebec, raised to 60 miles an hour, has had a coincidental footnote in a court case in Barrie. A driver whose speed, according to Provincial Police constables in chase of him, was between 95 and 100 miles an hour, was acquitted in magistrate's court of dangerous driving. His counsel argued that there was very little traffic on the highway, that his client's car was heavy, in good condition and especially equipped with safety tubes and tires. Therefore the driver was neither dangerous to himself nor to others. The acquittal given by the magistrate has been appealed to a higher court, and a Provincial Police expert has testified that at speeds of 90 m.p.h. or more "a vehicle is directed, not steered." The judge has reserved judgement on the appeal.

Without reference to this case, we consider that in general, a speed of 90 or 100 m.p.h. is somewhat excessive, if not dangerous. However, we remember days when 40 m.p.h. was considered a reckless speed. A Peterborough congregation of that time presented its minister with a new model-T enclosed car. The chairman of the meeting, presenting the gift, remarked jocularly that the car was fast and powerful, so much so that it could go 30 and 40 miles an hour, and at an incredible 50 a gramophone in the back seat automatically began to play "Nearer My God To Thee."

How fast is fast? When is fast dangerous? One answer to the first question was given in Peterborough magistrate's court yesterday when a Harvey township man was fined $25 and costs for exceeding the 50 m.p.h. limit. Evidence presented in court showed that the Ontario Provincial Police constables had told the man they were making a liquor investigation and requested him to precede them to his home, to show the way. The man did—so fast that the constables lost sight of him. At least he was home when the police finally arrived to make their investigation. Safely and unscotched, it seems.

Soviet Artists Smell Freedom

By EDWARD CRANKSHAW

FOR THE first time in many years the writers, the musicians, the painters of the Soviet Union have been given a smell of freedom. Most of them ask for nothing better. It is true enough to-day to say that the Russian artist has always been, and always will be, less inclined to jib against social pressures than the Western artists, who for so long have virtually equated art with rebellion against authority. But only the most sycophantic have really enjoyed the fearful rigidity of the past six years since the notorious Zhdanov purge. And if there is any doubt about this, one has only to read the declarations of qualified independence which first the writers, then the musicians, have been tumbling out in the past two months. Malenkov's policy of liberalisation — which ranges from cows to peasants to Kremlin parties for the children of Moscow — has started an avalanche. Suddenly, almost overnight, the newspapers and magazines of the Soviet Union have begun to come alive.

✧ ✧ ✧

FAMILIAR and distinguished figures for years rapt from the contaminating world and previous infidel acquaintance in Zhdanov-coloured strait-jackets are suddenly gesticulating freely and getting up in that Tom Tiddler's ground of Party favour, the Moscow club house of the Writers' Union, to talk about the artistic conscience in a way that make perfect sense to their Western colleagues — though still, of course, inside the framework of the Party jargon. It is enough to make one think that one day, before long, old acquaintance may be renewed.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE DEVELOPMENT started with a remarkable article in the October number of "Znamava" ("The Banner"), which was nothing less than a declaration of artistic faith by the veteran time-server Ilya Ehrenburg, who, for the first time in many years, was saying quite plainly what he really felt. Because he is a most distinguished and supple stylist, he said it very well. And, since he is a most accurate weathercock, his article, which expressed in unimpeachable terms the case for freedom of artistic expression must have burst on the Writers' Union like a Technicolor sunrise. The Party hacks stiffened in horror or faced about, according to their flexibility; the younger writers could hardly contain themselves: the old and established, who for long have striven hopelessly against the Zhdanov prescriptions, saw the beginning of the end of a folly which was killing Soviet art of all kinds in the womb:-

"AN AUTHOR writes a book not because he knows how to write: not because he is a member of the Union of Soviet Writers and may be asked why he has published nothing for so long. An author does not write a book because he has to earn a living. An author writes a book because he finds it necessary to tell people something of himself, because he is "sick" with his book, because he has seen people, things and emotions that he cannot help describing. In this way impassioned books are born . . . That is why I cannot understand some critics when they blame such and such a writer; he has not written a novel about the Volga-Don canal, about the textile industry, or about the struggle for peace. Would it not be better to reproach another writer, who has written a book although he felt no spiritual urge to do so and could have quietly left it unwritten? Statistics do not play the role in art that they play in industrial production. Indeed, one good novel is better than hundred bad ones. Novels are not used up, like coal, and they do not wear out, like shoes. . .

"In pre-revolutionary times, an author's life was not an easy one, and in Chekhov's letters there is some mention how editors of a newspaper or magazine ordered a story from him. But even the most familiar editors refrained from suggesting to Chekhov the subject of his story. Can one imagine Tolstoy being given an order to write "Anna Karenina", or Gorky being ordered to write "Mother." ? "

IT WOULD be hard to imagine a more direct and uncompromising refutation of the Zhdanov rescript than these brave words of Ehrenburg's. And almost at once they were followed up by a plenary session of the Writers' Union in which, under the chairmanship of Fadeyev, the only writer who is a full member of the Party Central Committee, and in presence of Ponaramenko, a Minister of State, the assembled dramatists tore into the rotten state of the Soviet drama — Simonov and Lavrenev, neither of them noted for great independence of mind, being particularly vocal.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE technique was interesting. The Party was never attacked, though there were ironical references to its omniscience; the Zhdanov rescript was never attacked directly. Instead speakers vied with one another in attacking writers and critics, publishers and theatre managers for their sins in carrying out the very policies which for so long the Party had compelled them to carry out on pain of virtual excommunication. But their sense was clear. The whole emphasis was on the rendering of real life and the legitimate demands of the audience as opposed to the Party inspectorate. A. Popov, the chief producer of the Soviet Army Theatre, one of the most enterprising in the Soviet Union, summed this up in his trenchant warning, which was also a reproach: "The dramatist must not forget that he has to earn the right to take up four hours of the time of one and a half thousand Soviet people."

✧ ✧ ✧

OTHERS attacked the absurdities of Zhdanov's perversion of "socialist realism." The audience, he said, has been "taught to see on the stage that which departs from the truth of life, from the real difficulties, misfortunes, joys and sorrows of living Soviet people," even indeed "to consider that the divorce of dramatic literature from reality is almost compulsory." What they were getting at above all was the artificial situation that arises when people have to be all black or all white, when the only cause of conflict is a quarrel about the best way to fulfil the Plan. The sort of play in which, in the words of Lavrenev, "the characters declaim excerpts from textbooks on the oil industry." "How easily in such plays," Lavrenev went on, "are the ties of friendship, love, comradeship severed for reasons not worth an egg-shell." As an example, he mentions a play in which "the agro-technician Vanya, who, madly in love, has just married Tanya, the brigadier of a field station, throws off his beloved wife as a backward element because Tanya holds different views on the best method of clamping potatoes. When bosom friends, lovers, fathers and children become mortal enemies and with astonishing thoughtlessness part for ever because of a difference of opinion on agronomic or production questions, this is a distortion of the image of Soviet man."

IT IS very solemn and silly. But for the admirer of the Russian people it is also exciting. For the Russian artist it must be like a liberating revolution. Something of the wretched state of affairs was revealed by many speakers. Here again is Lavrenev: "The theatres fear complex heroes with a contradictory, many-sided psychology. And this perhaps explains the strange fate of the talented and original play of L. Leberekht and F. Einbaum, 'The Morning of Our Years.' Not a single theatre has yet decided to work on this piece because, one may suspect, theatrical workers and comrades working in the organs which direct art met with suspicion a contemporary play which tells of profound human feeling and poses complex psychological problems."

And finally, Simonov, who certainly knows which side his bread is buttered, made an appeal for experiment, a word long dead in the Soviet arts, but bound up most deeply with the Russian Spirit: "There must," he said, "be no fear of contentious and controversial elements," always as understood, on a "healthy ideological basis." But this qualification in itself need be no more binding than the observance of certain established moral conventions in the West.

Soviet arts have been given the green light. It will be enthralling indeed to see whether the blight of past years has withered the roots, or whether there will be a sudden release of pent-up energy. The creator's task is slower.

Welsh Gardener Got The Vicar A 'Light' Book

(THE LISTENER, LONDON)

W. H. BOORE spoke about Welsh characteristics in a Midland Home Service BBC talk. "Once you employ a Welsh servant," he said, "you are a prisoner for life. If you suffer the status of master, he enjoys the real job of bossing you about from morning to night.

"'Sion, fetch me something by P. G. Wodehouse or A. P. Herbert—a bit of light reading.'

"In due course, Sion returned bearing a slender volume, pale puce in color, entitled 'Fishing for Dace in Restricted Waters.'

"The vicar looked at it. 'What is this?'

"'Light reading you said, sir', replied Sion, 'and light it is—not more than an ounce and a half.'

"'Why,' asked the patient vicar, 'why did you fetch me this ghastly volume?'

"'Light you said, sir', Sion answered, 'and you can't get anything lighter than pale pink; it's the color of the Spring sunrise over Cader Idris after a misty night, and . . .'

"'Light you said, sir', Sion answered indomitably, 'and dace are only little fish; no weight in them at all; now if it was pike, I've seen them that big—different thing altogether, and . . .'

"'Sion', the vicar thundered, 'answer my question.'

"Sion had now exhausted his play on the word 'light', so he merely continued as if the vicar had not spoken, 'And that stream at the bottom of the garden; there's restricted waters for you; even a tiddler would have to stand on his tail to turn round.'

"'Sion', the vicar yelled, 'why did you fetch me this, this, this rubbish?'

"Sion could fence no longer. 'Oh!', he said, 'Oh! Rubbish it is, is it? And you not read a word to know whether it's good or bad; where's you evidence?' Then, as the vicar was by now showing signs of apoplexy, Sion came out with the real, characteristically Welsh reason for his choice.

"'That book's been on the shelf three years come next lambs-tailing; look at the date sheet; and not a soul has bothered to take it out. How would you like to be the author of a book nobody wants? It's all right for you; folks have got to listen to your sermons, whether they want to or not, which they generally don't anyway.' Then he added his most devastating touch of all, 'Perhaps this one knows what he's talking about.'

"In Wales, you see, the servant employs his master—a much better idea; and he employs him to the best effect for the good of all."

Letter To The Editor

COMMENDS ALDERMAN KNOX

SIR: The electorate of our fair city and the parents of school-age children, in particular, should heartily commend the recent action of Alderman R. E. Knox, Chairman of the Parks Committee of the City Council in censuring our so-called police force for interfering with children, who were skating on the open-air rinks, last Sunday. In a recent issue of your paper we are informed that $1,200.00 in damage was inflicted on the various schools and also that the Queen Mary Hospital and other city buildings virtually wrecked by young hoodlums; to our knowledge no culprit has been apprehended by the police; some vigilance.

Gratefully yours,
GRACE. E. BROWN.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

God that made the world and all things therein, seeing that he is Lord of heaven and earth, dwelleth not in temples made with hands; neither is worshipped with men's hands, as though he needed any thing, seeing he giveth to all life, and breath, and all things . . . For in him we live, and move, and have our being. (Acts 17:24, 25, 28.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Lord, thou has been our dwelling place in all generations. Before the mountains were brought forth, or ever thou hadst formed the earth and the world, even from everlasting to everlasting, thou art God. (Ps. 90:1, 2.)

✧ ✧ ✧

How excellent is thy lovingkindness, O God! therefore the children of men put their trust under the shadow of thy wings. They shall be abundantly satisfied with the fatness of thy house; and thou shalt make them drink of the river of thy pleasures. For with thee is the fountain of life: in thy light shall we see light. (Ps. 36:7-9.)

✧ ✧ ✧

The Lord is my strength and song, and is become my salvation . . . I shall not die, but live, and declare the works of the Lord. (Ps. 118:14, 17.)

Taking The Cure

(Ottawa Journal)

Fearlessly we project ourselves into the arguments about the good and ill of tobacco with notes from literature.

First a report on what tobacco will not do: Dr. Rae, 100 years ago, searched for traces of the Franklin Expedition in the Canadian Arctic. He was an expert at living off the land but he found aggressive creatures in the sea chewed the nets in which he hoped to catch fish. He soaked the nets in tobacco juice — and the sea creatures kept on eating his nets.

From England we have a report that Eton schoolboys were thrashed if they skipped their medicinal pipes. In its day tobacco has been considered a remedy for colds, coughs, sores, headaches, gangrene, and paralysis. Queen Elizabeth I once had a long pull at a pipe.

In our quaint way we delight in maintaining old customs and when people see us puffing and jeer about our New Year resolution we placidly remark that we had to resume smoking as part of the cure of various ills.

The New Traffic Court

(Montreal Star)

Establishment of a special court for the trial of offences against traffic laws and regulations is a sensible move. So great is the number of such cases now due for trial that some of them date back to last May. Such a situation is bad in every way. It is sometimes almost impossible to present the evidence completely after so long a time, and on the other hand the defendant has a right to speedy trial, according to the nature of the offence with which he is charged. With cases of this kind handed over to a special court, pressure on other courts should be considerably lessened and their dockets more quickly cleared.

The first day's work of the new court made it plain how badly it is needed. Even devoting all its time to the one class of offence, it will take some time to work through the back-log of pending cases, estimated at nearly 1,000, and to be able to deal with each new case as it is presented. The 28 tried on the court's opening day were mostly cases of speeding and some other minor offences.

Rent In Russia Including Water, Heat 4 Per Cent Of Head Of Family's Income

CP reporter Bill Boss reports in this article, first in a series of five dealing with aspects of a Soviet citizen's budget) or family overhead items such as rent, fuel and taxes. It is based on his own observations related to official information.

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW (CP)—The most striking factor to a foreigner about a Muscovite's budget is his rent.

The average rent, including heat and water, is four per cent of the income of the head of the family. It may be as low as two, or as high as seven per cent, and if more than one individual works (and in most families at least husband and wife do) the rent is not affected.

A high school teacher earning 800 rubles a month pays 32 for rent. If his wife earns another 600 as an office worker the rent remains 32. A school principal earning 1,900 rubles pays 76, a hairdresser earning 2,500 pays 100.

For this most families get two rooms, share a kitchen and bathroom with one other family.

(The Russian government has set the exchange value of the ruble—100 kopeks—at 25 cents. But inflated prices have sent its purchasing value down to five to eight cents, so the 800 rubles ($200) a high school teacher earns would be worth only $40 to $60 in terms of Canadian conditions).

Accommodation is still short in Moscow but the current 10-year program, under which 102 apartment blocks are planned in one section of the city alone, is expected to relieve the situation.

As the new blocks are occupied, surrounding ancient one-storey timber structures are to come down. The building program is scheduled to be completed by 1960.

Highest rentals, charged to more-than-average income earners, are one ruble 32 kopeks a month a square metre (10.8 square feet). Figures on the top number of square feet a family may occupy are not available.

Electricity costs 40 kopeks a kilowatt. Most homes use gas for cooking, at 20 kopeks a cubic metre (35.31 cubic feet).

HIGH AND LOW

Commodity prices hew to a pattern. Items in common use, produced to standard patterns, are relatively cheap. The same items in better-than-standard, or "luxury" quality, are more costly.

A man's fur-trimmed winter hat, for instance, costs 60 rubles in the standard model. In caracul it costs from 330 to 429 rubles, almost half a month's salary for a high school teacher.

The greater part of the country's social and economic system is carried by the turn-over (purchase or excise) taxes.

CHILDLESS PAY MORE

Income tax begins at 2.5 per cent on incomes of 300 rubles a month, rising to 13 per cent on incomes of 1,000 monthly. Between 1,000 and 12,000 rubles it remains constant. It rises sharply after 12,000.

The "handicap" levy is highest for unmarried men and women. It falls slightly on marriage, more when the first child arrives, still more with the second. Exact figures are not available but the tax is not heavy.

As a patriotic gesture workers subscribe the equivalent of two weeks' salary to annual state loans.

No Soviet citizen using the state medical system receives a bill from doctor, hospital or convalescent home. Most receive part of their salary while away from work if covered by a doctor's certificate. The proportion of income received rises with length of service, with the maximum 100 per cent after eight years.

To Pay Hangman For Job Anyway

TORONTO (CP)—An official of the Ontario attorney-general's department said today the hangman who arrived at Cornwall jail Monday night to hang Henri Seguin will probably be paid for the job although he didn't do it.

Seguin, convicted murderer, died in convulsions on the cot in his cell about an hour before the hanging was scheduled to take place. A small, metal vial that could have contained poison was found in the cell.

The department official said because Seguin died only an hour before he was scheduled to be hanged the hangman would probably be paid as if the hanging were carried out.

A hangman's fee is usually about $200, the official said.

Canada Not Behind In Atom Development

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Howe said Tuesday Canada will not be behind other countries in developing atomic power for industry.

The minister was commenting on a United Kingdom government announcement Monday lifting the curtain on production of atomic fuels for peacetime uses.

He said the atomic energy plant at Chalk River, always has devoted its energies to research in peacetime uses of atomic power. Canada was not interested in developing atomic power for war purposes.

Tax Appeal Board Membership Now 4

OTTAWA (CP)—Membership of the income tax appeal board has been boosted to four from three due to a major increase in income tax appeal cases.

The revenue department announced Tuesday that Cecil L. Snyder, well-known Toronto and St. Thomas lawyer, has been named member and assistant chairman of the board.

Says Motorists Try

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Police chief Earl Knight said Tuesday that London motorists are "trying to do the right thing" but sometimes get forgetful. He told a Chamber of Commerce meeting that 39,008 parking tickets were issued last year. He suggested that traffic might be speeded up if parking space were lengthened to allow motorists to drive in to the curb instead of backing in.

Banker Dies

BARRIE (CP)—Well known in Simcoe county banking circles, George Bell, 46, died Tuesday. Born in the Belleville area, he came to this district 12 years ago.

Orillia Handcuffs Petes With 5-1 Win To Get Revenge For Shutout

ORILLIA (Special)—Orillia Pontiacs, gained revenge for a 3-0 shut out pinned on them by the Petes last week when they blasted them 5-1, Tuesday night before 1,000 roaring fans at the Orillia Community Centre arena. Referees Pearcy Allen of Oakville and Jack Shropshire of Weston were kept busy restoring order as they handed out 21 penalties including two 10-minute misconducts and two five-minute fighting sentences. The two clubs were tied 1-1 as they headed for their respective dressing rooms at the end of the initial frame. Playing coach Vic Grigg was given credit for Orillia's goal that bounded in off Jim Munro's leg at the 7.05 mark.

Bill McMaster, bashing Peterborough rear guard drove home the tying marker from Ed Redmond at 8.49 with Orillia one man short.

Peterborough drew four of the six penalties in the period. Orillia took advantage of Toodie Greenlaw's holding penalty in the second period with Favero putting the puck behind goalie Jack Donlevy from Payne at 10.15. The teams were at full strength when Bruno Favoro connected again at 18:13 from Aiken and Payne, making the scoring read Orillia 3, Peterborough 1 as the period ended. The teams split the four penalties even in that middle period.

SCORED TWICE

The Pontiacs wrapped it up tight when they scored twice in the final stanza as again Bob Shroppshire held the Petes scoreless. Rust. Aiken scored from Payne and Favoro at 15.20 and Dan MacDonald fired the final marker at 16.52 from Ab Bowen and Muzz Richardson.

Again the teams split even in the penalty parade. This time with five each. Ed Redmond collected a ten minute misconduct, his second for the evening, while Dan MacDonald and Chum Fryia received five minutes each for their boxing performance.

Bruno Favoro was tops for Orillia with two goals and one assist, Clary Payne picked up three assists and Grigg, Aiken and MacDonald contributed single tallies. Bill McMaster got the Petes lone goal and played a whale of a game on defence. Ed. Redmond, Jack Donlevy and Keith Montgomery starred for the Petes with Aiken, Payne, Grigg, Favoro and Shropshire Orillia's best.

Line-ups:

Peterborough—Goal, Donlevy; defence, Munro and Montgomery centre, Hill; wings, Collins and Crowley; alternates, Leonard, Fryia, Greenlaw, Belisle, McMaster, Prentice, Petersen, Redmond, Armstrong.

BARRED DRIVER HONORED

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y. (AP)—Wayne (Curly) Smart, under suspension by the U.S. Trotting Association after being barred from Michigan tracks on a charge of doping a horse, Tuesday was named harness racing's top driver for the second straight year.

Smart won the award under the universal driver rating system. The 49-year-old trainer-driver for the Castleton Farm of Lexington, Ky., was credited with a 1953 percentage of .530 on the basis of 89 victories, 46 seconds and 16 thirds in 226 races.

Smart also has been suspended from New York state tracks until next Sept. 30. The state harness racing commission last November suspended Smart and his assistant, Carl Larsen, because they had used a hypodermic needle on three horses in July and August, 1953.

In the 1953 ratings, Smart finished 42 points ahead of Delvin Miller of Meadow Lands, O., the 1950 champion. They led the drivers who started 200 or more races last year.

TOUGH AUTO TEST

MONTREAL (CP)—The second annual Canadian winter rally, described by the sponsors as the longest and toughest automobile test in the world, will be held the weekend of Jan. 22-24.

The route covers a 1,340-mile run from Toronto to Peterborough, Kingston, Montreal, Maniwaki Barry's Bay and Huntsville.

About 75 entrants from Quebec, Ontario and the Northern American states will participate.

Quebec teams will start in Montreal and finish in Toronto. Ontario teams will start in Toronto and finish in Montreal.

In the test, sponsored by the British Empire Motor Club, all cars must observe provincial speed limits and highway regulations.

TO COMPETE WITH REDS

LONDON (AP) — British track and field men will participate in events in two Communist countries this year—their first journey behind the Iron Curtain since the war's end.

This was announced Tuesday by the British Amateur Athletic Association.

Teams will go to Kracow, Poland, July 26 and Bucharest, Rumania, Sept. 26.

The two Communist countries sent the invitations. The Association did not say how many athletes would take part.

Jack Crump, British team manager, said he saw the invitations as a change in the Communist approach as far as sport is concerned.

"I'm certain that there will be more and more exchanges between Western and Communist countries," he said.

MORE UNSIGNED PHILLIES

Hamner, veteran shortstop-second baseman, said he was dissatisfied with his contract.

Konstanty, veteran relief pitcher, merely said he wanted more money.

Other players who have returned their contracts unsigned include pitchers Robin Roberts and Curt Simmons, catcher Smoky Burgess and first baseman Eddie Waitkus.

UPSIDE DOWN BOXER—Hugh Meikle of Glasgow, Scotland, literally has Don Churm of Brantford, standing on his head in an amateur bout at Toronto. Bouncing back from the ropes in the second round, Churm crashed into Meikle's shoulder, turned upside down and landed on his head. Meikle won the fight on a decision.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Mrs. Pansy Forbes, coach of the Peterborough Ornamental Swimming Club, has been named citizen of the year 1953 and will be honored at a dinner given by B'nai B'rith at the Empress on Jan. 23. We've had ornamental swimmers here since before the war, but only in recent years have they made a national and international name for themselves. Won an international meet in synchronized swimming last summer in Niagara Fall, N.Y., and the USA team championship a month later in Florida. Have taken other honors, also, the past several years both in Canada and across the border. Mrs. Forbes has worked hard with her girl swimmers to bring these honors to Peterborough, and she deserves the distinction of being named citizen of the year.

* * * * * *

Main speaker at the dinner will be Mel Allen, noted American sportscaster. The man can speak, no doubt about that, as many radio sports fans will testify. He attended University of Alabama and was awarded a teaching fellowship in the speech department, later being a full - time instructor in this department and debating coach. Got his law degree, as well, but joined CBS as an announcer and moved into the sports field. Does the Yanks' games, world series, Kentucky Derby, Rose Bowl grid classics, movietone newsreels, lectures, and so on. A year ago, Allen was voted America's No. 1 sportscaster. He will likely touch on international sports in his speech here Saturday night.

Don't Worry, he Advises

Hockey fans who fear Canada will be beaten in the international puck tourney in Sweden this winter need not worry. That's what Don Preston, manager of Toronto Lyndhursts (who represent Canada in the competition), tells Len Taylor of Kitchener sheet. Says Lyndhursts are a good senior "B" squad and will have 13 exhibition games ere heading for Sweden. They won't play in England but have 20,000 seats sold now, for their appearance in Paris the end of the month. By the way, they're paying their own way out of exhibition games — plus, no doubt, some help from the motor company whose name they bear. CAHA is putting up nothing, Lyndhursts even buying their own sweaters, etc.

* * * * * *

Preston says there is a mistaken impression abroad over a recent series in which Russians twice defeated a Swedish team. He says the Swede's weren't using their top team, but a mercantile club of about intermediate "B" class, and that the Soviets only won by 3-1 and 5-2. Furthermore, Lyndhursts are entitled to send back to Canada for better players if they think they'll need 'em after watching the boys go in pre-tourney exhibitions. But the club manager adds that this is unlikely, and that the Soviet team hasn't even entered the tournament as yet, no doubt waiting to see how the Canadian crew shapes up in these exhibitions. We trust he is right — and that Canuck fans have no need to worry. Oshawa Truckmen of our group recently beat Lyndhursts handily, and we think the Petes could do likewise.

Teeder Expected to Come

Ted Kennedy and Jimmy Thompson are expected to be the two Leafian linesmen at the OHA junior "B" joust betwixt Port Perry and Junior Petes here tonight. Hap Day promised Red Creighton he'd send down a couple of his NHL aces, this pair if possible. An OHA ref will be in charge of the scheduled contest. Starting at eight, local figure skaters will perform for half an hour, with the game listed for 8:30. About 20 door prizes have been put up for the tilt. Junior Petes lead their group at present with Lindsay and Port Perry (Oshawa players) not far behind in a keen race. A busload of fans is coming from Port Perry for the affair, as these young teams stage some hot tussles.

* * * * * *

Results of last night's senior "B" scrap in Orillia is in elsewhere, and the Petes tackle Belleville Memos here on Friday eve. 'Tis a warmish race indeed as they move speedily along the back stretch ere turning into the home stretch in February. Oshawa hasn't too much of a lead atop the heap right now, and there's a merry scramble on night after night for second spot, Petes, Kingston and Orilla being bunched closely. Belleville aren't out of the running as yet, and have been threatening to snatch that fourth playoff place at the expense of any of the others. They finished up in rugged style here Monday, and there'll be little love lost in the Friday clash between these same clubs.

Two Maple Leafs To Help Boost Jr. Petes Team

Fern Flaman and Jimmy Thompson, defencemen of the Toronto Maple Leafs, will be on hand tonight to help the Junior Petes draw a crowd at their booster night.

The Jr. Petes, who are leading the league, have been unable to get the support of the hockey fans who for the most part have not come out to see what a good brand of hockey the juniors play.

The team cannot continue without more support from the fans. They are not looking for handouts, just a chance to show the people of Peterborough what they can do. They are playing the Port Perry club, second best in the league and a fast-skating crew.

So tonight they are holding a booster night. The two Toronto defencemen will be there to lend their support. It's up to the fans from here on.

Warsaw Edges Hiawatha 6-5

Play was fast throughout the game with three penalties for Warsaw and five for Hiawathia. Warsaw got the first two goals but received two costly penalties during which time Hiawathia with some nice passing plays rapped in two goals to even the score.

L. Lonsberry then tallied for Warsaw, but once again Salleby for Hiawathia tied it up. The period ended 3-4.

The second period was fast and rugged with no penalties, with Hiawathia scoring two goals to Warsaw's one. The period ended with Hiawathia's leading 5-4.

The third period was fairly even play until Cowie received a five-minute penalty for high sticking and drawing blood. Warsaw opened up and got two quick goals within a minute.

Hiawathia put on the pressure but were unable to score on Wingett who played well throughout the game. Len Lonsberry led the scoring with two goals and two assists.

Hiawathia goal, MacDonald; defence, Close, Steenburgh; centre, Hesfield; wings, L. Salleby, G. Salleby; alts.: Cowie, D. Musgrave, Morgan, E. Musgrave, Anderson.

Lindsay Whips Pt. Hope 11-2

LINDSAY (ENS) — Lindsay Muskies showed flashes of their old form Tuesday night as they walloped Port Hope Redmen 11-2 in a Lakeshore league intermediate "A" game here.

Stu Hicks led the scoring for the winner with five counters while Orley Crawford had two with singles by Vic Corley, Bruce Weddup and Bob Wyatt. Jim Freeman scored both goals for the Redmen.

In the second period Turner of Port Hope and Parker of Lindsay traded swings. Each was handed a major and a minor. Turner sat out an extra 10 minutes when he tried to revive the fight.

In the final frame another fight broke out between Ab Lettner and Grant Green. Referee Herb Payne finally had to call for police help to quell it. They each received major penalties and the Lindsay team was handed two misconduct penalties for leaving the bench.

Blind Swimmers

REGINA (CP)—Once each week 26 blind or physically-handicapped persons take swimming lessons at the RCMP pool here. Instructor Alwyn Barnes says about 40 such pupils have learned to swim in the weekly course.

PLAY FOR KEEPS—The young lads playing in the public school hockey league take their games seriously. Although they don't skate and stickhandle as well as the OHA teams, they equal their spirit, providing action and more action in their afternoon games. The games Tuesday were no exception. Richard Last (top photo) takes a tumble in front of the Prince of Wales goal after scoring Queen Elizabeth's only goal as they lost 3-1. The other game ended in the second period with Confederation leading Queen Mary 2-1 when goalie Don Luther was cut above the eye. Hamilton Rinks Make Playoffs

HAMILTON (CP) — Two Hamilton Thistle rinks defeated a pair of St. Catharines rinks Tuesday to earn the right to represent group 9 in the Governor-General's bonspiel playoffs at Toronto Jan. 28.

E. F. Thomas' quartet defeated a St. Catharines rink skipped by B. G. Nokes 17-14 and Dr. C. T. Mason downed another St. Catharines crew skipped by Nels Bond 17-12.

Grimsby, Hamilton Victoria, Ontario Hospital, Glanford and Brantford rinks were entered in the two-day competitions.

St. Catharines provided first-round upsets by eliminating two strong Glanford rinks and then swept past Hamilton Victorias into Tuesday's finals.

In the group nine playoffs for the Ontario silver tankard trophy, four rinks advanced to the semi-finals. The semi-finals and finals in this event will be held today.

Charlie Cassels and Rufus Stone led their Thistle rinks to a 37-16 victory over St. Catharines entries headed by H. M. Scott and Bill McCulluck. Each entry was comprised of two rinks.

H. B. Paddon's Victoria rink walloped J. Tyson's Brantford quartet 22-3 and D. E. Loft of Brantford skipped his team to an 18-18 draw with C. C. Jackson's Victoria rink.

Flowers Signs Contract With Baltimore Colts

BALTIMORE (CP) — Bernie Flowers, an all-star end last season with Ottawa Rough Riders of the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union, signed a contract Tuesday with Baltimore Colts of the National Football League, whom he spurned in favor of the Canadian club a year ago.

At the same time, the Colts announced plans to go after another one that got away—Billy Vessels, who burned up the Western Interprovincial Football Union as a hard-running backfielder with Edmonton Eskimos last fall.

In Edmonton, president Ken Montgomery of the Eskimos expressed confidence that the WIFU's top ground-gainer would be back with his club next season, unless the United States army gets him first.

"Should Vessels be signed by Baltimore it would be in violation of his three-year contract with the Eskimos," Montgomery said. "The last word we had from Billy was that he would be back with us."

Vessels and Flowers were Baltimore's first two college draft choices in 1953.

Kellett also plans to launch similar talks with Kaye Vaughn, an outstanding Ottawa tackle last season, who also shunned a Baltimore offer on his graduation from the University of Tulsa in 1952.

At Cleveland, Okla., Vessels said he plans to wait until his discharge from the U.S. army in 1956 before deciding where to continue his football career.

He is scheduled for induction in June.

"My wife and I talked it over and decided it would be best to wait until I get out of the army," he said.

The six-foot, 180-pound all-America, confirmed reports he and Don Kellett, Colt president, would confer, probably Thursday.

Two Patrick Brothers Face Each Other As Coaches Of NHL Teams

By AL COLLETTI, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Another milestone in the Patrick hockey dynasty will be reached tonight as Murray (Muzz) Patrick and older brother Lynn face each other for the first time as National Hockey League coaches. From opposite benches Muzz will handle New York Rangers and Lynn the Boston Bruins in the first of a three-game series which should have a strong bearing on who makes the fourth and final playoff berth. A Patrick hasn't faced a Patrick in the NHL in 20 years—not since Lester Patrick coached the Rangers against his brother, Frank, who also was the Bruins' pilot, in 1934.

Muzz and Lynn, Lester's sons, always were the brothers valiant. They played for the great Stanley Cup Ranger teams before the war, with their father at the helm.

BECOMES STAR

In the beginning Lynn took an unmerciful riding from the gallery because he was the boss' son. Even his father cut him from the squad because he feared charges of nepotism. But Lynn became a star and removed the barriers for Muzz, who got there on his own right and stayed.

Now the lines have been drawn. Muzz, the biggest of the Patricks at six feet two and 210 pounds, took over the Ranger coaching job from Frank Boucher a week ago. As a matter of family prestige, he says, he wants to beat out his brother's team into the playoffs.

He is under heavy pressure. Everything hinges on the Rangers winning on the road, where their record has been poor.

Lynn, now in his fifth season coaching in the NHL, has had exceptional success. After piloting the Rangers into the playoff finals in 1949-50, he suddenly went to the Bruins in the summer of 1950 and has done a top-notch coaching job there ever since. Lynn has a front-office job waiting for him any time he wants it.

RELATIONSHIP CLOSE

Of his relationship with Muzz, Lynn says "we're very close, always have been."

"But brotherly love is out in hockey from now. I've been worrying about the Rangers all season and now I'm a bit more worried about them."

Lynn is three years older than Muzz, who is 38.

The Bruins only lead the Rangers by two points for fourth place, and the two teams will play each other three times in the next five days—in New York tonight and in Boston Saturday and Sunday.

While the Patricks will be on opposing sides, another famed brother team, Max and Doug Bentley, will be reunited for the first time since they were broke up in late 1947 when Max was traded from Chicago to Toronto.

Doug arrived by plane from Saskatoon Tuesday, where he was playing coach with the Quakers of the Western Hockey League. At 37, he is returning to the NHL fold to try and give the Rangers a lift.

If father time has taken too great a slice out of his talents Doug will return to Saskatoon. But if he turns out to be an asset, he stays with the Rangers.

"Not only do I think him capable of helping us on the ice," says Muzz, "but he will serve as a good counsellor with his knowledge of the game."

Sports Dinner Almost Sold Out At $25-A-Plate

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario sports writers and sportscasters discovered with understandable awe Tuesday that they may not have enough seats to satisfy demand for their $25-a-plate sports celebrity dinner for crippled children.

A report to a committee planning the Feb. 18 event, at which capacity is 780, showed known sales of 746, another 40 or so on which there is no final report.

Proceeds of the event go to the Ontario Society for Crippled Children which is applying the money to $42,000 in camp building projects the Ontario Sports Writers and Sportscasters Association has undertaken to finance in the next three years.

LIST OF CELEBRITIES

The list of celebrities includes Tommy Burns, only Canadian to be world heavyweight boxing champion. Burns, 72, who was born Noah Brusso at Hanover, Ont., is coming from his home at Coalanga, Calif. Earl Walls, Canadian heavyweight champion who ranks fifth among present world contenders, will join Burns in representing boxing.

Hockey will be represented by all-time great Cyclone Taylor who now lives in Vancouver.

Princess Betty G Wins Heat Victory

Handled by Les Slack Lainey Lee B stepped out to set the pace at the start of the first heat, was still showing the way entering the stretch drive but had to be urged to retain a slight edge in a photo finish over the fast-closing Princess Betty G.

In the second heat, Princess Betty G., guided by Percy Robillard, went to the front in the early stages set a brisk pace and won easily.

Hornsby Appointed Batting Instructor

CHICAGO (AP) — Rogers Hornsby, dismissed as manager of St. Louis Browns and Cincinnati Redlegs in the last two years, today was named Chicago White Sox batting instructor for the American League baseball club's pre-spring training camp at Hollywood, Fla.

The Rajah, all-time great as a second-baseman in the National League, will start his new assignment March 1 when John Rigney, Sox farm director, opens the camp of specialized instruction for 40 farmhands.

Hornsby's month-long job as batting instructor is his only active part in baseball so far. He will spend most of his other time working on a baseball television program.

Maroons Dump Windsor Bulldogs 3-1

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Windsor Bulldogs, the Milwaukee Braves of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series, continue to draw the crowds—even when the team is in a slump and is playing a game that has no effect on the standings.

The Bulldogs, once rated practically unbeatable on Windsor ice, played to 2,810 fans as they were defeated 3-1 by the sixth-place Chatham Maroons Tuesday night.

The other league game, a clash between the two top teams who are fighting for the OHA leadership, drew out only 2,192 fans in Owen Sound and the crowd saw the Mercurys increase their hold on first place by downing Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen 6-3. The victory hoisted Owen Sound four points up on the second-place Dutchmen.

Sault Ste. Marie (Ont.) Greyhounds also increased their first-place margin in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series by defeating Pembroke Lumber Kings 4-1 in Pembroke.

STANDINGS UNCHANGED

The two OHA games left the standings unchanged. Windsor remains in a third-place tie with Hamilton Tigers, eight points behind first place. The Chatham victory left the Maroons in sixth.

Chatham took a 2-1 lead in the first period. Bill Lee scored in the final session to clinch it. Jim Campbell and Ernie Dick scored for the Maroons in the first period. Fred Hildebrand replied for Windsor.

Tommy Burlington, who seems to be a shoo-in for a new league scoring record, scored two goals and collected an assist for Owen Sound. The effort gave him 78 points—22 short of the league mark set up by Mickey Roth of Stratford Indians last year. Burlington has 19 games to better the record.

Roy Leckie was also a two-goal man for Owen Sound, Elmer Skov and Buck Forslund getting the others.

SLOW START

Sault Ste. Marie led 3-0 at the end of the first and made it 4-0 in the second. The Lumber Kings scored before the second period was over.

Eddie Mulligan led the winners with two goals. Ted Roney and Tom Smelle added the others. Jim Maxwell scored Pembroke's goal.

Remember When—

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hans Birkie defeated Jimmy Braddock in a 10-round heavyweight fight at New York 19 years ago tonight that attracted only 2,000 fans. Braddock came on to dethrone Max Baer as heavyweight champion in June, 1935, and lost the title to Joe Louis two years later.

West Indies Leads Cricket Test Match

KINGSTON, Jamaica (Reuters) The West Indies batted to a commanding position at the end of the fourth day of the first test cricket match with England. The West Indies led by 450 runs with four second innings wickets still to fall.

But astute defensive bowling and fielding early in the day kept alive England's chance of saving the game.

After a surprise decision by Jeff Stollmeyer not to enforce the follow-on, despite a first innings lead of 247 runs, the West Indies scored 203 for six when they batted a second time.

England's bowlers pinned down the batsmen until the tea break, when the home side was 121 for six. But then a hard-hitting unbroken seventh wicket stand of 84 between Everton Weeks and wicket keeper Clifford McWatt's 34 wrested the initiative from the attack.

England went all out soon after play resumed Tuesday for a total of 170 in response to the West Indies 417. The match ends Thursday.

Dempsey Urges Elimination Tournament

CHICAGO (AP)—Jack Dempsey has suggested an elimination tournament to uncover a "real" challenger to Rocky Marciano's world heavyweight boxing title.

The former champ said that another former champion, Ezzard Charles, while appearing a worthy contender, still should dispose of Nino Valdes for the right to fight Marciano.

Dempsey said the elimination should be conducted among Charles Valdes, Dan Bucceroni and Danny Nardico, as "In my mind the public probably would be confused by Charles fighting Marciano after he was whipped less than a year ago by Valdes."

HAD TO DO IT

"I know Tex Rickard made me go through an elimination before I got my title shot against Jess Willard."

In 1919 Dempsey made a mess of Willard to take the heavyweight title in three rounds.

"I'm not trying to knock anybody's bread and butter, but it seems to me that when a challenger fights for the world title he should be the best man around at that moment," Dempsey added.

Toronto Skaters Sure Of Win

Frances Dafoe and bespectacled Norris Bowden get that chance at the open-air Bislett stadium in Oslo when they go through a five-minute routine during the world championships Feb. 15-19.

And the hopes of Canada are riding on the pair who lost out in a close decision in the 1953 world championship at Davos, Switzerland.

Frances, 24-year-old 114-pound skater and Bowden, 27-year-old insurance agent, have taken everything in sight in Canada and the United States the last couple of years and they head for the Norwegian capital confident they can add the world title to their laurels.

"We think we will make it this time," Bowden said in an interview Tuesday at the wind-swept Riverdale Terrace rink in east-central Toronto. "I think we've improved over last year."

Oneschuk Delays Pro Debut Year

TORONTO (CP) — Steve Oneschuk, high-scoring fullback with University of Toronto in the Senior Intercollegiate Football Union, will delay his pro debut a year, he said Tuesday.

Oneschuk, draft choice of Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four Union, said he would play one more season with Varsity.

No Laughs Scheduled For Five Plays

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — British actor-producer Graham Suter arrived in Windsor late Tuesday, ready to pass judgment on the best five plays produced by the Western Ontario Drama League this season.

Mr. Suter is adjudicator for the regional festival which brings together the five winners of preliminary contests in western Ontario. The best play of the five will compete in the Dominion Drama Festival at Hamilton in May.

It is questionable whether audiences on the four nights starting Jan. 20, will get a single laugh. All the plays are serious productions.

Galt Little Theatre opens the festival Wednesday with the least known presentation, "Thunder Rock" by Robert Audrey. London Little Theatre presents "The Cocktail Party" by T. S. Eliot, Thursday. Friday, Welland Little Theatre plays "Come Back Little Sheba" by William Inge.

The Saturday matinee features the only group from a small town as the Grimsby Players Guild stages "I Have Been Here Before" by J. B. Priestley. The festival ends Saturday night with Daphne du Maurier's "Rebecca" by the Players' Guild of Hamilton.

Mr. Suter will give his adjudication following each play and will present the awards Sunday. The Dominion Drama Award, given for outstanding contribution to Canadian theatre, will be presented to a representative of the Stratford Shakespearian Festival. It is the first time a municipality has received the award.

Shelve Request Fluorine Raised

OTTAWA (CP)—Board of control has shelved a plea from the Ottawa Dental Society to increase the fluorine content of the city's water supply.

Dr. J. J. Day, the city's medical officer of health, told the board it had been established only about one-third the number of dental cases result in children who use fluorine-treated water from birth and that there are "no fluorides of any significance" in Ottawa water.

Mayor Charlotte Whitton urged a "wait-and-see" policy on the ground there were still some doubts about the long-range effects of fluoridation.

Fear Agent Faces Amputation Of Feet

SARNIA (CP)—Edgar Ducharme 28-year-old Montreal insurance agent found lying half frozen in a ditch Sunday, will probably have part of his feet amputated, doctors said Tuesday.

Ducharme was found semi-conscious, his feet frozen, beside a road. Police said he probably had been there since shortly after he fled custody of a Canadian National Railways policeman about 22 hours before.

Officers quoted CNR police as saying they tried to put Ducharme off a train at Sarnia when he failed to produce a ticket, and that he jumped from that train onto a nearby moving passenger train and disappeared.

Dr. Maurice Hill said Ducharme may have been suffering from a form of amnesia when he jumped.

Engagement Announced

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The engagement of Mary Elizabeth Labatt of London to David W. Morgan of Ottawa was announced Tuesday. Miss Labatt is the daughter of the late John S. Labatt, former head of the John Labatt Limited Brewery. Mr. Morgan is the son of Henry W. Morgan of Montreal, president of the Henry Morgan and Co. Ltd., department store. The marriage will take place here Feb. 6.

Shy About Her Age

VICTORIA (CP) — Mrs. Agnes Keith of Victoria, believed one of the oldest women in Canada, will celebrate her 104th birthday Friday. Typical of her sex, Mrs. Keith only admits to 99, but her 70-year-old son, Edmund Scott, gave the show away. He says he has a birth certificate that shows she was 34 when he was born.

Politician Dies

LITTLE CURRENT (CP) — Norman C. Hocken, 77, a lumberman in the Parry Sound and Manitoulin districts for more than 50 years, died Tuesday. A native of Bowmanville, Mr. Hocken was also a political figure until recent years. A Liberal, he was defeated in the Parry Sound riding in the 1919 federal elections.

Survivors include two sons, Ralph and Kenneth of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

Lake Captain Dies

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Capt. Ernest Wesley Baker, 66, of Port Dalhousie, a former captain on the Great Lakes for 25 years, died here Monday. Born in Batteau, Capt. Baker lived in Port Dalhousie for 30 years. His last ship was the Mantadoc.

Opposed To Foreign Ships Operating On Great Lakes

By W. R. WHEATLEY

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que. (CP)—Rear-Admiral Lyndon Spencer, president of the United States Lakes Carriers Association, said Tuesday his organization is opposed to the operation of foreign ships between Canadian and American ports on the Great Lakes.

At the same time, he said in an interview, he would like to see the Great Lakes area extended from its present limit—the Jacques Cartier bridge at Montreal—to Anticosti island — Canada's "home waters" in the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

"We have advanced the argument that foreign-ship trade be restricted," he said. "This would not apply to trips, for instance, between a German port and a Great Lakes port, or even between a Canadian eastern maritime port and, say, Cleveland or Milwaukee. But it would apply to trade between, all recognized Great Lakes area ports of both Canada and the United States."

A resolution has been introduced in the U.S. Senate urging President Eisenhower to take steps toward a treaty between the U.S. and Canada to limit foreign shipping in the Lakes area.

Meanwhile, the subject likely will come up for discussion at the current annual joint meeting of the U.S. Lake Carriers Association and the Dominion Marine Association. The U.S. representatives arrived Tuesday. The Dominion body's navigation committee met Monday and Tuesday dealing with aids to navigation.

Admiral Spencer said foreign ships for the Lakes trade could be built at about half the cost of what Canadian and American operators had to pay on this continent for similar vessels. Wages for crews on foreign ships also were about half.

Admiral Spencer said he hasn't detailed figures but it was estimated foreign ships made more than 200 trips on the Great Lakes last year. He also said the U.S. lakes fleet is in better condition now than for some time, with 23 new ships built in the last three years.

Union Jurisdiction Changed To Hamilton

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Jurisdiction over Niagara peninsula membership of local 938 of the general truck drivers union has been transferred to the Hamilton Local No. 879, effective Jan. 31.

Bargaining rights for the peninsula members, however, cannot be transferred to the Hamilton local until the end of the year.

In a letter to Ed Watling, district shop steward and union negotiator, William Mills of Toronto, president of Local 938, with which the Niagara truck drivers have been associated up to now, informed the men of the transfer and urged that they co-operate fully with the Hamilton local and its president, James Groat.

Lancaster Warns He's Quitting; He Might, Too

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Burt Lancaster, leading contender in this year's Oscar race, has made the startling statement that he may quit pictures in a couple of years.

Actors are always saying how they want to get away from it all, but Burt is such an independent and strong-willed cuss that he might do it.

"Acting in movies is a dreadful bore," he said. "Once in a while you come across a script that is exciting to do. But the rest of the time acting is incredibly dull. You do the work in bits and pieces, so that it's virtually impossible to build and sustain a performance. It takes a great deal of cerebration (thinking—Webster's) to deliver a job that is really outstanding.

"Besides, an actor has no real control over his work. He is at the mercy of mechanical factors. On the stage it's different. When you get out in front of the audience, you're on your own.

"My great ambition is to get into direction. It fascinates me. I love it. Perhaps in a couple of years I can start making the transition from actor to director. I'll do both until I find out if I'm going to be successful in directing. If I'm accepted, I'll give up acting."

"I'LL SQUAWK"

As a matter of fact, there are some directors who claim Burt has done directing already. He admits he has had beefs with them.

"I can't help it," he declared. "I'm the kind of a guy who won't do a thing just because I'm told to do it. I have to know why I am doing something, and if it doesn't seem right to me, I'll squawk my head off. Most directors resent this. I drive 'em crazy.

"Even on 'From Here to Eternity' they thought I was nuts. I'd get (studio boss Harry) Cohn, (producer Buddy) Adler and (director Fred) Zinneman together on a Sunday and discuss certain scenes."

Burt's passion for independence stems from his earlier days as a slum kid and later as a circus acrobat. More than once he has revolted under studio control. Now he is able to determine his own film destiny almost completely.

He and his long-time partner, Harold Hecht, have an impressive schedule of productions lined up for their own company. Although they have made five other pictures, this is the first time they have been entirely independent.

Brayley, born in Saint John, N.B., in 1913, worked as a reporter for the Saint John Telegraph-Journal and Times-Globe. He joined CP in London in 1937 and has also worked in the Montreal and Ottawa bureaux.

Bank Letter Combats Views Of Pessimism About U.S.

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

The monthly letter of the National City Bank of New York takes exception to the more pessimistic forecasts for the current year.

As recession talk seems to find more stimulus across the border than on the Canadian side, the letter's comments made interesting reading in Canada as well as the United States.

It comments particularly on the pessimistic views of Colin Clark, Australian economist, as published in the Manchester Guardian weekly concerning the possibilities of a U.S. slump. It says, for instance:

"In many other post-war years there have been foreseeable gaps in demand and fears of a spiralling decline. But the gaps have been filled and the threatened spiral has been averted or arrested. Post-war forecasting has, in fact, been an extraordinary chronicle of unwarranted pessimism.

"This does not mean that sheer optimism and complacence can make 1954 a year of further growth. On the contrary, it promises to be a year of adjustment, stiff competition, and moderate recession as compared with 1953.

SHOWS LITTLE FEAR

"It is plain, however, that the predominant sentiment of this country (the United States) has little fear of such grave developments as Mr. Clark expects, and sees little support for his argument."

Construction and investment in capital goods, says the letter, provide formidable support for the economy, and it is seldom that total business activity has dropped off sharply when these two important segments have remained steady.

"Adding the demands of federal, state and local governments, which in the aggregate will probably show only minor change from 1953 levels, a good foundation for another busy year seems to exist. . . .

"Mr. Clark's analysis seems to underrate the importance of the influences which sustain consumer buying power, including tax reduction, unemployment compensation, pension funds, government aids, farm-price supports, and especially savings. These influences were effective in preventing the inventory liquidation in 1949 from spiralling downward. . . ."

"Hot flashes" of Change of Life stopped or strikingly relieved in doctors' tests!

Those suffocating "heat waves" — alternating with nervous, clammy feelings and accompanied by irritability and nervousness—are well-known to women suffering functionally-caused distress of middle life "change"!

Penny A Day Would Bring Doctors Victory Over Cancer And Arthritis

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP)—The United States is spending only one-third of a cent per person a day on all medical research.

A penny a day would bring quicker victories over the big killers and wasters—such as heart disease, cancer, mental illness and arthritis.

Research has smashed back most of the once-terribly infectious diseases. The next and tougher campaign is mounting against the chronic or degenerative diseases.

These are highlights of a new study, "Medical Research May Save Your Life," by Gilbert Cant. It is published by the Public Affars pamphlets, New York.

BUDGET $200,000,000

The budget for all types of medical research—from all sources including government, national associations, foundations, industry, universities and private citizens—is about $200,000,000 a year now, Cant writes.

That's only one-third of one per cent of the defence budget. It is less than is spent on monuments and tombstones; 50 times less than is spent annually on alcoholic drinks.

Just before the Second World War, the sum was only $20,000,000.

Discovery of anti-TB drugs has helped slash TB deaths by more than half in seven years. Smallpox is all but banished; malaria now is little known in North America. Once dreaded pneumonia is controlled by wonder drugs. A vaccine against polio will get a huge trial starting next month.

CAMPAIGN NEEDS FUNDS

"Scientific man has fought his way to the crest of the ridge in his war on infectious diseases," Cant writes. "From now on, though there may be many minor setbacks and even a few major ones, this campaign should be downhill most of the way if increasing research funds are available. . . . It is a time to launch a new campaign against the disabling and crippling ailments."

More than half of the 160,000,000 Americans now living will die of heart and artery disease if present death rates continue, Cant writes.

Without new preventives or cures 22,000,000 now living will die of cancer. Each year, 750,000 Americans are treated at mental hospials.

It's estimated that 10,000,000 Americans are handicapped in some degree by arthritis and rheumatism.

L. W. Mackenzie Heads Chamber

OMEMEE—(ENS)—The annual meeting of the Omemee chamber of commerce was held in the council chamber on Monday evening. Reports were given by president L. W. Mackenzie and secretary treasurer A. W. Stephenson. The minstrel show sponsored by the chamber returned net proceeds of $364.16; signs were erected at each end of the village; a good start made to improvements at Riverside park with $236.50 being spent. Reeve Harry Deyell took the chair for the election of officers with results as follows: president, L. W. Mackenzie; first vice-president, Tony Stacey; 2nd vice-preident, Gordon Holland; secretary, Dick Vaughan; treasurer, A. W. Stephenson; board of directors, J. Roy Given, P. Edwards, Robert Wallace, Vic Henry, O. J. Linton, W. J. Reeds. It was decided to affiliate with Ontario Chamber of Commerce. The executive will meet on January 25.

Uranium Find Made On Quebec Island

QUEBEC (CP)—Raymond Johnston, Union Nationale member for Pontiac, said Tuesday in the Legislative Assembly "an excellent" uranium find has been made on an island in Grand Calumet township.

Mr. Johnston, speaking on a question of privilege, said tests of ores in a zone four miles long by several hundred feet wide have shown content as high as 4.13 per cent in uranium.

"This find seems to be the most important in the province of Quebec to date," Mr. Johnston said.

SERVE CANADA

Trained to strike hard at any threats to our freedom . . . soldiers like those of the airborne infantry are helping to guard Canada, ready to drop into action wherever danger threatens. The young man who joins the Army and has completed his Infantry training may then volunteer to start training for the proud wings of Canada's "Soldiers of the Sky."

AND YOURSELF

How does a man choose a job? He examines the pay; the working conditions; the opportunities for advancement; the financial security. From every one of these aspects an Army career is excellent. And more — no monotony of being stuck for years in one place; pension plans after 20 years service; medical and dental care whenever needed — without regard for cost or time. Opportunities for training and advancement in the Army today are truly outstanding. For the bright young man who is interested in his future — as well as Canada's — the Canadian Army Active Force has much to offer.

IN THE ARMY

Soldiering is a man's life! There are challenges and dangers. Overseas duty carries with it the excitement of new places and strange customs in distant lands. But wherever you go, in the Army, you know you can rely on your comrades, trained fighting men who share with you the action of military life. If you think an Army career is for you, enquire about the opportunities for service with the Infantry — the most important men in the Canadian Army.

You are eligible to join the Army if you are 17 to 40 years of age, (skilled tradesmen to 45) and able to meet Army test requirements. Applicants should bring birth certificates or other proof of age when reporting for interview.

Long, Difficult Operation Seen In Comet Recovery

PORTO AZZURRO, Italy (Reuters)—British naval salvage vessels today started sweeping the deep Mediterranean waters off this port on the Island of Elba in an effort to recover Britain's Comet jet airliner which crashed last week with the loss of 35 lives.

Alan Lennox-Boyd, British minister of transport and civil aviation, said here today it is likely to be a long, difficult and expensive undertaking.

"But that is entirely justifiable in view of the importance of the Comet and our national pride in it," he said.

TWO CRASHES DIFFER

Lennox-Boyd told reporters that, "in the hard world we live in," sabotage could be a reason for the crash, but there is "absolutely no reason to link" it with that of a Philippines airliner outside Rome four days later. Both planes had left Beirut, Lebanon, seven hours before crashing.

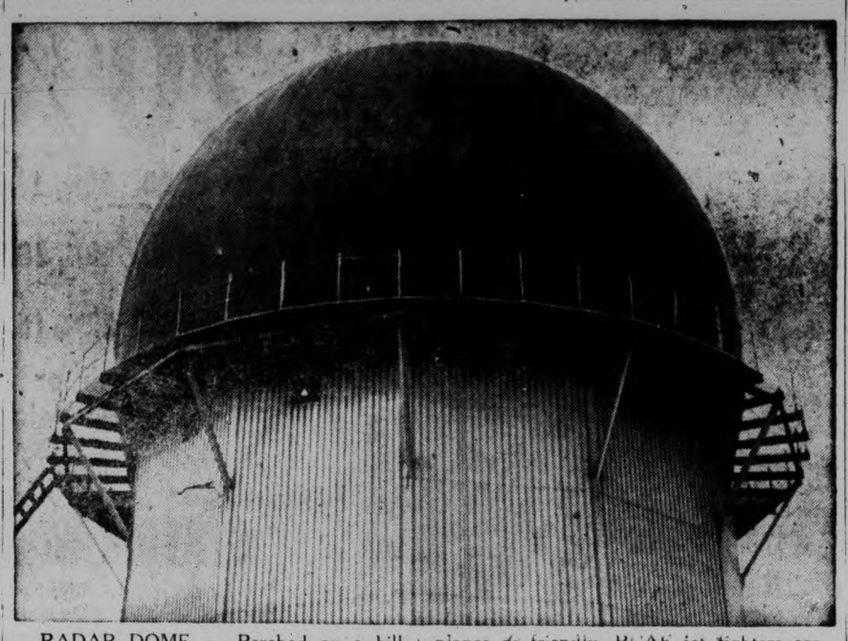
"There is no apparent similarity between the two accidents, since the Philippines plane did not explode until it hit the ground," Lennox-Boyd said.

Lennox-Boyd said he will go back to London to make a statement in Parliament Wednesday on the crash.

HULK IN DEEP WATER

Any wreckage recovered by the Royal Navy will be handed to the ministry of civil aviation for the court of inquiry to be held in Britain.

The anti-submarine frigate Wrangler will try to locate the Comet's hull with echo-sounding apparatus. Charts indicate that the hulk is lying in between 450 feet and 1,000 feet of water.



RADAR DOME — Perched on a hill somewhere in Canada's north country this massive dome contains a rotating radar-antenna which can detect aircraft over a wide area. If the station cannot identify the planes as friendly, RCAF jet fighters are sent up to intercept them. This and many other radar stations operating in the north are on guard 24 hours a day to protect Canada from a surprise attack.

Two Quebec MPs Accepted As Liberals

OTTAWA (CP) — Two Quebec Commons members elected in August as Independent Liberals have been accepted into the government caucus as straight Liberals.

They are Arthur Masse (Kamouraska) and Adrien Meunier (Montreal Papineau). Both now occupy seats in the government section of the Commons chamber.

The current House standing is:

Forces To Stay In South Korea

SEOUL, Korea (Reuters)—British Commonwealth forces will remain in Korea for some time to come, Maj. Gen. Horatius Murray ish Commonwealth forces will remain in Korea for some time to come, Maj. Gen. Horatius Murray said today.

Murray, who commands the Commonwealth division, declared there is no question at present of withdrawing any of his forces from Korea.

"It depends entirely on the political situation, but I think that for many years to come there will be some Commonwealth forces in Korea—if only two boys and a flag," he said.

The Korean war started, he said, because U. S. forces pulled out too soon after the occupation and the Allies are not likely to make the same mistake again.

The general said the chances of renewed hostilities in Korea are "small."

Town Council Sets Up Rent Control Board

PARIS, Ont. (CP)—Town council Tuesday night decided to set up a rent control authority to take over when the Ontario government vacates the rent control field in March.

Reeve William Foote said he talked to several large property owners in town and they raised no objections.

Councillor Albert Scott said if the rental authority prevented one family from paying an unfair rental it had accomplished its purpose.

New Design For Canadian Flag Receiving Favorable Comment

By DAVE MINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—When the House of Commons again tackles the question of a distinctive national flag, members will have in mind a new design—Canada's coat-of-arms, including the crown, Union Jack and Fleur-de-Lis, on a red-and-white background.

Early in December, the Commons in effect killed a resolution introduced by Bona Arsenault, Liberal member for Bonaventure, that a Senate and Commons committee study and recommend a design for a Canadian flag.

Mr. Arsenault, after this temporary setback, introduced a bill which would instruct the state secretary to prepare a suitable design. It would be submitted to Parliament within 30 days of the opening of the next session—late in 1954—for approval. This bill was given first reading.

EXPECTED PROCEDURE

The procedure in the House now would be to revive debate on either a resolution calling for committee study of a flag design or the bill which would have the government suggest a design.

It is expected that the matter would be sent to a joint Commons-Senate committee, which would study the single proposed design. The committee would have to work only a few details and could report back to the House quickly.

During the debate on the resolution Dec. 9, Mr. Arsenault said he does not wish to see the Union Jack or red ensign jettisoned as Canada's national emblem. The Union Jack would be flown beside the Canadian flag as a symbol of Canada's devotion to the crown and partnership in the Commonwealth.

He said a national flag should not be an English-Canadian flag, a French-Canadian flag or an English and French colonial flag, but "an all-Canadian national flag."

Mr. Arsenault sugested that the maple leaf take the "place of honor." CCF leader Coldwell urged that the design be simply a maple leaf in autumn colors on an appropriate background.

DIFFERENT DESIGN

The newest design differs considerably from Mr. Arsenault's suggestion. But its proponents say the coat-of-arms is acceptable in Quebec and the flag also should find favor in English-speaking Canada because it contains the Union Jack. The white background would represent French-speaking Canada, the red background English-speaking Canada.

Opposition Leader Drew and Rev. E. G. Hansell (SC—Macleod) favored a new flag but opposed establishment of a committee to study a design. The government should propose a design and then seek Parliament's approval.

At the instigation of the late prime minister Mackenzie King, a Commons-Senate committee was set up in 1946 to recommend a design for a Canadian flag.

This committee studied 2,695 designs and received 42,168 letters, resolutions and other communications from interested Canadian groups and individuals.

The committee recommended to Parliament in July, 1946, that the Canadian flag be the red ensign, with a maple leaf in a bordered background of white replacing the coat-of-arms in the fly and a smaller Union Jack in the upper lefthand corner. However, this design was never submitted to Parliament and no other action was taken.

The design adopted by the committee, by Ronald Baird of Truro, N.S., won out over 11 others in the final whittling process.

OTHER SUGGESTIONS

The other 11:

1. A flag comprising red and white triangles bearing a green maple leaf in the centre of the diagonal line separating the two colors; designed by La Ligue du Drapeau National of Quebec.

2. A white ensign with a red maple leaf in a red circle in the fly bearing four diagonal blue stripes; designed by J. W. Leroy Holman of Summerside, P.E.I.

3. A white ensign with a green maple leaf in the fly; judged the best in a Montreal La Presse competition.

5. A flag comprising triangular areas of red, white and blue with a green maple leaf in the broad white of the fly; designed by P. A. Roy of Quebec.

6. A red flag centred with a green maple leaf outlined in white; designed by Isabelle Grace, who did not give her address.

7. A blue ensign bearing a green maple leaf in a white oval in the fly; submitted in a Montreal a Presse competition.

8. A Union Jack outlined with a narrow white border; submitted by an unidentified author.

9. A white ensign bearing a gold Fleur-de-Lis superimposed on a red maple leaf in the fly; designed by Mrs. M. M. Forbes of Westmount, Que.

11. A tri-color of broad bands of blue, gold and green; designed by Charles Robitaille of Trois-Rivieres Que.

STUDY FLAG—The House of Commons is expected to take up for the second time this session the question of a distinctive national flag for Canada. Members are known to be studying a new design. Seven years ago a committee was established to study the question but no action was taken on its recommendations. This picture shows two members of that committee looking over some of the 2,695 designs submitted to it.

Want Grading Reintroduced For Resorts

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario tourist resort operators said Tuesday the provincial government should be asked to reintroduce a system of grading for resorts.

Delegates to the convention of the Association of Tourist Resorts of Ontario expressed agreement with their president, B. G. Rumble, who said there should be a grading system.

The matter was turned over to the association's resolutions committee.

The government last year discontinued a "star" system of grading accommodation. It said it felt it might be sued under the approval system which was in operation nine months and then withdrawn.

Delegates said both the federal and the provincial governments are spending a great deal of money to induce people to visit Canada, but are doing little to see that suitable accommodation is made available for them.

Ask Veterans Protest Release Of Meyer

STRATFORD (CP)—The 36,000 members of the Canadian National Railways War Veterans' Association will be asked to protest the release of German war criminal Kurt Meyer, Alexander McInnis, the association's Dominion president, said Tuesday.

The move follows a decision made Monday by the Stratford branch to send a letter of protest to Defence Minister Claxton.

The defence minister announced recently that the sentence of the former Nazi major-general has been reduced from life to 14 years and that he will probably be released in a few months.

Commons Pays Coyle Tribute

OTTAWA (CP) — All parties in the Commons joined in paying tribute to Charles D. Coyle, Progressive Conservative member for Elgin since 1945, who died suddenly Tuesday at Straffordville.

Prime Minister St. Laurent said Mr. Coyle gave outstanding service to his community.

"He always worked hard and conscientiously to serve the best interests of his constituency and his country."

Opposition Leader Drew said Mr. Coyle will be missed in the Commons.

"With his loveable and friendly qualities he made a wide circle of friends that embraced every member of this House," Mr. Drew said.

Newspaper Executive John F. MacKay Dies

Born in Toronto, he started in the newspaper business as a printer in Woodstock and rose to be publisher of the Woodstock Sentinel-Review. At 32, he went to the Toronto Globe as business manager.

He left the Globe to open a Toronto office as a financial agent specializing in amalgamating newspaper companies. He helped bring about the union of the Presbyterian and Methodist churches in 1925 to form the United Church of Canada.

He organized and financed Ontario Tobacco Plantations Limited, first tobacco plantation in Norfolk county, in 1926.

Unemployment Worrying CCL

TORONTO (CP) — The national political action committee of the Canadian Congress of Labor said Tuesday night unemployment in Canada is rapidly approaching a critical stage.

The committee issued a statement at the end of a two-day conference attended by representatives from all provinces. It said delegates expressed concern at the number of persons out of work, which it said far exceeds the seasonal number.

"Our committee is urging the CCL to take immediate action to protect the interests of the unemployed," said Henry Weisbach of Toronto, executive secretary of the CCL political action department.

"It is obvious that with almost 300,000 unplaced applicants on record in government employment offices we are face-to-face with the most serious unemployment condition the country has experienced since before the war. The present scale of unemployment benefits and welfare payments are quite inadequate to meet these conditions. There has been a complete lack of adequate planning on the part of the government."

Drew Sees Bright Future For Youth In Northland

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Drew sees Canada's frozen northland as holding a bright future for youth and enterprise.

"In many ways the north beckons to the young and the vigorous, to people of all ages, who look for the rewards that come with adventure and with new developments. . . .

"I would hope that in every way possible we would direct our attention to that distant area so as to encourage young Canadians and others who have not yet come to Canada to seek opportunity there."

Mining discoveries in the Northwest Territories especially uranium for atomic energy, had focused attention on the north. The government should encourage settlement of the north in every way possible.

BILL APPROVED

Mr. Drew spoke during debate on a bill which will add one more elected representative to the Northwest Territories Council. The council now has three elected representatives, five government-appointed members and a chairman, R. Gordon Robertson, deputy minister of northern affairs.

The bill was approved and needs only formal third reading before it is sent to the Senate.

Northern Affairs Minister Lesage said the government has accepted a suggestion by Mr. Drew that elected representatives on the council be increased to five.

This increase could not be made, however, until population growth warranted it.

STUDY CRIMINAL CODE

The Commons Tuesday also launched clause-by-clause study of the 300-page revision of the Criminal Code, first thorough overhaul since 1892.

To facilitate handling of its 753 sections, all parties agreed to postpone debate on contentious issues until after all other sections are approved.

Thus 22 of the 101 sections covered Tuesday were held over, including clauses dealing with the Riot Act, treason, sabotage and sedition.

The section dealing with insanity as a legal defence against criminal charges—to be the subject of a royal commission study—was also skipped.

Justice Minister Garson said he hopes the commission, expected to have seven members, will be established soon.

Three other issues under the Criminal Code—the death penalty, whipping and lotteries—will be studied by a special Senate-Commons committee, expected to start work soon. The Commons has approved a resolution under which 17 Commons members will be named to the committee. The number of Senators has not been decided.

Dairy Farmers Meet In Hamilton

HAMILTON (CP) — More than 300 representatives of Canada's dairy farmers gathered Tuesday for the annual meeting of the Dairy Farmers of Canada which gets under way in earnest today.

It was a light session Tuesday, with little more than directors' and policy committee meetings to map the plans for general sessions later in the week.

But behind closed doors, leaders of the dairy industry discussed the points that will come out at the open sessions where representatives of more than 450,000 Canadian dairy farmers will try to solve problems that spring from increased production and little expansion in markets.

There was no indication as to what steps might be planned by the country-wide organization to keep the dairy farmer's income at a satisfactory level when surpluses seem almost inevitable. But, at the same time, there were hints that a lot of attention would be paid to the domestic market for dairy products.

Quebec Passes Bill To Curb Abusive Religious Literature

QUEBEC (CP)—The Legislative Assembly Tuesday unanimously approved a government bill to curb distribution of literature "abusive and insulting" to any religious group. The final vote was 81 to 0.

Premier Duplessis said the bill was aimed at Jehovah's Witnesses and all others who might behave as they do.

"This measure is not against what Jehovah's Witnesses believe but against what they do," Mr. Duplessis said.

The bill is the latest move in a series of incidents between Quebec authorities and Jehovah's Witnesses climaxed last year by a ruling of the Supreme Court of Canada that municipal by-laws regulating distribution of literature could not apply to religious groups.

The bill defines as licentious pamphlets or utterances of "abusive or insulting" nature.

It makes such actions punishable by fines up to $1,000 or six months in jail.

Reproduction of such abusive or insulting remarks or their redistribution by television, radio or the press is also banned.

The bill also provides that the Quebec attorney-general or any municipal corporation may petition for an injunction against any individual or group which has either violated the law or plans to do so.

RADIO PROGRAM

The radio program "Let's Play Duets" sponsored by The Examiner and presented by Gwen Craw and Christopher Gledhill will be heard this evening at eight o'clock over CHEX. To-night's program is the second in the series of eight programs.

CHRISTMAS CHEER

Approximately 125 gifts provided Christmas cheer to some 60 children as a result of the Christmas tree project in the Bank of Commerce this year. The gifts were distributed through the Children's Aid Society.

CHILDREN PLACED

The law of diminishing returns results in success for one organization in Peterborough. The Children's Aid Society reports 13 children returned to homes during December. Adoption accounted for seven of these children while six were returned to their parents.

COUNTY DELEGATES

Three delegations from Peterborough county groups subsidized by the county appeared this morning before council to review 1953 activities. Representing the organizations were Miss Rachael Young, superintendent of the Children's Aid Society; Henry Sharp, president of the federation of agriculture and Walter Simmons, field secretary for the Peterborough advisory board, Canadian National Institute of the Blind.

28 Curling Rinks Start Play In 3-Day 'Spiel

Twenty-eight rinks from curling clubs between Toronto and Ottawa started a three-day bonspiel at the Peterborough Curling Club for the Canada Packers' $300 trophy.

The second day of the 'spiel, the season's largest, both in competition and prizes, amounting to $1,800, will be played again Saturday when another 28 rinks will compete. The finals will be played Sunday.

Peterborough rinks dominated the play and the victories in the early draw today. Dr. C. Lawrence's rink decisively defeated Lindsay's Bert Everson's quartet 12-5 for the largest score posted.

At the same time Garth Braund's rink took Fred Stenson's rink 11-7, Dr. Ralph Clark routed Percy Skitch's Lindsay four 10-4 and A. Ingram's rink handed L. Eveniss' Oshawa quartet a 10-7 defeat.

TWO LASSES

Peterborough rinks fell in two games. L. Mackey from Lindsay eked out an 8-6 victory over Fred Hollowell's rink while W. Mark of Bobcaygeon turned back the efforts of G. Green's Peterborough rink 11-8.

Play will continue throughout the day and will probably finish about 11:30 p.m. Basing their decisions on wins and points, the four top teams will then be decided. Those rinks will return for the finals on Sunday.

Saturday play will see rinks from far-off centres such as Ottawa, Toronto, Burlington and Kingston competing. Today the rinks were mostly from the Peterborough district such as Cobourg, Lindsay and Oakwood.

Again on Saturday the four top teams will be decided on the basis of wins and points and those rinks will enter the finals on Sunday. The eight top rinks then will play off in knock-out play for the Canada Packers' trophy and the second event trophy, The Seagram trophy.

Considered one of the best bonspiel's in Ontario from the point of competition, the bonspiel is also known for its abundance and richness in prizes. For instance the daily prizes are hampers of food and meat, donated by the Canada Packers. The final prizes for the winners are gold wrist watches while other prizes are wool blankets, insulated ice buckets, thermos jugs, travelling bags, shirts and sweaters.

Am I, or am I not?

Ald. Harold Rehill and members of the recreation commission were enveloped in a bit of a dither, Tuesday night, resulting from fogginess concerning the how and wherefore of aldermanic appointments to the commission. When appointed by council in 1951, Ald. Rehill understood the term to be of three years' duration and had willingly obliged. The problem arose when he learned of his appointment to various recreational sub-committees for 1954. He had previously requested, due to other demands on his time, that he be excused, by the commission, from further duties. Upon investigating the constitution of the commission it was learned that aldermanic appointments were of one year duration only. Committee members declared their wish that he remain if possible. Said Ald. Rehill, "It looks as though I've been unofficially here for two years already."

Rent Controls In Force In 23 Cities

In the first step in Mayor Norman Graham's announced intention to sound out city council's opinion on whether or not they wish to assume rent controls when the province abandons the field in March, information has been obtained at city hall on the extent of existing controls.

The secretary of the legislature's select committee investigating leaseholds and rentals has advised the city clerk that to date 720 municipalities have been exempted from rent controls, while 205 still come under rent control regulations.

When the province assumed rent control in 1951, the controls were in effect in all municipalities. Since March 2, 1953, a number of municipalities have been exempted.

STILL IN FORCE

Cities in which rent controls are still in force include Peterborough, Brantford, Ottawa, Windsor, Kingston, Owen Sound, Belleville, Sarnia, St. Catharines, Oshawa, Woodstock, Stratford, Cornwall, Galt, Niagara Falls, Welland, Guelph, Hamilton, Toronto, Sault Ste. Marie, Sudbury, Fort William and Port Arthur.

The cities of London, St. Thomas, Chatham, Kitchener, Waterloo and North Bay have been decontrolled.

REMAIN CONTROLLED

In the Peterborough area, the towns of Lindsay, Bowmanville, Trenton and Cobourg remain controlled, while Port Hope, Campbellford and Deseronto have been decontrolled.

The villages of Newcastle, Havelock and Norwood remain controlled, while the following villages have been decontrolled: Bancroft, Deloro, Frankford, Madoc, Marmora, Stirling, Tweed, Brighton, Colborne, Hastings, Millbrook, Bobcaygeon, Fenelon Falls, Omemee, Sturgeon Point and Woodville.

All the townships in Northumberland and Durham counties have been decontrolled as have those in Hastings county. All the townships in Peterborough county have been decontrolled except Galway and Cavendish, while only Mariposa and Ops townships in Victoria county remain controlled.

City council have passed the information on to the board of works.

Knife Slips Cuts Boy's Eye

WARKWORTH (ENS)—Trying to cut a piece of rope, Michael Graham, 9, pierced his eye with a jacknife. In spite of an operation in Belleville Tuesday night, will probably never see properly with it again.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. James Graham, RR 2, Warkworth Michael was playing with brother Ian Monday. His knife slipped and jabbed into his eyeball.

Dr. R. S. Jolliffe of Warkworth was away in Campbellford when the family tried to reach him. But he gave instructions to the parents over the phone to treat it. Tuesday morning, the parents took him into Dr. Jolliffe and then to an eye specialist, Dr. James H. Forrester, in Belleville Tuesday night.

Seven stitches were put in the eye. Doctors are doubtful that the boy will ever be able to see with the eye, but if he does, his vision will almost certainly be cloudy.

New Guerrilla Strikes Begin In London

LONDON (Reuters) — A new series of "guerrilla" strikes on key sites by the Communist-led Electrical Trades Union began today as a reprisal for Tuesday's lockout of members who took part in a 24-hour token strike.

The union announced a "fight to the finish" when the employers locked out thousands of workers who joined the token stoppage Monday. The union plans to call out more than 1,800 electricians on priority construction sites throughout Britain by the end of the week.

A week's stoppage of all London members has been called to start Monday. Strikes have also been ordered by the Electrical Trades Union in Northern Ireland. Among places affected are two Royal Air Force stations and Belfast airport.

City Sells Debentures At Premium

Best Price Paid In Recent Years By Bond Buyers

Debentures totalling $634,647.91 have been sold by the city at one of the best prices obtained in recent years. The issue included 20-, 10- and five-year issues at 4½ per cent interest on the long term and 4¼ on the shorter terms.

The combined offer by Wood, Gundy & Co. Ltd, Gairdner & Co. Ltd., and the Royal Bank of Canada of 101.54 cents on the dollar, which was accepted by city council, was the highest of nine tenders made by various financial institutions. Although a few small debentures issued in recent years have been sold below par, none of the tenders on this issue were less than 100 cents on the dollar, the lowest being 100.17.

All tenders included a 60-day restriction clause, binding the city to not issuing further debentures within 60 days of the present sale.

City officials expressed considerable satisfaction at the success of the sale, a success which was attributed both to timing and to the fact that interest rates have shown increasing firmness in the past few months.

GOOD TIMING

As to timing, it was pointed out that the city for the past few years has customarily held off the sale of large debenture issues until January, when financial houses generally have more money on hand for the purchase of securities. Like other business institutions, lending institutions like to clear their inventories at the end of the year and consequently have more cash available for purchasing in the new year when they start bidding on securities.

Secondly, the interest rates on government bonds have had a tendency to increase in the past few months. For one thing, the federal government has made a practice of retiring the national debt from budget surpluses so that there has not been an issue of federal government bonds for some time now. This has increased the demand for provincial and municipal loans.

Other factors have had their effect as well. But the general picture is that the demand for this type of security is greater now than it has been for some time.

The city's current issue includes the following debentures: Peterborough Utilities Commission, waterworks, $100,000 for 20 years at 4½ per cent; Peterborough Utilities Commission, electric, $200,000 for 20 years at 4½ per cent; Board of Education, public school $200,000 for 20 years at 4½ per cent; suburban area road (Buckhorn road) $14,000 for five years at 4¼ per cent; sewers $89,866.34 for 15 years at 4¼ per cent; crushed gravel pavements, $30,781.57 for five years at 4¼ per cent.

Grant From City Ensures Nurses' Registry

Members of the Community Nursing Registry Tuesday night recorded their appreciation of the city council's recommended grant of $1,000, and acknowledged the help received from the two hospitals. Mrs. Eva Breckenridge was chairman.

The grant from the city ensures the continuance of this public service, Ford Warren said, and was timely and sustaining. The registry keeps a record of every available nurse, enables people to obtain nursing assistance quickly, and in the event of accidents calls the help of doctors, and in emergency can give some first aid, even advising over the telephone what to do. The registry group are grateful to all those who have helped them.

Roads Very Icy Early In Day

Roads were "very icy" in the Peterborough and Ottawa areas this morning until after 9 o'clock, according to the traffic condition report received at the office of Colonial Coach, King St.

Travel between Peterborough and Lindsay and also to Lakefield had to contend with slippery surfaces, until sanding machines went through and the light frost lifted.

"Weather mild and roads good" was the Montreal report at 8.30 a.m., freezing rain, slippery around Ottawa.

Port Hope at 8.45 a.m., light rain; temperature, 35; pavements wet.

Toronto at 9.15, "drizzle, mild, wet."

"Traffic conditions were terrible for a while this morning," it was reported at Colonial office, "but the thin layer of ice broke up fast around nine o'clock."

Highway buses managed to keep close to their schedules in this district. The bus from Toronto and Port Perry was a little late.

Marathon Property Case Hears Millionth Word

The millionth word in the Klondike Gold Brown arbitration case was spoken Tuesday, and before the day was over, the total was 1,045,000. That's the estimated wordage since the property case went to arbitration January 7, according to court reporter Doug Vaisey.

Originally the city started expropriation proceedings to take over 20.04 acres of the Brown farm; a narrow strip of land 2,772 feet long on the west side of Highway 28, just inside the northern limits.

The department of highways, however, expropriated 2.341 acres of this area in order to straighten the highway.

In the face of other witnesses' testimony about the land's worth earlier this week, Fred Nelson, superintendent of the R. A. Blythe construction company, estimated value of the land from the standpoint of timber and gravel worth, at $6,000.

Other estimates ranged from $8,091.55 to $27,000. These figures were set with the idea of developing the land for housing purposes.

The case was adjourned Tuesday after City Clerk E. A. Outram identified the property.

No definite date has been set for conclusion of the hearing however, but it is believed to be resuming next week. Replies are still scheduled for the plaintiff represented by T. J. Carley, QC.

A. L. Elliott, QC, is acting for the city and W. B. Gordon, for Mr. Brown's children.

Mel Leal President South End Ratepayers

South End Ratepayers Association completed their organization Tuesday night at Confederation School, adopting their constitution and bylaws and electing officers.

Mel Leal was elected president; Len Thibadeau, vice president; W. I. Martin, recording secretary; R. Halladay, corresponding secretary; J. Taylor, treasurer. The appointment of standing committees was tentatively settled. The next meeting will be in February.

Langan Heads Recreation Body

The 1954 recreation commission's executive and committee chairmen and members were selected and approved at Tuesday night's meeting. Wilfred Langan was returned to the chair; vice-chairman is G. B. Goulding; treasurer, C. I. Archibald; and secretary, George Murray.

Bert Mortlock is chairman of the property committee, with members Mrs. Charles Pilon and Ald. Harold Rehill; Joseph Barnard, chairman of playgrounds, with members, Ald. R. E. Knox and Mr. Goulding; W. Bennett, chairman of sports, with Mr. Murray; Mrs. Pilon, chairman of arts and craft, with Mr. Barnard and Mr. Bennett; Mr. Murray, chairman of music and drama, with Mrs. Pilon and Mrs. Archibald, chairman of nursery schools, with Mrs. Pilon.

Dividend Paid By Credit Union

A dividend of 4 per cent was paid last year to the 399 shareholding members of Peterborough Ecomonic Educational Credit Union Ltd., as reported at their annual meeting Tuesday night.

The financial review for 1953 also showed a rebate of 21% on loan interest. The chairman of the meeting was Don Reid. In membership and financial conditions, it was said that the Union made further progress last year. There are now six independent credit unions in Peterborough.

Thomas Craig was appointed to the supervising committee and Fred Simmons to the credit committee. Three directors were elected.

Drunk Or Not, Accused Unable To Decide What To Plead, Dazed Court Settles Issue

A man who could not make up his mind provided a poser for Magistrate W. R. Philp, QC, in court today. He was a 45-year-old Lakefield man, Webster Hooper, and he alternately pleaded guilty, and not guilty until the crowded court began to titter in amusement.

Hooper was charged with a first offence intoxication and the magistrate asked him how he wished to plead.

"I'm not guilty, but I'll pay," said Hooper.

Magistrate Philp: "What do you mean you're not guilty, but you'll pay?"

Hooper: "I haven't had a drink or a smoke in 15 years. The officers downstairs will tell you that."

Magistrate: "You would be foolish to plead guilty if you think you are innocent."

Hooper: "I'll plead not guilty then."

Magistrate: "Well, are you ready to proceed with the case?"

Hooper: "I'm pleading guilty."

Magistrate, looking slightly bewildered by it all said, "$10 and costs $2.50. Next case please."

Shovel Operator Receives Burns At City's Dump

J. Claire Sullivan of 644 Brown Ave., suffered serious burns to the hands on Tuesday afternoon as a blazing, acrid fire swept through the city dump south of Lansdowne St. in North Monaghan township. Mr. Sullivan, a bull-claw shovel operator, was burned putting out the fire as it spread to his machine.

Cause of the fire, said sanitation superintendent Elmo Pierce, was some carelessly dumped inflammable material, likely hot ashes. He said that truck drivers for local firms make a habit of dumping refuse in the dump, and it's not always possible to tell if the material is inflammable.

The fire, which began as a smolder, quickly spread over the dump and scattered sparks into Mr. Sullivan's machine. The oil tank and battery caught fire, and the hydraulic lines were damaged. The machine, however, is believed to be repairable.

Fire-fighting was difficult, said Mr. Pierce, because the earth in the dump is frozen almost solid. Usually, when scattered blazes erupt, workmen pour earthfill over the fire, and it is quickly extinguished. Tuesday's fire was the first at the dump since last April.

The Peterborough Fire Department responded to the call. Five men under Chief William Sorrie succeeded in bringing the blaze under control, although it was still burning late Tuesday afternoon.

The fire department "automatically" responds to calls outside the city, if the affected area is city property, a member of the department told the Examiner. Such areas are assumed, for fire-fighting purposes, to be within the city limits.

"A little more co-operation" on the part of "careless" local truckers and a "thoughtless" public would make the lot of the sanitation department much easier, Mr. Pierce declared. He said that garbagemen and other dump employees must be constantly on the alert for slow-burning material, lighted cigarettes in garbage and hot ashes. He lauded the vigilance of his men in keeping dump fires down to a minimum.

Hit-Run Driver Rams Parked Car

Cecil Miles of RR 2, Omemee, was stopped for a red light at Charlotte and George streets Tuesday when his car was rammed from behind by another motorist, who did not stop to ask or answer any questions.

Miles had the presence of mind to take the number of the fleeing car, and this he gave to city police, along with a report of the accident.

The Miles car suffered damage to the rear and left side. It is not known what damage was done to the car driven by the hit-and-run driver. Police are investigating.

At Albert and Park streets a minor collision occurred between cars driven by George S. Temple, 238 Simcoe St., and Douglas Smelt of Bethany.

A car driven by Mrs. D. Chenoweth, 500 Homewood Ave., was involved in a collision with a car driven by David F. Tully, 179 Antrim St. The accident, which involved only minor damage, occurred at Weller and Albertus streets.

No injuries were reported in any of the accidents.

Frame Bungalow Destroyed By Fire

SUDBURY (CP)—The four-room frame bungalow home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Leduc was destroyed by fire Tuesday night just two days after it was completed.

The couple and their 11 month-old child were waiting for the paint to dry before moving into the cottage at Val Caron, seven miles north of here.

Residents of the crossroads community plan to aid their neighbor who estimates the loss at $6,000.

Youth Wakens Feeling Sick Saves Family From Serious Gassing

Mother, Two Sons Faint from Coal Gas After Rousing From Sleep Firemen Supply Oxygen; Father Unaffected

An uneasy stomach of a 16-year-old Peterborough boy possibly saved his life and those of his younger brother, father and mother early today when coal gas filled their Wolfe St. home. The youth, feeling sick to his stomach, awakened in time to discover the gas and arouse the family before all were too far gone. As it was, three were overcome for several minutes.

David Andrus, 576 Wolfe St., wakened at 7 a.m. feeling sick and started for the bathroom. By his parents' bedroom he said, "I've got a headache," and suddenly pitched forward on the floor.

Within minutes his mother, Mrs. Evelyn Andrus and his 13-year-old brother, Neil, passed out in the gas-filled bungalow. Only his father, Cleveland Andrus, wasn't overcome.

Although all three were out for only short periods, possibly several minutes each, the fire department was called to give them oxygen. After a half hour the three were suffering only dull headaches.

City police and firemen checked the Andrus home for the gas leak but were unable to find the opening. Finally they believed the leak may have been in the chimney which was repaired only last fall.

"I knew there was gas in the house in the middle of the night," said David, who sleeps upstairs, "and I got up to open my window."

After putting up the window "only a bit," the youth went back to bed never questioning the source of the gas.

"This morning my stomach felt sick and I had a headache," he recalled. "I went downstairs to the bathroom, knocking first on Mom's door. Then I fell, I guess."

David was carried into his parents' bedroom and his mother went to the kitchen to start preparing breakfast after the boy became conscious.

"I was on the bed a few minutes when I heard a thud, mother falling in the kitchen. I ran out and mother was on the floor. I got her a glass of water but she couldn't take it."

"I heard all the noise downstairs and went down," recalled the Prince of Wales school student. "Dad told me to get a glass of water for Mom. But I got dizzy and thought I would lay down."

Leaving the kitchen young Neil started for the living room "when I just got into the hallway and fainted." His dad, with one son already in bed and his wife still dizzy in the kitchen, carried his young son to the chesterfield.

"Dad didn't want to call the fire department and bring them down for nothing," said David. "I finally persuaded him there was [illegible] in the house and for him to call them."

Mrs. Andrus recalled that she got up to get breakfast after David fainted, and went into the kitchen, fainting there herself.

"I couldn't get you to take any water for a while," her husband told her, "I guess you were under for a couple of minutes."

Mr. Andrus, the only one not to faint, said except for his stomach which turned "bottom side out, I'll be all right."

"I've run fires all my life and that's (meaning coal gas) something I'm very careful of. The fire was really blazing before I checked it last night," he recalled.

An hour after David awakened, the Andrus family, still suffering uneasy stomachs and dull headaches, went to the home of a neighbor, Mrs. Mel Shadgett, for a cup of tea.

Expect To Spend $19,682 More In City Schools

The board of education's property committee estimates are tentatively set at $14,650 more than was spent last year on public schools in the city and $5,032 more than was spent on the two secondary schools.

Biggest jump is in public schools where $134,798.09 was spent in 1953 and it is estimated that $149,448 will be spent in 1954. The difference of $14,650 is mainly caused by the expansion in the school system. Armour Heights and Cameron St. schools will be running full-time this year; and by September another 12 classrooms will be in operation after the extensions to Grove and Queen Elizabeth schools.

On collegiate academic there is an estimate of $48,479 compared with an expenditure of $42,010.15 last year. Offsetting, partially at least, this higher cost is the reduction on collegiate vocational—from $35,804.94 in 1953 to $34,369 in 1954.

PCVS PROJECTS

Projects being considered at PCVS include a rebuilt boys' washroom and shower-room, and an improvement in ventilation—particularly in the auditorium.

Says Railroading Not Declining

N. R. Crump told the Rotary Club Tuesday that a capital investment of $4,000,000,000 and an annual wage bill of $650,000,000 puts Canada's railways in the forefront of the country's economy.

Railroads had been primarily responsible for the country's development.

Mr. Crump said 50 cents of every railway dollar went for labor, 29 cents for materials and supplies.

To show what he said is the squeeze between what the railroads pay for and what they charge, he quoted 64 per cent over 1935-39 as the effective rate increase while labor costs rose 132 per cent and wholesale prices 126.

Court Rules Boy Stay In U.K.

LONDON (Reuters) — Harry Hillers, Brooklyn house painter, today won a court battle to block his six-year-old son from returning to Germany, at least for the present, in custody of his German mother.

The boy was made a ward-in-chancery—meaning he cannot leave Britain without the consent of the high court.

A court at Stuttgart, Germany, blonde 27-year-old Mrs. Hiller's home town, had awarded custody of the boy to her, but her 36-year-old husband took him to London earlier this week in an effort to get Jimmy to the United States.

New Incidents On Israeli Border

TEL AVIV (Reuters) — Israel today reported two fresh incidents on the Israeli-Jordan border—the firing on two Israeli trains and the kidnapping of three Arab shepherds who lived in Israel.

An Israeli army spokesman said shots from Jordan territory Tuesday hit a dining car of a passenger train as it passed near Jordan lines. He said a freight train also came under fire where the tracks run close to the border.

No casualties were reported in either case.

The spokesman said the three Arab shepherds were abducted by armed Jordanians from across the border and their 23-camel herd was stolen near Kartin on the northeastern border of the Negev desert Sunday.

Israel protested to the United Nations armistice commission.

Horse Travels 11,433 Miles, Pensioned Off

KITCHENER (CP) — After 20 months and 11,433 miles of travelling, Rocky is going to be pensioned off.

Rocky is the horse that carried Bill Martsch, wandering cowboy from nearby Dorking, on the jaunt to Halifax, then across the continent to Vancouver and back again to Dorking.

Bill said Tuesday he's going to put Rocky out to pasture. Rocky will be "living in clover" from here on.

As for Bill, he figures he might write a book or two.

BEARD EARNS HIM $100

He has no trip to the barber scheduled, but says he "might get around to it." The beard and long hair made him $100 on a wager. The bet was made with a salesman he encountered near Peterborough. He met the salesman again out west and collected.

Bill, who started the trip when his doctor told him to quit working for two years, escaped without even a cold, despite temperatures from 104 in the shade to 32 below.

"I picked him for his feet," he said. "I'd trust him to do it all over again."

South Korean Flies Plane To North

TOKYO (AP) — Pyongyang radio said a South Korean air force officer today flew a fighter plane to North Korea.

A South Korean air force pilot some months ago flew a propeller-driven fighter to Communist Korea. The South Korean air force has no jets.

One North Korean pilot landed a Russian-built MiG-15 jet at an Allied base last summer. He won a $100,000 reward offered by the United States Far East command.

Predicts Population To Double In Ontario

KITCHENER (CP)—The population of southern Ontario will double itself in the next 14 years, climbing from its present 3,750,000 to 7,500,000, Dr. E. G. Pleva, University of Western Ontario geography professor, said here Tuesday night.

He told the Kitchener-Waterloo Optimist Club that the area south of a line joining Collingwood and Kingston is growing at the rate of five per cent a year and already contains a great proportion of the people of Canada.

He saw the Kitchener-Waterloo, Guelph and Galt district as "a great industrial area in the making."

Bishop Enthroned At Gravelbourg, Sask.

GRAVELBOURG Sask. (CP) — This predominantly French-speaking town in southwestern Saskatchewan today saw the enthronement of its fifth Roman Catholic bishop in colorful ceremonies which date back to apostolic times.

Seventeen archbishops and bishops, about 100 priests and hundreds of spectators filled St. Philomena's cathedral where the Most Rev. Aime Decosse wos consecrated by the Most Rev. Maurice Baudoux, co-adjjutor archbishop of St. Boniface.

He was assisted at the pontifical mass by Archbishop Michael C. O'Neill of Regina and Archbishop Joseph Lemieux of Ottawa.

Call Off Search For Three Fishermen

DETROIT (AP) — The United States coast guard has called off a search for three Michigan fishermen missing since Sunday on the ice-clogged Detroit river.

Lt.-Cmdr. C. W. Scharff, Detroit coast guard commander, ordered abandonment of the search Tuesday with the conclusion "there is no hope of finding these men alive."

The men were last spotted near where the river flows into Lake Erie. They were in a home-made cabin cruiser.

Elect Wardens

STIRLING (ENS) — The annual meeting of St. John's Anglican church was held on Monday evening.

Reports were read from the heads of the different organizations and Lorne Ash was re-appointed as Rector's warden and Mr. Ray Mallory as People's warden.

At the close of the meeting the ladies of the church served a dainty lunch.

Pep Gets Decision

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Willie Pep, former world's featherweight champion, pounded out a unanimous decision over Little David of Jacksonville in a 10-round bout at Jacksonville naval air station Tuesday night. Pep weighed 128, David 127.

TIDEWATER ROLLS—"Tidewater," E. Nelson up, hits the finish line to win the $15,000-added Hialeah Inaugural Handicap, feature of the opening day of the Florida tracks' winter meeting. "Sweet Vermouth" was second; "Hyphasis," third.

Dancing Leads To Plant Strike

Employees at the Winter Bros. Stamping Co. went on strike a week ago after learning that John R. Winter Jr., president of the firm, had signed up for $37,000 worth of dancing lessons at a dance studio. They said he had refused them a pay raise.

Last Friday, John Ellis, president of the United Auto Workers (CIO) Local 985, said both sides had agreed on a 10-cent hourly raise.

The 40 workers were back on the job Tuesday.

However, Winter ordered operations halted, Ellis said, adding: "He kicked us out. It's a lockout."

Winter was not available for comment.

Tee Pees Run Away With 10-3 Win As Montreal Royals Lose Out

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

If what they're getting is a taste of Ontario hospitality, Montreal Royals must be about ready to pack up and go home.

Heading into the home stretch of their current four-game tour of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A circuit, the Quebec Junior Hockey Association Royals haven't much to boast about.

Their three interlocking games in Ontario have all been losing efforts. And each time the victories were by larger margins.

The climax came Tuesday night when St. Catharines TeePees ran away with a 10-3 decision to climb back on top of the OHA standings. The TeePees showered Ed Johnston in the Montreal nets with 66 shots.

In the other junior hockey action Tuesday night, Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts took an 8-2 home-ice victory over Guelph Biltmores and the Black Hawks edged Barrie Flyers 5-4 in Galt.

CULLEN BROTHERS LEAD

St. Catharines took a 3-1 lead in the first period and lengthened it to 7-1 after the second, outscoring the Royals 3-2 in the last 20 minutes.

As usual the Cullen brothers led the TeePee assault. Brian scored three goals while brother Barry came up with two. Jack Armstrong also tallied a pair. Others went to Elmer Vasko, Wimpy Roberts and Hugh Barlow. Sandy Morrison, Walt Gardner and Bill Bowman were the Montreal marksmen.

Kitchener's walloping of the Biltmores was by way of a welcome to new Greenshirt coach Stan Long.

In Galt it was John Sleaver's slap shot with two minutes of regulation time remaining that gave the Hawks the edge over Barrie. It was his second of the night. Neil McDonald, also with two, and Eddie Switzer were the other Hawk snipers. John Martan, Bob White, Cleland Mortson and Dan Poliziani shared the Barrie total.

Tonight the Royals will close out their Ontario tour with a game in Guelph, St. Catharines meets the Marlboros in Toronto, Barrie is at Toronto St. Michael's College Majors and Kitchener plays the Cubs in Hamilton.

Wants Inquiry On Communism

OTTAWA (CP)—A Social Credit member of Parliament said Tuesday he will ask the government to establish a special committee to investigate communism in Canada.

An outspoken foe of communism, John Blackmore (SC—Lethbridge) said in a statement that he feels an agency should be set up to assist the RCMP and the justice department in "identifying, and in dealing adequately with, Communists in Canada."

He said a resolution sugesting appointment of a committee will appear on the Commons order paper later this week.

TWO-POINT INQUIRY

He said the committee should be empowered to investigate:

1. Possible Communist espionage developing in Canadian industrial and other activities.
2. Conceivable Communist infiltration into the Canadian administration "even to the extent of planting in sensitive positions in certain departments, agents desirous of influencing policy or of impairing executve effectiveness."

Temporary Suspension Given To Referee, Coach

KEMPTVILLE (CP) — Temporary suspensions have been handed referee Sibby Mundey and Jim Skinner, coach of Hamilton Cubs, as a result of a brawl that cut short a junior hockey game in Montreal Monday night.

Mundey and Skinner "are under temporary suspension until full reports have been received," W. B. George, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said in a statement Tuesday night.

SEVERELY JOSTLED

Montreal, leading 2-1 at the time, was awarded the decision, but George will have the final word on whether the Canadiens victory stands. He made no mention of the decision in his statement.

The rhubarb started when Skinner and Mundey argued over offsides and a misconduct penalty to Zorica. Linesmen Don Bussiere and Wills Mosdell said Mundey and themselves were severely jostled by Hamilton players. Canadiens players stayed out of the brawl.

Mundey said Skinner attacked him after he called the game, butting him three times with his head. Mundey threw a punch at Skinner, but "I don't think I hit him."

HELD BY POLICEMEN

Skinner said two policemen were holding him and "I couldn't raise my arms to strike Mundey even if I wanted to. We were talking nose to nose." He said he is protesting the game to the OHA, the CAHA and the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association.

President Martin Conway of the QAHA said Tuesday he has recommended indefinite suspension of Skinner pending a full investigation of the case.

For flooring Mundey, Zorica had a match misconduct added to the misconduct penalty he collected earlier for yelling at the referee.

Fashion Show Entertains Queen, Duke

By GOMER JONES

CHRISTCHURCH, N. Z. (Reuters)—Mannequins wore a discreet white foundation garment today when they paraded before Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh in transparent nylon nightgowns and slips.

The Queen herself received a gift of a pink-and-blue nylon nightgown during the royal visit to a clothes factory here. The duke received six pairs of socks, a sweater and nylon bathing suit.

Five beautiful models paraded before the royal couple in elasticized nylon bathing suits known as "Honeymoon" and "Only a Rose," as well as in the undergarments.

GIFTS FOR CHILDREN

Elizabeth's two children were not forgotten in the handing out of gifts. Prince Charles, 5, will have sports shirts and nylon swimming trunks and Princess Anne, 3, will get a nylon petticoat and pink nightgown when their parents forward the gifts to them in London.

For the visit the Queen wore a dress of navy blue shanting, with a light coat of the same material and color, and a small white hat trimmed with navy blue.

As the royal visitors drove away from the factory, the Queen stopped the car in response to the plea of a 10-year-old girl, Anne Roberts, outside the Nazareth House orphanage.

ASKS QUEEN STOP

Anne, waiting at the roadside, feared the car was going to drive past. She stepped close to it, stretched out her arm and cried "Please wait a minute!"

The Queen waited, leaned out, beamed at her and received an unexpected gift—a bouquet of roses and carnations from the orphans.

Says Ontario Broke Agreement

TORONTO (CP) — Mayor Allan Lamport of Toronto accused the Ontario government Tuesday of not living up to its agreement to pay organizational expenses of the new Metropolitan Toronto council up to the end of 1953.

Addressing the executive of the Metropolitan Council, he said the province should pay for all office supplies, furniture and equipment before the Metropolitan Council officially took power Jan. 1. He said that was the agreement the province made last year.

The mayor made the accusation when the metropolitan executive learned that Premier Frost has agreed to accept only those bills received by the metropolitan council on or before Jan. 13.

"Just because the mails were late at Christmas, we shouldn't be made to pay," the mayor said.

Bancroft Legion Host To Zone Rally Sunday

BANCROFT (ENS)—A motion deploring the action of the St. Catherines school board declaring November 11 an ordinary school attendance day was carried unanimously at Sunday's Canadian Legion zone rally, held in the Legion Hall, Bancroft.

Local branch members were host to 100 veterans from branches at Madoc, Tweed, Marmora, Stirling, Belleville and Quinte. The visitors were welcomed by Bancroft president W. Lavallay.

Guest speaker "Scotty" Broughton, of Brighton, was introduced by zone commander Len Taylor, of Tweed, and, in a rousing speech, warned the gathering of the dangers of apathy within the Legion and urged all branches to make every effort to enroll all veterans as members.

Six new members of the local branch were initiated and zone officers for 1954 were installed. committee reports from each branch were rendered and zone reports studied.

A banquet preceding the business session was served by the Bancroft Ladies Auxiliary.

Suicide Certificate Issued For Werner

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—A certificate of suicide was issued Tuesday in the death of Carl Werner, 40, found shot in the head in a bathroom of his rooming house.

Authorities said it was apparently just a coincidence that Werner's body was found Monday just at the time patrolman Anthony F. Scolese was arraigned.

Scolese's wife and Joseph Kotas are the other two witnesses who charge Scolese attacked them early Jan. 1. Scolese is free in $3,500 bail awaiting trial.

Kills Daughter, Self

SEATTLE (AP)—A professional gambler who "always wanted to help" his crippled daughter, gave up Tuesday, killing her and himself in a swank Seattle apartment. Dead are Harry Andrew Wagner, 65, and Virginia Mary Wagner, 11. The daughter, a victim of spastic paralysis, was found by Mrs. Wagner dying on the couch of the apartment. Down a hall lay the body of Wagner, a bullet through his head.

POLICEMAN AGAIN—Archie Menzies, who became well-known during his 10 years on the Peterborough Police force, is once more a policeman. He's now the chief of police in Port Perry. During his time on the Peterborough force has was a traffic officer, then a detective, later acting as comptroller of auxiliary police, civilian defence.

Foreign Shipping Worries Shipmasters

TORONTO (CP)—The International Shipmasters Association discussed Tuesday night how the influx of foreign shipping with the opening of the St. Lawrence seaway will affect their operations. The association is holding a four-day convention here.

Capt. Ross Maitland of Buffalo, who has sailed on the Great Lakes since 1909, told masters, mates and pilots from Canadian and United States ports on the Great Lakes that at one time the association opposed the seaway. Now, Capt. Maitland said, its chief concern is how foreign shipping companies would be permitted to operate within the Great Lakes.

"We object to a foreign ship picking up cargo at a Canadian port and taking it to the states, or carrying from the U. S. to Canada," he said. "These ships pay seamen an average monthly wage of $68, almost a third of the Canadian rate, and would be in a position to undercut freight charges."

Say Unemployment Club Used By Company

VANCOUVER (CP)—Leaders of a large, independent labor body Monday night charged employers in the British Columbia mining industry with using unemployment figures to intimidate its members.

The claim was made i an executives' report to the 11th annual B.C. district convention of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers.

"A substantial number of workers in our industry has been caught in layoffs," the report said. "Dismissals for little or no reason have become the order of the day. The employers are using unemployed lists to intimidate those still on the job."

Mine-mill was ousted from the Canadian Congress of Labor in 1950 for Red leadership. It has also been expelled by the Congress of Industrial Organizations in the United States.

French Union Forces Reoccupy Thahkek

SAIGON, Indo-China (Reuters)—French Union forces today reoccupied the Mekong river town of Thakhek on the border of Thailand.

The key town was seized by Communist Vietminh rebels Christmas Day in their lighting drive from the China sea which cut Indo-China in two.

Thakhek's recapture will enable land communications to be restored between south and north Laos.

Investigate Tokens

NEW YORK (AP)—The district attorney is investigating a counterfeit ring which has been making and selling fake subway tokens. A number of men were questioned Tuesday night but neither police nor officials in the DA's office would disclose any further details. The subway system had trouble when the tokens—worth 15 cents—first went into use last July after the fare was raised from a dime. Some riders used foreign coins, washers and out-of-town tokens in the turnstiles.

Turtles, Dolphins Fare

PANAMA CITY (AP) — Leo Topor-Taperek, 32, said he and his dog Boris ate 11 turtles and 60 dolphins on a 160-day sailing trip from Long Beach, Calif., to Balboa, in the Panama canal zone. The lonely sailor from Seattle made the voyage in his 23-foot ketch Polonaise without touching any port en route. He expects to push on through the Panama canal in April, visit West Indies islands, and end his voyage in Florida.

Selling Fizzles Without Advertising To Help It—Sales And Ad Club Told

The average salesman is the "most snooty, opinionated and hard-to-get-along-with individual in the human race," T D. Jotcham, manager of the Montreal branch of the Pepsi-Cola Co., of Canada told the Peterborough Sales and Advertising Club Tuesday night. This is because they have "glorified selling at the expense of something more vital — advertising."

"Selling, the Tool of Advertising" was Mr. Jotcham's theme. This reverses the "usual view" that advertising is but one espect of selling.

The only people who even deserve to be called salesmen, said Mr. Jotcham, are those who deal directly with the public Manufacturers' agents and wholesale distributors are "only the middle men" in the factory-to-consumer economic chain.

And these retail salesmen — the men who meet the public—are absolutely helpless without advertising, Mr. Jotcham declared. The average store contains hundreds of products and "no salesman can hope to have more than a surface knowledge of even most of them." Something must push these products, "with the aid of the retailer of course," to consummate the sale. "And that extra something, gentlemen, is advertising."

The Christmas newspaper strike in New York was a "classic example of the power of advertising." The products were there, top salesmen were on hand at such stores as Macy's and Gimbels, and yet the volume of consumer sales was "just a trickle."

The ideal selling-advertising combo is like a bullet. Mr. Jotcham compared, the sales aspect to the lead part of the bullet, which flops with a thud when there is no powder. Advertising is the powder, which flares brilliantly alone but fizzles out quickly. Goods production is the cartridge. Combine the three, said Mr. Jotcham, and "you have the key to successful selling."

Mr. Jotcham acknowledged that there might be some in the audience who would "violently disagree" with his thesis that selling is the servant of advertising. To win over these, the speaker, one time second-in-command of the Royal Canadian Rigiment, whipped out a mean-looking gun and discharged a blank over the heads of a stunned audience.

Carl M. Dettman, eastern advertising manager for Readers' Digest, and also a guest speaker at the Empress Tuesday, told Peterborough merchants that they were missing many sales by keeping stores understaffed during "the key period of the day - 11:30 to 2.

Loss of noon-hour sales is not something "we can afford to be complacent about," said Mr. Dettman. He said that the success or failure of any one firm is a community responsibility and that community responsibilities are, ultimately, national and international ones.

Mr. Dettman cited a number of cases of "retail inefficiency" which are "undermining public confidence." He said that many salesmen are indifferent to all but the task in hand and offered as proof an experiment recently conducted in the US midwest.

Several women were given $50 each and told to enter stores and order one pillow-case. If the sales-clerk suggested further purchases, they could spend up to $50. Most left the stores with the pillow-case only.

The next meeting of the Sales-Ad clubs will be "slanted towards the interests of high school students" education chairman Donald Loucks reported. He is enlisting the support of advisers from local high school to make Education Night, February 16, "even more successful" than the last education night in November, 1952.

F. J. Pitz, the "salesman's salesman" was the recipient of a gaudy red sports shirt from the Sales Ad club Tuesday. Mr. Pitz sold the most tickets for the Sales Ad's Christmas party, described by dinner chairman J. W. Fortner as a "big success."

Seven new members were introduced to the club: Allan B. Collis, James B. Ellis, Alex D. Ennis, George Carruthers, Allan E. Lacey, John W. McDerby and John Ridley.

Door-prize winners were Alec Hart, Bruce Williams, William Jeffries, Douglas Manning, Thomas Goudy, Dr. W. J. Gordon and Bert Austin. Prizes were donated by individuals and firms represented in the Sales-Ad club.

Building fund needs and the canvass goal are set for an amount of $150,000. Organized solicitation will be made to member-families and adherents during a period from February 1 to 15 for 150 week pledge system.

Since the Rev. Gordon S. Maxwell assumed his responsibilities as pastor of Trinity United church the growing attendance has emphasized the necessity for expansion in church facilities, which will include a new organ, completion of the Sunday School hall, and redemptoin of present bond issue.

Since the new hall became a reality the congregation has demonstrated both spiritually and financially their appreciation of the achievement which has already been attained. It is expected that this extended campaign will complete a program for greater expansion in fulfilling the needs of the community started some four years ago.

Army Announces 4 Appointments

OTTAWA (CP) — Army headquarters today announced new appointments, effective early next summer, of four senior officers of the Royal Canadian Artillery.

Col. A. J. B. Bailey, DSO, 39, of Duncan, B. C., at present commandant of the Royal Canadian School of Artillery at Shilo, Man., will become director of artillery at army headquarters in mid-July. He will succeed Col. I. G. Clarke of Ottawa, who is retiring after 25 years service.

Col. H. F. Brown of Brandon, Man., 41, commander of anti-aircraft command headquarters at St. Hubert, Que., will replace Col. Bailey.

New commander of the anti-aircraft group will be Lt.-Col. H. W. Sterne, 41, of Brantford, present commander of the 4th Regiment, Royal Canadian Horse Artillery in Korea. He will return to Canada with his unit in April and will be promoted to the rank of Colonel in mid-June when he assumes his new command.

James Rosebush

LAKEFIELD (ENS). — A veteran of the First Wold War, where he served in) the American Navy, James Wesley Rosebush, was buried in Owenbrook cemetery, Monday afternoon. He passed away in Peterborough hospital on Friday following a lengthy illness.

In charge of the services were tre Rev. F. G. McMulkin of Toronto and the Rev. J. C. Boddy of St George's Anglican church, Apsley.

A large representation from the Canadian Legion attended the service and Earl Trotter of the Apsley Legion conducted a short Legion service at the graveside. The casket was covered with the Union Jack and the Stars and Stripes. The Last Post was sounded by bugler Cecil Galalgher.

Pallbearers were Edward Rosevear, John Mace, James Walke, Clifford Walke, Harold McCaw, and Harold Landon

Halls Glen News

Norman and Mary Edwards of Peterborough spent the weekend with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Edwards.

Mrs. Ernie Butler who has spent the last two weeks in Lakefield, has returned home.

It was incorrectly stated in our column that Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Moore were staying the winter at Stan Giles. Mr. and Mrs. Moore are at their home at White Lake.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Herman Welker (Rep. Idaho) asked Congress Tuesday to require all Communists or Communist front organizations in the United States which have printing presses to list them with the government.

Federation Backs Dunlop Ruling

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Teachers Federation, representing all secondary and elementary school teachers in the province, Tuesday announced its full support of Education Minister Dunlop's action in insisting teacher Candidates complete their full training program before becoming full time board employees.

Summer school students and students in the two-year Teachers College course must complete their full cycle of training at Teachers College before becoming eligible for employment or re-employment by a board of trustees, Dr. Dunlop ruled in a recent memorandum.

A question had arisen as to whether these students might be permitted to teach without completing these requirements because the teachers shortage is so serious.

Jews Demand Austria Pay Indemnity For Crimes

By FRANCIS OFNER.

TELAVIV (OFNS)—A number of international Jewish organisation, including the Jewish Agency and the Jewish World Congress are preparing here a joint memorandum to the British, United States, French and Soviet delegations at the forthcoming Berlin conference asking them to include in the Austrian Peace Treaty talks Jewish claims for three hundred million Austrian schillings (over four million pounds sterling) as lump-sum compensation for unclaimed Jewish property held by the Vienna Government.

"NO RIGHT TO PROFIT"

The Jewish memorandum refutes Austria's contention that having had no legal status within the German Third Reich, Austria could not be held responsible for anti-Jewish atrocities. The Jewish organisations, having for the last year and a half tried unsuccessfully to reach agreement with Vienna, stress in their memorandum that in the absence of legal heirs, the substantial Jewish wealth now held by the Austrian Government should be devoted to the rehabilitation of Nazism's victims. Austria, they consider, has no right to profit by the tragedy that befell her Jewish citizens. The memorandum, it is understood, will insist on the assumption by Austria of normal responsibility for the crimes committed against the Jews of that country.

Another deadlock which Israelis hope to see broken in the wake of the Berlin Conference is their outstanding claim for reparations from Eastern Germany. Israel is claiming five hundred million dollars from Eastern Germany for its share in reparations for Nazi atrocities. This claim has been rejected by both the East German and Soviet governments (the latter was requested by Israel to use its influence in favour of a settlement.)

"UNJUST" SAYS GERMANS

Eastern Germany's leaders, including Prime Minister Otto Grotewohl and Deputy Premier Walter Ulbricht, have even announced publicly that they consider Western German's 715 million dollars reparations agreement concluded with Israel in September, 1952, to be "unjust" and have advocated its abrogation as soon as German unity is achieved.

The Israelis expect that if the Big Four show interest in Jewish claims in Austria, and there is also a reduction of the gap between East and West in Germany this may generate a climate in which Eastern Germany's rulers could withdraw from their hitherto extremist stand on the Jewish reparations issue.

Apart from specific Jewish claims, interest here in the Berlin conference is far greater than might be expected in a small country not formally connected with the impending discussions. This is mainly due to the widespread hope that a possible lessening of East-West tension might reduce the importance of strategic considerations as an over-riding factor in the Middle East policy of the Big Powers and bring into prominence instead the question of this area's long-term development—an approach of prime interest to Israel.

Nehru Seeks Woo Bhutan Buffer State India-Tibet

By PHILIP DEANE

NEW DELHI (OFNS) — The King of a Shangri-la on the border of Communist China, Jogme Dorji Wangchuk, 27-year-old King Maharajah of Bhutan, and his young wife, are now in India for a two weeks' round of receptions and sight-seeing. They arrived in Delhi on January 11, with an escort of 40, including one anonymous Buddhist monk, who tells the King what his powerful Buddhist monasteries of Bhutan think his policy should be.

SHANGRI-LA NO MORE

Mr. Nehru, the Indian Premier, himself, surrounded by his cabinet, met the young Maharajah at the airfield in Delhi. Bhutan is important. It is a buffer State between Chinese-held Tibet and India. The subjects of the Maharajah are all Buddhists, and they look on Tibet's Dalai Lama as their spiritual head. They speak a Sino-Tibetan dialect. Their country is primitive and wide open to infiltration.

The Delhi General Staff, which has shown such interest in Nepal and Sikkim, the other two states between Tibet and India, is equally interested in keeping Bhutan free from infiltration. The Indian Government pays a subsidy to the Maharajah, in exchange for control over his country's foreign policy. This continues the British imperial practice of having a zone of influence extending beyond the Indian frontier.

BLISSFULLY UNAWARE

The inhabitants of Bhutan, meanwhile, are blissfully unaware that they are in anybody's zone of influence. They grow rice in their fertile valleys, sell precious woods and musk across their frontiers, and sometimes travel over their tremendous mountains to visit the shrines in Paro, their beautiful capital.

Being only 300,000 people in 18,000 square miles of territory, they have enough to eat, and are said to live to an extreme age. They have no modern conveniences of any kind: no doctors, radios, roads or airstrips. They have only their devil dancers, their music and their breathtaking scenery.

The few outsiders who have visited Bhutan say that the country is happy. Civilization is not likely to interfere with the happiness of Bhutan: it takes twelve days' hard riding to reach Paro, and the Buddhist theocracy which really rules the country does not want a road built into its Shangri-la.

Gov't Approves Hospital Grants

TORONTO (CP)—Health Minister Phillips announced Tuesday that the Ontario government has approved capital grants totalling $141,350 for construction purposes for Woodeden Convalescent Hospital, Komoka, Blue Mountain Convalescent Hospital, Collingwood and Northwood Convalescent Hospital at Lake Sesekinika.

Woodeden Convalescent Hospital at Komoka, near London, has received an additional $22,000 for 20 beds.

The Blue Mountain Convalescent Hospital in Collingwood has been granted $19,350, which is half the cost of providing 42 convalescent beds and 16 nurses' beds.

The Northwood Convalescent Hospital at Lake Sesekinika will receive a grant of $100,000 to provide half th.. cost of 43 convalescent beds and 19 nurses' beds.

Oshawa Potter Finds Clay Develops Glaze

Members of Peterborough Potters' Guild and a group of potters from Port Hope and Belleville, 40 in all, met at the Dixon House Monday night to hear Mrs. P. E. Moss of Oshawa speak about her work in ceramics.

President Miss June Fraser introduced the speaker.

Although Mrs. Moss is the wife of a science teacher and the mother of a teen-age daughter she finds time to work in her own studio at pottery. Mrs. Moss believes that pottery made in Canada should be made from Canadian clays and has found suitable clay in her home town of Oshawa and Whitby, and last summer found clay near her summer home in the Muskoka district. Without proper equipment at the cottage she resorted to using old nylons to sieve the clay.

Having found her own clay Mrs. Moss then experimented tirelessly making her own glazes until she found one to fit the clay. She has developed a self glazing engobe and when this engobe is used the piece can be finished with just one firing in the potter's kiln, she says.

Mrs. Moss has been making pottery and experimenting with glazes for only two years and showed lovely pieces made on the potter's wheel and also several attractive free form bowls.

She stressed that "there is a definite design for pottery, that it is heavier and more sturdy, and that forms in pottery should flow naturally, that all pieces should be made for a definite use, and that the decoration should be kept simple and suitable to the piece."

Mrs. G. A. Reinhardt thanked the speaker. Refreshments were served.

MAYOR NORMAN GRAHAM WAS HOST to the new warden and members of Peterborough County Council at a reception in the mayor's parlor at City Hall Tuesday afternoon. The occasion provided a pleasant hour of fraternization between city aldermen, who assisted the mayor, and the reeves and deputy-reeves of the county. Seen chatting during the tea hour are (left to right) Mayor Graham, Alderman Mrs. Alene Holt, Warden Willard Waterman, reeve of North Monaghan, and Mrs. Jenny Spurway, county clerk. Inaugural meeting of the county council took place at the Court House just preceding the reception.

Trinity Reports Reveal Active WMS Year

The new executive, under leadership of president Mrs. A. Wade, was in charge of the meeting of the Afternoon Auxiliary of the W.M.S. of Trinity United church, held Tuesday. Devotional exercises were taken by Mrs. G. N. Moncrief and Mrs. G. Powell. Following the business session when Mrs. A. Hastie, community friendship secretary, reported 30 house and 11 hospital calls made during the past month, Mrs. J. N. Perry gave a reading entitled "A Recipe for the New Year". Mrs. H. A. Mitchell sang the solo "O Rest in the Lord".

Mrs. A. Hastie, Mrs. N. Elliott and Mrs. Wade were appointed delegates to the Peterborough Presbyterial being held January 26th. Mrs. J. N. Perry, supply secretary, reported the allocation for 1954.

Group leaders appointed for the year are Mrs. N. Elliott, Mrs. G. Powell, Mrs. Tollington and Mrs. I. Butler. Mrs. W. Donaldson, Mrs. A. Legon, Mrs. A Hastie and Mrs. S. Constable are assistants.

Annual reports given by the various secretaries showed a very successful year's work, both financially and in other departments. Mrs. A. B. Cunningham, recording secretary, gave a full report of the year's programs and treasurer, Mrs. Moncrief reported $1053.64 sent to the Presbyterial treasurer.

Community friendship secretary, Mrs. A. Hastie, reported the average attendance at meetings as 34 and 163 house calls and 92 hospital calls made during the year, as well as several new families contacted. Mrs. Perry, reported a bale sent to Korea in which the whole church participated, also three pairs girls' pyjamas sent to Angola. Mrs. H. Kearns, associate member's secretary, reported keeping in touch by phone and personal visits with new members, as well as shut-ins and sick. Citizenship had been presented at two meetings reported secretary Mrs. A. Legon. Literature secretary, Mrs. H. T. Rehill reported an increase in reading, as 150 books have been read by members, also an increase in Missionary Monthly subscriptions. Christian stewardship secretary Mrs. W. T. Fanjoy reported the allocation had been reached.

Annual reports on the year's work were presented also by the Trinity Supper Club, the C.G.I.T., the Mission Band, and the Baby Band Mothers' Group.

A social half hour was spent following the meeting.

PARKHILL SCHOOL

The Rev. Gordon S. Maxwell, minister of Trinity church, was guest speaker at the meeting of Parkhill Home and School Association on Tuesday evening. Speaking on "Religious Training," he gave an ideal pattern of what home teaching can mean to a child, emphasizing the necessity of parents to be consistent, patient and understanding.

"Just as we, as mature adults, turn to our Heavenly Father for an unwavering source of help and inspiration, so our children turn to us," Mr. Maxwell said. "They must find an unwavering source of reference. Never be too busy to help them over what seems to them a terribly important crisis in everyday living."

"Children's problems are just as important and need help as quickly as our own more complex ones. Our interest at home makes for their interest at school and in all other associations." In conclusion Mr. Maxwell cautioned against having "too small ideas of God" and reminded that "Jesus gave the rules for living."

Mrs. J. F. Howard introduced Mr. Maxwell and he was thanked by Mrs. R. Lewis.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. R. Parnell. Mrs. R. Hancock led the devotions, opening with scripture from St. Luke and continuing on the theme "Teach Us To Pray". Roll call showed the attendance prize won by Mrs. C. Osborne's first grade room.

Mrs. C. S. Rowe, school nurse, gave a report on the new complete public health program which starts with pre-natal care and follows the child through school and to old age. Speaking also on her school visits she gave helpful information to the parents.

SACRED HEART SCHOOL

Monsignor P. P. Butler opened the meeting Tuesday evening of Sacred Heart Parent-Teacher Association with prayers. Mrs. W. Flint was presiding in the absence of president Mr. F. Whaley.

Mrs. W. Flynn introduced the guest speaker Mrs. Phyllis Kingdon whose subject was "Nutrition." She presented the fundamentals and values of good nutrition, advising that from a national survey of 7,000 school children it was found that 25 to 50 per cent received less than a half pint of milk daily. She stressed a cooked cereal, oranges and other fresh fruits and vegetables with plenty of milk in every child's daily diet. "If the mother does a good job of properly feeding her child, to her will go credit if her or she grows into mandhood or womanhood strong and straight and ready to face life," said Mrs. Kingdon. She was thanked for her address by Mr. Leo Martyn.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. J. Johnston and her committee.

CGIT Doings

HAVELOCK BRANCH

HAVELOCK (ENS) — Members of the Havelock CGIT were given boxes to collect for the budget plan, by their leader, Mrs. R. G. Newman, at the meeting, Monday night in the United church Sunday school auditorium.

The boxes were sent for distribution by Miss Joyce Parliament, president of the CGIT for Ontario. Each girl will collect money for this project in her neighborhood.

The meeting opened with a sing song with Mrs. Newman at the piano. Doris Newman read the call to worship and Jean Kennedy read the scripture lesson. Mrs. Newman then told the girls about the publishing of the bible after which she offered prayer.

The business part of the program was opened with the CGIT purpose, followed by the roll call which showed 11 members present.

Plans were made to hold a theatre party when the picture "The Robe" comes to this district and the following girls were appointed as a committe to arrange for cars for that occasion: Jean Kennedy, Fern Emery, Shirley Jewell.

Red Cross Has Good Year In Lakefield

LAKEFIELD (ENS) — A most successful year was enjoyed by the Lakefield Branch, Canadian Red Cross Society, judging from the reports given by committee chairmen at the annual meeting held on Monday night in the Memorial Hall. The president, Mrs. Albert O'Donnell was in the chair and extended a welcome to those attending. As it was her last meeting, she thanked the executive and the citizens of the village and district for the splendid co-operation shown during her term of office.

Mrs. Clarence Foster, who had just completed 5 years as work room convener reported a total of 16 quilts and 26 layettes sent to headquarters and 35 pairs of knickers for Holland relief.

Knitting convener, Miss M. Hampton reported 38 articles, socks, sweaters, gloves, etc., still on hand and that 2 baby sets, sweater bonnet and booties had been given to the Childrens' Aid Society.

Reporting for the loan cupboard, Mrs. W. W. Leonard stated that aid had been given to the people of Holland, layettes given to the Children's Aid Society and to a local family. The three hospital beds, the two wheel chairs and crutches are almost constantly in use. Articles had also been sent to a family whose home had been destroyed by fire.

Thirty Well Babies clinics had been held during the year, reported Mrs. Robert McCracken, nurse in charge. A total of 369 babies were seen and attendance averaged 12. Innoculations and vaccinations are given. The pupils of Burleigh Falls school are also given the combined serum and vaccination.

An immunization program of school-age children was outlined by school nurse, Mrs. Wallace Hendren in her report. Combined serum was given to 28 pupils and step-up doses to 78. Vitamin tablets are also given each day to the children.

Dr. R. H. Campbell made routine dental inspections and a comparison was drawn between when inspection was not carried out and now. The first year there were a total of 837 cavities and this year only 482 the first inspection showed only 54 children free of cavities in teeth and this year there were 116.

Mrs. Stanley Goodall reported a total of 179 blood donors taken to Peterborough and Mrs. Russell Curry, social convener, reported three events in charge of her committee. She also expressed her

Hastings Society Met Allocation

HASTINGS (ENS)—The Women's Missionary society of Trinity United church met at the parsonage. The treasurer reported the allocation exceeded. Mrs. Geo. Riby read two chapters of the study book.

Trinity church mission band met in the Sunday school rooms with 20 members present. President Brenda Thompson presided.

The treasurer's report showed almost $50 raised in 1953.

Mrs. A. E. Metcalfe had charge of the study book.

Ladies' Aid Plans Valentine Tea

HASTINGS (ENS) — The Ladies' Aid of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church met at the home of Mrs. J. F. McMillan with 14 members present.

The scripture was read by Mrs. S. Whitred and Mrs. J. F. McMillan lead in prayer.

New Year's resolutions were read by Mrs. W. S. Fife.

Plans were made for a Valentine tea on February 11th.

Mrs. C. Dodd moved a vote of thanks to the hostess for her hospitality. Refreshments were served.

Hastings Minister Installs Officers

HASTINGS (ENS)—Mrs. Clarence Lockhart was hostess to the evening auxiliary of Trinity United church on Tuesday evening with 13 members present. In the absence of the president, Miss M. Scriver presided. The Rev. N. Cole was in charge of the installation service.

Mrs. Clifford Scriver, convener for the worship program, was assisted by Mrs. W. Thomas, Mrs. F. Stevenson, Mrs. C. Skinkle. The theme, "The Church, an Image of the Kingdom," was given by Mrs. Cliff Scriver. Mrs. C. Skinkle lead in prayer.

Mrs. Harvey Young, treasurer, reported the Presbyterial allocation exceeded.

Mrs. Alton Thompson was appointed to assist Mrs. Scriver on the flower committee.

The next meeting will be held February 9 in the Sunday school rooms with the annual fee and pot luck supper. Committee in charge will be Mrs. Alton Thompson, Mrs. Grenville Thompson, Mrs. Harvey Young, Miss Mae Webster and Mrs. R. Burnham.

Bringing Up Baby

Hints Collected by Mrs. Dean Gerber (Mother of 5)

Babies, even like the best-fit of us, do come down with minor ailments from time to time. When your baby is convalescing from an upset, remember:

1. It takes time for baby to get well. Your worry won't hasten recovery.
2. It's better for baby to eat less. He'll ask for more food as soon as his system is ready for it.
3. Don't try new foods at this time. Never wake him for a feeding.

• • •

For eager eating. When your doctor says: "Cereals", you'll want to offer baby Gerber's Cereals . . . for their mild pleasing flavors and the smooth, good-feeling texture little ones just learning about solids prefer. All five—Mixed, Rice, Barley, Oatmeal and Wheat Cereals, are fortified with vitamins and minerals—are precooked and ready to serve, with formula, milk or other liquids.

• • •

For sweeter dreams. Before lullabying baby to sleep, be sure his diaper and nighty are not too tight. Check to see that he has at least 2 fingers of space between him and his clothes.

• • •

Baby "cutting up"? If your tot has reached the teething stage, he needs something wholesome and helpful to chew on. Gerber's Teething Biscuits are made especially for this "trying" time. Baby gets lots of chewing satisfaction from Gerber's Teething Biscuits—and their special smooth shape is easy for little hands to hold, gentle for tender gums. Nice for you, too—no mess from crumbling because teething biscuits are so firm. Their individual wrapping makes them easy to carry.

Of Interest to Women

COLD RECEPTION—Josephine Giudici looks out of a porthole on the ice-covered Vulcania on the ship's arrival in New York harbor, Miss Giudici has just returned from sunny Italy where she was visiting her boyfriend.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Small Savings Can Help In Trimming Food Costs

Saving money on food usually adds up by saving 10 cents here and 10 cents there. Nothing sensational at all like buying a $79 coat for $39.95.

It is the little things that add up at the end of a month of shaving food costs.

Tomorrow you will find in this space (if you ever read it) a boost to budgeters—suggestions for low-cost dinners that were sparked by some letters from readers who may have overspent at Christmas.

I wrote that column before I wrote this one and did not have room for all I wanted to give you.

Here is the cart before the horse: low-cost recipes for dishes that will be mentioned in the low-cost dinners on January 21. So if you are interested in saving shekels clip this and attach it to tomorrow's column.

SALMON CASSEROLE— (This is actually a suffle but that word frightens some cooks. This one holds its shape.) Melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, remove from heat and stir in 2½ tablespoons flour, then 1 cup milk (or diluted evaporated milk or reliquefied milk powder), cook, until thick. To this add 1 1-lb. can pink salmon flaked plus its juice, 2 beaten egg yolks, ½ teaspoon each salt and nutmeg and grated lemon rind. Mix well, then fold in 2 stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into greased baking dish and bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 45 minutes or until a knife inserted in centre comes out clean.

OPENFACE PRUNE PIE
(Surprisingly Different and Good)

Line pie plate with pastry. Pour in this filling: Beat 3 eggs slightly. Mix together 4 tablespoons flour, 1 cup sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon cinnamon, and stir these into the eggs. Then add 1 cup each milk and cut up cooked prunes, ½ cup prune juice, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Distribute prunes evenly. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. about 50 or 60 minutes or until filling is firm. Cool before serving.

BACON BISCUITS (dropped)

This is ordinary tea-biscuits with additional milk and bacon. Sift together 2 cups sifted flour, 2½ teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt. Cut in ¼ cup shortening finely. Stir in 1 cup skim milk and one-third cup well-drained cooked bacon bits—(about 4 strips). Drop from wet spoon on greased sheet or into muffin pans. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. about 10 or 12 minutes.

BEEF AND KIDNEY PIE

(Bake assembled pie at 435 deg. Fahr. about 20 minutes.) To serve 6 buy ¾ to 1 lb. each shank or flank beef and pork or beef kidney. Trim the kidney, removing veinous and fat portion, and cut both beef and kidney into 1-inch pieces. Soak kidney in cold water ½ hour. Drain. Roll kidney and beef in flour. Brown the floured meat in 3 or 4 tablespoons bacon or other drippings, until golden on all sides. Add 3 cups water, bring to boil and simmer until beef is nearly tender, covered, stirring frequently. You may need to add a little more water as it cooks. Add salt and pepper, and if desired, 1 grated onion (I don't add onion), and turn into baking dish. Cover with rolled out tea biscuits cut very small or drop biscuits. For recipe see above, but omit bacon; for rolled biscuits reduce milk to ¾ cup.

CHEESE FONDU

(I suggest baked potatoes to serve with these. If you serve the potatoes start them 1½ hours ahead of mealtime at 425 deg. Fahr. for fondu requires lower temperature later.) Melt 4 tablespoons margarine and stir in 4 cups cubed bread—about 6 slices. Turn this into greased casserole in alternate layers with one-third to ½ lb. sliced old or processed cheese. Pour over, mixed together, 2 small eggs beaten, 1 and one-third cups milk, ½ teaspoon salt, shake of pepper, ⅛ teaspoon dry mustard. Sprinkle top generously with paprika. Stand baking dish in pan of water and bake at 350 deg. about 40 minutes.

RAISIN BRAN MUFFINS

Cream together 3 tablespoons shortening and 1 cup sugar; beat in 1 egg, 2 tablespoons molasses, 1½ cups sour milk. Sift 2 cups sifted flour with 1 teaspoon each soda and salt. Add 2 cups bran and 1 cup raisins. Stir quickly into wet mixture. Bake in greased muffin tins 25 minutes at 375 deg. Fahr.

DOROTHY DIX

Terrible-Tempered Mate Is In Love With Another

DEAR MISS DIX: Two months ago my husband told me he didn't love me; that he was in love with another woman. She's 43, he's 34. We've been married fourteen years and have four children. Cy, my husband, says he will never marry this other woman, even if I give him his freedom. I don't know where I've failed him. I've kept his home neat and clean, given him good meals on time and kept his clothes in order. Should I take him back, or forget him? He has a terrible temper. Now he's left home and is living by himself. Nora C.

ANSWER: You enumerate such a long list of things you did to make your husband comfortable, but you left out many you might have done. Did you show an interest in his work? Did you have time to talk to him when he wanted to talk? Were you ready and willing to go out with him, if he wanted to go? In other words, did you give him companionship, understanding and sympathy as well as good housekeeping? Have a good long talk with yourself. Face facts squarely; are you a nagger, do you pay too much attention to your house, and not enough to the people in it? Are you unduly critical of your husband's friends and relatives? Do you insist on having things your own way in the home? Are you unwilling to entertain your husband's guests? Consider each of these points.

HUSBAND'S RETURN EXPECTED

Since your husband doesn't want a divorce, there's practically no question but what he'll return to the family hearth. With four children to care for, there's no use precipitating a crisis, especially since you quite evidently don't want one. Sit tight and await the penitent wanderer. Make sure you get support for your family while he's gone. Don't let him get used to shirking his responsibilities. Probably he just needs solitude to think over his problem. With time out to consider the weaknesses of your marriage, you'll both get back on a sounder foundation of better understanding.

DEAR MISS DIX: My 45-year-old husband has a marked admiration for girls young enough to be his daughters. At any gathering, he spends all his time in attendance on the younger element. He says he loves me, is proud of me, our children and our home, yet his attention is diverted easily toward young, single girls. Lorette D.

ANSWER: Your man seems to need constant assurance that his youth isn't slipping away. Of course, the girls who respond to his attentions are doing so chiefly for business reasons: after all, one doesn't antagonize the boss if one is tactful. When they get together and compare notes, the girls undoubtedly agree that he's a bit silly. As a countermeasure, try some flattery on him yourself: I bet it gets results.

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm very anxious to marry a nice girl, and settle down in a small house I have built. I've been going with a charming girl, but when I asked her to marry me, she said she didn't know me well enough. I'm 23, and the girl is 22. Herbert F.

ANSWER: The young lady's answer certainly wasn't discouraging. Faint heart ne'er won fair lady, remember. Continue your courting, but don't try to rush her to a hasty decision.

DEAR MISS DIX: When Lonnie went into the army he promised to write me. When he didn't, I got his address from his sister, wrote about nine times, but never received a reply. When he came home last week, I learned that he had been married, but is now separated. He asked me to marry him when he gets his divorce. Should I wait? Caroline R.

ANSWER: No, with double emphasis! Apparently you've acted like such a fool over the boy, that he's convinced you'll fall into his arms at an ymoment. Do keep a bit of pride, and continue going with the boys you met during Lonnie's absence. Don't play second fiddle.

6—In Memoriam

ANDREWS—In loving memory of Roy M. Andrews who passed away January 19, 1946.

—Lovingly remembered by daughter Florence, son-in-law Bev and grandson LeRoy.

ROSE—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Arthur Rose, who passed away January 20th, 1940.

Love's greatest gift, remembrance.

—Ever remembered by his wife and family.

WALDRON—In memory of a dear wife Ellen Jane Waldron who passed away two years ago today.

I have lost my soul's companion,
A life linked with my own;
And day by day I miss her more,
As I walk through life alone

—Ever remembered by her husband John.

WALDRON— In memory of a dear mother, Ellen Jane Waldron who passed away, January 20th, 1952.

Today recalls sad memories
Of a dear mother gone to rest;
And the one who thinks of her today
Is the one who loved her best.

—Ever remembered by her daughter Bella, Fred and grandchildren Freddy, (twins) Ronald and Donald.

WALDRON—In loving memory of grandmother, Ellen Jane Waldron, who passed away two years ago today.

Oft and oft our thought do wander
To the grave not far away
There we laid our dear grandmother
Just two years ago today

—Remembered by granddaughter, Doreen and Bob and family.

WHITMORE—In loving memory of a dear mother and wife, Lilah Whitmore, who passed away January 20, 1944.

Gone from us but leaving memories
Death can never take away.
Memories that will always linger
While upon this earth we stay.

—Always remembered by husband and family.

7—Card of Thanks

We wish to thank our friends for beautiful gifts, the many handsome greeting cards and those who in person and by telephone expressed congratulations and good wishes. These acts of kindness combined with God's rich blessings made the fiftieth anniversary of our marriage a happy event. May we again thank you.—Joseph and Gertrude Burns.

Two People Killed In Cargo Plane Crash

BARRIE (CP) — Two Toronto men, William S. Kingsley, 19, and Francis I. Robertson, 21, were remanded to Feb. 3 today for preliminary hearing on a charge of murdering Fred (Scotty) Cameron, 57-year-old Toronto stock brokerage messenger.

It was the third remand to be given in the case.

Cameron's body was found Oct. 30 last year in a water-filled ditch at nearby Stroud. He had been shot to death.

Detectives used a mine detector to help them locate missing parts of a .32-calibre automatic near where the body was discovered.

Red Cross Has

appreciation to Mrs. C. H. Hunter for her assistance.

The report of the Junior Red Cross of the public school was given by Athabelle Hendren who stated that Room 9 had made and donated 7 health kits at a cost of $19.70. Money was also being collected in some of the other rooms.

The financial report, given by Miss E. Down, treasurer showed total receipts to be $2161.94 and balance on hand of $219.48. Campaign chairman, A. G. Buchanan reported total from the drive to be $1540.93.

The largest venture of the local society is the swimming and water safety programe and this report was given by Mrs. A. R. Gariepy and showed a splendid year with 668 swimmers having passed their examinations. She also made recommendations for the comin year.

Mrs. H. Ketchum presided for the election of officers, the slate being presented by Miss Hampton as follows: Hon. Pres., Mrs. H. Stuart, Mrs. W. W. Leonard; past president, Mrs. A. O'Donnell; president, Arthur Kingdon; vice-pres., Stanley Burger; secretary, Mrs. S. A. Grylls, assistant, Mrs. Leonard; treasurer, Miss E. Down; Well Babies Clinic, Mrs. G. Randall; school nurse, Mrs. Hendren; loan cupboard, Mrs. H. Wilford; swimming and water safety, administration, Mrs. Gariepy, assistant, Mrs. R. Farrow; maintenance, Kenneth Jakins social, Mrs. O'Donnell, assistant, Mrs. Ketchum; sewing, Mrs. A. C. Carveth; wool, Miss Hampton; disaster relief, W. Sheppard; campaign, A. G. Buchanan campaign treasurer, S. R. Henderson; representatives from churches, Baptist, Mrs. W. Walker; Presbyterian, Mrs. J. W. Ridpath; Gospel Hall, Mrs. E. Dunford; Roman Catholic, Mrs. M. Coughlin; United, Mrs. R. Curry; Anglican, Mrs. F. Dainton Aux. to Canadian Legion, Mrs. C. Stenner.

The Rev. G. E. Downing was guest speaker and gave an inspiring talk on "The Ministry of Help, in War and Peace." In his address, Mr. Downing recalled experiences he had had while serving in the Air Force in the First World War. He sincerely congratulated the Lakefield Branch for the splendid work they were doing. He was thanked by Mrs. Leonard.

Reeve W. C. Grant was also present and brought greetings from the village and council. He termed the Red Cross as a "necessary and essential part of our village."

Tea was served by Mrs. Curry and Mrs. Hunter who were assisted in serving by Mrs. Earl Edwards, Mrs. W. Hendren and Mrs. Donald Curry.

Preliminary Hearing In Ax-Bludgeoning

COCHRANE (CP) — Adelard Latarte, 65, charged with the ax-bludgeoning of his 61 - year - old friend, Henri Deschene last week will appear in magistrate's court Thursday for a preliminary hearing.

The aged suspect was arrested in Deschene's shack an hour after Deschene was killed. Police said he was under the influence of liquor at the time.

U.S. Air Force Worried About Sergeant

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—An AWL United States Air Force sergeant being sought by civilian and military police throughout the eastern States was interviewed by a newspaper reporter and photographer here today, but was still at-large several hours later.

Sgt. Victor Petoniak of Buffalo told a Buffalo Evening News reporter and photographer that he was astounded at the information that Washington is in an uproar over his departure from Westover air force base in Massachusetts.

Petoniak, who was found in a bowling alley here by the newspaper men, admitted he was absent without leave from the base but denied he was armed.

Military police in Washington in an alarm for Petoniak said he "may be dangerous and is armed."

TRANSFER WAS DENIED

Petoniak, who has about 25 years of service, left Westover Thursday intending to go to Washington to complain about a refusal by his superiors to transfer him to Florida to be with his wife. He said he intended to leave Buffalo today for the national capital.

His wife, Dorothea, and his daughter, Victoria, 12, are living at MacDill base, near Tampa, Fla. He told the reporter he has been separated from his family since 1949, and that his wife is too ill to travel to Westover.

The airman said he has been seeking a transfer since April, 1952.

He said he left Westover Thursday after air force officials asked him to undergo psychiatric treatment.

"I was never kept in any hospital there," he said. "I was fed up so I left. I considered my problem as simple and one which the air force, if it wanted, could solve. My tangled family affairs don't need any psychiatrist."

Nehru Pleased About Transfer

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Prime Minister Nehru of India is "relieved and very pleased" that the handing over of prisoners by Indian forces in Korea has begun without incident, a government spokesman said today.

Nehru, who is attending his Congress party's annual conference at Kalyani, near Calcutta, was informed by telephone of today's developments in Korea, the spokesman said.

After Thursday, prisoners who refuse to return to the United Nations side will be considered "under the protection" rather than in the custody of the Indian force, the spokesman said. The Reds, in a dispute over the armistice terms, have refused to take the pro-Red PoWs back from their Indian custodians.

Crown Requests Fourth Adjournment

The case of two Peterborough brothers, Walter and Raymond McCaskey, who face charges of breaking and entering and theft, following a burglary at the Canadian Tire on December 30, was adjourned for hearing, for the fourth time Wednesday.

Magistrate W. R. Philp, QC, acceded to the Crown's request for a further two weeks adjournment although W. J. Arthur Fair, QC, counsel for defence, said that he was ready to proceed with the case.

Pope Sends Greetings To Queen Elizabeth

VATICAN CITY (Reuters)—The Pope has asked the new British minister to the Holy See, Sir Douglas Frederick Howard, to convey to the Queen his wishes that her reign be one of prosperity and peace.

The new minister last Monday presented his credentials to the Pope whose reply, delivered in English, was made public today.

Speaking of peace, the Pope said if it is to be secure, justice and charity must inspire reciprocal confidence between nations and between different classes within a nation.

Third Offender

Three months definite and one month indefinite imprisonment was meted out to Michael Hynes, 50, of Toronto, when he pleaded guilty to a third offense of intoxication in court today. Magistrate W. R. Philp Q.C. advised Hynes to take the opportunity of having alcoholic treatment at the reformatory.

Leonard Lindsay, 47, Apsley, pleaded guilty to a second offense of intoxication. He was fined $50, costs $2.50.

Court Requested To Increase Will Payments

TORONTO (CP) — The Supreme Court of Ontario has been asked to increase quarter-yearly payments to 15 main beneficiaries under the will of William H. Wright, millionaire mining magnate who died Sept. 20, 1951.

The beneficiaries' counsel argued the money received now in the form of annuities is insufficient to raise the families "in a proper manner" for persons who will some day acquire a fortune. The net estate now is $7,300,000.

Mr. Justice G. A. Gale, in reserving judgment Tuesday, said it was "a matter of great importance, not only to the persons involved but in a wider aspect since there doesn't seem to be any other case in Canada where this has been dealt with before." He said it may be some months before his decision is handed down.

SOME GET ONLY $600

At present each main beneficiary under 25 years receives $600 annually and those over 25 get $1,200 a year. A total of $50,000 is also distributed among beneficiaries over 25 at intervals until they reach the age of 50.

The Chartered Trust Co., acting for the beneficiaries, asked for $450 quarter-yearly for each main beneficiary over 25.

Under the terms of the will of Mr. Wright, one of the discoverers of the Wright - Hargreaves Gold Mine, the multi-million-dollar estate becomes distributable to the living heirs at the maximum period allowed by law, which is 21 years after the death of the last of the main beneficiaries living at the death of the testator.

Refuse Farmer Tax Deduction

OTTAWA (CP) — A gentleman farmer of Quebec province has been denied permission to deduct from his taxable income the full amount of losses on his 130-acre holdings.

The income tax appeal board, rejecting his application, did not reveal his identity but described him as a man of private means with an income of around $29,000 a year. He also is vice-president of a corporation, but he told the board about all he does there is sign an occasional cheque.

He sought to lower his taxable income by deducting losses of $5,860 in 1949 and $7,570 in 1950 on his $78,000 farm's operations.

However, the board cut the deduction in half, ruling that farming was not his chief occupation, though the appellant testified he spent most of his time maintaining his farm records and accounts.

Two Men Remanded On Murder Charge

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Two persons were reported killed today in the crash of a DC-3 cargo plane near the municipal air terminal. Police said the only persons aboard were the pilot and co-pilot.

Trans-World Airlines reported the plane was a General Motors craft, which was attempting to land during a snowstorm. The airport said the plane was from Jackson, Mich.

The plane crashed, but did not burn, a short distance north of the air terminal.

OBITUARIES

WILLIAM DAVID GAINER

A well-known Cavan farmer, William David Gainer of Lot 1, Concession 3, South Monaghan township, died at his home on Tuesday following a prolonged illness.

Mr. Gainer was born in Hamilton township 55 years ago, son of the late Hamilton Gainer and Charlotte Jewison, and has lived in the district all his life.

Besides his wife, the former Violet Atchison, he leaves one daughter, Mrs. Reid Retalick (Eileen) of South Monaghan, and a sister, Mrs. Percy Moncrief (Zelma) of RR 5, Peterborough. Mr. Gainer was a member of Bailleboro United Church and of the Orange Order.

The body is resting at the family residence from where the funeral service will be held on Thursday at 2 p.m. The Rev. Herbert Yarr of Bailleboro United church will officiate and burial will be at Bailleboro Union cemetery.

MRS. GEORGE MERRICK

STIRLING (ENS) — Mrs. George Merrick, RR 3, Stirling, died sudenly at her late residence on Monday. She was in her 75th year.

Mrs. Merrick was born in Sidney township, and was the daughter of the late Thomas Green and Emma Anderson. She had lived at the same home for the past 50 years. She is survived by her husband, George Merrick, one son, Oscar Merrick of RR 3, Stirling. Also surviving her is a grandson, Bob Merrick and a great granddaughter, Carolyn Merrick.

The funeral was held at Mount Pleasant church this afternoon at 2:30. Interment was in Mount Pleasant cemetery.

Remanded for Sentence

Two Peterborough men, Don Gallaghur, 25, of 137 Stewart St. and Ronald Bye, 19, of R.R. 4, admitted to the theft of a quantity of gasoline from a vehicle parked in the Quaker Oats lot Tuesday night.

Magistrate W. R. Philp Q.C. remanded them to appear for sentence on January 25.

Trieste's Restless DP's Hope For Haven Overseas

TRIESTE (OFNS)—Five-hundred and sixty political refugees from Eastern countries have left Trieste this month aboard the Italian liner "Toscana" for settlement in Australia. This is the first direct movement of importance to an overseas receiving centre organised for displaced persons stranded here.

Many of the refugees were Yugoslavs whose presence in the Free Territory of Trieste had caused anxiety to British and American officials ever since the outbreak of the crisis last autumn, when there seemed every possibility of an armed clash between Yugoslavia and Italy for the possession of Trieste. Yugoslavia's leader, Marshal Tito, might have dealt out severe punishment to runaway Yugoslavs found taking political asylum in the Anglo-American zone if his troops had entered. And Rome was no longer prepared to accommodate Yugoslavs in Italy.

STRONG APPEALS

Fortunately the inter-Governmental European Migration Conference held at Venice last October intervened, launching a strong appeal to overseas countries. Australia responded immediately by sending a selection team to Trieste, and offering agricultural employment contracts to those found suitable to help harvest this year's bumper fruit crops in Australia. Facilities will also be provided later for refugees wishing to acquire Australian nationality.

With its present immigration policy set on importing specially-selected manpower in large batches according to requirements while it is exploiting its recently-discovered oil and uranium resources, Australia may provide jobs for many more of the displaced persons in Trieste, now estimated to total three thousand five hundred. But with further refugees pouring in almost daily from the east, there seems to be no hope that the Free Territory's refugee problem will be wound up completely before Trieste's own future is decided and the Western allies leave. The only way out would be to bring together some overseas countries with large and expanding economies to apportion the refugees among themselves; and it is understood that the United Nations High Commission for Refugees might be asked to make a plea to this effect.

TENS OF THOUSANDS

Tens of thousands of refugees from East European countries and Yugoslavia arrived in Trieste during the period—almost nine years—during which the Free Territory was a quasi-independent State under the Allied Military Government. Most of them were settled individually or in small groups, somehow and somewhere in the West, after patient and tenacious efforts by a small group of efficient Allied officials working here under a split command—responsible both to the United Nations High Commission for Refugees and to the Allied Military Government on the spot. With little means at their disposal they even trained unqualified refugees for jobs in the West; and only recently they managed to persuade Switzerland to accept responsibility for almost a hundred refugees suffering from tuberculosis.

It is really the hard core of aged and sick which presents the greatest difficulties. Those with special facilities and energy almost always find the means to help themselves into a new life; under the leadership of two or three exceptionally spirited artists, a group of White Russians who sought asylum from Communism in Yugoslavia in the First World War, and who then fled to Trieste when Yugoslavia turned Communist after the Second World War, managed to build up a dance band and cabaret ensemble, which soon acquired fame in Trieste, and disappeared all too soon when international entertainment agents offered big contracts.

A constant problem for the Trieste refugee reception centre was what to do with escaped criminals seeking asylum in the guise of political refugees. Although in many cases Yugoslavia could present substantial evidence to make out a case for the return of escaped non-political offenders, pressure exercised by humanitarian organisations in the West in most cases prevented their return; but the problem remained of what to do with such undesirable arrivals: they could merely be punished for illegally entering the Free Territory.

Many children, too, arrived on their own, and presented themselves as political refugees. Once a boy of fifteen came—but during his interrogation no valid reason for allowing him asylum as a political refugee could be established: neither he nor his relatives had ever been persecuted; none of them had suffered expatriation nor had anyone been degraded for political reasons, etc. Finally the boy shouted: "But I had a terrible row with my schoolmaster."

And there were the cases of teenagers who merely came for the sake of adventure—and some of whom brought their girl friends. —OFNS-Copyright.

HIGHWAY FOR NORTHERN DEFENCE—Work is expected to start this winter on a tractor-and-sleigh highway for northern defence stretching over 1,800 miles of wilderness from Manitoba to the Yukon. It will stretch from the Manitoba mining community of Flin Flon to the Yukon settlement of Watson Lake. The winter-only road will run over frozen lakes and tundra and will be used by "cat-trains"—caterpillar-type tractors towing a number of loaded sleighs.

Operas, Stripteases For Big Four Visitors

BERLIN (Reuters)—Both sides of divided Berlin report they are ready to dish up as entertainment everything from high opera to low striptease for the diversion of visiting diplomats at next week's Big Four conference.

Joachim Tiburtius, West Berlin councillor for culture, Tuesday described a cultural program that will "show what Berlin can offer without putting up a facade." Regular theatre, opera and concerts will include some "top performers" and a number of special features are scheduled, he said.

The West Berlin opera will feature Wagner and Strauss. Composer Paul Hindemuth will conduct the first German performance of his cantata To Hope with the Berlin philharmonic orchestra, and theatre attractions will include the German premiere of The Crucible by United States playwright Arthur Miller, to be performed here under the title Witch Hunt.

If it's lighter entertainment visitors are seeking, the Association of West Berlin Restaurant Owners has already provided a guide to the city's night life.

ESCAPE FROM TROUBLES

Waiting for the diplomats' arrival is a 12-page folder gaily decorated with nude figures and outlining ready means of escape from "the troubles and problems of the day."

"The solo performances of graceful striptease dancers will soon distract you from the naked facts of everyday life," the conference visitors are told.

Across the sector boundary big things are also planned. The East German news agency ADN reported a festival of music and dance lined up for East Berlin during the conference. Soviet artists, musicians and dancers head the list, while top organizations from the east zone include the Dresden philharmonic orchestra and state opera choir and the Leipzig Thomas choir.

Slow Returns

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (CP)—New Zealand is making an effort to reform its chaotic Maori land laws. At present land often descends to entire families, is again divided among their children and so on. In some cases there are so many owners that an individual receives as his share of the rent about one penny in 48 years.

Quiet Spot

SANDWICH, England (CP)—The 900-year-old magistrate's court in this Kent county village is closing at neighboring Wingham. Officials say there is not enough crime in the community to justify keeping the court open.

Begins Second Year In Office As U.S. President

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today started his second year in office and a close associate said "he's thriving on the challenge" of the big job ahead.

Cabinet members, Republican party officials and White House staff members arranged to present a surprise gift to the president at a ceremony in his office commemorating the first anniversary of his inauguration.

He scheduled a breakfast conference with State Secretary Dulles, who flies to Berlin Thursday for the Big Four foreign ministers' conference. While there Dulles will talk with Russia's foreign minister Molotov about Eisenhower's proposal for creation of an international [illegible] for peaceful purposes.

People who have worked with Eisenhower in the White House report that he seems to be in top physical condition and cheerful.

One aide said Eisenhower "probably hates" some of the detail of his job and that he isn't happy about having to attend the many social functions.

This aide, who asked that his name be withheld, also said the president chafes somewhat under the confinement of the presidency —although he has travelled 36,476 miles since his inauguration.

Noranda Tells 200 Strikers To Pay Rents

NORANDA (CP) — Noranda Mines today notified 200 of its 1,600 striking employees that further house rental arrears would not be permitted.

The company sent out letters which said that if rents are not paid at once, collections would be put in the hands of lawyers.

S. D. Cooke, mine accountant, said the letter was normal business procedure. All rents had been paid to the end of August. Since then, some strikers have paid their rents; others have paid some; and a number have paid nothing.

The majority of the company-owned houses in Noranda are duplex types, available only to mine employees. Rents range from $20 to $35 per month, Mr. Cooke said.

(In Toronto, Eamon Park, legislative director of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL), on strike at Noranda for the past seven months, said the average overdue rent is about $80.

("We are negotiating with Noranda, with another meeting scheduled for Thursday," Mr. Park said.)

The union is seeking wage increases and the checkoff.

Carried 13 Tons On 3-Ton Truck

A man who admitted to carrying 13 tons of gravel on his three ton truck, and to being unable to stop and avoid a collision, was charged in court Tuesday with driving without reasonable consideration for other users of the road.

The driver was Donald Herbert Covert, 487 Albert St., who was fined $10, costs $3.75, by Magistrate W. R. Philp Q.C.

It was stated that Covert's truck had been so heavilly loaded that it had taken him 282 feet to stop on a small decline. A slight collision with another vehicle had resulted.

William Scott Heads Police

Members of the Peterborough police association and police benevolent fund association elected a completely new list of officers at the annual meeting of the twin associations held Monday. They also decided that both bodies, although remaining separate as working units, would have only one president to serve in a dual capacity.

The new president elected was traffic constable William G. Scott. Sergeant Claire McGillen was voted in as vice-president, and constable John Conlin as secretary-treasurer.

Elected to the executive were patrol sergeant Harold Mesley and constables Harold Andrew and Grant Gillespie.

Under discussion at the meeting were some proposed changes in the associations' constitutions and the annual dance which is expected to be held sometime in the Spring.

Homes Condemned

TORONTO (CP) — Fifteen unfinished homes in a new subdivision in suburban Lorne Park have been condemned and Douglas Reddington, Toronto township building inspector, said Tuesday none can be sold until they are brought up to township standards. Mr. Reddington said many of the homes already sold would not stand for 10 years.

Died At Kindergarten

TORONTO (CP) — Six-year-old Douglas Rees collapsed and died of a heart attack at a York township kindergarten Tuesday. Coroner Dr. K. R. Baxter reported. His teacher found him unconscious on the floor.

List Improvements At Animal Shelter

The president of the Peterborough Humane Society, Mrs. Anna Hamilton has written Mayor Norman Graham, outlining the improvements to the animals shelter the society considers necessary.

The improvements were suggested by the general-manager of the Ontario Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, who inspected the shelter last fall.

Mrs. Hamilton said she had received a letter from the city clerk early in December, advising her that the city engineer would look into the matter and get estimates on the requested improvements but she had not heard anything more about the matter.

Following a report in the Examiner last Thursday of freezing temperatures in the shelter, Mayor Graham announced that a stove had been installed but said upkeep of the pound was the responsibility of the Humane Society.

Improvements suggested by the general-manager of the OSPCA were:

(1) Cut two new windows and supply screens.

(2) Insulate ceilings and walls of building.

(3) Supply oil space heater or equivalent. (Temperature to be at least 60 degrees).

(4) Supply wooden benches in kennels for dogs to sleep on, four inches off the floor. (The present benches were considered adequate, provided they were covered with plenty of straw).

(5) Erect a fence around the building to stop vandalism.

Mrs. Hamilton added that the society was badly in need of a space at the shelter to keep cats.

Mayor Graham submitted the letter to city council who referred it to the board of works.

McNulty Sought Ever Since St. Thomas Fire

A wirephoto of the man arrested in Calgary for murder and arson in St. Thomas last Nov. 15 shows that he is Frank J. McNulty, 36, a former Peterborough resident. Crown Attorney E. F. Sanders of St. Thomas said that McNulty was the only lodger that escaped fully dressed last Nov 15 from the burning YMCA building in which two other lodgers lost their lives. The charges of arson and murder were laid on the authorization of the Ontario attorney-general's department.

FRANK J. McNULTY, 36, of Peterborough, for whom a warrant has been issued in St. Thomas charging him with murder in connection with the YMCA fire there on November 15 when two persons died. McNulty is being held by the Calgary police on a charge of arson.

WANTED FOR QUESTIONING

Since he left Peterborough last summer McNulty is alleged to have left a trail of five arson attempts in hostels where he was staying. He is wanted for questioning over three fires that broke out in July at the YMCA in Fort William, again for the disastrous blaze in St. Thomas where two men were burned to death, and again for the Calgary fire.

Unknown to him, he was under police observation on Friday when the Calgary fire broke out. Inspector Ray Simmons of the fire marshal's office, Toronto, was flying by plane to Calgary to question him when he was taken into custody on an arson charge.

He had been staying at the Salvation Army hostel for a month after being released on probation in the care of Major Joshua Monk. He had represented himself in Calgary as a salesman and was later charged with obtaining a meal by fraud.

McNulty, who has also gone under the alias of Charles McNally, was born in Peterborough. He attended school in Peterborough and served in the RCAF during the Second World War. He travelled for some time and later was employed in the retail store of Mayor Norman Graham.

Before leaving Peterborough last year he lived in the YMCA and for a considerable time now circulars have been posted in an endeavor to try to find him.

ARRESTED SATURDAY

The RCAF veteran was arrested 3 a.m. Saturday while walking a Calgary St. after an alleged attempt to burn down the Salvation Army hostel. The blaze was discovered in a bundle of clothing in a basement room, and was extinguished before there was any damage to the building which has some 200 residents.

Officials from the fire marshal's office, Toronto, believe that made the fifth fire he has started in YMCA and Salvation Army hostels since last July.

Besides the St. Thomas and Calgary fires, he is alleged to have started three fires last July in the Fort William YMCA, causing $15,000 damage. Inspector Simmons was on his way to Fort William to question McNulty at that time when the wanted man dropped out of sight.

McNulty will appear in Calgary magistrate's court Friday morning on the arson charge. It is likely,

Seguin Hid Poison 9 Months

Jury Has Absolved Jail Officials Of Any Death Blame

CORNWALL —(CP)—Henri Seguin concealed the poison he swallowed to take his own life and escape the gallows in his body, perhaps as long as nine months, a coroner's inquest was told Wednesday night. The five-man jury absolved jail officials and other last-minute visitors to Seguin's death cell of any blame.

The jury, who heard testimony from 29 witnesses in the 2½-hour hearing, took 20 minutes to return a verdict of self-administered death from cyanide poisoning.

The evidence indicated that Seguin may have hidden the poison in his rectum from the time he was captured in British Columbia last spring in an attempted hold-up.

He kept the vial of poison in a slender aluminium container, found on his cot after he died in agony Monday night an hour before he was to mount the gallows to be hanged for the murder of taxi-driver Leonard Hurd.

LETTER SHOWED PLAN

His determination to cheat the hangman was expressed in the 32nd and final page of a letter to his sister. The letter, rambling and ungrammatical, was completed the day of his death and read by police after Seguin was in his death throes.

As written it said:

"Justice has condemned me as a dog, they will try and hang me like one, but I will try my best not to, I will cheat them to the very last end, if I do succeed to cheat them in the END I will only be toclade (too glad) to do so, if I don't cheat them it will not be because I did not try to do."

The letter, Seguin's only last request, was to be turned over to jail authorities at 11 o'clock for delivery to the condemned man's sister. By the time provincial police inspector Robert Wannell reached the end of page 32, Seguin was dead.

ECCENTRICITY DESCRIBED

The bulk of evidence at the inquest concerned Seguin's peculiar toilet customs, his refusal to use facilities outside his cell and his preference for a pail. He had told guards that his sanitary habits were irregular and that he pre-

Private Firm Given Full Powers In Investigation

TORONTO (CP)—A private firm of consultants has been given unlimited powers by the Ontario government to expose irregularities at the Fort William division of the highways department. J. D. Woods and Gordon Limited was hired by the government Wednesday to conduct a full-scale investigation into the case, which so far has resulted in charges against five men.

Highways Minister Doucett announced the move. It was the latest step taken by the government following disclosures of irregular practices at the branch.

HAVE FULL FREEDOM

Mr. Doucett said the company's investigators are free to go anywhere, interview anybody and probe into all records of the departments. He asked the firm to make any recommendations it sees fit.

Mr. Doucett and Premier Frost said in a joint statement:

"As a result of the work of the provincial auditor and of the comptroller of the department of highways, irregularities were found in the Fort William division. . . . Investigations disclose what appear to be erious alterations in official documents, plans and records."

Premier Frost said the investigation will be pressed with all possible speed and "the fullest report on the whole situation will be made at the earliest possible moment to the people and legislature."

The men under arrest include divisional engineer Arthur M. Mills. He is charged with "authorizing payment for work not done" and of misrepresenting the amount of work actually performed under highway contracts.

OTTAWA KEPT INFORMED

The ministers' statement said: "Contracts in the division in question involve trans-Canada highway contracts in which the federal government is interested, and that government is being kept informed of the investigation and proceedings." It added:

"Charges have been preferred against certain individuals and these charges are being proceeded with. It must be pointed out that those charged are entitled to a fair trial and nothing should be said which would affect the impartiality of that trial. Accordingly, the department and the provincial auditor have been careful not to make statements relative to what will be alleged to have taken place,

Crack Flyer Hits Freight, 300 Casualties

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP)—The Pakistan Mail, crack passenger train, ripped at 60 miles an hour into a freight train early today 75 miles north of here. Foreign Minister Sir Zafrullah Khan, who escaped unscathed, said on his return here some eyewitnesses put the total killed or injured at about 300.

The train was roaring through the desolate Sind desert from Lahore to Karachi when it crashed into the train of oil tank cars. The first two passenger coaches were reported "completely burned," although the oil freight did not explode. Two other front cars—all apparently carrying lower class passengers—and the two engines were said to have been badly damaged. A number of foreigners, including Britons and Americans, were aboard.

CASUALTIES TOP 300

Zafrullah Khan said some eyewitnesses estimated casualties at a top of 300, but that he personally would not put the toll at more than 100.

The 60-year-old foreign minister, a devout Moslem, was saying his morning prayers in his compartment—in the middle of the train—when the collision occurred. There was a severe jolt and a thunderous noise, he said, followed by the shrieks and wails of injured men and women.

By the time he got out of his compartment flames were shooting from the wreckage ahead and passengers were fleeing in terror. Many were trapped inside the wreckage. When Zafrullah Khan left the wreck to walk the three miles to his car, he said the fire appeared out of control.

Eisenhower Asks U.S. Share A-Secrets

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today proposed the United States share its ready-to-use atomic materials with friendly nations for peaceful purposes regardless of the outcome of atom talks with Russia.

Eisenhower also told Congress it is "essential" to give him at this session authority to pass on to U. S. allies now-secret information on how to use atomic weapons in battle.

The president's proposals, part of his budget message for the year starting July 1, were contained in an atomic program which also called for:

BIGGEST PROGRAM

1. A biggest-in-history $1,182,000,000 expansion program for the Atomic Energy Commission, with development and testing of "new weapon types" and stepped-up research to develop nuclear power for industrial use.

2. A bigger share for private industry "in the development of this new and uniquely active energy source."

3. An end to federal ownership of the "atom towns" of Oak Ridge, Tenn., and Richland, Wash., so people living there can buy homes, establish self-government and "manage their own affairs in a more normal fashion."

Churchill Retirement Seen In 6 Months

NEW YORK (CP) — The New York Times says today in a London dispatch that the possibility that Prime Minister Churchill will retire within the next six months "is assuming a paramount position in British politics."

The dispatch said a number of "experienced Conservative politicians" believe the prime minister will retire from office after the Queen returns in May from her six-month Commonwealth tour.

"Political circles in the Conservative party generally accept the probability that Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden will be Sir Winston's successor," the dispatch adds. "Mr. Eden's increasing health and vigor have combined to help him outdistance R. A. Butler, chancellor of the exchequer."

Plane Crashes 24 Escape Death

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—A twin-engined Convair airliner belly-landed in a swampy field five minutes after takeoff from Buffalo airport Wednesday, skidded an eighth of a mile, plunged through trees and brush and lost a wing. But miraculously, no one was killed or seriously hurt.

Six of the 24 aboard the American Airlines westbound plane were injured. Five were taken to hospitals. Two Toronto passengers escaped unhurt.

The airline said the left engine failed shortly after takeoff. Investigations were begun by the airline and the civil aeronautics administration to learn the cause.

Queen's Editor Quits Says Policy Curtailed

KINGSTON (CP) — Editor-in-chief of the Queen's University student publication, Queen's Journal, Samuel Bronstein has resigned his post following a policy dispute with the Alma Mater Society, undergraduate governing body.

Two other editors, Charles Taylor of Toronto and Nina Stone, Montreal, also resigned.

Mr. Bronstein's move came after what he said was an attempt by the society to curtail Journal editorial policy. Recently the society passed a resolution which forbade the Journal acceptance of advertising by Kingston merchants of jackets unacceptable under AMS year-jacket regulations.

"We are taking a stand on the principle of freedom of the press," said Mr. Bronstein.

Canadians Cold As Mercury Hits 56 Below

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Cold weather prevails over most of Canada today. The only warm air is over Nova Scotia and New Brunswick and the weather man says it will be blown away by cold winds tonight.

There is no relief from the cold expected anywhere in Canada Friday.

Fifteen below is the warmest expected today on the Prairies, the country's coldest region. British Columbia centres expected a high of 32 degrees, with rain and some snow. New Brunswick forecast highs of 30-35 and Nova Scotia highs of about 48.

PLUNGE IN ONTARIO

The weather bureau says the east coast warm spell is one that was blown out of Ontario Wednesday night. Ontario temperatures dropped in some centres from 42 Wednesday to 12 today.

Temperatures in Ontario and Quebec dropped about 13 degrees in two hours Wednesday night.

Ontario's warm spell brought a half-inch of rain to the province Wednesday. Parts of Nova Scotia got fog and drizzle today but skies are clear elsewhere except for some cloud over the frozen Prairies.

The coldest spot reported in Canada Wednesday night was Key river in northern Alberta, with 56 below zero.

Couple Injured As Gas Explodes

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A young couple moving into a new apartment were injured Wednesday night in an explosion that blew out three walls of the building and shook homes a block away.

Firemen said leaking illuminating gas probably caused the blast.

Jack Ball, 29, was reported in serious condition in hospital with burns to his head, hands and face. Mrs. Ball's clothes were set alight by a fire that followed the blast but her condition was not considered serious.

Firemen said Mr. Ball apparently turned on the gas stove when he entered the apartment and the explosion followed.

Mr. and Mrs. Ball's son, Johnny, 4, was at the home of relatives while his parents prepared their new home.

Union Leaders Have Confidence In Behie

TIMMINS (CP)—Roy Fletcher, chairman of the strategy committee of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) local here, said today union leaders have returned a unanimous vote of confidence in the union's regional director, Leo (Buck) Behie.

The action was taken after an attempt by John Stevenson, Hollinger miner, to have Behie ousted. Stevenson claimed he represented 1,000 workers and demanded a special membership meeting.

Fletcher said Stevenson is not chairman of the Hollinger stewards as the miner had claimed nor is he ever a member of the steelworkers union.

15,000 Chickens Die As Fire Destroys Large Hatchery At Norham

WARKWORTH. — More than 15,000 pullets were destroyed early this morning as fire swept through William Newman's steel-and-frame chicken hatchery at Norham, 35 miles southeast of Peterborough, west of Highway 30, south of Havelock. In addition 48,000 eggs in incubators were destroyed as flames raced uncontrolled through the three-storey building. Although his business was entirely destroyed, Mr. Newman said "we were lucky that we didn't lose our home as well." The hatchery is located just 50 feet west of the house. The house was saved by a last-minute shift in the direction of the wind.

Only a pile of rubble remains at the focal point of Mr. Newman's poultry farm. The building was razed to the ground and the loss is only partially covered by insurance.

Heroic efforts on the part of Mr. Newman saved a new panel truck, located at one end of the hatchery. The truck was backed from the burning building just a few seconds before the roof caved in.

SEEN BY BROTHER

The blaze was first noticed just a few minutes before seven a.m. by Hayden Newman, a brother who lives on an adjoining farm and by Stewart Low, another neighbor. They roused Mr. Newman, called the Warkworth fire department, and organized a bucket brigade in the meantime. But it was no use.

The fire loss was "especially depressing," said Mr. Newman, because he had just recently completed an expansion program in his hatchery. A $5,000 incubator was added in December and had been in operation only a few weeks.

"Everything is going wrong," said Mr. Newman. Just last week his wife broke her arm and in the last few months "we've paid 10 hospital bills." Some of these bills were for the two Newman children, aged five and eighteen months.

CAUSE UNKNOWN

Cause of the devastating fire is unknown, but it is believed to have started in one of the brooder rooms, or possibly in the incubator section, smoldering for some time within before become visible outside. Time of the fire was tentatively fixed at 6:40.

Mr. Newman depends for his livelihood on his chicken hatchery, a solid rectangular building measuring 80 x 22 feet. He plans to rebuild "as soon as possible" in an attempt to recoup losses esti-

All-Canadian Seaway Plan

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada is going to push for an all-Canadian seaway on the St. Lawrence river, government informants say, regardless of what the United States Congress does about the deep waterway.

While this view clashes with U.S. administration thinking, the government is understood to be prepared to press it as far as it can without knocking out the whole seaway project.

"We're going to hold out for a seaway built on the Canadian side of the river," a cabinet source said.

BULLETIN

OTTAWA (CP)—Under the government's proposed amendments, the ceiling on National Housing Act loans will be raised to about $12,800, but the interest rates will be kept below six per cent. Works Minister Winters indicated in the Commons today. He released more detail of new housing legislation as he opened debate on second reading—approval in principle. The bill will allow chartered banks to go int the mortgage-lending busines through a mortgage insurance system to be administered by the government's housing agency, Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation. Down payments on houses to be occupied by owners will be reduced to 10 per cent from 20 per cent on the first $8,000 of the lending value, but increased to 30 per cent on portions in excess of that amount. Minimum life of the mortgage will be increased to 25 years from 20 and the maximum to 30 years from 25.

Refuse Quebec Unions Permission To March

QUEBEC (CP) — Police chief Roger Lemire said today the city has refused a verbal request by Quebec unions for permission to stage a march this weekend in protest against provincial government legislation.

He said police officials will meet later today to decide what action will be taken in the event the refusal is not complied with.

Meantime, Pat Walsh, labor leader who resigned a year ago from a number of allegedly Communist-controlled organizations, said he is surprised that the Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor has taken the initiative in organizing a protest meeting.

The planned demonstration is against two provincial bills—one of which is designed to decertify unions tolerating Communists in their ranks. The second provides for decertification of public service unions engaging in strike action.

Officer Robbed, Two Arrested

OWEN SOUND (CP) — Police arrested two Owen Sound youths early today in the climax to a search begun when a city policeman was held up and robbed of his gun.

James Coutch, 17, and William Baker, 16, were to appear in court but the nature of the charges against them was not revealed.

Police discovered a break-in Wednesday at an optical shop. Two guns, of .22 and .32 calibre, were stolen, along with a small amount of money.

An hour later constable Wilmer Crawford stopped two youths in an alley and began to search them.

As he searched one, the other drew a gun and held up Crawford. They took Crawford's .38 calibre colt automatic and fled.

Crawford identified the arrested youths as the two who held him up.

New Republican Budget Of $65 Billion Will Put U.S. $3 Billion In Debt

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower laid a $65,500,000,000 budget before United States Congress today, slashing more than $5,000,000,000 from total spending but proposing record outlays for atomic energy, continental defence and overseas military aid.

Despite a 7½-per-cent cut under estimated spending this year, also lowered, Eisenhower told Congress the government will wind up the 955 fiscal year nearly $3,000,000,000 in the red. Fiscal 1955 starts July 1.

Although he proposed a broad program of changes in tax laws, Eisenhower told Congress no further general tax cuts are justified at present.

His message said the budget was based on a "new concept" of security planning which places reliance on "the full exploitation of modern air power" and on "new weapons" to justify cuts in manpower and dollar defence.

He proposed spending $2,425,000,000 next year for atomic energy. This increase of $225,000,000 over this year would bring U. S. atomic spending to "the highest point in our history." Since most atomic plant construction is complete, spending now would concentrate on "operations."

RECORD OUTLAY

Eisenhower set no figure for continental defence but said outlays would be "greater than ever before in our history."

Military aid will rise by $75,000,000; Eisenhower said, to a new peak of $4,275,000,000 for round-the-world assistance to friendly countries.

The president told Congress that "there will be no way of operating within the present debt limit" of $275,000,000,000 in the last six months of this year. Therefore he was renewing his request, stymied in the Senate last summer, for a higher ceiling.

Both Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey and budget director Joseph M. Dodge, who met reporters at briefing sessions, refused to forecast when the budget might be balanced. Both said efforts to bring outgo down to the level of income will not be relaxed.

This budget was the first prepared by a national Republican administration in 21 years. All the recommendations, of course, are subject to approval by Congress.

5,000 New Homes Seen In Hamilton Plan

HAMILTON (CP) — A huge land assembly scheme of the federal and provincial governments on the mountain at the southeastern boundary of the city would mean the building of possibly 5,000 new homes in this area, according to an announcement from Ottawa today by Thomas H. Ross, MP for Hamilton East.

The statement was made a few weeks after W. K. Warrender, provincial minister of planning and development, said steps were being taken to release the Ontario Hospital farm property on the southwest mountain for possibly 1,500 to 2,000 homes.

GROTON, Conn. (AP) — The atomic submarine Nautilus was launched successfully today with Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower christening the world's first nuclear engined submersible.

A fog had lifted and the sun shone brightly as the sleek vessel slid down the ways into the Thames river at 10:57 a. m. EST.

Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission said during the launching ceremonies the craft symbolizes both the "atomic thunderbolts" of defence and of a peaceful boon of nuclear power.

And the Navy's top commander, Admiral Robert B. Carney, saw the occasion as an unfolding of "new vistas of American sea power."

Strauss said this launching transcends all those that have gone before because "the Nautilus is something new under the sun."

Carney said the Nautilus marks the beginning of a new chapter in the history of sea power.

The admiral commented that "as remarkable as this development seems to us now, the Nautilus will probably appear to our sons and grandsons a quaint old piece of machinery which introduced the transition to a new age of power."

Also attending are high representatives of the other armed forces, Congress members and state officials. The plan was to handle a crowd of 12,000 persons, including workmen of the electric boat division of General Dynamics Corp. who built the hull of the submarine.

Mrs. Eisenhower, the first wife of a president to christen a submarine, had only to crack the traditional bottle of American champagne on the blunt bow, declare "I christen thee, U.S.S. Nautilus," and stand clear as a trigger freed the boat for its slide into the Thames river.

For a ship of unprecedented design, the Nautilus was built with amazing speed. Her keel was laid by former president Truman June 14, 1952.

At about the same time the Westinghouse Corp., began construction of a land-based model atomic power plant. That power plant, designed around an atomic furnace using uranium 235 as fuel, develops steam for operating a turbine. A copy of the power plant was constructed for the Nautilus.

Urge Dissolving Postoffice Bank Save $377,000

OTTAWA (CP)—A private firm of efficiency experts has urged the government to dissolve an 87-year-old Canadian banking institution.

The firm, J. D. Woods and Gordon of Toronto, said the Postoffice Savings Bank, formed in 1867, is too expensive to operate and should be discontinued. It estimated the bank's passing would save $377,000 a year.

The recommendation was one of many in a 45,000-word report dealing with administration of the post office and made public Wednesday by Postmaster-General Cote.

The report, written in 1952, found the department efficient and its administration basically sound but said, in effect, that it can do better.

"During the course of our survey we have been impressed by the over-all efficiency of the department and the basic soundness of its organization," the report said.

SUBSTANTIAL SAVINGS

There were, however, "a number of instances where he felt confident substantial savings and improvements in servi can be introduced providing the organization structure is strengthened."

There was no estimate of total savings that might be made from the report's 75-odd recommendations.

The report, noting that most Canadian communities now are served by private banks, said the special need for Post-office Savings Bank branches in Communities without regular banking facilities has all but disappeared.

If the recommendation is not acceptable, the report said, postal savings branches should operate only in communities without private banking facilities.

March 31, 1952, total postal savings deposits were $38,000,000 comprising 282,236 accounts. Of these 22,699 accounts were active. The postal bank pays interest at the rate of two per cent. The interest rate of private banks is 1½ per cent.

1,530 POST OFFICES

Of the 1,530 post offices providing savings-bank facilities, only 461 were in communities not served by other banking institutions.

The 154-page report, prepared confidentially for the postmaster-general, was tabled in the Commons in the wake of a minor controversy started when extracts from it were quoted by William Hamilton (PC—Montreal Notre-Dame-de-Grace).

Mr. Cote said the Montreal member's action, during last week's debate on proposed postage-rate increases, had put his department in "an unfavorable light."

He was not ashamed of the report and was making it public because it was "only fair" to do so. The report "emphasizes that the department is well administered."

NO OBLIGATION

However, it was not customary to give the Commons confidential reports on administration prepared for ministers and the tabling placed no obligation on the government to follow suit on similar reports in future.

Opposition Leader Drew, who asked originally that the report be tabled, said the government policy of considering management reports as confidential could let the government hide behind such reports whenever something is wrong.

After the report was tabled, a motion by Davie Fulton (PC—Kamloops) for production of another report on the post-office department was defeated 137 to 73. The report was made in 1950 by the civil service commission and referred to post office methods of keeping records and issuing supplies. The government said the report was confidential.

PM Quashes News Report

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said Wednesday he hopes the Commons will accept government statements in the House rather than newspaper reports.

He was replying to a question by Opposition Leader Drew about an Ottawa newspaper report Tuesday that a "definite recommendation" had been made to the treasury board concerning tenders for construction of National Film Board headquarters in Montreal. The reports conflicted with Mr. St. Laurent's statement a few hours earlier that no decision had been reached.

"I would hope that the House would take the statements made by the government in preference to reports by speculative newspapers," Mr. St. Laurent replied sharply.

Seguin Hid Poison

ferred the greater privacy of his cell.

Suspicion was aroused he might be concealing something and one examination was made. However, nothing was found.

Dr. Ward Smith, director of the Ontario medical legal laboratory, Toronto, testified that from the condition of the aluminium container he estimated that it could have been secreted in Seguin's body for at least six months.

Other stomach contents made possible a reconstruction of the suicide act. Seguin pierced an orange with the glass vial, then bit on the orange several times to break the glass and release the poison. He then consumed the orange in large gulps.

PADRE'S VISIT

Rev. Rudolphe Villeneuve, summoned by Seguin before he took the poison, told the jury that when he arrived at the jail about 10:35 p. m. he was asked to wait while the convicted murderer relieved himself. He heard Seguin making gagging noises and thought he was being sick.

"When I went in, the guards pulled up a chair in front of the cell door. Seguin was pale and upset, a different man than he was the day before. He was sitting down puffing a cigaret. . . .

"I gave him a little Christmas card from his niece. He started to read it. It told him to have a happy death. He began to cry. He said he wanted to make his peace with God. He said he was sorry for his sins.

"He seemed to get more and more upset. He threw himself on the cot. He pulled a towel over his face. He seemed to get into a convulsion. His hands were shaking, he was turned on his side, breathing heavily. . . ."

Dr. John McGuire, the prison physician, was summoned but by that time Seguin was beyond help. He was dead within minutes.

Troopship Rams Small LCM 28 U.S. Marines Drowned

INCHON, Korea (AP)—Twenty-eight United States Marines were drowned today when a troopship loaded with Chinese war prisoners rammed and overturned their small landing craft. It was the second costliest naval disaster of the Korean theatre. The navy said 22 men were rescued from Inchon harbor minutes after the collision between a big Formosa-bound LST (landing ship, tank) and an LCM (land craft, medium).

The men, brought here from the 3rd marine division in Japan as guards for the Chinese, were combat-loaded with heavy boots, packs, helmets, rifles, and winter uniforms.

They sank quickly in the icy, choppy waters of Inchon's outer harbor after the big LST rammed their smallest LCM, rolled it on its side, and hurled overboard the 48 marines aboard and the boat's crew of four.

Rescue boats moments later rescued 24 marines and the crew of two U.S. soldiers and two Koreans.

SEARCH DISCONTINUED

By dusk only five bodies had been recovered and the search for 19 other missing marines was called off.

The accident occurred when the LCM crossed the bow of the big LST, loaded with 1,000 Chinese prisoners returned to the United Nations command by Indian custodian troops Wednesday. The LST was reported manned by a Japanese crew.

Toll of the naval tragedy was surpassed in the Korean theatre only by the 30 dead in a turret explosion aboard the U.S. cruiser St. Paul April 21, 1952.

Mr. Doucett asked the company to study all phases of the organization and methods of operation of the Fort William division. J. D. woods and Gordon Limited conducted an investigation into the post office department for the federal government.

The investigation, which will have a wider scope than that which followed disclosures of thefts at Petawawa military camp two years ago, will, government officials say, be more searching than a royal commission inquiry.

FIRE SQUEALERS

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto Telegram said today that Ontario highways department workers who "talked too much" and thus touched off an investigation at the Fort William division "have been weeded out of work gangs."

In a dispatch from Fort William, by-lined by John Dalrymple, Telegram staff reporter, the paper says "the men have been fired by foremen despite job guarantees given them by auditors last July when the investigation began."

Reports of a "quiet, month-long purge of 'squealers' come from all over the division," The Telegram story says.

"The employees questioned revealed to auditors that a very large number of the department's 200 employees here (at Fort William) were engaged in widespread 'chiselling' of various kinds.

"Most incidents they revealed dealt with looting of department materials."

Musicians Plan European Tour

Mr. Christopher Gledhill, former organist and choirmaster at St. Paul's church, Peterborough, and presently serving in a similar capacity at the church of St. James the Apostle in Montreal, is to personally direct a tour of the music festivals of Europe this summer.

This has been announced by the Peterborough firm, TEM Travel, which is organising arrangements for the tour.

The tour will leave New York on July 30 and return via Quebec on September 6. In his capacity as director, Mr. Gledhill will be on hand for explanations and to give information when the party visits musical centres in Europe and attends music festivals and operas.

The proprietors of TEM Travel, Eldon Purvis and Harvey Strub, said that at least 20 people must make bookings to make the tour possible.

The party will go first to London and Oxford and thence to Brussels, Bayreuth, Vienna, Salzburg, Lucerne, Paris and Le Havre. At Le Havre the party will embark for Canada.

During the tour the party will visit music festivals in Bayreuth, Salzburg and Lucerne, an opera also at Bayreuth and concerts in London. Ample leisure time is allowed when people can visit places of historical interest and attend musical functions individually.

mated between $30,000 and $40,000.

Although the hatchery is reinforced with structural steel, most of it is of light frame construction. This caused the fire to jump from slat to slat, missing the steel girders. Eventually, however, even these collapsed in the debris.

Paying tribute to the work of his neighbors and to the fire brigade from Warkworth (a few miles from Norham) Mr. Newman said "they were wonderful, but once the fire got going nothing could stop it." The fire department was able to direct a steady stream of water from a pond between the house and the hatchery, but by then the building was crumbling.

Survey Shows Hospital Drive Would Fall Short

LINDSAY (ENS). — The Lindsay hospital expansion committee's progress on plans for a new hospital has been slowed considerably according to officials, by the report of a survey made by a fund-raising organization, the John Price Jones Company.

Earlier in its meetings, the expansion committee voted to attempt to build a new hospital at a cost of some $1,800,000. This provided for use of the present hospital building for a convalescent or chronically ill hospital.

Wednesday night's meeting was told that the survey had shown that the maximum possible to be raised in the hospital area would be some $1,445,000. Added to this would be some $150,000 in grants.

The executive of the expansion committee told the rest of the members Wednesday night that the report had not been made public because the heads of the various sub-committees and the board of governors of the hospital had doubted the report.

The survey company, said secretary Ken Garbig, had set the figure as one that might be easily attained, so that there would be no danger of the campaign failing.

SUGGEST SALE

The report also recommended the sale of the present building, since it could not be put to further use. The members of the executive had answered this clause in the report, they said, by asking representatives of the Ontario department of health to come to Lindsay and examine the present building to determine what use could be made of it.

At this point, the chairman, Vincent Fee, told the members of the committee that the work of the committee had been slowed by two important questions — could the committee prove the report wrong, and raise the necessary funds for the completely new hospital, or should the report be accepted and some changes or curtailments made in the facilities planned?

Secretary Garbig told the committee that a saving of some $150,000 could be realized by taking off one floor of the new hospital as planned by Dr. Harvey Agnew.

Members of the committee were critical of the executive for keeping the report out of circulation until the meeting. The executive members replied that they had done so only because they wished to study the report fully and try to answer some of the questions it raised in their minds. Copies of the reports were then handed to committee members to take back to their organizations before the next meeting, when a report from the department of health is expected on the present hospital.

HOSPITAL ASSOCIATION

Details were also discussed on the plans for forming a new hospital association with individual and organizational memberships to be sold.

Dr. C. W. M. Service told the committee that the amendment to the act of incorporation of the OSS hospital would probably be passed some time during this session possibly near the end of March. This provided for an enlarged hospital association. The executive of the expansion committee had studied the problem, he said, and recommended that associate memberships be sold beginning as soon as possible at a rate of $5 per year or $100 for life of individuals and $25 per year or $1,000 for life for organizations. Two Lindsay service clubs, he said, had indicated that all their members would take out individual memberships in the association, and one had stated its intention of taking out organizational membership. The executive of the committee and the board of governors were empowered to study the plans for the association further and appoint a committee to begin work on the enrolment of members.

It was decided to keep the funds of the hospital building fund and the hospital association separate from the start, though the association might later make grants to the building expenses. The expansion committee who set dates for regular meetings to be held until the plans for either a new or enlarged hospital are realized.

McNulty Sought

however, that this will be waived if an agreement is reached between the Alberta and Ontario attorney generals' departments so McNulty may be brought back to face the murder and arson charges awaiting him in St. Thomas.

Investigators found that the fire last November in the St. Thomas YMCA was set deliberately. In that early-morning blaze Thomas Dunn, 73, of St. Thomas, and G. Russell Grimmond, 57, of Port Stanley, both lost their lives. Dunn's body was found two hours after the fire was brought under control, but Grimmond's body was not found until two days later when workmen came upon it while clearing debris from the second floor. About 30 roomers escaped.

Inspector Lionel Bishop of the fire marshals office, and St. Thomas police and firemen, traced the origin of the fire to a cupboard near the kitchen on the second floor. Signs that inflammable materials were used were visible. Intense heat caused the fire to break into the third storey from this point.

The YMCA building was almost completely gutted. Only the main floor and the basement of the three-and-a-half storey building escaped fire damage which is estimated at $200,000.

The only person who escaped from the burning building, fully dressed, was McNulty. No further trace of him could be found after the fire broke out. At the inquest it was decided his actions both before and after the alarm was given were suspicious.

A warrant was issued for McNulty's arrest, but despite an intensive two-month search he could not be located. Information on his background here in Peterborough was obtained from YMCA officials.

Much of the evidence at the inquest concerning McNulty's movements were withheld at the request of the investigators so the investigation could continue without arousing the wanted man's suspicions.

Evidence was that McNulty came into the St. Thomas YMCA not long before the fire. The watchman saw him go upstairs and down, twice. Then the alarm was sounded by Constable John Bingeman.

Constable Bingeman said that he ran upstairs to wake up the residents but found the second floor on fire, with the flames a foot high all across one section. To him, it looked as though something like cleaning fluid was ablaze.

Later Constable Bingeman helped McNulty, who was fully dressed, down a ladder. McNulty then disappeared and couldn't be found later on.

At Calgary he came under police observation and was to be interviewed in a day or so when the fifth fire led directly to his immediate arrest.

PETERBOROUGH MAN

CALGARY (CP) — Frank J. McNulty, facing an arson charge here and wanted for arson and murder in connection with a fatal YMCA fire at St. Thomas, is a Peterborough man, the son of a doctor.

It was learned today that the 36-year-old suspected fire-bug is a veteran of the RCAF who went into the paint business after the war and later disappeared from Peterborough.

He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. F. P. McNulty of Lindsay, Ont. His father practised in Peterborough until his retirement three years ago.

McNulty is said to be married but separated from his wife.

A warrant for murder and arson was issued against him Wednesday by crown attorney E. F. Sanders at St. Thomas, where two persons died in a fire which levelled the St. Thomas YMCA last Nov. 15.

ARRESTED IN CALGARY

The warrant was issued after McNulty had been arrested in Calgary in connection with a fire at a Salvation Army hostel there.

Ontario fire marshal's office officials at Toronto said he had been sought ever since he disappeared from St. Thomas shortly after the YMCA fire.

McNulty was a resident of the St. Thomas YMCA at the time of the fire which took the lives of Thomas Dunn, 73, of St. Thomas and R. Russell Grimmond, 57, of Port Stanley, Ont. Thirty other persons escaped from the blaze.

He appeared in Calgary police court Jan. 19 on a charge of arson in connection with the Salvation Army hostel fire there and was remanded to Jan. 22.

Abducting Gains In Popularity Now It's Puppets

TORONTO (CP) — A $300 reward was offered today for the safe return of two "kidnapped" CBC television "stars" — Uncle Chichimus and Hollyhock.

The two puppets were taken Tuesday night from the auto of their owner, John Conway, who is offering the reward.

CBC officials said the puppets' disappearance is "leaving us in a bit of a spot."

The puppets appear on a children's TV program, "Uncle Chichimus," which is carried over CBC television stations in Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto and Vancouver and over a private television station at Sudbury.

PUPPETEER APPEARS

Conway has only a makeshift duplicate of Uncle Chichimus and none at all of Hollyhock, mop-haired secretary - housekeeper. The puppeteer appeared "live" in the program Wednesday which was devoted to a search for the missing puppets.

"The program will have to be a continued search until Uncle Chichimus and Hollyhock are returned or duplicates are made," a CBC official said. "It may take a couple of days for duplicates."

PoW Guards Plan To Leave

PANMUNJOM (AP) — If the Communists do not take back 349 pro-Red war prisoners, including 21 Americans and a Briton, Indian guards will open the gates of their neutral-zone stockade and walk away at midnight Friday, an Indian general said today.

"First we will have to tell the prisoners that their owners refuse to take them back," said Lt.-Gen. K. S. Thimayya. Then we will open the gate and we will tell our men to go back to their line."

The Indian chairman of the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission conceded that if the prisoners refuse to leave their compound it will create a problem, since neither Allied nor Red troops are permitted to enter Korea's demilitarized zone.

WILL SEND 2ND LETTER

Thimayya told a press conference that he plans to send another letter to the Communist high command asking the Reds to accept the return of the pro-Red Allies.

The Indian command Wednesday returned 21,809 anti-Communist Chinese and Korean war prisoners to United Nations custody.

The Communists want all PoWs held until a peace conference decides their future. That is why they refused to take back the Allied PoWs who had voted for them.

DECLARE 21 "UNDESIRABLE"

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 21 United States soldiers who have refused to come home from Communist Korea will be declared "undesirable" and discharged Friday.

The undesirable-discharge papers for the prisoners-of-war who declined to be returned have been completed by the United States Army after weeks of consultation with the defence and state departments. The action, to take effect at 10:01 a.m. EST Friday (one minute after midnight Jan. 23, Korea time), will convert the soldiers into civilians "under conditions other than honorable."

The army chose this middle course in dealing with the 21 to avoid possible legal difficulties in the way of sterner action, and to leave a loophole for the men to clear themselves, should any of them come back to the U.S.

THREE CHOICES

A month ago the defence department said it had narrowed the army's choices of action to three: (1) Keep them on army rolls and defer a decision for the indefinite future; (2) give them undesirable discharges; (3) drop them from the army's rolls as deserters.

The first course would have permitted the men to accumulate pay. This course was ruled out by legal opinion that the armistice terms specifically provide that prisoners on both sides who refuse to go home must be released as civilians.

Poliomyelitis On Increase Doctors Conclude Over CBC

TORONTO (CP) — A panel of top-ranking Ontario medical experts Wednesday night summed up what is being done in mankind's fight against polio.

The panel, consisting of Dr. W. T. Mustard and Dr. F. P. Dewar, both of Toronto, Dr. R. Lofthouse of Hamilton, Dr. I. Davidson of Sudbury, Dr. J. C. Kennedy of London, Dr. H. I. J. Kellam of Ottawa, Dr. W. J. S. Melvin of Kingston and Dr. David Bean of Kitchener, discussed the disease on the CBC's Dominion network.

The program, arranged by the Ontario chapter of the Canadian Foundation for Poliomyelitis, was designed to advertise the current March of Dimes campaign for $300,000.

CONCLUSIONS REACHED

The doctors concluded:

Polio is infectious and can strike without the victim coming in direct contact with the disease.

Polio is increasing throughout the world.

There is no doubt that the physiotherapist is the polio patient's greatest friend.

Bed space, medical equipment and personnel is adequate in Ontario's populated areas but an epidemic would strain facilities.

The latest vaccine being developed which, it is hoped, will prove an effective weapon again polio is being tested in the United States but it will be two, three or four years before its effectiveness can be assessed.

GLOBULIN FREE

The federal health department has 50,000 doses of gamma globulin available for polio treatment in Canada. It will be supplied free to patients and stocks are believed adequate for a year if the disease does not reach epidemic proportions.

Nothing can be done to protect the individual to any great extent from contracting polio but personal cleanliness is of some value.

J.C.M. German Leads Battle For More Space For Lawyers

COBOURG—(ENS)— J. C. M. German, Q.C., president of the bar association, Wednesday reiterated before the 1954 counties council the representations he made last year in regard to an expansion of the facilities in the town hall for the administration of justice. He repeated, that there was authority for the bar association to issure a writ, if necessary to compel the council to make the alternations. Such an authority had been established in a ruling by Mr. Justice Logie 15 years ago and there had been no appeal against it, Mr. German said.

The complainant of the bar asso iation, as reviewed by Mr. German was that there was a need for more space for the law library as the number of volumes could not be properly contained in the present room a robing room for lawyers; conference room for solicitor and client and a room for the female jurors. He promised the council last November that he wuold bring it up again this year for definite action.

"The municipal act provides," he said," that the county council shall from time to time provide all necessary and proper accomodation, etc., for the law library. Most of the library space in the past had been designed for the library as at that time compiled, but since then there has been a great expansion in the number of volumes and the accommodations had not increased in proportion. Several of the law associations had brought action to compel the providing of extra accommodation while in other instancese it was found possible to otherwise convince the county councils of the need."

PROBLEM ACUTE

The library here had already overflowed into the judge's chambers where the revised reports and all the statutes are kept. The problem of congestion is very acute as there is no room at all for expansion with some of the current sets.

On motion the matter was referred to the county property committee.

$94,600 HEALTH BUDGET

An increased grant of $6,000 for 1954 was asked for the Counties Health Unit by Dr. Charlotte Horner, M. O. H. She said that the estimated budget of the unit for 1954 was $94,600, less estimated revenue from plumbing fees of $3,000 for a net of $89,000 after the $2,600 surplus had been included. This would mean a grant of $44,500 from the counties which would be matched by the provincial government.

Actually the increase in the budget amounts to $11,000 of which $5,000 is for the plumbing inspector for salary and transportation. The appointment of the plumbing inspector was made necessary as a result of provincial legislation. Offsetting this cost would be in 1954 the sum of $3,000 in fees for plumbing inspection and it was hoped that in time the expenses of the plumbing inspector would be covered entirely in this way. An additional amount has to be added to medical officer of health expenses to bring the staff up to the basic number. For the population served, there should be two medical officers of health but at present there was only one. Approximately 90 per cent of the budget went to payroll items and transportation, while operating costs amount for the remainder. Dr. Horner declared that the total grant in 1953 of $77,000 will not cover the costs for salaries and transportation for the basic staff as required by the Ontario Department of Health in order to qualitfy for the national health grants.

Dr. Horner's report was referred to the finance committee.

REQUESTS FOR GRANTS

At Wednesday's session, council received several requests for grants, most of them being the ones that come in every year, and they were referred to the finance committee.

Oshawa General Hospital board asked for financial assistance in the form of a grant to help in the two million dollar hospital expansion there and suggested that as four per cent of the patients came from Northumberland and Durham, although mostly from Durham county, the proportionate grant should be $15,000. The appeal fell on deaf ears as the request was received and filed.

A letter from the Ganaraska River Authority pointed out that sufficient supply of moisture was a problem on many farms and the authority would like the council to give further consideration to the farm ponds idea; referred to agriculture. A number of resolutions from other county councils were read and referred to the appropriate committees.

Cars Hit Head-on On Cordova Road

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — Two old model cars were badly damaged on Tuesday when they met head-on on a township road near Cordova Mines. The road was slippery.

Randall R. Quackenbush, 42, of RR 2 Lakefield was travelling south on the Cordova road near Crow river bridge, and Glen N Bowen, 18, of Cordova Mines was travelling north. The cars met head-on, doing about $150 damage. A passenger in the Bowen car, Mrs. Viola Bowen received a lacerated forehead and was treated by Dr. Judd of Havelock. Her injury was not considered serious.

OPP Constable Archie Eady of Campbellford investigated. No charges were laid.

Faithful Councillor

ERICKSON, Man. (CP) — Retired farmer Charles Hill has started his 30th consecutive year as a councillor of the rural municipality of Clanwilliam, hoping to quit at the end of 1954 with an unblemished record of never missing a meeting. So far, he's attended 1,560.

MRS. PHOEBE BEDFORD

Mrs. P. Bedford Celebrates 97th Birthday

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — One of Campbellford's oldest residents, Mrs. Phoebe Bedford celebrated her 97th birthday today, at Beaver Hall Convalescent Home here.

Mrs. Bedford has been at Beaver Hall for the past nine years. Her husband Thomas Bedford, died more than 40 years ago. The couple were married by the late Rev. Hinds, then rector of Christ Anglican Church in Campbellford. She was 21 at the time. The couple operated a farm near Campbellford up until the time of Mr. Bedford's death. She has two sons, Bert of Stirling and William of Montreal.

Mrs. Bedford is the daughter of the late John Snarr and Esther Drury. Her father came to Canada from Yorkshire, England, and hewed a home out of the wilderness. Mrs. Bedford still remembers the days when her parents made trips to Belleville, a distance of 22 miles, with a yoke of oxen, to get supplies.

KEEPS ABREAST

She keeps up to date on local and world affairs, and up until recently, did beautiful crochet work. Her eyesight and hearing are failing, but she remains bright and cheerful, and her mind is very alert.

She has no hard and fast rule for long life but stresses three virtues which she says is necessary. "One must be patient, cheerful and industrious", she told the Examiner.

Her philosophy is summed up in a poem which is her favourite. "Come live along with me — The best is yet to be — The last of life for which the first was made".

Mrs. Bedford said she was grateful to Mrs. Peters and the staff of Beaver Hall. "I'm just one of the family here", she said.

Verulam Reeve Warden Victoria County

LINDSAY (ENS)—Reeve Robert Bradt of Verulam township was elected warden of Victoria county at the inaugural meeting of the county council Tuesday. He won on the third ballot, conducted orally among the 22 members of the council. His closest opponent in the first two countings was Reeve Sherman Moore of Ops township.

Several ex-wardens spoke. Mayor Bert Hick of Lindsay also addressed the county group, of which he was a member last year, and commented that he hoped to see a cut in county levies, of perhaps one mill, this year, since the 1953 council had realized a surplus of some $18,000.

The mayor said that the burden of responsibility for the surplus was with the newly-formed financial committee, set up last year. He also urged continuation of the formation of a unified assessment policy and system for all the municipalities of the county, in order to determine a fair share of the county levy for each.

Port Hope Driver Suffers Head Injury

COBOURG (ENS)—A pea soup fog Wednesday night made driving very difficult on No. 2 highway. One accident occurred when an eastbound truck driven by David Livingstone, Peterborough, pulled up because a transport ahead of him was compelled to do likewise when an automobile at the head of the line slowed up to pull off the highway. A car driven by Norman Pragnell, Port Hope, skidded sideways into the back of Livingstone's truck. Pragnell sustained minor head injuries and the left side of the car was badly damaged. P.C. Ralph Tremills investigated.

Girls' Club Members Taught Make Salads

COLDSPRINGS (ENS) — The Coldsprings Girls Club, "Supper Makers", held their meeting, Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. C. Timlin, under the leadership of Mrs. C. Bowman assisted by Mrs. E. May.

Marlene Turk read the minutes, after which the leaders held a discussion with the girls on "planning supper menus", "the reason for food guide for health vegetables" and "how we can use vegetables for supper". Group work done by the girls was making salad dressing and preparing material for salads, and suitable garnishes.

The next meeting will be held February 3, at the home of Mrs. J. Rosevear.

Home assignments were to plan a salad and write it up in the record book, and bring to the next meeting materials for making this salad, and then plan a supper menu with salad as the main dish.

At the close of the meeting a salad supper was served. Institute members present were Miss Edith Hoskin and Mrs. James Rosevear.

WELSH CHURCH

Mrs. M. E. Hobbs Heads Golden Links Mission Circle

The Rev. A. M. Butler was present and installed the following officers: honorary president, Mrs. W. E. Ball; advisory president, Mrs. Estella Hetherington, president, Mrs. M. E. Hobbs, first vice-president, Mrs. Jean Burnham; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Ernest Powell; secretary, Mrs. Clifford Northey; corresponding and press secretary, Mrs. B. E. Ingham, treasurer, Mrs. Alex Gilbert, Christian education, Mrs. Johnston Rowland; stewardship, Mrs. Arnold Fallis; literature, Mrs. Lavern Gibson; friendship secretary, Miss Marjorie Skitch supply secretary, Mrs. Robert Ridge; pianist, Mrs. A. Fallis.

Miss Jean Burnham, first vice-president was in the chair. Total receipts for 1953 from systematic giving envelopes, loose collection and thank-offering amounted to $130.86 which had been sent on to the presbyterial treasurer.

The worship service was taken by Mrs. Homer Ouellette. She was assisted by Miss Mary L. Widdis who led in prayer and by Miss Marjorie Skitch who read the scripture. Miss Estella Hetherington dedicated the offering and remembered the circle's special missionary, Miss Mabel Brandow, of Trinidad in prayer. Miss Hetherington also announced the presbyterial meeting being held in Mark Street church, Peterborough, January 26th. Mr. Butler reported that the cross for above the altar table had arrived. The cross along with one of the large lanterns for lighting the church auditorium is the circle's contribution to the church renovation.

Mrs. Johnston Rowland, citizenship secretary, gave an account of an article on "joyous living." It stated that happiness lay half-way between too little and too much People have come to rely too much on material possessions for happiness. Today the stress was on security, but this took away the spirit of adventure in living. We of the present are fear-ridden—afraid of being misunderstood, of making a mistake and of being ridiculed. It was better to try to do something, rather than to try to do nothing and to succeed. The greatest need of the present was faith in God and in oneself. Life is not joyous, not really lived. People take themselves too seriously.

In conclusion Emerson's words were quoted, "Happiness is a perfume you cannot pour on others without getting a few drops on yourself."

Mrs. Bruce Ingham conducted the study period for which the theme was India. India was presented as a country of great contrasts with some of its peoples very wealthy and others continually hungry, possessed of students and mystics and yet with 60 million untouchables living in ignorance and poverty. The government had outlawed the practice of untouchables but in the remote country districts it was hard to stamp out. Stories from the lives of Sundar Singh and Dr. Ida Scudder were told.

Assisting the hostess in serving refreshments were Miss Hetherington, Miss Edith Clrake, Miss Jean Burnham and Mrs. William Buckham.

Why The Reassuring Noises?

At the end of the old year and continuing into this month, various people in government and business have been speaking quite strongly—for Canadians—about the good year ahead. They have been viewing with confidence, looking forward with optimism, and predicting a continuance of good times. Premier Frost was one of the recent boosters. This newspaper has been doing its share of hurrahing, in a discreet way, too. The very fact that all these loud noises have been made across the land predisposes some people—since they are Canadians—to be suspicious. It is not quite natural to Canadians to blow trumpets. There must be something sinister behind the noises, they say. They anxiously ask: are these boosters for good times trying to scare away by their noise a lurking recession? Thus the assurances have, in some people's minds, the opposite effect. Instead of being reassured, they are worried.

* * *

Let us not be worried about the worriers. It is characteristically Canadian to distrust prosperity, to be mildly uncomfortable in the presence of good times, and to feel that—well, we are having cake now, but—. It seems a Canadian trait to be uncertain, discount beneficence, to feel the cream will turn sour, the milk curdle; in short, to be depressed by exaltation and have pangs in good health.

* * *

Professor George W. Brown of the University of Toronto has some acute things to say about Canadian characteristics in his new book Canada in the Making. "Canadians, we are told, are industrious, thrifty and reliable, but cold, cautious, conservative, and lacking in initiative and imagination. Carrying around a terrific load of inhibitions, they are, compared with their American neighbours, less sentimental and spontaneous, perhaps more dependable, but nevertheless wanting in power of decision and magnetism of personality". Professor Brown does not accept all these statements as full truth, but Canada does seem to him to show "an extraordinary reluctance to grow up, a kind of incurable adolescence which drags on from one generation into another".

> "We have a genius for indirection, for refusing to let our right hand know what our left hand is doing, or at least for refusing to let them both get out into the open at once."

And so we distrust ourselves, and refuse to believe that really, all this talk about Canada's glowing future and even good times this year, can be true. But why should it not be true? Have we Canadians not brains enough to add the evidence together, and to trust somewhat in the facts of our future and in the logic of our history? Hear Professor Brown's reassurance. Have we not, he asks, "at the very least a paradox of frustration and accomplishment? If we insist on the one we cannot close our eyes to the other—

> Canadians may take a certain gloomy satisfaction in 'getting out their souls, propping them on their knees and staring into them to discover what's the matter with them', but the fact of Canada remains, and a very considerable fact it is. A people of scarcely as many as four millions at Confederation, Canadians have spanned a continent and flung a network of highways and institutions across it. To ask us now to believe that Canadian history has no distinctive quality or meaning, that it has no definable lines of direction, that it begins nowhere and ends nowhere except as the tag end of someone else's story is to ask us to deny the plain evidence before our eyes. The great mass of Canadians have taken no such view. Whatever difficulties they may have had in defining or rationalizing themselves, they have very clearly been proceeding on the simple assumption that they could create a Canada, and that in fact they were doing so".

Canadians are too ready to discount their achievement, to distrust their future, and to discredit even their present state. When knowledgeable men of government and affairs say that the future looks bright and that this year should be a good, prosperous one, their statements may lack the traditional uncertainty, but not, we think, a traditional Canadian regard for facts. Let us not be depressed by optimism

We now earn that the toothbrush was invented by William Addis, a convict in a London prison, in 1780. He made it from a bone he found in his food, and some bristles from a scrubbing brush. This places him with Bunyan and Cervantes, who also did great things while in jail.

Why Not A Naked Conference?

We think that the Kingston Whig-Standard is too ready to pooh-pooh the suggestion of the Naga Sadhus of India, that Prime Minister Churchill, President Eisenhower, Premier Malenkov and Premier Mao Tse-tung should hold a conference, stark naked, high up in the Himalayas. We believe that the idea has merit.

Older civilizations than ours have understood that nakedness is a good beginning for any serious argument. When the Greeks wanted to discuss knotty problems of philosophy, they took off their clothes; it is a psychological fact that it is harder to be cranky and difficult and insincere in the nude than when one is dressed up in what is, in effect, a disguise. None of the gentlemen concerned are of an age or a temperament which would give a naked conference the air of a beauty parade; only a greater degree of frankness could result from such a scheme.

Nakedness is under-rated as a cure for mental dishonesty, and as a pledge of good faith. It is too often forgotten that the Doukhobors strip themselves to show that they are without guile, and not as an outrage on the modesty of British Columbia. In this respect we believe that the Doukhobors are on the right track.

If a naked conference could not bring about peace, we suggest that a good solution to world difficulties was put forward in Remarque's once famous book All Quiet on the Western Front: put the duly elected leaders of the warring nations into a mud-hole, naked and armed only with clubs, and let them settle the differences themselves. That would bring their anxiety for peace to an unprecedented height.

A Solemn Thought

The Canadian flag wrangle is likely to break out in Parliament again this session. Mr. Bona Arsehault is blowing vigorously on the ashes.

There are comparatively few people who are strongly opposed to a distinctive flag for Canada; the quarrel begins only when we try to decide what it should be like. Hundreds of designs have already been submitted to a parliamentary committee, and have been carefully sifted, but no decision could be made among the designs which were in the final running. As we recall the designs which were in this class, they all looked handsome and would do credit to our country if one of them could finally be chosen.

If the matter comes up again, we hope that some parliamentarian will stress the need for a flag that is of artistic, as well as symbolic merit. Very recently Mr. Arthur Lismer said that Canadians are "the most tasteless people in the world" That is a sweeping statement, but from Mr Lismer it carries a good deal of weight. It is true that we put up with many horrors in architecture, in stamps, and in other public matters, which would not be endured in a country with a more active aesthetic sense. A flag which was no better than our stamps would be a national disaster. Yet it could happen.

Let us have no flag which has not been submitted for judgement to some national body which knows good design, as well as Canadian history.

Life Can Be Like The Movies

Paul Cachia, who has spent 28 months in prison, as part of sentences imposed for two convictions of armed robbery, is now free. He was given a new trial, at which new evidence was produced, and Judge Forsyth said: "There is no doubt in my mind, in the light of this additional evidence, that the accused is not the guilty character". And where did this new evidence come from? It was painstakingly gleaned by a lawyer, Mr. G. Arthur Martin, and a reporter on the Toronto Globe and Mail, Mr. Fred Thompson. The Crown Counsel at the trial, Mr. David Humphrey, said of Thompson, "I know that he has spent a great deal of his time and effort to ensure the success of this trial; I suggest to Your Honour that he is largely responsible for the outcome".

So it is not only in the movies that the reporter refuses to believe in a man's guilt, and spends months seeking evidence which will set him free and clear his name. It is sometimes pointed out to reporters that they do not know much about the law; we are glad of this opportunity to point out that they usually have a very keen sense of justice, and are ready to act on its dictates.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A Toronto man has been robbed of his life's savings—$5,600 which he had hidden in a mattress. Frankly, we have little sympathy with people who do their banking in mattresses.

Man can now fly 1,650 miles an hour, and the Kingston Whig says wistfully that 'it is a pity there isn't any place in this disenchanted world worth going to that fast'.

A Sicilian woman has killed her husband after an argument by pouring a bucket of boiling olive oil over him. Presumably he was so tactless as to win the argument.

RENE COTY

New President Of France

A MAN reaching his seventies — and within three years of his golden wedding — has the right to start planning for a quiet life. But at seventy-one, M. Rene Coty, the new President of the French Republic, whose tastes and means have always accustomed him to a quiet life, is now only on the threshhold of the most strenuous, the most conspicuous and the most exciting part of his career.

Theoretically the functions of the President — as symbol and figurehead — would seem well suited for semi-retirement. But in practice while the country remains so deeply divided, with unstable Governments and factions ganging up against each other, the one man in public life who stands firm acquires heavy responsibilities. In the first public interview M. Coty declared his principal ambition was to be "the artisan of the union of all Frenchmen within the traditions of social progress." He knows it will not be a question of symbolising but of creating the unity France needs.

HIS TALENTS, and even his limitations, fit him well for this task. All his life he has shunned extremes and dogmatism, and has shown immense capacity for getting on with men of all opinions and all classes, while at the same time never becoming a partisan in the really explosive issues of foreign policy or class war, which tear other Frenchmen apart.

His modest middle-class origin prepared him for a middle-of-the-way career. His father and grandfather were directors of a small private school at Le Havre and had no experience of great poverty or great wealth. The family has always been Catholic. M. Coty graduated in philosophy and law and was a practising lawyer at Le Havre until 1936 forced him to move to Paris.

FROM childhood he always intended to make a political career, and it has taken him almost half a century to rise from local councillor to the Presidency. His main assets in elections are that he is a keen and redoubtable debater, with a good mind, cultivated intelligence and neatly developed gift for repartee.

There has never been any hint of corruption in his long public life, but M. Coty has always been an active part proprietor of his main local newspaper, and the Communists were recently quick to point out that he retained his functions as "administrateur" of Le Petit Havre during the war. In fact the paper limited itself to purely local matters and the only political articles were those inserted by the Germans. Although Le Petit Havre was automatically banned with all newspapers which had appeared during the occupation, the courts subsequently exonerated it from charges of assisting the enemy and under another name (Le Havre Eclair) it has continued with the same staff and the same ownership.

DESPITE his active public life, M. Coty remains a family man, never travelling unaccompanied by his wife or one of his daughters, and spends all his holidays with as many grandchildren as possible. The summer holiday gatherings at the family house at Etretat-sur-Mer have recently been extended to include young guests from England, since the Coty children are engaged in the current practice of exchange visits with English families. Mme Coty, who was educated partly in England, speaks English better than her husband, although he reads the language easily and is well versed in the English classics.

Private virtues are not in themselves enough to qualify a man for the Presidency, and there are many people in France and abroad who, while recognizing M. Coty's high personal qualities were nevertheless dismayed at the choice of a President for the Fourth Republic so intimately and so long associated with the old and discredited Third Republic. This is unfair to M. Coty, who showed himself, long before most of his fellow Parliamentarians, well aware of the fatal flaws in the Third Republic.

IN FACT, his main political work before the war was advocating constitutional reform for France. He has always been a warm admirer of the British Parliamentary system, which he describes as "perfect," and he has read most of Professor Laski's treatises on constitutional government as well as the essays of more recent British Parliamentarians such as Herbert Morrison.

After the war, M. Coty battled hard in the Constituent Assemblies against repeating the old errors, and he has always insisted that if the Assemby throws out the Government there should be new elections, as in Britain. Only in this way, he believes, can Deputies be forced to think twice before provoking crisis.

AS PRESIDENT, M. Coty cannot of course, impose policies on an executive exclusively responsible to Parliament. But he has various important ways of influencing decisions which include presiding over weekly Cabinet meetings and, in times of crisis, selecting the new Prime Minister, who must, of course, subsequently obtain Parliamentary approval.

On European as well as constitutional matters M. Cote is far from being a Conservative. He has long presided over the inter-parliamentary group for European federation. During the last senatorial election, when he was asked to explain to a local newspaper the reason for his European views, he said: "Firstly, Europe needs to unite, to acquire the strength and influence to mediate between Russia and America. Secondly, France can no longer afford military self-efficiency and must share the arms burden with her neighbours." With customary prudence M. Coty has not pronounced himself for or against the European Army, but he is known as a personal friend of M. Robert Schuman — the most devoted exponent of European unity.

BUT THERE IS a third major issue besides constitutional reform and European union, which will also have to be settled during his seven-year term of office: that is the future of the French overseas empire. For besides becoming President of the French Republic M. Coty also becomes president of a multiracial Union which is still seeking its final shape. Neither M. Auriol nor M. Coty seems to have arrived at the Elysee with clearly defined views of what the Union should be, although M. Auriol as a Socialist had a generally anti-colonial bias which M. Coty does not share.

In any case the prospects of political and social progress in the overseas territories will depend largely on whether M. Coty sees the creation of a strong and stable Government in Paris, for which he has so long pleaded. As long as Governments come and go, incapable of working out long-term policies, often dependent on a handful of colonisers' votes, too weak to impose the authority of France against entrenched local interests or all-powerful pro-consuls, it is a safe guess that the disheartening system of administrating overseas territories in alternating fits and starts of oppression and liberalism will go on.

IT would be naive to suppose that institutional reforms alone will be enough to put the ramshackle French State and its overseas dependencies in working order. Obviously it is not much improvement to have a Government that governs effectively, unless it governs well. But the converse is certainly true: without a Government that can remain in office the necessary reforms at home and overseas are virtually impossible.

It is France's extreme good fortune that, in the indescribable confusion last month at Versailles, the unknown man of the thirteenth vote, chosen in a mood of lassitude as the candidate who divided the Conservatives least, turned out to be someone who had fully grasped this fundamental fact.

An American Opinion:

"SO MUCH FOR BUSINESS—NOW ABOUT NOVEMBER . . ."

Spinning On A Platform

By PAUL JENNINGS

IT IS extraordinary how the everyday pursuit of money, in which we are all engaged, has somehow come to be regarded as purely practical, a cold, calculating business that has nothing to do with dreams. Dreams are thought, in our civilisation, to belong strictly to off-duty hours, whether we sink passively into the limbo of Hollywood shades or purposefully set off to a concert hall, where our face becomes one of a row, all expectant, all expecting too much, all expecting the great cries of the orchestra to blind us, to dissolve us, to bring us to It.

Yes the fact is that nearly all of us have one or two dreams about money. One dream is that when we are rich we shall live more gaudy, more exotic, happier lives, even — although one look at the miserable thin people in the long black saloons that whistle past us ought to disprove that. The other (and this is my dream) conceives of life as a series of concentric platforms, all revolving in the same direction, but at varying speeds, the fastest on the outside. To be poor is to be on the outside circle, where all the goods you acquire are flung off by sheer centrifugal force. You have a job to stay on the platform yourself, let alone hold on to a lot of parcels.

YOU find, for instance, that you have to have a new pair of shoes, so you rush into a shop and buy some; some cheap ones, and they are worn out in three months. But if you were on one of the inner platforms you would go calmly into a rather splendid shop and buy the sort of shoes that are bought by men on leave in London from Africa, or down from their Scottish moorland estates. Twenty years later these men are still wearing the same shoes, they photograph them with mud on, they write letters which may be inspected at the head office of the shoe firm.

But the point is that after these twenty years inner circle men have spent far less on shoes than outside men. And right at the centre of the dream there are calm, Blakean figures sitting motionless, for the centre platform does not move at all. At the centre, their possessions are so good that they never need to buy anything else, or if a replacement ever is necessary the thing replaced is still in good condition that the overall outlay is small.

This dream is further complicated by the illogicality found in all dreams, for one lives on several platforms at once. Thus, I buy what I think is a good car (well, a better car than its predecessor, which was made in 1928), and I leave it for a moment on one of the inner platforms while I go to another part of the same platform to get some good clothes. I buy a tremendously good jacket of Harris tweed dyed with vegetable dyes by peasants, having strong whitish threads like lion's whikers in it; a coat a third of an inch thick, a coat I will still be wearing as an gentle old man in thirty years' time, when it will be faded, but still clearly good.

I struggle back with this coat to the platform where I left the car — and it has gone, it has slid off to an outer platform where it reality belongs. I was deceived, it wants a new back axle, a respray . . . I feel like that Dutch boy who put his finger in the hole in the dyke, then his hand, then his arm, then his shoulder . . . help! help, in the windy night.

WE people on the outer platforms, we live in the world of Heracleitus, where everything is flux. Things change before our very eyes, there is no time to contemplate the inner essence of objects. At the moment, my wireless is changing. When I bought it, not all that long ago, from a man I used to meet occasionally at lunch, it seemed to me a wonderfully good and sophisticated wireless. It was a portable radiogram as well. It looked like a suitcase, and when you opened the lid, inside which the aerial was cunningly laced, there were the turntable and the dials. But now I see I was on a very outer platform when I bought it.

Its portability is a myth; it weighs just as much as an ordinary radiogram (and who wants to move a radiogram anyway? There's only one room in any house where a radiogram belongs). The catch that holds the silly lid isn't reliable, and sometimes it has fallen down when a record was playing. It doesn't seem to be properly insulated and when I touch it I get a vibrating sensation, an embryonic electric shock.

I always thought there was something definite about electrical machinery — either it works or it doesn't — until the motor in this thing simply got tired, as though overcome by the weight of the pick-up (admittedly much heavier than those featherweight crystal things they have on the inner circle). It made a brisk Haydn symphony sound like a lugubrious procession of zombies in a vault. So I took the motor out. It left a diamond-shaped hole in the casing. Our cat had three kittens at the time, and one of them got through this hole to play with the wiring. I lugged the whole contraption to the shop. It got less portable at every step, and banged against my knees. I told the man it had had a kitten inside. He did his best, but it has never been the same since. There is a cat influence in it, a hint of witches and devils. It howls and crackles, it gets supernatural hate stations that simply put out a diabolical throaty growling . . .

That's what it is about the inner platform. They don't have cats in their wirelesses.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Ye are all the children of light, and the children of the day: we are not of the night, nor of darkness. Therefore let us not sleep, as do others; but let us watch and be sober . . . For God hath not appointed us to wrath, but to obtain salvation by our Lord Jesus Christ, who died for us, that, whether we wake or sleep, we should live together with him. (1 Thess. 5:5,6,9,10.)

And I saw a new heaven and a new earth: for the first heaven and the first earth were passed away; and there was no more sea . . . And I heard a great voice out of heaven saying, Behold, the tabernacle of God is with men, and he will dwell with them, and they shall be his people, and God himself shall be with them, and be their God. And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain; for the former things are passed away.

And he that sat upon the throne said, Behold, I make all things new. And he said unto me, Write: for these words are true and faithful. And he said unto me, it is done. I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end. I will give unto him that is athirst of the fountain of the water of life freely. He that overcometh shall inherit all things; and I will be his God, and he shall be my son. (Rev. 21:1, 3-7.)

Loud and Empty

(The Lethbridge Herald)

Those of our readers who have been amused — and confused — by some of the rabble-rousing chatter in our halls of Parliament in recent weeks may be relieved to have recalled them an expression of the great Edmund Burke, British statesman and orator of earlier days:

"Because half-a-dozen grasshoppers under a fern made the field ring with their importunate clink, whilst thousands of great cattle . . . chew the cud and are silent, pray do not imagine that those who make the noise are the only inhabitants of the field; that of course they are many in number; or that, after all, they are other than the shrivelled, meagre, hopping though loud and troublesome insects of the hour."

It is not the fellows who make the noise who impress the minds. They can talk all day but never convince a soul. Burke had the breed well sized up.

Winter Patrol

(Niagara Falls Review)

How far can a dog team travel in a day? A good team of Arctic sled dogs, pushed by an expert driver, can make speed with a light load. Rangers of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, now out on winter patrol, count on doing between 15 and 30 miles with a "regulation" load, though some have covered much greater distances by pushing. Indians travelling from Bear Island to Temagami, over the ice of Lake Temagami, estimate about four hours for the 15-mile trip. Most of them travel at night when snow conditions are better. Two Algonquin Park rangers, trailing a pack of wolves, averaged 30 miles a day for five days with most of this travel through bush.

The instrument was stolen by the Nazis in Paris in 1942, and was finally recognized as the famous Piatigorsky instrument by a violin-maker in Aachen, Germany who came upon it accidentally. His mother-in-law, the Baroness Germaine de Rothschild flew to New York from Europe to return it to him.

Should Eliminate 'Cabotage' In Canada, Protect Trade

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que. (CP)—T. R. McLagan, president of Canada Steamship Lines and the Canadian Shipbuilding Association, said Wednesday Canada is the only country in the world which doesn't protect its shipping.

Mr. McLagan, attending the joint annual meeting of the Dominion Marine Association and the Lake Carriers Association of the United States, said in an interview that "cabotage" — trading between coastal ports of the same country by foreign ships—should be eliminated by Canada. The same applied to extension of trade within the Great Lakes area.

WOULD END TREATY

He suggested that the reciprocal treaty with Britain, of more than 20 years standing and providing for cabotage, be ended.

"So far as the Commonwealth is concerned," he said, "Australia looks after its shipping by making United Kingdom ships conform to regulations regarding seamen's wages and also in paying taxes.

"Any suggestion that Canadian wheat exports would be adversely affected, if we ended the treaty, don't hold. Australia still exports wool."

INDICATE CABINET SUPPORT

Mr. McLagan said two federal cabinet ministers who he did not name, have told him "something should be done" in the interests of Canadian shipping.

Last year, said Mr. McLagan, two British ships operated regularly between Collingwood and Port Arthur taking business that should go to Canadian ships.

Referring to the St. Lawrence seaway, he said the project is comparable to the building of railways and should be considered in that light.

Canada can go ahead and build the seaway on her own, regardless of the United States, he said.

GRANT'S SPORT CORNER

By DON GRANT

Second place in the senior "B" group has been changed more in the past week than diapers on a baby.

Who should know better than us, we ask? Of course we mean changing the diapers.

Seriously though the group's second place has been changing hands almost nightly. First it's the Petes, then it's Kingston or maybe Orillia. This can get rough on a fellow's nerves, especially on league statisticians.

Watching Eddie Redmond's Petes giving Belleville Memos a memo Monday night (our heart bleeds for you, George, old pal), we noticed a great improvement in the boys. So much so in fact that we think they deserve at least second. After what they did to Oshawa a week ago, we may change that to first.

Most noticeable improvement is in their skating. They aren't holding back, seemingly feeling unsure, but breaking away quickly in twos and threes.

Leading Attacks

Toodie Greenlaw, Chum Fryia and Gus Leonard are still the main attackers. Around the net they're smoother than the other two lines, seldom missing a scoring opportunity.

Showing vast improvement is the Prentice, Belisle and Peterson line. Fast steppers Doc, Ron and Denny just weren't getting together earlier this year but of late they have been coming fast. Most important they're watching their timing and passing which was ragged.

You can't forget the Hill-Crowley-Collins line. They're diggers, especially Bert who's still a penalty killer if Peterborough ever had one. Bill and Teeder can still really step from the red line in.

All in all the change in the front lines seems to be the big change. They're paying off now.

What can be said about the defence that other teams haven't said. They're rough. We noticed several Memos staying away from Monty Montgomery, Big Bill McMaster, Army Armstrong and little big Jim Munroe on Monday night. The Petes blue line bruisers must have left a memo (not again) with these Memos earlier this season.

Yes, the defence is solid.

Donlevy Improving

Going back further we see a steadily improving John Donlevy. He's been coming up with brilliant games lately, especially since he started getting more backchecking from his forwards who were lax.

Bringing all out of the boiler, we see a team which could easily be in the Ontario finals this season, if they want to, that is.

While on hockey titles, let's not forget Red Creighton's Junior Petes, currently stepping along in first place. For a group of homebrews they highly are flavored (homebrew — flavored, get it?) to advance into the playdowns.

It's a little early yet for making that prediction but other leagues are doing it so we might as well get on the train.

Up Toronto way, they're boosting Scarboro Rangers and Western Dukes. In Western Ontario, it's Waterloo, now racing along with 16 straight wins.

Basketball, Too

Doug MacPherson and his Regent basketball quintet must not be forgotten when speaking of titles this season. They're the best intermediate team representing this Liftlock city in several years, including the team that went to the all-Ontario finals in the Soo.

If they lack anything, it's good opposition. Forced to be content with exhibition games against high school and YMCA teams, the Regents haven't yet played a good intermediate team.

Just the same in these practice games, the Regents have looked good, developing a quick-breaking offence and a stiff defence. The Toronto Central Y seniors found out just how stiff that defence can be a week ago and this week. Broadview Y seniors will test the Regents at the St. Peter's High gym. (Saturday at 8)

Don Ash, hitting an even better stride than when he played for the PCVS Garnet and Greys, along with former teammates Dave Langhorne, Dan Griffin and Murray Grafstein give the quartet the youth they needed so badly last season.

Veterans Joe and Ab Stewart, Gord Burns, Bill Edgar, Ed Nicholls, Hugh Dibben and newcomer Bob Smith, beside playing well, are teaching the youngsters the tricks of the trade.

City Protesting McMaster Deal

HAMILTON (CP)—A civic protest directed at three Canadian universities is being drafted by the Hamilton board of control as the result of the ousting of McMaster University from the Senior Intercollegiate Football League.

Controller Jack MacDonald, incensed over the actions taken by Queen's, Toronto and Western Universities, said "it's obvious that McMaster was given a short trial, then kicked out of the league."

"I don't see how they could expect our school, in its first senior year, to fill all the parks or end on top of the league standings."

Leslie Parker, another board of control member, said it was "a slap in the face for Hamilton."

A letter of protest will be sent to the presidents of the three universities.

Midget Grapplers Terrific To Steal Mat Card Even From Dusek Villains

Big fellows aren't really impressive even if they do throw weight around. Take for instance the week's wrestling matches. Emil and Ernie Dusek tossed Pat Flanagan and Jim Sigsay around in the first two bouts, working the all-time record crowd into a dither. But it was the midget wrestlers, Sky Low Low, Great Schultz, Little Beaver and Salie Halasie who made the crowd wild. The little fellows really made an impression.

First of all, the size of these small chaps caught the fans' eye. When referee Bunny Dunlop gave out the preliminary instructions, he had to go down on his knees to midget level.

Second, they started the dirty work before the bout even started. The Great Schultz with a flying kick levelled Little Beaver while Bunny was telling them to be good boys.

Third, the big little bad boys, Sky Low Low and Great Schultz had some low, low tricks which the big, bad boys could learn. They ripped at Little Beaver's and Salie Halasie's mouths. They bit them. They choked them with the tag rope. They kicked them out of the ring. They strung them on the ropes. The crowd poured their hearts out to poor Beaver and Halasie.

LOTS OF SPEED

Fourth, Little Beaver along with his teammate, Halasie, showed the crowd just how fast they can make their legs go. In fact they went so fast they practically amazed themselves.

Fifth, Beaver and Halasie could wrestle and very cleanly, too. Even when Beaver went on the war path after being rubbed the wrong way, his ears, feet, mouth and arm twisted and bitten, he was an expert wrestler, much to Low Low and Schultz' disgust.

But lastly, speed and good wrestling didn't pay off; the dirty work did.

For at the 31-minute mark Sky Low Low perched on the top rope, dropped on Halasie while Schultz held the little fellow. Down on his neck he crashed. Halasie went down, Low Low on top for the very unpopular fall.

As far as the Dusek brothers are concerned, they are just a match fo rthe Mills brothers, not the singing type either. They're rough, tough and nasty to which Flanagan and Jim Sigsay will agree.

Emil Dusek started the night off by putting Sigsay literally through the ropes. He also did a little hair-pulling, biting, kicking, punching and every imaginable mean trick. In fact he threw so much rough tactics at Sigsay, that the good Detroit wrestler couldn't wrestle.

These dirty tactics paid off, for Emil quickly bruised and tired Sigsay, finally throwing a sleeper hold on Sigsay after 24 minutes. Sigsay conceded gladly. He had to have Dunlop revive him.

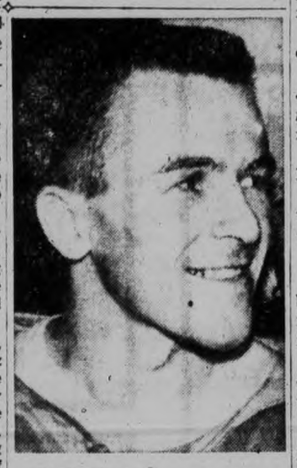
A MEAN CUSS

Ernie was meaner in the main bout with Flanagan. Before the fight started, he argued with the crowd and busted Dunlop with a speedy right. Then he proceeded to treat Flanagan roughly, much to the distaste of the crowd.

Flanagan rallied, throwing two mule kicks into Dusek but he rallied to butt over Flanagan. Both were nearly out. Ernie came to to in time to take the fall with a top spread.

Pat showed some of the renowned Irish temper during the second fall, blistering Ernie with mule kicks, pile drivers and the such. Poor Ernie nearly went out.

Made of sturdy stock, Ernie weathered Pats blows and came back to bash Pat's head into the corner ropes twice. Pat didn't last. He went down, Ernie once more on top for the final winning fall.



BACK IN NHL — Ike Hildebrand, who plays senior lacrosse here in the summer months, has been sold by Vancouver Canucks to Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League for an undisclosed amount of cash and one player to be delivered later. The classy little right-winger had been sold several weeks ago by New York Rangers to Vancouver for $7,500.

Junior B Player, 17 Offered U.K. Berth

BRANTFORD (CP)—Chuck Stuart, 17, one of the leading goal-getters of Brantford Truckers, said Wednesday he has received an offer to play for Paisley in the winter.

Stuart, a native of St. Catharines, says he has not made a decision.

He has scored 62 goals in 32 Ontario Hockey Association Junior B games to lead the scoring race in his group. Stuart was sent here at the start of the season by St. Catharines TeePees, a junior A team.

Aces And Flyers Tie

Assumption Aces and the Brookside Flyers played to a 5-all tie in a fast, open game of hockey.

Musgrave of the Aces lit the light to open the scoring with B. Cowie of the Flyers tying it up. V. O'Brien got the gate for high-sticking and D. Musgrave for cross-checking and a misconduct penalty.

In the second period, Assumption Aces took over the scoring as they scored three goals unanswered. McFarlane got two and Gooley scored once. B. Cowie got the only penalty.

In the third period, the Flyers came from behind with four goals, Selby blinking the light once and B. Cowie scoring three times to put them one up on the Aces. M. Gooley came up with the tying goal for Assumption. Chamberlain got a penalty for holding the puck.

Teams:

Brookside Flyers — Goal, J. O'Brien; G. Cowie, L. Selby, R. Thomas, R. Howson, C. Howson, A. Sullivan, B. Clancy, B. Cowie, J. Haslett, J. Burns, P. Doherty, Chamberlain, B. Fontain, E. Howson, W. Cowie.

Assumption Aces — Goal, E. Fitzgerald, A. Anderson, D. Musgrave, F. Clancy, V. O'Brien, C. Cary, M. Gooley, D. Crowley, R. McFarlane, B. Humphries, H. Fitzgerald, G. Barker.

Shamrocks Victors

The midget Shamrocks of the PMHA defeated Lindsay midgets 9-4 in exhibition play at Lindsay this week. It was 3-3 in the first as McCarthy, Mahoney and Darling tallied for Pat Doherty's team; Dawson getting a pair and Lucas one for Lindsay. Pace put Shamrocks up with a goal in the second for Darling. They swept well in front in the third with a 6-1 margin. Mahoney got two, and Coombes, Forestell, Baker and Daly one apiece. Bovie counted for Lindsay.

Gary Darling was a standout for Shamrocks with a goal and five assists, while Bill Forestell, Jim McCarthy, Peter Stewart, Wayne Haig, Terry Welsh and Junior Reil all went good. Shamrocks have a tie-up with the Police Athletic Association, and were bantam "A" provincial champions last year. Referees for the game on Scugog ice were Williams and Truax.

Bigger Game

TOMAHAWK, Alta. (CP)—John Macloch was hunting squirrels when he spotted what he thought was a small deer. The "deer" climbed a tree and John shot it. It was a lynx, standing 30 inches high at the shoulders.

Merchants Co-operate To Help Junior Squad

Whole-hearted support by local merchants and other friends of junior hockey helped make the Junior Petes' booster night Wednesday at Civic Arena a success, their donations of prizes helping to draw a large crowd of fans.

J. Goodson Leads

J. Goodson had high single of 375 and T. Hanes top three of 827 in the Major Bowling League as Burton's led teams with 3742 pinnage and a fine single game of 1409. They blanked Hewitt's, as Clapper's whitewashed E & B. The 5-2 wins went to Patterson, Selkirk, Wonder, Crowley, Paramount, Lock, Bartley, Sherbrooke and Boucher over UEW, Revenoors, McLeod, Godson, Sea-Horses, Clements, Silents, D & W, and Edward's in that order. Curtiss took a 4-3 victory over Plazas.

Good scores were: J. Goodson 794, C. Reynolds 723, E. Downer 702, J. Barnes (305) 721, A. Basciano 779, G. Niles (303) 729, A. Caccavella 780, G. Pagett 778, M. Akers (346) 772, and singles of B. Northey 367 and T. Hanes 318.

L. Harris Best Triple

L. Harris had high three of 637 (252, 222) in the Wednesday girls' bowling circuit, as M. Andrews' 268 (in 600) was best single. E. Ranebottom rolled a 609 triple, including 212 and 219. Terrors led teams with 2549 and had a 975 single. Dinkies took three from Wild Cats, as two each went to Bombers, Tornadoes, Terrors, Whizz Bangs and Eager Beavers over Playfairs, Cisco Kids, Rockets, Ramblers and Happy Gang.

Good singles: H. Mesley 267, L. Woods 226, F. Kokesh 223, T. Heslip 215, M. Manley 213, P. Doig 211, A. Lucas 208, M. Pitchford 208, P. Griffin 207; better triples: A. Lucas 592, T. Heslip 575, M. Manley 567, P. Doig 565, H. Mesley 527, F. Kokesh 522, G. Milliken 510 and P. Jackman 506.

Junior Petes Gain A Win Against Port Perry By 11-10 In Extra Frame

Booster Night for the Peterborough Junior Hockey Club Wednesday night at Civic Arena, proved an outstanding success as upwards of 1,000 fans, many from Port Perry, nearly filled the rink to see Red Creighton's sparkling squad ring up the sixth straight of their latest win streak, their 12th victory in the last 13 games played.

They rest firmly on the top rung in the Central Ontario junior "B" derby. Triumph was hard-earned at 11-10 after 10 minutes of gruelling overtime play, with Lawrence Ball, versatile defence and centre star, emerging the individual star, by virtue of his two brilliant overtime payoff tallies. His mates, Gord Coyle and Jimmy Morrow, with stars Jerry Frizzelle and Gary Kearns, shared honors in the brilliant climax with everyone driving hard.

It was the largest junior mid-week regular crowd since Civic Arena opened in 1948.

Fern Flaman and Jim Morrison, Leaf stars, were on deck to add color; they were introduced by president Doug Miller, who thanked all donors of prizes and also fans for their patronage.

"NEED SUPPORT"

"We need your continued support and thank you for coming tonight," said Mr. Miller.

"It is a great pleasure to be here," remarked Jimmy Morrison. "You have a good junior team out there. I hope you support them."

"I am delighted to be here," enthused Fern Flaman. "You're juniors are great. They are the senior stars of tomorrow and some will make pro ranks. So give them support and encouragement," concluded this youthful Toronto star.

During the first frame Port Perry enjoyed an edge in the overall play, to outscore their rivals 6-3. Dunc Brodie and Gary Copeland, twice, with Dykstra and Bill Gibson, proved good opportunists for Flyers; while Bob Gardner, Paul Doris and Bud McDougall hit twine for Petes as this unit proved most effective—with all hands working hard, of course. Penalties studded the frame as Walsh ruled sternly but indiscriminately.

Peterborough sprang to life in earnest to thrill their friends in the mid-frame, and completely overcame their rivals. The Creighton pack played inspired hockey with the flight of Morenz and the brains of Nighbor. Within 12 minutes from quarter time, the Flyer cage rattled six times as Frizzelle, Hook, Coyle, Morrow, Gardner and Byrne each found the range; with Ball twice assisting along with Frizzelle, Byrne and Morrow. Play roughed up but Walsh was on the puck.

SEWED IT UP

Not to be denied, the husky Ports fought on and were rewarded in the latter stages of regulation time, when Neil Attersley, Romanuk, O'Connor and John Chaszewski combined to force a deadlock 9-9 with the latter pair clicking 12 seconds before the finish on a fine thrust—a deflect from O'Connor near the doorstep. It was a clean period.

In the overtime despite temporary reverses, Petes leaped back to take the initiative from Flyers. Ball fired a low 20-footer past Hawe seconds after the start from Coyle and Frizzelle to give the spark. Mid-way in the session, the former Marine star, added insurance to the vital tally as he swung a freak backhander near the left blue-line boards that sped into the right corner to stun Hawe. That was it; though Johnson tallied with six seconds left for the final marker from Romanuk to make it very close.

Slipping Hawks Buy New Forward

The Hawks, who have won only three National Hockey League games in the last month and have dropped the last seven in a row, said McIntyre, born at Brussels, C , will join them Saturday at Montreal.

McIntyre has played 43 games this season for Hershey, Boston farm club, and scored 32 points. He turned pro in 1950 after playing for St. Catharines in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

He scored 21 and 31 points for Boston in successive seasons during part-time service for the Bruins. When he wasn't with Boston he played with Hershey.

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bob Feller signed a contract with Cleveland Indians of the American Baseball League 13 years ago today for an estimated $30,000. Up to then, the highest pitcher's salary was believed to have been $27,500 paid Lefty Grove by Boston Red Sox. Feller, who chalked up three no-hit games, won the American League pitching crown with Cleveland in 1951.

Bentleys Key Men As Rangers Take Bruins 8-3

By ED SIMON, Canadian Press Staff Writer

The dream came true. A rejuvenated Doug Bentley joined New York Rangers after three years away from the National Hockey League and turned them into a club the like of which Madison Square Garden hasn't seen in many a year. The Rangers' 8-3 victory over Boston Bruins Wednesday night and Doug's four-point part in it were impressive enough. But even more awe-inspiring to the 13,463 fans, largest New York week-day crowd in years, was the effect on his team-mates.

That 33-year-old Max Bentley would perk up on being reunited with his brother was to be expected. Four years Doug's junior but subject to a host of real and imaginary aches and pains for the last few years, Max flew in his old style and produced two goals and a pair of assists.

But the sight of the pair of lightweight stickhandlers from Delisle, Sask., reunited for the first time since Max was traded to Toronto by Chicago Black Hawks in October, 1947, did things to the other Rangers.

Ungainly Ivan Irwin, always a solid clouter at his defence post, began carrying the puck up the ice and making stickhandling motions. Jack Evans, still on trial as a Ranger after a year under Doug's direction with Saskatoon Quakers of the Western Hockey League, played sound defensive hockey and set up his former boss for the game's first goal.

SAME WITH OTHERS

It was the same with the others. Right-winger Wally Hergesheimer rapped in a pair of goals to run his season's total to 20. Rookie Camille Henry and centre Paul Ronty got the others.

Boston rallied once late in the first period as Cal Gardner and Doug Mohns tallied to reduce the New York margin to 3-2. But by the time Dave Creighton scored the final Bruin goal in the second frame it was a lost cause.

It was primarily a Bentley show. Expected to show with Max when the opposition was short-handed, Doug filled the role to perfection. Then they came on the ice as a line with veteran Edgar Laprade and produced the first Ranger goal within seconds.

A little later Doug appeared with Laprade as a penalty-killing team, performing as if he had done it all his life.

BENTLEYS KEY MEN

The little guy was all over the ice, eluding the heavier Bruins, shaking off the bodily contact he couldn't avoid, laying soft passes on Ranger sticks and bothering Boston puck carriers. Max saw less action but performed similar dipsy-doodle feats. Of the eight New York goals, six were scored or set up by a Bentley.

The victory, a solid triumph for Ranger coach Muzz Patrick in his first meeting with elder brother Lynn, who handles the Bruins, left the two clubs tied for fourth place, the NHL's last playoff spot. The Bruins meet Chicago at Indianapolis tonight, then return to Boston for Saturday and Sunday meetings with the Rangers.

Also on tap tonight is a visit by the league-leading Detroit Red Wings to Montreal to protect their three-point edge over the second-place Canadiens.

2 Thistle Rinks Sweep Honors In Eliminations

HAMILTON (CP) — Rinks from the Hamilton Thistle Club made a clean sweep of group honors in both the Ontario Silver Tankard and the Governor-General's Trophy playoffs Wednesday when Charlie Cassels and Rufus Stone skipped their Thistle quartets to final victories in the tankard eliminations.

The Cassels-Stone combination defeated two Ontario Hospital rinks 32-15 in easy fashion after a narrow semi-final win over Hamilton Victoria rinks in the morning draw.

DOUBLE VICTORY

Cassels won 17-6 over Harry Ward's Hospital entry, while Stone was making it a double victory with a 15-9 victory over Dr. J. N. Senn.

The Victorias made a fight of it in the semi-final, and it might have been a different story but for some fine shot-making by the Cassels rink in its 15-9 margin over H. B. Paddon's quartet. In the next sheet, the Victorias, skipped by C. T. Jackson, won 13-10 over the Stone entry, but the three-point win wasn't enough to offset Cassel's victory.

Songin Signs Contract With Hamilton For '54

HAMILTON (CP) — Jake Gaudaur, newly-elected president of Hamilton Tiger-Cats of Big Four football union, said Wednesday night that quarterback Ed Songin, who led the club to their Grey Cup victory over Winnipeg last season, has signed for the 1954 campaign.

He predicted a two-way fight for the quarterback job between Songin and triple-threat Travis Tidwell, former Auburn University and New York Giants star.

Mercurys, Dutchmen Win As Race For Top Tightens

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Owen Sound Mercurys and Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen may have to go right down to the wire to decide first place in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A race.

They are running one-two in the eight-team loop and the Mercurys, who have a knack of showing power when it counts most, only have a four-point lead over the Dutchmen. But they have a game in hand.

Both won Wednesday night. The Mercurys won their 27th by dropping the Indians 4-1 in Stratford and the Dutchmen defeated the last-place Niagara Falls Cataracts 6-3 in Kitchener for their 24th victory of the season.

Sudbury Wolves bested North Bay Trappers 4-1 in Sudbury to remain in second place in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A southern group.

LAUFMAN GOT PAIR

In Kitchener the Dutchmen broke a 2-2 deadlock by outscoring the Cataracts 4-1 in the third period. Centre Ken Laufman led the Kitchener victory with two goals and an assist. Gerry Theberge, Charlie Brooker, George Scholes and Doug Verity were the other marksmen for the Dutchmen.

Centre Eric Unger was a two-goal man for the Cataracts. Defenceman Red Olsen scored their other counter.

Stratford goes to Niagara Falls, Kitchener meets the Tigers in Hamilton and Windsor Bulldogs play the Maroons in Chatham Friday night.

Bisons Take AHL Lead Alone, Beat Barons 4-2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The deadlock was broken in the American Hockey League Wednesday. Buffalo Bisons met their persistent pace-makers Cleveland Barons and ran up a 4-2 victory to take sole possession of top spot.

Hershey Bears took over third berth when they edged Pittsburgh Hornets 3-2, and last-place Providence Reds dragged Syracuse into the cellar with them, defeating the Warriors 2-0.

Gaye Stewart insured victory for Buffalo with a brace of goals. Ken Hayden and Gordie Pennell completed the Bisons' scorecard while Fred Glover and Eddie Olson got the Cleveland markers.

Providence goalie Harvey Bennett earned his second shutout of the season. Zellio Toppazzini and Paul Gladu were the winners' marksmen.

Two goals by Arnie Kullman in the opening period put Hershey on the road to victory. The Hornets registered twice in the second period through Danny Lewicki and Andy Barbe but a long shot by George Sullivan in the same stanza locked the issue for the Bears.

10-Team League Seen In West

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 10-city Western Hockey League, with an interlocking schedule between five coast and five Prairie teams, has been forecast by league president Al Leader.

The prediction, made in a telephone interview from Seattle, followed a report from Portland, Ore., that a 15,000-seat civic coliseum is planned there.

Four groups of business men are already lobbying for the Portland hockey franchise, Leader said. There has been no hockey there since the Eagles folded after the 1950-51 season.

Inclusion of Portland in the present WHL set-up would make the league coast-heavy with five teams in the west and three on the Prairies.

Three Peterborough Rinks Reach Final Round In Canada Packers' 'Spiel

By HERB MARTIN

So close and hard fought were the games in the first day of the three-day annual Canada Packers Trophy bonspiel, held at the Charlotte St. curling rink all day Wednesday, that when all of the 28 competing rinks had played three 10-end games and the scores were handed in, two local rinks skipped by M. Knox and A. Ingram were tied for first place with three wins 28 plus 4 points each. They were closely followed by D. Charlton, also from the Peterborough club with three wins 28 plus 2 points.

J. McTague, Cobourg, was the high two-game winner, and these four rinks will return later to playoff with four winners from Saturday's spiel for the Canada Packers Trophy and the Seagram Trophy. If the brand of curling that was displayed on the first day of this big event continues in the next round, on Saturday, the spectators are going to see some of the finest curling shown in this rink for some time.

SOME OUTSTANDING

It would be difficult to pick out the best game of the series—they were all good—but there's one or two that caught the eye. The Knox-Potts game, the McCallum-Bradburn game, the Braund-Mark game, the Downey-Braund one an extra end, the Lawrence-Ingram game an extra end, and then the final game between the two veterans Giroux and Charlton, also an extra end. These games were really outstanding.

The ice was in perfect condition, and that in no small way was responsible for the fine curling.

That the 'spiel was a big success there is no doubt, and the club appreciates the co-operation and generosity of the Canada Packers Company. Through their manager, Mr. Lionel Browne, they have worked with bonspiel chairman Fred Stenson and his committee, and they have gone a long way to put this bonspiel across, and their efforts have not been in vain.

13 Players Sign, Day Goes By Without Holdout

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball clubs for the first time found contract signing on the brighter side today.

Twenty-four hours had gone by without a single new holdout developing. Meanwhile, thirteen players, including pitcher Curt Simmons of Philadelphia Phillies and catcher Sherman Lollar of Chicago White Sox, signed for the 1954 season.

Simmons, the first of a long list of dissatisfied Phils to come to terms, reached an agreement after a short huddle with club secretary George Fletcher.

Simmons won 16 games and dropped 13 for the third-place Phillies last year. He lost a month of the season when he caught his left foot in a lawnmower, necessitating amputation of part of his big toe.

Lollar became the 19th of 41 White Sox players to sign. The American League's top defensive catcher last season, Lollar batted .287.

Others to come to terms included Pitchers Bubba Church, Howie Pollet, rookie Bob Hartig and catcher Hal Meek of Chicago Cubs; outfielders Bob Borkowski and Wally Post, Cincinnati Redlegs; infielder Bob Micelotta, Phils; utility outfielder Pat Mullen, Detroit Tigers; Jose G. Santiago, rookie pitcher of Cleveland Indians and catcher Wilmer Shantz, brother of Bobby with Philadelphia Athletics.

Cleveland Indians traded catcher Joe Tipton to Washington Senators for Mickey Grasso, another catcher. The trade was strictly an exchange of weak-hitting receivers. Grasso batted .209 last season and Tipton .229.

Chicago White Sox hired Rogers Hornsby as a batting instructor for the pre-season farm club school at Hollywood, Fla.

Britain Claims 4 Relay Records

LONDON (AP) — Britain has officially claimed four world relay running records. The Amateur Athletic Association submitted the following times to the International Track and Field Federation for recognition:

Men's four-mile—(Christ Chataway, D. C. Seaman, Bill Nankeville and Roger Bannister) 16:41. The listed record of 16:42.8 was set by a Swedish team.

Men's 6,000 metres — (R. H. Dunkley, Donald Law, Gordon Pirie and Nankeville), 15:27.2. The list record of 15:30.2 was set by a Swedish team.

Women's 880 yards—(Anne Pashley, Jean Newbolt, Shirley Hampton, and Ann Johnson), 1:39.9. Listed record of 1:40 was set by a U.S. team in 1952.

Women's Mile-and-a-half — (N. Smalley, D. Leather and M. Slemon), 6:49. The listed record of 7:07.8 was set by an English team.

Bilts Master Royals 9-2 After Shakeup

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It appears that coach Alf Pike of Guelph Biltmores had the right prescription for his slumping team.

Angry after his team took an 8-2 beating from Kitchener - Waterloo Greenshirts in an Ontario Hockey Association Junior A game Tuesday night, Pike tagged six players with fines, changed around all his lines and inserted Ron Howell at centre, a position the defenceman had never played.

The Biltmores snapped out of it Wednesday night and trounced the Quebec Junior Hockey Association Montreal Royals 9-2 in Guelph. You could probably guess who led the Guelph upsurge. Howell scored four goals and collected an assist to bring his total for 27 games to 13 goals and 10 assists.

In Toronto's first game of a doubleheader the Marlboros pulled into a first-place tie with St. Catharines TeePees by defeating the TeePees 6-2. Marlboros have played two games less.

In the second game Barrie Flyers came from behind with two third-period goals to edge St. Michael's College Majors 4-3.

Hamilton Cubs took a 4-3 home-ice decision from Kitchener in the other league game.

By snapping out of their slump the Biltmores also handed the Royals their fourth consecutive loss. Montreal now has played four interlocking games in Ontario and has lost all four.

Bob Attersley and Bob Forhan each netted two markers to follow Howell's four-goal effort for Guelph. Birley Dimma, one of the fined players, notched the other. Walt Gardiner and Andy Morrison scored for Montreal.

Dave Jackson sparked the Marlboro victory by scoring two goals. Singles went to Mike Elik, Charlie Burns, Gerry James and Billy Harris. Brian Cullen scored both for St. Catharines.

ROBERTSON WINS GAME

John Robertson scored the tying and winning goals in the last stanza for Barrie. Arnie Smith and Dan Poliziani scored the others. Brian Anderson, Bill Colvin and Les Duff shared the total for the Collegians.

Bob Robinson's goal with less than two minutes left in regulation time gave the Cubs their first victory over Kitchener in five games this season. Cummy Burton, Lou Dietrich and Bill Stewart got the others for Hamilton within two minutes and 26 seconds of the first period.

Grieg Hicks, Bud Horne and Howie Glover were the Kitchener marksmen.

BREAKS SWIMMING MARK

SYDNEY (AP) — Jon Henricks, Australia's brilliant young swimming star, Wednesday night broke the Australian record for 220 yards, clipping 4-5 of a second off the previous best of two minutes, 9.8 seconds set up by himself and Alec Jany of France.

23 Countries Enter Cup Play

MELBOURNE (AP) — Twenty-three countries have entered the 1954 European zone Davis Cup tennis tournament, it was announced Wednesday as the draw for the first two rounds was released.

First-round matches:

Brazil vs Switzerland; Monaco vs Yugoslavia; Netherlands vs Spain; Egypt vs Turkey; Austria vs Ireland; Finland vs Norway; New Zealand vs Hungary; Luxembourg, bye.

Second-round:

Bill Hendry Shines In Kenner Victory

Youthful Bill Hendry of Kenner Collegiate came up with a great scoring performance at St. Peter's gym last evening to lead his team to a 71-42 COSSA bantam victory over SPS. He scored no less than 61 of their 71 points to come just 10 points below the high school cage scoring record set last year by Doug Galvin of the senior Saints.

In an OABA bantam fixture, also at the SPS gymnasium on Wednesday night, St. Peter's took a 19-12 triumph over their Kenner rivals with solid positional play by the Lynch lads. The junior hoop fixture saw St. Peter's finish strong to yank out a 42-39 decision over Kenner Collegiate in the final few seconds of play after a keen contest. There will be further basketball tilts on tap at SPS this Friday evening.

MACKAY BREAKS FOOT

MONTREAL (CP)—Calum MacKay, Montreal Canadiens forward, suffered a fractured right foot in a practice session Tuesday and will be lost to the club for at least three weeks.

MacKay, enjoying his best National Hockey League season to date, has scored 10 goals this year.

Elect Maranville, Dickey, Terry To Hall Of Fame

NEW YORK (AP) — Rabbit Maranville, the great little shortstop who died Jan. 5, led Yankee Bill Dickey and Bill Terry, former New York Giants' first-baseman and manager, into baseball's Hall of Fame in the annual election by the Baseball Writers Association.

This trio, all active within the last 25 years, became the 71st, 72nd and 73rd to be enrolled in the game's shrine at Cooperstown, N.Y. There were votes for 53 different players in the 1954 election.

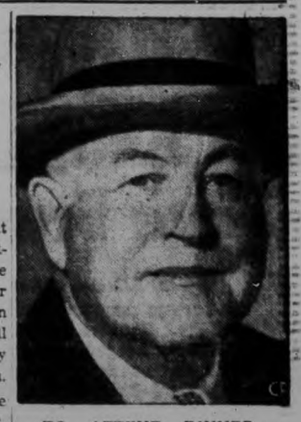
Maranville, inventor of the "basket catch" who played in the majors for 23 years, led the ticket with 209 votes on the 252 ballots cast by 10-year members of the writers' group. Three-fourths, or 189, was required for election.

Dickey, who spent his entire big-league career with the Yanks (1928-46) and still remains with the club as a coach, pulled 202 votes. Terry, involved in many stormy controversies with the writers during his career with the Giants, had 195 votes.

DIMAGGIO FAILS AGAIN

For the second year in succession, Joe DiMaggio failed to make the grade, falling 14 short with 175 votes. Ted Lyons, a pitching star with Chicago White Sox from 1923,46 and later Sox manager, also was close up with 170 votes. Lyons recently was signed as pitching coach by Brooklyn Dodgers.

The list of eligibles was sharply restricted this year under new rules. A man must have been out of baseball, as player, coach, manager or umpire, for five years with the exception of those who received 100 or more votes last year. DiMaggio and Lyons were the two exceptions. A player must have been active within the last 25 years to be considered.



TO ATTEND DINNER — Tommy Burns, 72, only Canadian to hold the world heavyweight boxing championship, is coming back to his native soil from his present home at Coalinga, Calif., to attend the annual Sports Celebrity Dinner of the Ontario Sportswriters and Sportcasters Association at Toronto next February 18. Born Noah Brusso at Hanover, Ont., Burns held the title from 1906 until he was beaten by Jack Johnson in Australia in 1908. Once the owner of a speakeasy in New York during the 1920s, Burns now is an evangelist.

Farewell Concert

OSLO (CP)—Kirsten Flagstad, the Norwegian singer who was born in 1895, sang her final performance as a concert artist in a recital at the national theatre here in December. She started her singing career on the same stage 46 years before.

Mamie Unhappy At Monroe Tag By Studio

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Mamie van Doren, a blonde bundle of sex, wants to resign as her studio's answer to Marilyn Monroe.

"The comparison to Marilyn was okay at the beginning of my career," says Mamie. "The publicity helped draw attention to me. But now I don't want to be the answer to anybody. I want to stand on my own two feet."

I'm afraid she won't find it easy to shed the reference to Monroe. The resemblance between the two girls is considerable. Both are blondes with pretty - girl faces and curvaceous figures. Both exude a sexiness in appearance and conversation. They can drop quotes that send interviewers scurrying to their typewriters.

"But we're not really alike," Mamie protests. "My hair is silver blonde, almost platinum; Marilyn's is more a golden blonde. She is a much bigger girl, too."

WENT WITH DEMPSEY

She did admit that their tastes in men are similar. Marilyn's heart belongs to Joe DiMaggio. Mamie used to go with another sports figure with the initials J.D.—Jack Dempsey.

"We broke up," Mamie explained. "He was a little bit too old for me. Or maybe I was too young for him."

Mamie plays the cello, if that's of any interest to you.

Asked if she is a natural blonde, Mamie replied: "No, I'm a democratic brunette. I figured it was time for a change."

Name New Building After Winnipeg Lawyer

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian Institute of International Affairs announced Wednesday that its national headquarters building in Toronto has been named Edgar Tarr House after the distinguished Winnipeg lawyer who died in 1950.

Victor Sifton, honorary chairman of the institute, said the selection recognized Mr. Tarr's great contribution, not only to the institute, "but to the development of Canadian and Commonwealth foreign policy."

Mr. Tarr was president of the institute from 1937 to 1939 and its chief guide and counsellor from its founding in 1928. He organized and served as chairman of delegations at a number of Canadian and Commonwealth conferences held by the institute and its affiliates in the Commonwealth and United States.

Urge Ban Big Trucks From Ontario Roads

TORONTO (CP) — A deputation of the Railway Transportation Brotherhood (AFL-TLC) Wednesday urged Premier Frost to amend the Highway Traffic Act to prohibit large trailer trucks from using Ontario highways.

The brotherhood, in a brief presented to the premier said "It is recognized that the size and carrying capacity of the trucks have gone beyond the ability of the roads to carry them."

The brotherhood also asked legislation for compulsory automobile insurance covering public liability and property damage.

KITCHENER (CP)—A 19-year-old Kitchener hunter, Irwin Schneider, was shot through his left hand Wednesday when his double barrelled shotgun accidentally discharged as he climbed over a fence.

The New Wurlitzer Spinette Organ

A sensational new organ with many advanced features. According to the New York Review, one of these new Wurlitzer Organs was sent by plane to Chicago from the Wurlitzer factory at North Tonawanda, N.Y., and another Spinette was sent by plane to Los Angeles for a preview showing of the new Wurlitzer Spinette Organ. Guest artist of the evening was Gaylord Carter, well known to music lovers of Los Angeles, for many years organist on both radio and TV. The new organ is of a size no larger than the smallest Spinet piano. However, it has orchestral range, flexibility, and amazing variation of tone colour. Regarding the new instrument Allan B. Freehold, of Birkel-Richardson of Los Angeles, said musicians and critics who have heard this organ are unanimous in their praise, and Wurlitzer dealers everywhere are welcoming it. Some of the amazing features of the new organ are: automatic tone control; two keyboards incline and overhang, patented by Wurlitzer; visual guides to solo voices; flexible control of pedals and vibrato. The new Wurlitzer organ is very easy to play if you have some musical experience. You can soon learn to play this marvellous organ. Call in and hear for yourself this amazing new organ.

Fireman Overcome

OTTAWA (CP) — Fireman Ken O'Connor was admitted to hospital and four others required treatment Wednesday night when they were overcome by smoke and fumes while fighting a fire in a grocery store basement. The fire, believed to have started from a faulty furnace pipe, was confined to a stock room containing about $3,000 worth of groceries.

Find Shopping In Moscow A Major Operation; First Come, First To Be Given Service

By BILL BOSS

There is no rationing here and sales are made on a first-come first-served basis. Prices are the same in the neighborhood stores and in the shops on Gorki street, Moscow's main shopping centre, although there may be a greater selection on Gorki street earlier in the day.

Shopping crowds are tremendous both downtown and in the suburbs. One of the current editorial campaigns is to make customers and clerks more courteous.

ALWAYS LINE-UP

Queues move slowly. Three individual operations are required for every purchase. You join the first line to see what you want, choose it, struggle for the attention of a clerk and get a cash slip.

Then you go to a cashier's cage, take your turn at paying and get a receipt. Finally you claim your purchase. It took me 45 minutes to buy a ream of paper.

Apart from large items such as pianos, television sets or refrigerators, everything is cash and carry. There are no bread or milk deliveries.

There is a drive on to modernize and increase production of consumer goods, give them more eye appeal. Stylishness, elegance or color still have to be introduced.

There is a sober uniformity to merchandise, both in quality and looks. Colors are subdued or dark. Cut is conservative and standard. Men's suits and coats are durable but dull. Women's frocks are mainly printed cottons or one-color woollen fabrics.

Early To Bed

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—All adult males must be off the streets in residential areas of this city of 131,000 between dusk and dawn unless they have good reason Police Commissioner Roy Hyatt announced Wednesday in a new move to combat a current rash of attacks on women. Ten women have been attacked in the last month.

Bouchard Ready To Defend Bantam Title

QUEBEC (CP)—Leo Bouchard, manager of Fernando Gagnon, Canadian bantamweight boxing champion, said Wednesday his fighter is willing to give anybody a title bout provided the financial terms are right.

He made the statement in reply to a challenge made in Toronto Saturday by Jimmy Jones, manager of Edmonton bantamweight Jersey Joe Edwards.

Jones, who also manages Canadian heavyweight champ Earl Walls, said he doesn't much care where the bout is held, just as long as Edwards gets a shot at the crown.

NO. 1 CHALLENGER

Bouchard didn't say Gagnon will fight Edwards in his next title defence, but said Gagnon is not afraid to fight "Edwards or any other bantamweight in the country" as long as the terms are right.

Bouchard also said he and Gagnon are considering an offer to fight Yoshio Shirai, world flyweight champion, in Japan.

England In Comeback Staves Off Jamaica

KINGSTON, Jamaica (Reuters) England Wednesday staged a dramatic comeback in the first cricket test match with the West Indies to stave off defeat. Her chances now are better than good.

With one day still to go the game closed Wednesday with England standing at 227 for two and needing 230 runs to win.

Lefthander Willie Watson batted out a century.

The Englishmen still have a long way to go but by the manner in which the batsmen hit spinners Sonny Ramadhin and Alf Valentine who wrecked the first innings suggested that the feat is not impossible.

COACHES BOMB BOMBERS

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que. (CP)—Ralph Meisner, president of the 1954 Winnipeg Blue Bombers, says 30 applicants, most of them Americans, are after the job of coaching the Bombers this year.

"That all adds up to something of an answer to Bert Bell, high commissioner of professional football in the United States," said Meisner, here for the annual joint meeting of the Lake Shipping Associations of the United States and Canada.

Bell has been trying to dissuade American players from coming to Canada.

"I have not the faintest idea yet who our choice will be" said Meisner Wednesday. "We have a committee working on it and we will probably interview many applicants.

"A few of the applications came from Canadians who have established themselves as big-time coaches.

"If we had only three or four applications it would be a comparatively simple job of selecting our man to replace George Trafton. But with 30 or so, well, maybe we will just have to reach into the barrel, draw a name and say, that's our man."

VIOLENCE AT GAME

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit high school athletic officials, seeking a solution to rowdyism which resulted in the near-fatal stabbing of a basketball player, are seeking an explanation for a new outburst of teen-age violence.

The new rowdyism resulted in the arrest of 21 juveniles—five of them teen-age girls, Tuesday night. The girls and five boys were arrested after an intra-school basketball game at Foch intermediate school. Nine others were arrested after a parochial league basketball game between Visitation and Cathedral central high schools.

Four knives were confiscated in the arrests.

Battle Grippe Outbreak

VIENNA (AP) — Emergency measures have been taken in Warsaw against a wave of grippe sweeping the Polish capital, the newspaper Zycie Warszawy said today. It said a meeting of hospital directors has taken place, and indicated they discussed how to cope with the large number of hospital cases.

HANNOVER, Germany (Reuters)—A British pilot was killed Wednesday when his jet airplane exploded and crashed at nearby Meitze.

Marmora Gets TVL Win From Pt. Anne

MARMORA (ENS)—Point Anne visited Marmora on Wednesday in search of Trent Valley League points but found the homesters in fine form and lost a hard-played game by the score of 10-6. At the end of the first period, the game stood 2-2. In the second, Marmora registered three in five minutes before the visitors lowered the lead by two goals, but in the second half of the period they advanced the score two goals beyond that of Point Anne and further outscored the Ox Pointers in the third. Killian in the Marmora nets had a busy night, as well as Bates at the other end. He was twice injured when there were a few minutes to go but he gallantly played on. About 350 viewed the encounter in which only three penalties were awarded.

Cavan Church Reviews Year

CAVAN (ENS)—Cavan United church held their annual congregational meeting Monday evening in the Sunday school room.

There were 20 members present. A pot luck dinner under the convenership of Mrs. H. Snyder and Miss Annie Tinney was served at 6:30. The Rev. A. M. Butler acted as chairman for the business meeting which followed.

A very satisfactory year was reported. There was one new elder appointed, W. J. Robinson, to take the place of M. McDonald who has moved away.

The church service has been changed to 2:30 in the afternoon during the winter months.

Mrs. Milford Byers is the organist and choir leader. There has been no Sunday school superintendent appointed yet but will be at a later meeting.

CGIT Skating Party

NORWOOD (ENS)— The CGIT held a skating party on Tuesday under the leadership of Mrs. D. Audas. The girls met at the rink at seven o'clock and played games and skated for about an hour. After which they went to Mrs. H. W. Hudson's home for hot dogs and hot chocolate. A very enjoyable evening was spent by all the girls.

FOOTBALL EXECUTIVE — Roy Robertson, part-owner of Montreal Alouettes, has been named president of the Big Four football club. A prominent Montreal sportsman and stock broker, Robertson succeeds Cec McFadden of Toronto Argonauts.

Scout Commissioner Visits Norwood Group

NORWOOD (ENS). — Arthur Jackson, field commissioner of the Boy Scouts' Association, on Tuesday night visited the Norwood group in the Legion Hall. The 1st Norwood Wolf Cub Pack was under the cubmaster, the Rev. R. D. Duncanson, and the 1st Norwood Scout Troop was under Scoutmaster M. Freeman.

Mr. Jackson explained to the boys and parents the meaning of scouting. Then he directed the boys in several games. It was pointed out to the parents and the group committee that there was a purpose behind every scouting game. Two observation tests in which Scouts, Cubs and visitors participated were conducted.

A display of Cub, Scout and Rover badges which are available to the boys, was laid out on the table. The film "Jamboree '53" was shown to the audience, and seven Wolf Cubs who had successfully passed the tests were presented with their first star. These Cubs were: Jack Cronin, John Stewart, Douglas Waters, Roderick Rork, John Goodswan, Bob McKey, and Chris Preston. The evening program ended with Cub and Scout silent prayers and "Good night and good hunting."

Mr. Jackson then met with the leaders and group committee. The names of the committee members are: Art Spring, chairman, Willia mGarden, secretary, G. Martin, Harry Scarlett, Fred Harris. Names of other Scout assistants were Bob Garden, Joe Clements, Archie Brooks, Dave McNeil, and John Hamblin.

F. Kokesh Hits 316

Florence Kokesh hit a 316 single and 530 double in the Girls' City Bowling League this week. J. Moore's 424 was next to the 423 blind score. Landy Misses Record, Turns Mile In 4:02.3

MELBOURNE (AP) — John Landy, Australia's great miler, failed again tonight in his bid for a four-minute mile. Running in a special twilight meeting at Olympic Park, he was timed in 4:02.3.

Landy competed before 25,000 spectators, largest crowd ever seen at the Olympic Park here. He won by 95 yards over Geoff Warren, with Les Perry third. Landy's lap times were 59 seconds for the first quarter, 2:03 for the half and 3:2.1 for the three-quarters.

Landy only was pushed over the first quarter-mile of the race. He hit the front 20 yards from the gun, running into a headwind of eight feet a second.

During the third lap the crowd became so excited that officials over the public address system had to appeal for silence so Landy could hear his lap time. The crowd obeyed, but as soon as Landy started on the final 440 yards they cheered every time his feet touched the ground.

Lakefield Puckists Beat Young's Point

YOUNG'S POINT (ENS) — Tuesday night's EPHL game saw a keenly contested struggle between Lakefield and Young's Point, with the former winning by a one goal margin. D. Sloan opened the scoring for Lakefield, with assists going to J. Sloan and Pammett. Young's Point fought back strongly until G. Henry combined with K. Fawcett and R. Freeburn to tie the score at 1-1. A few seconds later D. Sloan was given a charging penalty, followed by a ten-minute misconduct penalty for striking the referee.

In the second frame H. Knox earned his second penalty and K. Fawcett (Henry) put the visitors out in front. Play continued to be fast and rugged, and Lakefield came back with two more counters, R. Calberry and M. Patterson scoring with P. Calberry getting an assist on each.

In the final period Young's Point held an edge on play, and soon tied the score at 3-3, on a goal by R. Freeburn from K. Fawcett. However, D. Sloan scored from a scramble around the net to put Lakefield out in front again. Goalie Hill was injured by a hard shot and play was held up several minutes while he received treatment. Soon after his return to the net, D. Sloan beat him for his third goal of the night, assists going to J. Sloan and R. Coones. Once again Young's Point fought back to overcome the two goal lead, and Henry scored unassisted to put them back inthe running.

Young's Point: Goal, Hill; defence, B. Evans, G. Shearer; centre D. Heard; wings, J. Fawcett, J. Northey; alternates, K. Fawcett, G. Henry, J. Barcroft, R. Freeburn, B. Shearer, J. Darling, R. Northey, J Blewett, C. Russelle.

Lakefield: Goal, R. Wasson defence, R. Calberry, P. Calberry; centre, M. Patterson; wings, H. Knox, G. Hopkins; alternates, D. Sloan, J. Sloan, S. Pammett, C. Heffernan, B. Down, T. McIlwain, R. Coones, D. Montgomery, Dunford.

Referees — Rishor, McCracken.

Yesterday's Stars

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Max Bentley, New York, who scored two goals and assisted in two others to pace Rangers to an 8-3 victory over Boston Bruins.

Doug Bentley, New York, who made a spectacular return to big time hockey, contributing a goal and two assists to his brother's effort in the same game.

Guelph Fines Six Players Changes Lines After Loss

GUELPH (CP)—Coach Alf Pike of Guelph Biltmores, who are in last place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, said Wednesday he has fined six players for indifferent play and failing to carry out instructions.

In addiion, Pike all lines have been broken

Pike, unhappy after Guelph's 8-2 loss to Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts Tuesday night, said Bill McCreary, Minnie Menard and Wally Para have been fined for indifferent play. Ed Shack, John Gillis and Birley Dimma were fined for failing to carry out instructions. Amounts of the fines were not announced.

DEFENCEMAN MOVED

Pike also said that defenceman Ron Howell will move to centre, allowing Ken McMeekin to take over a regular berth on defence. Howell, who has scored nine goals and as many assists in 26 games this season, has never played centre.

"I have got to have somebody who can carry the puck straight up the ice," Pike said. "We have got too many guys with big heads who have anything but hockey in them when they are out on the ice."

One of the biggest surprises was to break up the McCreary-Bob Attersley-Bob Forhan line, one of the highest-scoring units in the league.

Pike said there would be more fines if some of his players don't change their attitudes.

Five Killed In Crash

PORT ANGELES, Wash. (AP)—A United States coast guard helicopter Wednesday tumbled into the straits of Juan de Fuca a short distance off shore, killing the five men aboard. Coast guard headquarters at Seattle said none of the bodies was recovered.

TV STARS KIDNAPPED — Two of Canada's pioneer television stars, Uncle Chichimus and Hollyhock, were stolen in Toronto from the station wagon of puppeteer John Conway, former professor of English literature at the University of British Columbia. The puppets have appeared regularly on CBC television since it began in Canada in September, 1952. In this picture Conway stands behind his puppet stars while Larry Mann, who also appears on their program, reads to them.

Slipped In '53 But Coal Men See Good Future

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP)—The coal mining industry in Alberta, which works coal reserves estimated at 48 per cent of Canada's total known deposits, has fought adverse conditions and come up with an improved long-term outlook.

Although the industry slipped again last year the setbacks were not crippling.

Many officials of the coal mining industry now see a better future because in part, of the development of coal turbine engines.

The province's coal production last year amounted to 5,881,419 tons—the smallest output since 1939 and a reduction of almost 3,000,000 tons from the record year of 1946. The decline of 1,313,053 tons from the 1952 production of 7,194,472 tons was the sharpest annual reduction for decades.

The industry's hardest blow was the mild winter last year and the early mildness this winter. Dealers still had last winter's supply this year.

The industry has also had marketing problems since the Leduc oil discovery early in 1947 set off western Canada's crude oil and natural gas developments.

But officials now feel that displacement of coal by fuel oil, propane and natural gas has gone its full length.

Secret Army Report Made

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—A report on the reserve army, possibly containing sharp criticism of present reserve policy, now is in the hands of Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds, chief of the army general staff.

The report has also been read by Brig. A. W. Beament of Ottawa, chairman of the conference of defence associations which opens its annual, and secret, three-day meeting here today.

The conference of defence associations comprises some 60 representatives of all reserve army units in Canada, including infantry, artillery and engineers.

PROVIDE DISCUSSION

Brig. Beament, a reserve officer and a lawyer in civilian life, said the report will provide the focus of discussion at the meeting. He declined to disclose its contents.

The report was prepared by three reserve major-generals, E.J. Renaud of Montreal, Howard Kennedy of Ottawa and H. F. G. Letson of Vancouver. The three were appointed by Defence Minister Claxton on the recommendation of Gen. Simonds. Their report went to the army chief about a week ago.

On paper, the reserve army now has a strength of some 47,000 men about 2,000 fewer than the regular army. However, many never turn out for parades or training and others show up only to draw their pay.

One army officer said a bugbear of the reserve is the vast amount of paper work involved at each unit. He added that he expects the report to suggest some solution.

Subject of the reserve army reached front pages of Canadian newspapers last week when Lt.-Col. H. W. J. Peck, a reserve officer, said in a speech at Vancouver that the army is almost non-existent as a defensive fighting force.

Mr. Claxton said later in the Commons that some of Col. Peck's remarks were "injudicious or unjustified," but that the officer's speech was a "well-intentioned effort to arouse interest in the reserve army."

He was fined $25 Wednesday after admitting he wrung the necks of 12 pigeons—someone else's pets—to get the main ingredient for the pie.

Begin Thinning 15,000 Buffalo In North Alberta

FORT SMITH, N.W.T. (CP)—A scene reminiscent of the early days of the Canadian west is being enacted here as expert marksmen "thin out" Canada's last remaining herd of Buffalo.

Once millions strong and monarchs of the plains from Texas to the Territories, the buffalo have been reduced to about 15,000 roaming through the 17,000 acres of Wood Buffalo park which straddles the Alberta-Northwest Territories boundary about 500 miles north of Edmonton.

"Thinning out" the herd, shooting a certain number of buffalo, is carried out annually by the federal government. Actually, it benefits the remaining buffalo because the park can support only a limited number adequately.

To prevent over-population and a weakening the animals are rounded up and a certain number slaughtered. About 300 animals will be shot this year.

Field men of the wildlife service of the northern affairs department, aided by aircraft, have completed the roundup and thousands of buffalo now are penned in corals.

One group of marksmen is at work at Hay Camp, 40 miles south of Fort Smith, where about 2,000 animals have been corraled.

ALL EXPERT SHOTS

Animals selected from the main corral for slaughter are led into a smaller enclosure where the riflemen go to work. All are expert shots and usually only one bullet is needed.

Settlers also benefit. The meat is sold in the district at reduced prices. Last year, about 106,000 pounds of buffalo steaks were sold at 55 cents a pound.

This year, however, the price is expected to be higher.

The Wood Buffalo Park had its start between 1923 and 1928 when 6,600 buffalo, about all that remained in Canada, were driven from Alberta's buffalo park at Wainwright, 500 miles to the north to their new home.

Free to roam without the danger of reckless hunters, the herd expanded until it became the last large herd in the world.

Ex-Trustee T. V. Grandy Dies

BETHANY — The funeral service of Thomas Victor Grandy, RR 2, Bethany, who died in civic hospital, Peterborough, after a brief illness, was largely attended. It was held from his late residence, lot 1, Con. 11, of Manvers township in charge of the Rev. Lawrence Norman of Bethany and the Rev. A. E. Harding of Welcom.

Pallbearers were: Laverne McKinley, Talbert Davidson, George Wilson, Kenneth Griffin, Norman Shea and Eldridge Shea. Burial was in the family plot at St. Mary's cemetery.

Mr. Grandy was a well known and highly respected citizen of the Fleetwood community, north of the village. A farmer all his life time, he was the son of the late William Grandy and Margaret Hart, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Grandy, who were among the pioneer settlers at the Brick Corners. He had been particularly active in church work during his life time; an elder and steward of the Fleetwood Methodist church, later the United church and since 1947 when the former church was closed for lack of members, he became a member of the Bethany church where he also served on the board of session.

For many years he had been a trustee of the Fleetwood school. A member in good standing of the Canadian Order of Foresters, last year he was presented with the 50 year Jewel. On New Year's Eve, he and Mrs. Grandy had celebrated their golden wedding anniversary holding open house for their friends and neighbors and were the recipients of many gifts on this occasion.

Immediately surviving is his widow, the former Mabel Stinson; two sons, Nelson of Detroit, Mich., and Emory of New York, N.Y., two grandchildren, Joan and Robert Grandy and one sister, Mrs. J. C. Cummiskey, (Elsie of Bethany.

PERCIVAL'S

THE VEIL OF SECRECY which has hitherto been drawn over Canada's vast system of radar stations "somewhere up north" has been partially lifted with the release of photos of one such installation. Above is an Air Force community, complete with modern barracks, messes and recreational facilities, just one of many such installations in the North American chain.

First Production In Festival Said Wise Choice

WINDSOR (CP) — Adjudicator Graham Suter told Galt Little Theatre members Wednesday night they chose their play wisely and brought out what it had to say but did not realize its full dramatic value.

The British actor and producer was dealing with the first presentation in the Western Ontario Drama Festival. It was the Galt group's production of "Thunder Rock" by Robert Ardrey.

Four more plays will be presented during the festival which ends with a presentation luncheon Sunday. Top award is the Calvert Trophy and $100.

SHOWED SINCERITY

Referring to the production unit, players, director and technical staff, as a team, Mr. Suter said they showed sincerity, integrity and considerable talent. He commended them for an excellent set transported from Galt.

The play is set in a lonely lighthouse in northern Lake Michigan. It is the story of a disillusioned writer and man of the world who regains his faith in humanity with the help of some spiritual characters.

Mr. Suter commended Walter Grimwood as Streeter. He said the character was excellent and his only criticism was "it needed a little more voice."

He also handed bouquets to Sally Whittington as Melanie and John Etherton as Cassidy.

College Centennial

CHARLOTTETOWN — The Most Rev. Maurice Roy, Archbishop of Quebec, will celebrate high mass at the opening Jan. 19 of the centennial year of St. Dunstan's College here. The sermon will be given by Rt. Rev. J. A. Murphy, parish priest of Souris, whose 17-year term as rector of the college ending in 1943 was a record for the post.

Mediator Fails To Call Meeting

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—An Ontario labor department mediator set telephone wires buzzing Wednesday, but at last reports had failed to get opposite sides in a crippling auto industry strike to sit down and talk it over.

John Dunklee came to Windsor under orders from Labor Minister Daley to look into the situation at the Chrysler Corporation of Canada where 6,000 workers were forced off the job when 27 powerhouse engineers went on strike.

The men walked out Sunday midnight to back demands for time and a half for all Saturday work and a retroactive pay raise.

Mr. Dunklee arrived in Windsor Tuesday night but by late Wednesday had failed in his efforts to get company and union officials to meet around a table. The men are members of the International Union of Operating Engineers (AFL-TLC).

25 U.S. Planes Cost Canada $35,000,000

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian government has decided to purchase about 25 United States Neptune reconnaissance aircraft for the RCAF at a cost estimated roughly at $35,000,000.

Informants disclosed Wednesday that preliminary procurement negotiations already have started and it is hoped first deliveries of the two-engine American aircraft will be made some time this year.

The propellor-driven Neptunes will be placed on maritime patrol duty to assist the Second World War Lancasters until Canada is able to go into production on Britain's four-engine turbine-propellor Britannias.

PREPARE PROTOTYPE

Canadair Ltd. of Montreal will prepare a prototype of the Britannia modified to suit Canadian requirements. This may take some time to produce. When the prototype is approved, the Montreal company will get a production contract possibly for 50 of the craft.

The Neptune hasn't the power or the range of the Britannia, but experts believe it will have a maritime role to play even when the Britannia is ready for duty.

The Neptune will be used for short-range coastline anti-submarine and patrol work while the Britannia does long-range work to protect shipping and hunt down enemy subs on the Atlantic.

Handy Gadget

Amazing discovery

cleans and waxes at the same time!

TRY THIS TEST! On your dirtiest wood floor, smear grease pencil, lipstick, even road tar. Then rub a little Beautiflor around with a cloth, and see that it really cleans as it waxes!

Why clean your wood floors, then wax them, when Beautiflor actually cleans as it waxes! As you apply it, Beautiflor Liquid Wax loosens embedded dirt, dissolves grease, removes heel marks, stains, even road tar. All the dirt comes up on the cloth. The wax stays right on the floor!

You let it dry a few minutes, then buff. You get a rich, protective, real wax lustre that lasts and lasts, because Beautiflor contains lots of genuine wax.

Why clean, then wax? Do both at once, with Johnson's Beautiflor Liquid Wax!

Family Allowance Boosts Opposed By Gov't, CCF Resolution Rejected

OTTAWA (CP)—The government is opposed to an increase of family-allowance payments at present because it might jeopardize proposed extension of social-security measures.

Health Minister Martin gave this reason Wednesday in the Commons as he rejected a CCF proposal for a 60-per-cent increase in family allowances.

Mr. Martin said the resolution, moved by Hazen Argue (CCF—Assiniboia) "lacks any serious practical quality at this time in the light of existing obligations and in the light of trying to do something further in developing other fields of social welfare for the future."

He said he was referring to proposed pensions for disabled persons, to be discussed Monday with provincial representatives. The pensions could not have been planned if a similar CCF resolution for increases of family allowances last year had beena ccepted.

The CCF proposal, supported by Solon Low, Social Credit leader, would add between $170,000,000 and $190,000,000 to Canada's baby-bonus bill of $350,000,00.

The resolution was under discussion at 6 p. m. adjournment. Progressive Conservative members did not participate in the debate.

Mr. Argue said Canada could afford the cost of bringing family allowances in line with the 55-per-cent rise in costs of living since the payments were authorized in 1944.

He suggested minimum monthly payments be increased to $8 from $5 for children from birth to the sixth birthday. The maximum would be $13 instead of $8 a month for children between the ages of 13 and 16.

INTERMEDIATE PAYMENTS

He suggested no figures for the intermediate payments which now are $6 between the ages of six and 10 years and $7 between -10 and 13 years.

Quoting government figures, he said that 19 per cent of wage earners were responsible for the care of 84 per cent of the country's children, but that in 1951 37 per cent of wage earners earned less than $1,500 a year. He described the figures as an "irrefutable argument" for the increases.

He said tax cuts in last year's budget affected mostly well-to-do persons, but they represented enough money to pay for the increases.

Mr. Martin said improvements to family-allowance payments depended on the taxpayer's ability to pay for them. At the end of 1953 more than $2,480,000,000 had been paid in family allowances since the scheme was established.

Senior Civil Servants' Pay Increases Due After MP's

OTTAWA (CP)—Pay increases for the chiefs of staff, deputy ministers and several other senior civil servants may be in the immediate offing, it was learned Wednesday.

The increases, which would be authorized by the cabinet, are not expected to be put through before members of Parliament and cabinet ministers get theirs.

Salaries of top civil servants and defence chiefs have been held down by the unwritten rule that they cannot receive more than cabinet ministers, their superiors.

Deputy ministers now receive $13,500 to $17,500 a ear and the chiefs of staff are reported to earn $15,000. Salaries for the three chiefs of staff have never been officially divulged.

Annual salary for cabinet ministers is $10,000 but they also receive the $4,000 sessional indemnity and $2,000 annual expense allowance as other members of Parliament, plus a $2,000 car allowance for a total of $18,000.

Prime Minister St. Laurent has informed the Commons that members will receive $10,000 a year instead of the present $6,000 and cabinet ministers $27,000.

Canadian servicemen to the rank of major-general received pay increases starting Dec. 1, their first raise in two years. The increases ranged from $5 to $100 a month, will cost the treasury another $27,000,000 annually and brought the military payroll to more than $300,000,000 a year. The boost affected some 165,000 armed forces personnel, including 60,000 reserve officers and men.

AVERAGE NINE PER CENT

At the same time, some 100,000 federal civil servants and the RCMP received pay increases averaging nine per cent.

Increases for the chiefs of staff, deputy ministers and other senior civil servants are expected to be about 10 per cent or around $1,500 a year.

Deputy Minister K. W. Taylor of the finance department is the highest-paid deputy minister. He receives $17,500 a year. Deputy ministers in the departments of justice, agriculture, defence, defence production, external affairs, revenue, resources, trade and transport receive $15,000. Deputy ministers in the departments of fisheries, labor, immigration, mines, health, post office, public works, state secretary and veterans affairs get $13,500.

Move Afoot To Oust Behie

TIMMINS (CP)—John Stevenson, chairman of union stewards at the Hollinger gold mine, said Wednesday there is a move afoot to oust Leo (Buck) Behie as regional director of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL).

Mr. Stevenson claimed he is backed by 1,000 miners of about 5,000 in the Timmins area, in declaring Behie is not the man they want to direct their union here. He said the men want Bill Sefton, a former regional director here now in the Toronto office of the union.

Hollinger's 1,700 miners ended a three-month strike in December. Settlement included a five-cent-an-hour wage increase. Six other gold mines are still on strike.

"We need a stronger, more competent and diplomatic type of leader in this community than in other more completely-solid unionized industrial areas," Mr. Stevenson said.

In Toronto, an official from the national headquarters of the union said "to us this appears like a personal vendetta rather than an organizational problem."

War Havoc, Refugees Add Housing Problem In India

By NORMAN CLIFF

NEW DEHLI (OFNS)—Asia's increasing millions seek not only food but shelter. It is estimated that one hundred and thirty millions—one-fifth of the population of South-east Asia—are homeless or inadequately sheltered, and that in the whole of Asia more than one hundred million families exist in overcrowded and insanitary hovels, often shared by animals.

India has now taken the lead in drawing attention to this acute problem, and inviting cooperation in its solution. New Dehli is at the moment the scene of an international exhibition of low-cost housing (exhibition opens on January 20), a United Nations seminar on housing in which experts from all over Asia are participating, and a South-east Asia regional conference of the International Federation for Housing and Town Planning. A town of experimental houses has been built, and a village with cottages, school, community centre, health clinic, grain store, potters' shed, smithy, carpenters' and weavers' shops, cooperative store and open-air stage, all complete with lighting, water and drainage.

VARIETY IN HOUSING

The houses are of great variety in material and design. There are bamboo houses from Burma, houses of aerated concrete from Britain, "polynorm" house from Sweden and a plywood house of Indian make. There are flat roofs for Northern Indians to sleep on; sloping roofs from which tropical rains can pour; arched roofs to defeat extreme heat, and cave-like houses with room and walls in one. There are solid stone dwellings, others with walls of matting dressed in concrete which will crumble harmlessly when the earth quakes, prefabricated and portable homes. One house has walls made of synthetic wood composed of vegetable waste, sawdust and a mineral binding material, and another is built largely of wood chippings encased in asphalt. Gypsum and asbestos are also brought into use.

HOW TO CUT COSTS

The idea is to make the best use of materials readily available and to minimize the cost, although not at the expense of comfort, durability and utility. None of the experimental houses costs more than £400 and the one-room portable type can be built for £50. The minimum standard recommended is a house with two fair-sized rooms per family, kitchen, verandah, food store, bath, lavatory and yard.

HOUSING HEADACHES

The first problem the experts are discussing is the aggravagation of the normal housing shortage by war devastation, rising populations, the migration of refugees (seven and a half millions of them in India) the drift from rural to urban areas and the breakup of India's joint family system. Experts are faced with shocking congestion in cities and a consequent need for the wholesale clearance of slums, and an end of squalid makeshift shacks of mud and sacking, devoid of elementary conveniences, are all too common. Obstacles to reform include the high cost of land and materials, landlord exploitation, lack of civic sense and of equable acquisition laws.

India is helping to finance industrial housing with loans and generous subsidies to local governments, employers and workers' co-operatives. The main broblem is rural housing: eighty-three per cent of India's population lives in villages. Here expert opinion is agreed that the most useful approach is on the lines of aided self-help, training in efficient methods and experiments in the use of local materials.

Earth is the basic and most abundant ingredient in rural housing, and in the New Delhi exhibition many examples are provided of the use of rammed earth, moulded earth and blocks in which earth is stabilized with lime.

Mock Air Battle Planned For Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — A formation of Lancaster bombers from Greenwood, N.S., and an auxiliary fighter squadron from London, Ont. will engage in mock combat over Montreal Sunday, RCAF headquarters here said Wednesday.

Purpose of the exercise, officials said, is to keep civilian pilots of the London squadron trained in fighter-interception tactics. The fighter group arrives here Saturday.

Driving Charge Quashed

ST. THOMAS (CP)—Allan Carr, 20, Wednesday was found not guilty on a charge of dangerous driving that arose out of an accident in which Jean Marylin Locke, 20, was killed. Miss Locke was a passenger in Carr's auto Aug. 29 when it collided with a train at a level crossing in nearby Yarmouth township.

Request New Court

ST. THOMAS (CP)—Elgin county council Wednesday adopted a resolution asking the Ontario government to set up a juvenile and family court for St. Thomas and the county. St. Thomas city council passed a similar resolution late in 1953.

Asks Democracy Be Taught

OTTAWA (CP)—Max Lerner, retired business man, said Wednesday a group he founded in London, Ont., plans to call on Education Minister Dunlop of Ontario to ask that democracy be taught in schools.

The founder of the committee for democratic education said in an interview after a two-day visit here he seeks the non-partisan support of public men for his movement which intends to make Canada "democracy-conscious."

Mr. Lerner said he received encouragement from Senators Arthur Roebuck (L—Ontario) and L. M. Gouin (L—Quebec), Health Minister Martin and Hon. George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader.

Looking For Business Opportunity, Youth Needed Shelter, Slept In Lakefield Hall

It was 15 below on the night of January 5, 20-year-old Lakefield youth, Darrell Henry, took a night's sleep in the Lakefield village hall. Next morning provincial police picked him up and charged him with vagrancy.

This was related to Magistrate W. R. Philp, QC, in court today.

Henry testified that he was out of work and had been hitchhiking through the town. Unable to get a ride he had taken refuge in the town hall. Next morning he had been arrested and charged by chief Price Morris.

"How long is it since you last had a job?" asked Magistrate Philp.

"Since last July or August," replied Henry. "Since then I have been trying to start up a business of my own." He added that he had no immediate prospect of work and had even tried to get a job in the north country.

Magistrate Philp: "What do you propose to do now, I mean this afternoon?"

Henry mentioned something about going to see someone who could help him with his business proposition.

Magistrate Philp: "I don't mind putting a man in jail because he is a vagrant, but I hesitate when a man is out of a job and it is hard to decide who is to blame."

He then adjourned the case until January 26, advising Henry that he had better have more definite plans by then.

Parking Meter Time Rented To Vehicle Or Person?

Under a city bylaw a person may park a vehicle in the old city hall parking lot for any period for which money is deposited in a meter. However, it would appear, if that vehicle is removed from the lot before the meter time expires, no other vehicle, even if owned by the same person, can use up the remaining parking time.

This fact, apparently not known to the general public, was a matter of discussion in the magistrate's court today. It also seems, from a perusal of the bylaw, that the city has the right to turn the meters to show "expired" as soon as a vehicle withdraws from the plot.

Before Magistrate W. R. Philp, QC today, Jack Dugan of Toronto pleaded guilty to a charge laid under the city bylaw, that one of his vehicles was parked overtime at a meter lot in the old city hall parking area.

Dugan pleaded guilty but asked the magistrate if he could make an explanation. On November 23 he had parked his truck at a meter lot and inserted a coin.

SUBSTITUTED CAR

There was still considerable time left on the meter when he had removed the truck and parked his car. However, attendants had evidently turned back the meter when the truck was driven away and laid information against Dugan for overtime parking of his car.

Dugan felt that he should have been entitled to the parking time for which he had paid.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw commented: "I am only going by hearsay, but I believe parking lot attendants have been turning back the meters.

"To me it would appear to be an iniquitous practice. After all if you pay a quarter for so many hours' parking, I should think you'd be entitled to use it for that period. But if the city can come along and turn back the meters then I think they might be obtaining money improperly."

Magistrate Philp: "In other words, it is not the person who has parking privileges, but the vehicle."

Mr. Bradshaw: "That's how it would appear. This man Dugan had about an hour's parking time left when he substituted his car for his truck."

NEED OFFICER"

"Well I don't know just how we can deal with this case in the absence of the officer who laid this information," commented Magistrate Philp.

"What you (Dugan) say might well be correct, but apparently overtime was showing on the meter when the officer made the inspection. Your defence will be that it would not have been showing if the meter hadn't been turned back before it expired."

The magistrate adjourned the case for one week.

The Examiner today read the bylaw concerned and found that by implication, at least, the city has the right to allow only one vehicle to use parking time. The bylaw states that by "depositing a five or 25-cent coin . . . said stall may be used by such vehicle during the parking time provided therein."

It would appear that the words "by such vehicle" may have rigid limitations.

Space Joker

LONDON (CP)—Passengers at London airport were startled when a voice from a loudspeaker boomed "This is rocket ship Lunar calling from outer space." Officials said some practical joker had found an unguarded microphone.

VON Seeking More Patients

In the opinion of the VON board, if more people knew of the services offered, more would reap the benefit of excellent nursing care in the home, and the order itself would run on a more economical basis. As the number of calls increase, the standard fee, necessary for the maintenance of the VON, would decrease.

"The entire picture of VON service is changing," said Miss Kate M. McIlraith, regional director visiting the Peterborough branch at the January meeting, Wednesday. "Much of the illness that we treated a few years ago has been wiped out due to preventative medicines. Now, much of our time is spent treating the very old and very young.

"Particularly in the case of older people, the familiar surroundings of the home, when hospital care is not essential, aids substantially in their recuperation. Prenatal care, industrial nursing and health education are other features of the service today.

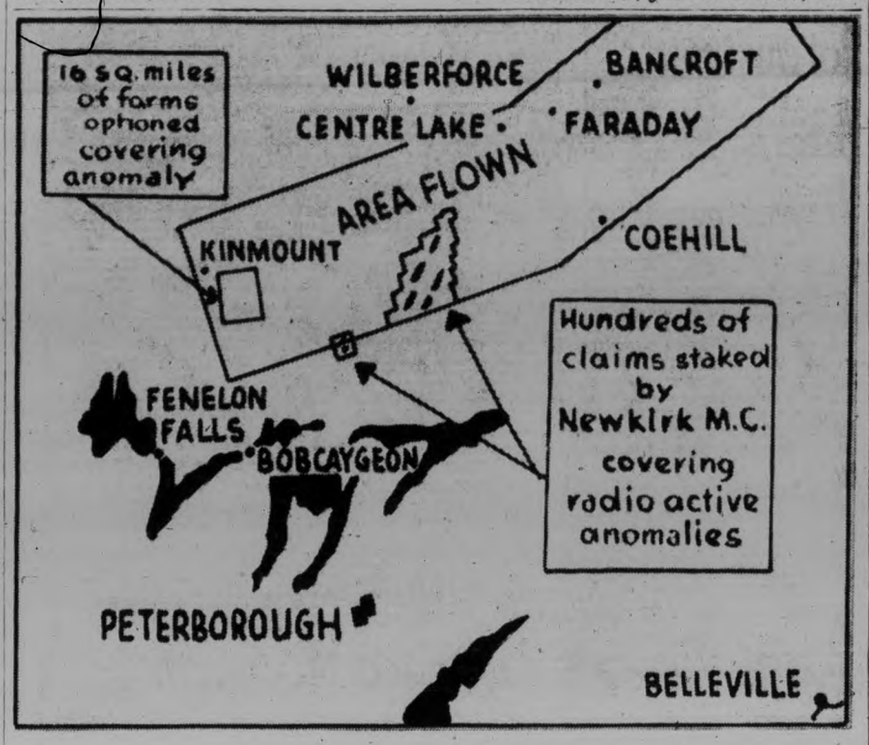
"The VON always tries to meet the existing need, and if that need is disspelled by some other service, such as the public health facilities, then the Order moves into other fields."

ALL GRADUATES

VON nurses are necessarily registered graduates of a hospital, and in many cases, have further training in public health courses. The service is offered to every class of people and, although a fee is expected if the patient can afford to pay, free service is given if necessary.

The nurses are prepared to handle any sort of illness that does not require hospital (or constant) care. Only in the case of an emergency does the VON nurse act on her own. At all other times she interprets the wishes of the family physician and is always in close co-operation with him.

Patterned on the Queen's Nurses of England, the VON was founded in Canada in 1897. To date there are 114 branches situated at various centres throughout the Dominion, and 512 nurses employed.



Organized Rush Stakes Land Following Secret Air Survey

A secret aerial survey followed by an extensive staking was carried out in the Bancroft district during the Christmas holiday season. Some details of the hide-and-seek game are coming to light in a story published this week in the Financial Post.

Belief in the barely-scratched area of potential uranium properties, prompted Newkirk Mining Corporation of Toronto to conduct a scintillometer aerial survey in the fall of 1952 over a 1,200 square mile area, in a band running north-east and south west in the general Bancroft section. The survey showed every known radio occurrence of mineral and three very interesting anomaly patterns in sections 16 and 40 miles south-west of Bancroft, and north and north-east of Bobcaygeon in the Kinmount section.

The Christmas holiday season, when there would be no competitive ground staking in the wilderness, was chosen by Newkirk as the time to strike.

It marshalled carloads of expert prospectors from the busy New Brunswick field and from Long Lac in Northwestern Ontario, and 25 of them were set loose.

Over a short period, the prospectors, under guidance of the aerial survey patterns, staked some 300 claims in interesting spots while others acquired mining leases on more than 16 square miles of farms, chiefly in Galway and Cavendish townships of Peterborough county. Since the blanket-staking rush additional air surveying is being carried out now.

The largest group of claims staked — 200 — was on the anomalies west of Highway 62 on the Bobcaygeon-Kinmount road, just south of inmount village.

Faraday Uranium Mines, near Bancroft, have already diamond-drilled 1,500 feet of holes along the known 8,000 ore structure for a distance of 320 feet. Core results in some places have assayed $18.70 in uranium content over width of 28.7 feet.

Centre Lake Mines (Ventures controlled), in the Paudash Lake country of Cardiff township, is the most advanced development to date with considerable underground exploration accomplished. The Macassa-controlled property adjoining Centre Lake to the north, and on the same ore break, is second in importance from the current amount of work done.

Newkirk officials are convinced that the whole general geological area, which shows on present maps as containing large areas of barren granite rock, will have to be remapped. They call their staking area "Canada's hot uranium country of tomorrow."

Cost Of Moving May Scuttle Plan

An estimate by the general-manager of the utilities commission that the cost of moving the city's gasworks would probably be about $40,000 has apparently put a damper on the possibility of using the present site as a parking lot.

The suggestion was first made by Ald. Art Burrows to last year's council when the commission asked the city to issue debentures to cover the cost of making the present system of gas production completely automatic. The changes will eliminate use of the huge gasometer which stores and maintains the pressure of the gas.

Ald. Burrows' suggestion was merely to study the feasibility of using the site for a parking lot if the gasometer was to be dismantled.

A new site for the plant would have to meet three specifications: proximity to the present site in order to be near the present centre of distribution; proximity to the railway and of approximately the same size as the present site.

The matter was discussed at a meeting of the manufacturers' committee of city council Wednesday afternoon when a letter from the utilities commission showed up in the file. As Ald. Harold Rehill said, "Why spend $40,000 to turn the property into a parking lot when we might get more suitable property for the same amount?"

TOO FAR AWAY

Ald. Rehill considered the gasworks property too far away from the business section for day parking and too far away from amusement centres for night parking.

"I tnink it's on the wrong side of the business section," he said.

Girl Resumes School, Safety Patrol Work In Wheel Chair

A little girl with a lot of courage and the will to win through in the face of almost unsurmountable difficulties is 13-year-old Bona Farthing, whose father is a detective with the city police.

Last June, Bona underwent a serious main artery operation, and as a result lost the use of her legs.

There have been many cases where paralysis of the lower part of the body has rendered a person bitter and incapable of taking an active interest in life. Not so with this young lady. Although quite aware of the fact that she may have to spend the rest of her life in a wheel chair, she acknowledges the fact with an amazing forbearance and cheerfulness and a living determination to take a responsible place in life.

After her major operation Bona went to a paraplegic institution for treatment and then returned home.

On January 4, just six months later, she went back to school, only this time she travelled in a wheel chair.

A HELPING HAND is all Bona Farthing needs from her school chums to keep her attending school and taking part in the school safety patrol, although forced to remain in a wheel chair. Before her legs became paralyzed, she was a member of the school safety patrol. Now she is its secretary. Here patrol captain Ray Harrington pushes her chair as her other friends who daily take turns crowd around.

Prior to June, she had been an active member of the Central school traffic safety patrol, but she saw no reason why she should give up her duties. So now she is secretary for the school's organization, arranging matters for the children's traffic court, acting as clerk of the court and keeping a strict record of the different patrol shifts.

Last week traffic constable Don Mackay had the pleasure of presenting Bona with her school patrol membership card which entitles her to a free show every month and one or two other free activities.

Each day a member of one of the patrols goes to Bona's home and wheels her to school and back. Ready hands lift the chair up the school steps and she is ready to take her lessons just like anyone else.

Perhaps she is a little more anxious to learn now that she is handicapped in one respect. However, she certainly has one lesson to teach everyone—remember—"I cried because I had no shoes, until one day I saw someone who had no feet."

Chairmen Named For Divisions Objectives Established For Various Sections of Drive

Peterborough citizens will be asked to contribute $100,000, the highest total yet, to the Peterborough Red Cross and Community Fund Campaign, president A. L. Elliott announced today. The drive will begin March 5 with a dinner at the CGE cafeteria and continue until March 19. Chairmen have already been named for the fund divisions, and organization work is well under way. The drive has been broken down into special names, industrial, retail, women's and schools headed by Samuel J. Whitehouse, James Wharry, James Fraser, Mrs. J. E. Watters and Clare Collins.

Objectives for all divisions, with the exception of the retail section, have been increased from last year. The table below indicates the 1953 objectives and total, and the goal for 1954:

Special names, $27,850, $27,947.85, $29,350; industrial, $41,800, $37,023.85, $43,500; retail, $19,250, $17,521.74, $19,250; women's, $5,500, 7,669.64, $7,250; schools, $600, $702.19, $650; totals, $95,000, $90,865.69, $100,000.

Other executives named to head the 1954 campaign are: General secretary J. L. Sullivan, treasurer Thomas Hendry, and publicity chairman Russell Baer.

Ten agencies are listed as members of the Peterborough Red Cross and Community Fund campaign. These are the Canadian Red Cross Society, Salvation Army, St. Vincent's Orphanage, Children's Aid Society, YMCA, YWCA, Canadian National Institute for the Blind, Victorian Order of Nurses, Humane Society, and the St. John Ambulance.

2 Parked Cars Hit By Train

Two vehicles parked too near the railway line in Bethune St. were damaged by a passing CNR passenger train Wednesday.

One car, owned by A. Walker, Forsythe St. was damaged to the extent of $300, and the other, owned by John A. Cowie, 36 Stewart St., escaped with only minor damage.

The train, which was coming into Bethune St. at Brock St., was on the Toronto-Belleville run. No damage to the train was reported.

At McDonnel and Gilchrist streets two cars driven by Fred Russell, 278 Brock St., and J. A. Bertram, 456 Monaghan Rd., collided. Gordon A. Cruse, 569 Simmons St. and Fred Jenning, 617 Water St., were driving cars which collided at Armour Rd. and McFarlane Ave.

Cars driven by Mrs. Rose Green, 300 Pearl Ave. and William Miller, Youngs Point, were involved in a collision at Charlotte and Boswell streets. At Aylmer and Hunter streets, George Baird, 315 Elias Ave. and Melville G. McNeely, 569 Armour Rd., were driving cars which collided.

Three In Family Nearly Overcome By Gas Fumes

MARMORA (ENS)—A plugged elbow in the kitchen gaspipes brought a Deloro family to the edge of death from gas early Tuesday morning.

Neighbors found Kenneth Donaldson, his wife and his daughter Bonnie, 9, slumped around the verandah and living room as noxious fumes permeated the house. Before she passed out, Mrs. Donaldson was able to telephone her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Donald Donaldson, who summoned help.

Although he awoke at 6 a.m. with "a splitting headache," Mr. Donaldson had no idea of the cause. Later his wife staggered, groaning from her bed, exclaiming "Oh, my head. I never felt like this in my whole life before."

After helping his wife to reach the cool air of the verandah, Mr. Donaldson returned to make his box-lunch and was promptly ill again. At this point Bonnie announced "I'm sick to my stomach."

"It's gas," said Mr. Donaldson, as he dragged his wife and daughter outside. He then slumped over the verandah railing and his wife called her daughter-in-law.

REVIVED BY DOCTOR

Another Donaldson daughter-in-law, Mrs. Bruce Young, called Dr. H. H. Parkin of Marmora who revived the stricken family trio.

While the Donaldsons spent the day recuperating with the Youngs, neighbors Harold Lowery and Lawrence Bedore cleaned the gaspipes and aired the home. The family returned that evening, fully recovered.

Murray St. Baptist Church Reports Year Of Progress

The annual meeting of the Murray Street Baptist Church held Wednesday evening was attended by a large representation of the members.

Reports were presnted by the various committees indicating that 1953 had been outstanding in every department of the church activities.

The membership as reported by the church clerk now stands at 537.

The financial report showed a balance on hand in the general fund of $1,554.78 of which $1,000 was transferred to the trustee fund thereby reducing the outstanding indebtedness for the church renovation fund to $3,-$27.29.

The total amount received for all purposes during the year $30,829.90 of which $7,728.20 was given to missions.

Reports of the Sunday School, the different missionary societies and all other departmentts were shown in detail in the printed annual report given to the members.

The report of the pastor, the Rev. Ivan C. Morgan, showed that in spite of the fact that his position as president of the Ontario and Quebec convention of Baptist churches necessitated his being away from the city frequently, his pastoral duties had not been neglected.

A motion expressing the confidence, trust and affection of the church was moved by Deacon Clarence Boorman and approved with enthusiasm by all present.

During the evening many suggestions were put forward to improve and intensify the activities of the church.

The budget submitted by the finance committee for 1954 included salary adjustments and provision for additional staff to the board of religious education. The church looks forward with confidence to another year to be spent in the service of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.

Officers elected for 1954:

Board of deacons—Life members of Deacon's Board, W. G. Shiner, A. W. Wray; Till End of 1956, L. H. Gould, D. A. Loomis, L. W. Wilson, Jas. McClenaghan; Till end of 1955: H. H. Graham, E. L. Horning, V. A. Taylor, H. W. Tranter (to complete term of G. E. Klingensmith); Till end of 1954: Orley Axford, C W. Boorman, G. H. Frise, M. J. Curtis.

Board of trustees—Till end of 1958: W. L. Hardwicke, B. W. Harvey; Till end of 1957: L. H. Ingram, G. S. Matthews; Till end of 1956: Dr. G. R. Scott, Hon. H R. Scott; Till end of 1955: C S. Browne, Vincent Eastwood; Till end of 1954: G. W. Fitzgerald, Dr. S. J. Graham.

Church clerk: L. H. Gould; church treasurer: E G. Shiner; assistant: W. G. Shiner; financial secretary: P. W. Johnson; auditors, Don Harwood, Wm. Loomis.

Refreshments were served by the Women's Association.

Child Died, Parents Found Not Guilty

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) Clarence Campbell, 37, and his wife Elsie, 30, of Hilton Beach, Wednesday night were found not guilty of manslaughter and failure to provide.

The couple, whose home is on St. Joseph island, about 40 miles east of here, were charged in connection with the death of their two-month-old son, Percy, Nov. 6. The child died of malnutrition. Mr. and Mrs. Campbell have six other children.

Defence counsel Terry Murphy said that while death was admittedly due to malnutrition, it came about as "innocent mistake," since the mother had acted on advice given over the phone in response to a call about changing the baby's formula. She had been advised, he said, to make up the new formula the same as the first, and as a result instead of one scoop of the powder to one ounce of water, she had made it one to two. The baby gradually lost weight and when the formula was corrected he would not take all he was given.

Crown attorney Ian Munro told the jury that medical witnesses and others had testified the baby was very badly emaciated and was the "thinnest baby they ever saw."

NOT TOO YOUNG FOR THE BOAS—Eight-month-old Liliane Lambert, whose parents are circus animal trainers in Paris, France, smilingly accepts the embrace of a seven-foot boa constrictor. It's all part of a family plan to get the youngster accustomed to conditions inside the wild-animal cage.

Crowded Auditorium Delighted In Happy Daze Minstrel Show

Except for a few back row seats it would have been impossible to pack one more person into PCVS auditorium Wednesday night when Peterborough's Happy Daze Minstrel Show provided a two and a-half hour session of laughs and music.

In this present era when flesh and blood shows are at a low ebb, almost hidden at times beneath the colorful TV, radio and cinema entertainment, it is unfair to offer harsh criticism.

Amateurs they were, and capable Stan McBride as compere, did an admirable job of boostin' each group of entertainers as it appeared. Incidentally Stan ca' take honors for work well done. He was a one-man show even without a set cue.

Perhaps it would be better to pass quickly over the first half of the program. Certainly n' one was bored, many enjoyed themselves, but it is better to ring a discreet curtain than to damn with faint praise.

SECOND HALF

After an intermission of 10 minutes we all came back and this time things were definitely pepped up. The PCVS Dixie Five started the ball rolling with some "hot" music. There were one or two specialty items, but it was a really polished selection by Burns and Booth who took the eye, and the ear. They went across with a little number entitled "Istanbul", and it was good.

Another group to please was the Peterborough combination, the barbershop quartet, Note Wits. They are improving all the time and in this show they gave the audience every reason to acclaim.

Rollie Johnston played his banjo and as he told the audience "no minstrel show would be complete without a medly of Stephen Foster's tunes". He got a big hand and deserved it.

Homer and Hose, does guys wid the black faces and oversize painted mouths worked hard throughout the show cracking jokes. Almost without exception they managed to drag in either local politics or personalities and usually raised a laugh.

VETERAN BANJO PLAYER

Another who gave a good account of himself was 88-year-old Steve Miller, who has been playing his banjo in minstrel shows for a long time. He is not in the die-hard group yet, because he acquitted himself as well as any of his more junior accomplices on stage.

The presentation was arranged under the auspices of the Jaycees. Everyone who took part, did so voluntarily and individually they do not deserve criticism. However, future producers could perhaps look to a shorter show, with more brisk action to eliminate any danger of the progrm dragging, and not so many recalls.

Flesh and blood shows, or the legitimate theatre if you prefer it that way, has been having a hard time of it during the last 20 years. It is quite apparent today's highly radioed and cinemized public want more of it and there is a big hand waiting for anyone who can succeed. But remember in this world you have got to be good or the curtain will come down with an embarrassing bang.

Criticism is given in the hope it will assist in some measure to help along the willing and laudable band of enthusiasts who believe, and rightly so, that the living word finds more appreciative ears than voices off the sound track.—J.O.

District President Describes Convention

CAVAN—Cavan Women's Institute held their monthly meeting Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Melville Carr. There were 18 present and the meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. D. Nill.

Thank-you notes were read from shut-ins who had been remembered by the Institute at Christmas. A needy family was discussed and plans made to help them. Mrs. H. Braithwaite invited the members to her home for a pot luck dinner January 26. Proceeds to go for needy family. After business was concluded Mrs. Armitage's group took over the program.

Mrs. Mel Carr gave a humorous reading and Mrs. W. Armstrong, from Millbrook, and district president, was the speaker. She gave a very interesting paper on her visit to the annual convention in Toronto. Mrs. Herb Snider gave a reading which was much enjoyed.

Lunch was served by the hostess and a social hour spent.

Community Concerts Campaign To Be Held

The annual community concert campaign will be held the week of February 27. This was decided at a meeting of the directors of the Peterborough Community Concert Association held Wednesday evening, at which Miss Ruth Woodman, New York representative of the organization, was present. Miss Camelia Campbell of the New York office will be in Peterborough to assist in the campaign.

The meeting accepted with regret the resignations from the directorship of Mrs. Mary Baker and Christopher G l e d h i l l, presently moving from this district. The nominating committee will report later on replacements for them. Miss Musa Cox, president of the association, was in the chair.

RC Teachers At Work Meet To Decide Action

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto's 67 married women separate school teachers who called off a threatened strike Tuesday, will meet again tonight to decide whether they will after all take strike action.

The teachers were at work as usual Wednesday following an assurance from John Whelan, president of the Toronto local of the Ontario Catholic Teachers Association, that their case for higher wages would be presented to the metropolitan s e p a r a t e school board.

CIO Says Rent Notice Heralds Mine Opening

NORANDA, Que. (CP)—Officials of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CL) said Wednesday action by Noranda Mines to collect back rent from strikers living in company-owned houses is a preliminary step in a company-sponsored back-to-work movement.

A daily bulletin printed by the union told members not to be surprised if they receive notification from the company that the plant will reopen.

Union and company officials will meet again today.

PC Urges Protection Against Lot Salesmen

TORONTO (CP)—Stanley Hall, Progressive Conservative member of the legislature for Halton, told the legislature's committee on cemeteries today that cemetery lots should not be considered a commercial product to be bought and sold like a car.

Mr. Hall said the public must be protected against United States promoter who come into Canada and make large profits by organizing garden-type cemeteries.

Public Execution

SEOUL (AP) — South Korean editor Chung Kook Gun, 38, convicted as a Communist spy, will be executed publicly Saturday, the defence ministry announced today. A large crowd, including his family, is expected to see the execution by a South Korean army firing squad.

Belleville Exhumation 'Detriment' To City

BELLEVILLE (P) — Mayor Jack Both said Wednesday a prolonged police investigation into the death of a man whose body has been exhumed from his grave is a "detriment" to the city and said he will ask the crown attorney when it will end.

"Publicity we have received in Belleville has not been good and so far there seems to be no end to it," the mayor said. "It can't be anything but a detriment to the city."

Mayor Both was referring to the 14-day investigation into the death of Percy Bell, 51-year-old engineer whose body was exhumed under police supervision seven days after his death Jan. 2.

Kentville Wins Grand Award For 1953 Fire Prevention

BOSTON (CP)—Kentville, N.S., won the grand award for Canada for the best 1953 municipal fire prevention week program submitted in the international Fire Prevention Week contest, the National Fire Protection Association of Boston announced today.

The contest is sponsored by the association, a non-profit educational and engineering organization devoted to improving the protection of life and property from fire.

Of 719 Canadian communities competing, Vancouver placed second, Calgary third and Ottawa fourth. In the United States, Philadelphia took first place.

The purpose of the contest is to stimulate public fire safety consciousness and encourage the general use of Fire Protection Week as a springboard for year-round fire prevention programs. A. Leslie Ham of Montreal, a member of the Dominion Board of Insurance Underwriters, was one of the judges.

AWARD FOR ALBERTA

Awards of special recognition went to the province of Alberta, whose fire commissioner is A. E. Bridges, for outstanding growth in province-wide fire prevention activities, and to the provincial jail at Fort Saskatchewan, Alta., the provincial mental hospital at Ponoka, Alta., Petawawa army camp in Ontario, the fire prevention training troop of the Royal Canadian School of Military Engineering, Vedder Crossing, B.C., and the naval dockyard at Esquimalt, B.C.

The largest number of entries from one state or province was from Quebec under sponsorship of F. X. Ahern, deputy fire commissioner.

After the first four, Canadian communities ranked as follows: 5, Arvida, Que.; 6, Hull, Que.; 7, St. Catharines, Ont.; 8, Thurso, Que.; 9, Schumacher, Ont.; 10, Noranda, Que.; 11, Port Alfred, Que.; 12, Kitchener, Ont.; 13, Bagotville, Que.; 14, Edmonton, 15, Malartic, Que.; 16, Roberval, ue.; 17, Terrace Bay, Ont.; 18, Pointe Gatineau, Que.; 19, Aylmer, Que.; 20, St. Felicien, Que.; 21, Kimberley, B.C.; 22, Huntington, Que.; 23, Outremont, Que.; 24, Glace Bay, N.S.; 25, Sutton, Que.; 26, West Kildonan, Man.; 27, Tadanac, B.C.; 28, Lethbridge, Alta.; 29, Winchester, Ont.; and 30, Kenora, Ont.

CHEERING FOODS FOR CHILLY DAYS

DOES ANYTHING MATCH THE JOY of coming from the frosty air into a kitchen filled with the warm smell of cooking? I doubt it! That's why I give special thought not only to flavor of cold-weather dishes — but also to the lingering fragrance they leave in the air. Such things as spicy Pumpkin Pie, for instance, stand high on my list of desserts for cold days. And first favorite with the family, is the Pumpkin Pie I make with Carnation Evaporated Milk. It's honestly amazing, the richer, deeper, more satisfying flavor that Carnation brings out in Pumpkin Pie. That's true, no matter what recipe you use. You see, Carnation is concentrated to double-richness . . . and specially heat-refined. So it performs cooking miracles not possible with ordinary milk.

Try Carnation in
CARNATION PUMPKIN PIE
(Makes a 9-inch pie)

1 cup granulated sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoons cinnamon
½ teaspoon (each) nutmeg, ginger, allspice and cloves
1½ cups canned pumpkin
1 large can undiluted Carnation Evaporated Milk
2 eggs
Unbaked 9-inch pie shell

Combine filling ingredients and beat together with rotary beater until smoothly blended. Turn into pie shell. Bake in hot oven (425°F.) for 15 minutes. Lower heat to moderate (350°F.) and bake until knife inserted in centre comes out clean (about 35 minutes longer).

Time-saver for a busy day — instead of making pie crust for pumpkin pie, bake pumpkin-pie filling in custard cups set in pan of hot water. Call it "Pumpkin Custard" . . . delicious!

WARM DAYS, COLD DAYS — it's hard to imagine anything more appealing than the smell of coffee. Lots of people agree on that. Another thing on which there is wide agreement, is on how Carnation Evaporated Milk improves coffee. Millions of coffee lovers prefer Carnation to any other brand of evaporated milk in coffee — even prefer it to cream. And no wonder. Carnation gives coffee a tempting golden-brown color . . . satin-smooth consistency . . . rich, rich flavor. Yet it costs only about half as much as cream. Try Carnation in your coffee.

ON DAYS WHEN THE MERCURY DIPS, it's a rare person who isn't heartened when you serve a big bowl of steaming soup. So you'll want to know this easy, new way to make cream soups more delicious and satisfying than ever before: Make them with Carnation Evaporated Milk. You just won't believe the wonderful difference Carnation Milk makes in your favorite soups. Carnation is so much smoother than ordinary milk — so much richer in flavor — that it gives soup a creamy flavor and consistency that's truly luxurious. And look how easy it is:

CARNATION CREAM SOUPS
(Richer flavored, more nourishing)

1 can of your favorite soup (tomato, pea, vegetable or chicken)
1 small can (or ⅔ cup) undiluted Carnation Evaporated Milk
½ cup water

Combine soup, Carnation and water. Heat and serve as usual.

Urges Atomic Development By Industry

STE. MARGUERITE, Que. (CP) The government should allow private enterprise to develop atomic energy in Canada, John Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Prince Albert, Sask., said Wednesday night.

Mr. Diefenbaker said national progress calls for full development of atomic energy along private initiative lines, subject only to the requirements of international security.

At present, atomic activities are in the federal government's hands. Some products are available to industry and to organizations such as research institutions and hospitals.

ATOMS FOR PEACE

In an address prepared for delivery to the Canadian Food Processors' Association, Mr. Diefenbaker said he believes the time has come for "assuring private enterprise an opportunity in Canada to use atomic energy for peaceful uses."

"The conversion of atomic energy into power will, under private enterprise, revolutionize our national development," he said.

Two reasons for freer private use of atomic energy in Canada, Mr. Diefenbaker said, are that Canada is a leading source of uranium and that Russia now has atomic information, thus removing part of the previous need for secrecy.

Unemployment Highest; Still Climbing

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian unemployment is the highest since the war and is still climbing.

Labor leaders, looking at new post-war peak figures issued Wednesday by the government, predicted the jobless figure will rise to 500,000 by the end of this month.

Two widely-varying sets of figures were issued by the government in its periodic survey of employment.

One—from the labor department—showed 338,066 persons looking for work through National Employment service at Dec. 10. This compared with the previous post-war high of 312,000 in the late winter of 1950.

The figures do not indicate straight unemployment. Some of the applicants would be shifting between jobs, though NES tries to screen these out of its statistics. But other jobless do not apply for work through NES.

The employment service figures showed an increase of 100,873 from a year earlier and of 72,023 from Nov. 19.

EXPECT INCREASE

Meanwhile, the bureau of statistics—which takes a sampling of households to calculate employment and unemployment — announced an estimate of 190,000 as those out of work for the full week ending Dec. 12 and looking for jobs at that time.

This was up 39,000 from the week ended Nov. 21. There were no comparable figures for the year before because of changes in sampling methods.

In explaining the rise in unemployment, a joint statement from the labor department and the bureau of statistics said that during the last few months "the expansionary trend in output and employment. . . has lost some of its momentum."

Apart from the customary seasonal drop in employment at this time of year, they said, there have been non-seasonal declines in many industries.

The labor department figures showed these were spread across the country. All regions had more job applications in early December than in the previous month of a year earlier.

ESTIMATES LAID LOW

Percy R. Bengough, president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, said in an interview that the 338,066 figure of persons looking for work is "a little on the low side."

"I think there are somewhat in excess of 400,000 out of work now, and I estimate that this will have risen to 500,000 by the end of this month," said the head of the 580,000-member labor body.

A. R. Mosher, president of the 380,000-member Canadian Congress of Labor, said that if the present trend continues, unemployment will hit 500,000 by the end of January.

"The trend has been definitely downward," he said, "and no doubt January will show a further decline in employment."

Shippers Will Ask Subsidies To Ease Critical Finances

OTTAWA (CP) — Operators of deep-sea ships have decided to press the government for further help for Canada's ocean-going fleet.

The Canadian Shipowners Association, representing most of the salt-water fleet, agreed at its annual meeting Wednesday to keep after the government for additional "relief" to ease some of their financial burdens.

The operators recently were refused a subsidy—of an estimated $5,000,000 a year—to keep all vessels of Canadian registry in operation under the Canadian flag against world competition. Instead the government arranged to have some transferred to cheaper operation under the British flag.

PROBLEM REMAINS

A spokesman said after the closed meeting that the flag transfer arrangement solves the short-term problem but that some long-term program will have to be worked out for the fleet as a whole.

One of the long-range problems is the growing obsolescence of the fleet, he said. Most of the vessels were built by the government during the war for convoy work.

No specific plan has been worked out yet by the association. The spokesman said it would not necessarily involve subsidies.

The meeting took no action on a suggestion from the cabinet that subsidies might be available for shipping on specific routes in the interests of Canadian trade. This was being left to individual companies.

Court Of Revision Approves Suggested Assessment Costs

Although the court of revision, which is currently holding evening appeals against the 1953 re-assessment, is making some minor alterations in assessments, the majority of their decisions amount to confirmation of changes recommended by the assessment department.

For example, Mrs. Lillian Collins pointed out to the court Tuesday evening that although her house on Water St. N. was equipped with plumbing fixtures, these had not yet been connected, due to the fact that there were no water services available yet. As a result, the court struck this item from the replacement cost figure in her assessment, reducing the total assessment on her property from $1,230 to $1,190.

The court confirmed a recommendation from the department that the assessment of a light storage building belonging to John A. and W. Max Comstock be reduced by $2,300. Originally considered a warehouse building, it was shown to be suitable for light storage only. The reduction also decreased the business assessment by $690.

The court confirmed the recommendation of the department that the total assessment of the residential property of John J. Condon at 247 Westcott St. be reduced from $2,530 to $2,440 because the front portion of the 1½-storey house had not been excavated.

10% REDUCTION

The department recommended a reduction of 10 per cent in the land assessment of John Conlin, 390 Parkhill Rd., because of the fact that his property fell off towards the intersecting creek. Mr. Conlin told the court that he made no use of this part of his property, which would be too shallow for building lots of normal size.

The court accordingly approved a further reducion of five per cent on the aessessment of the land and confirmed a previous recommendation of a further five per cent reduction, as well as a reduction of $100 on the house, making the new total assessment $3,540.

The court made a reduction of $30 in the assessment of E. Beatrice Cooper, 774 Park St. S., who said in her appeal that the eave of her house had overhung the neighboring property and had to be removed, resulting in water damage to the wall. Her total new assessment is $1,120.

The court confirmed the department's recommendation that the total assessment of Nora Cooper, 171 Clifton Rd., be reduced from $1,900 to $1,820 because the house had not been completed.

William J. Thompson appeared on behalf of his mother, Mary J. Thompson, who owns houses at 107 and 125 Hazlitt St. The court confirmed the department's recommendation that the assessment of the property at 107 Hazlitt St. be reduced from $2,460 to $2,180 because the CNR track is directly in front of the house. But the assessment of $2,500 at 127 Hazlitt St. was confirmed.

TO INSPECT LAND

Alonzo Coughlin appeared for his brother, Michael, who owns a vacant lot on the north side of Woodbine Ave. adjacent to the canal, and for his sisters, Mona, Nora and Lillian, who own a house at 291 Euclid Ave.

Mr. Coughlin claimed that the vacant land was lower than adjoining property and asked for a reduction. The court adjourned the appeal in order to inspect the land. The court approved the department's recommendation that that the total assessment on the other property be reduced from $3,140 to $2,780 because the basement was not completely excavated and the house was not entirely equipped with hot water heating.

Also confirmed by the court was the recommendation by the department that the assessment of Leslie Craig, 692 Monaghan Rd., be reduced from $2,580 to $2,460 because the house was unfinished.

A recommendation by the department that the assessment of Joseph H. Crocker, 115 Maude St., be reduced from $4,750 to $4,560.

Obituary

MRS. RUBIE TODD

HAVELOCK (ENS)—The funeral took place Thursday of Mrs. Rubie Todd, 80, widow of the late Gilbert Todd. The funeral service at her residence was conducted by the Rev. R. G. Newman. Burial was in Victoria cemetery. Mrs. Todd died at her home Monday, following a long illness.

Mrs. Todd was formerly Rubie Fry, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Gideon Fry. She was born in Belmont township and has resided in Havelock and district for about 50 years. She lived for a time in Winnipeg, Man., and Dearborn, Michigan. She was a member of the United Church.

Surviving are four nieces, Mrs. James Peddie, Mrs. George Brower, Mrs. August Sanders and Mrs. Adolph Rossberg, all of Detroit, Michigan.

LAND-BASED SUBMARINE HULL—This land-based submarine hull contains the Mark I, built by the Westinghouse Electric Corporation as an experimental model of the nuclear power plant, Mark II, that will propel the first atomic submarine, the Nautilus. The hull containing the atomic engine passes through a sea tank about 50 feet in diameter and almost 40 feet high so that the reactor compartment is completely submerged in water. The model is at the National Reactor Testing Station, Idaho.

Thought Control Practised In U.S. On Flying Saucers, Major Says

NORTH BAY (CP)—Maj. Donald Keyhoe, author of the book "Flying Saucers From Outer Space," charged Wednesday that the United States Air Force has embarked on a policy of "thought control" on the subject of flying saucers.

Maj. Keyhoe, here to address the Chamber of Commerce, said the U.S. Air Force has clamped down on all information pertaining to saucers and no reason has been given.

"The air force doesn't want the public to realize how concerned it is over flying saucers until it has all the answers," he said in an interview.

Two of the reported saucer sightings mentioned in his book occurred near the RCAF CF-100 jet fighter base here. He was to visit the field and said he understands there have been previously unreported sightings of unidentified flying objects.

"It would seem," Maj. Keyhoe said, "that the policy regarding flying saucers is far more liberal in Canada than below the border."

Maj. Keyhoe is a graduate of Annapolis and a retired major of the U.S. marine corps.

Spring Plans

MONTREAL (CP)—While winter cold gripped Montreal harbor, an official said the crew of the freighter Bulkarrier would return to duty shortly to begin preparing the ship for the coming navigation season. The Bulkarrier is usually the first ship ready to leave harbor when the ice goes out in spring.

Experts On Wells

NEW DELHI (CP)—Well-drilling for water has been started in drought areas of India by a Swedish church mission sponsored by the Swedish Lutheran Archbishop Brilioth who toured India last year. A Swedish expert is instructing native workers in the handling of drilling equipment contributed by Sweden.

Millbrook Councillors Take Oath At Inaugural Session

MILLBROOK (ENS)—The January meeting of the Millbrook village council, which was the inaugural one, was held in the council chambers. The newly-elected reeve, George F. Harrington and councillors J. H. Raper, G. T. MacPherson, Ivan L. H. Gray, all with one or more years of service on council, and Gordon Trick, a new man, took their oath of office before the clerk and were assigned their seats.

The following committees were named: Streets, bridges and sidewalks, J. H. Raper, chairman, Gordon Trick; public buildings, municipal property, fire, lighting and firehall, G. T. MacPherson, chairman, Ivan L. H. Gray; health and welfare, G. T. MacPherson; police, law and order, G. F. Harrington, chairman, J. H. Raper; finance, council as a whole, G. F. Harrington, chairman.

Dr. J. W. Wright, who served as reeve of Millbrook for the past 4½ years was appointed as the council's representative on the Durham district high school board for a term of two years. Dr. Wright replaces Dr. M. E. Hobbs who resigned one year before the completion of his term.

NAMED TO ARENA BOARD

Percy Hamilton of the Millbrook and Cavan memorial arena board addressed the council about new appointments that had become necessary on the board. The following were appointed to the arena board: Reeve G. F. Harrington and J. H. Raper representing the village cuoncil and Weldon Coulter representing the Millbrook branch of the Canadian Legion No. 402.

Other bylaws passed included a money bylaw 802, empowering the reeve and treasurer to borrow from the Bank of Toronto up to $10,000 to meet current expenses.

COMMISSION FORMED

Bylaw 803 repealed bylaw 661 of December 1938 which established a village hydro commission. A public utilities commission has been formed from the beginning of 1954 to handle both hydro and the village water supply. Serving on this commission are Percy Hamilton and Stanley Olan for the east zone and Alex. Gilbert and Russell Reid for the west.

Bylaw 804 provided under the highway improvement act for the exenditure of up to $5,000 on roads and streets during 1954.

STREET EXPENDITURES

The clerk reported that total expenditures on streets and bridges during 1953 were $3,976 plus part of the cost of operating truck. The interim subsidy received on this was $858.21 and the clerk was requested to make application for the balance of the subsidy.

It was decided that the rate of pay for labor employed by the municipality this year should be 75c per hour.

Alex Gilbert, president of the Millbrook and district Chamber of Commerce, presented a flag to the Cavan and Millbrook councils. The flag is to be placed in a suitable place in the council chamber of the town hall. The clerk was requested to write expressing the appreciation of the council to the chamber.

A letter was read from the United counties clerk telling of a resolution passed in county council that all patients or inmates of the United counties home should have their financial standing looked into. Any of those making application for residence there should be required to assume all or part of their own financial responsibilities insofar as they were able to do so. At the present time the municipality of Millbrook has no inmates in the home.

LETTER FROM BOARD

A letter was read also from the Durham district high school board enclosing statements re the debentures, the issuing of which Millbrook council had agreed for the building of a new high school in Port Hope and an addition to the high school in Bowmanville.

A letter from G. T. Shields, county assessor, told of a meeting being held on January 18 for all assessors to discuss assessments in order to make them uniform throughout the county.

Among the bills ordered paid were one to Millbrook Hydro of $125.67 for street lights, traffic lights, lighting the town hall and the waiting room; hospitalization of an indigent patient, $54.25; labor, $49; printing, $21; election expenses, $15.40; salary to clerk and treasurer; mileage for the town constable, etc.

ATOMIC PRODUCTION CHIEF — Sir Christopher Hinton is head of the United Kingdom atomic energy production division. Educated at Trinity College, Cambridge, Sir Christopher was on loan from Imperial Chemical Industries to the ministry of supply at the start of the Second World War and in 1946 was in charge of the building and operations of the Royal Ordnance filling factories. He was born May 12, 1901.

2,000 French Launch Drive

SAIGON, Indo - China (Reuters) Some 2,000 French troops landed on the coast of Annam Wednesday in one of the biggest combined offensives of the last two years of the Indo-China war, the French high command announced tonight.

The landings took place in the Tuy Hoa Nhatrang area of Annam, a Viet Nam province, about 240 miles northeast of Saigon.

It was from the Annam coastal area that the Vietminh Communists launched their lightning Christmas thrust across Indo-China to the Thailand border.

Gen. Henri Navarre's forces Wednesday reoccupied the "prestige" town of Thakhek on the Mekong river—western end of the Communist Christmas assault. Its capture reopened the French supply lines along the giant river between North and South Laos.

The Vietminh radio today meanwhile claimed the Communist forces annihilated 2,200 French troops on a supply road to Thakhek for "a resounding victory" in the eight-year-old war.

3 Lost Fishermen Find Way To Safety

MITCHELL'S BAY (CP)—Three ice fishermen who became lost in a fog walked back to safety Wednesday, guided by flares and a chorus of auto horns.

John Sakal Jr. and Robert Henry, both of Windsor, went fishing through the ice with an unidentified companion near this port 35 miles south of Sarnia. When they did not return by afternoon, game overseer Art Roberts became alarmed and organized aid. He set out flares and asked motorists to help by sounding their horns.

About 8 p. m. the three fishermen found their way back across the treacherous ice to shore. They estimated that they had walked five miles after losing their bearings in the mist.

Teachers Have Agreed Continue Activities

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto secondary school teachers have agreed to continue for an indefinite period with their extra-curricular activities in the schools.

In a dispute with the Toronto board of education over the single salary scale the teachers had previously threatened to stop all outside work but their teaching. The ban would have affected school sports, plays, music and drama activities.

The threat was removed Wednesday night at an amicable meeting between the executive of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers Federation, district 7 (Toronto), and the board's finance sub-committee.

The meeting produced no other word on the single salary scale other than a statement saying that progress is being made and that another meeting will be held Jan. 27.

WITH THE BOY SCOUTS

By CHARLES H. SPEARIN

When a Cub "goes up" and becomes a Boy Scout the jungle atmosphere which formed the background of his Cub experiences fades into pleasant memories. He now enters a new phase of Scouting where "gang spirit" and a sense of loyalty rise into prominence. No longer is he just a Wolf Cub to run with the Pack; he is an integrated part of his troop and his actions reflect the success of the troop and particularly the success of his patrol. His individual responsibility in the welfare of his troop is emphasized; a sense of loyalty to his patrol and troop is realized and developed.

UNIFORM EXCHANGE

There is still a real need for Cub, Scout, Guide and Brownie uniforms in the various city groups. We feel there must be many former Cubs and Scouts who have parts of uniforms they would like either to trade or sell. Anyone interested should contact Mrs. Gordon Minty, 201 Murray St. or phone 6704. Mrs. Minty has been appointed convener of this work and will conduct the exchange at her home.

BADGES AND AWARDS

Attention of all Cub and Scout officers is drawn to the standard of badges that will be supplied by the local association, without charge: All 2nd Star and Cub proficiency badges including the Leaping Wolf; all First Class, Queen's Scout and proficiency badges and All Round Cords for scouts; the Ramblers and World Citizen badges for Rovers. All badges must be secured through the badge secretary, Reg. Perks, 176 Dumble Ave., phone 3358.

SCOUT CONFERENCE

Commissioner Ed Cotton of the local Boy Scouts Association calls to our attention three important dates for scouting in February. On February 11 a conference will be held in St. Andrew's Church for group committeemen, scout leaders and all others who are interested in scouting in Peterborough. February 19, a conference of scouters and patrol leaders will be held in conjunction with the Bronze Arrow course at Trinity Church February 19-20. All patrol leaders wishing to take the Bronze Arrow course are asked to contact Don E. Perks, 60 McDonnel St., phone 5629, before January 31. For those who are interested in Cubs there will be a conference in St. John's Church on February 26.

3rd ST. GEORGE CUB PACK

A good fall of snow inspired the cubs of the St. George's Pack to make a trip to "Eskimo Land." The Wolf cubs tracked "Kim" to the Exhibition Park where they played hare and hounds, finally making their way back to "civilization" jumping from "ice floe to ice floe." Harry Young joined the Pack as a leader.

3rd ST. GEORGE'S TROOP

Regular reports from the Troop Scribe indicate the 3rd George's Troop is kept busy with interpatrol competitions and games based on the work of the various tenderfoot and second class scout tests; oral questions, knot relays and scout law puzzles. An outdoor tracking relay in which the troop divided into two groups, the one tracking the other made an interesting and exciting diversion at last week's meeting. Terry Markwick and Bill Kokesh were made patrol leaders and Roger Smith and Wayne Ferguson were appointed acting P.L.'s.

1st ST. JOHN'S PACK

A "going "up ceremony was held for three "two star" cubs, David Irwin, Garry Dalladay and Joe Cunningham. Mr. and Mrs. R. Irwin were on hand to witness the investiture of their son, Don. H. Vollins attended the meeting to see his son Joe invested with the Purple and Gold of the St. John's Pack. The following Star Tests were passed:

7th ST. PAUL'S PACK

The opening ceremonies of the St. Paul's Pack meeting this week were led by David Giles and Peter Philp. Franklin Montgomery took charge of the games. Collectors badges were awarded to Peter Philp and Lenny Minty. The closing grand howl was led by John Gordon.

13th MARK ST. CHURCH TROOP

Instruction periods were conducted by A. S. M. Borland on 2nd Class first aid. The contest for building of model planes was won by Gary Nickson and Arnold Allan. The Beaver Patrol won the honor patrol flag from the Eagle Patrol. After the regular meeting LeRoy Brown of the Beaver Patrol and Arnold Allan of the Eagle Patrol were invested. The meeting was closed with a prayer by the minister, Dr. N. D. Patterson.

2nd ST. LUKE'S PACK

Roger Meseley and Randy Bradshaw have received their First Star and now have "one eye open," Don Hepburn was promoted to Sixer of the White Six and Jim Eakins was made Seconder. Blair Greenly was presented with the Guide badge. The following tests were passed: Fred James, knots (1st Star); Kim Salonius, knots (2nd Star); Jim Eakins, Randy Bradshaw, David White and Douglas Price, union flag; Garry Robinson, Bill Steen, time telling; Joe Moncrief, highway code; Teddy Fullbrooke, cleanliness and growing things; Don Muir and Bob Kent, shoe cleaning; Archie Nokes, shoe cleaning and book balancing; Douglas Price, Richard Lee, Jim Eakins, Fred James, shoe cleaning; Randy Cummings, compass, folding clothes and shoe cleaning; Jack Steen, public telephone and 1st star knots; Keith Worboy, union flag; David Pilley, public telephone.

The story "Lost Mine" was told by Akela W. King and the meetign closed with a prayer by Raksha.

5TH PETERBOROUGH

After the roll call on Tuesday evening, the Cubs of All Saints' were introduced to two new leaders, Fred Jay and Mary Hunter. Fred will take over as Akela, and will be assisted by Eleanor Henderson and Lenore Grose (the present leaders) and Mary Hunter.

After a game of "round the ircle," the Cubs retired to their lairs for knot instruction. A game of "exchange" followed, and was won by the White six. Another chapter was read from the book on the beginning of cubs. A chapter will be read every week.

When the points of the evening were tallied, it was found that the Blue six was winners with 147 points.

The Scouts had a game of "British Bulldog," on Thursday night followed by instruction.

A few months ago, some changes were made in the form of new patrol leaders and seconds, but at that time no stripes were available. At last stripes were obtained, and on Thursday PL stripes were presented to Ron Beard and Gar White. Seconders' stripes were presented to Harvey Howden and Jerry Foy.

BROTHERS-IN-ARMS — Three sets of brothers, members of Canada's 25th Infantry Brigade in Korea, eat at the same table. The brothers, left to right, are: Ptes. Ralph Trimble, Montreal, formerly of Springhill, N.S., Edward Kilback, Osoyoos, B.C., and Garnet Mulholland, Redditt, Ont., and their brothers sitting opposite, Ptes. Mrs. Claire Stuart and Mrs. John Bradshaw attended the meeting of Bailleboro women's Institute on Tuesday afternoon, representing Peterborough Unit of the Cancer Society, and finalized plans for a sub-unit in Bailieboro. Mrs. Merton Thompson of South Monaghan is to be chairman and Mrs. Alan Dawson the secretary-treasurer. Mrs. Stuart spoke to the ladies on Cancer Society work in general and Mrs. Bradshaw demonstrated the making of dressings for patients.

Mrs. M. Young of Queen Street received word on Tuesday of the death of her brother, Mr. Wm. Spence at Keith, Banffshire, Scotland.

To Have Spring Draw

At the Lions' Ladies' dinner meeting at the Empress Hotel Tuesday evening, it was decided to again have a draw on a spring outfit. Tickets are to go on sale soon and will be in charge of Mrs. Charles Cumberland. President Mrs. Bus Mitchell presided for the business. Reports of the conveners were given and letters of appreciation for Christmas gifts to St. Vincent's Orphanage and the Children's Aid Society and a donation of $50 to the Council for Retarded Children were read. Remainder of the evening was spent playing court whist. Booster prizes were won by Mrs. Jim Dutton, Mrs. Joe Brown, Mrs. Charles Cumberland, Mrs. Harvey Wagner and Mrs. Lawrie Mahood.

Theatre Party

Members of the '38 Club enjoyed a theatre party to see "The Actress" on Wednesday evening, returning afterward to the YWCA for a business meeting and a social hour with lunch being served by Miss Ruby Leach and Mrs. E. Boote. President Mrs. Roma Brindle opened the meeting with singing the hymn "The day Thou gavest Lord is ended." Secretary Miss Muriel Bell gave a second reading of the amended constitution. Miss Aileen Patton was appointed delegate to the regional conference in Kitchener in February. Miss Hazel Wilson, Mrs. Boote and Miss Geraldine Dunford were appointed a ways and means committee to plan means of raising money for the World Service allocation. An inspirational "thought for the day" was given in closing by Miss Helen Edmison. The next meeting on February 3rd will be in charge of Miss Ball.

Care Of Hands Much Easier Than In 1870

A fascinating book of health and beauty, written in 1870 by two physicians, suggests remedies for chapped hands. In comparison with today's easy and effective remedies, consider having to brush the inside of a "pair of stout kid or dog-skin gloves" with the "yolks of two fresh eggs, oil of sweet almonds, tincture of benzoin and rose-water." Another is to wear gloves at night of caoutchouc cloth—whatever that may be. Or, as the "celebrated actress Madame Vestris" does—"wraps her hands every night in thins slices of fresh meat."

Hand lotions and creams are today's answer to the problem of chapped hands. Not only do the experts recommend regular application of hand and body lotion after every washing—but if you're going to have your hands exposed to wind, or a long period in water —or before doing a dusty or dirty household chore — apply hand cream.

What to do for the extra roughness lots of us get around our cuticles and finger tips at this time of year? Use eye cream! When you're smoothing some on your eyelids, work in a little around the cuticles and tips of the fingers. The specially penetrating oils soften quickly and effectively.

Having trouble with brittle nails during the cold weather? Then don't file them down too far at the corners, say the experts; use your emery board one way—don't see-saw it across your nails. And look to your diet. Calcium — which is in milk in heavy concentration—builds strong nails.

Fashion Flashes

New lines of intricate, slender straps mark a new shoe collection. The Serpentine Strap, done in two soft neutral tones, such as putty or taupe, is a free-form swirl strap of leather that rises over the vamp, curves across the instep and around the back of the heel to the other side, leaving one profile of the foot bare. We don't know how it stays on, either.

✧ ✧ ✧

Soft hats in delicate chiffon ride atop the prettiest heads these evenings. Pale rose, strawberry and coffee toned chiffon are nicely crushed together in a basket-weave effect for a tiny platter, worn forward. A delicate pink rose and rhinestone glitter add to the composition.

✧ ✧ ✧

Very much liked is a delicate shade, sea-foam green, good for luxury fleece coats and for resorts suits, as well as for spring tweeds. A softly tailored suit of chiffon-weight flannel in this soft shade of green has tiny irridescent seashell buttons for a triangular double-breasted closing and for breast and hip pocket tabs.

✧ ✧ ✧

Playing a return engagement is the fine alligator bag, looking new because of new colors. Rich nutria brown and light camel brown are two shades used. One has a hidden outside pocket on one side, an exposed half pocket on the other. Lining is in two tones of leather, one matching the skins, the other a shade lighter.

MARRIAGE MONTH

Canada had 17,602 marriages in July, 1953, compared to 11,873 in June, the traditional brides' month.

ONTARIO PEAS

More than half the 1953 pack of Canadian canned peas came from Ontario, and about one-fifth from Quebec.

IT'LL NEED LOTS OF STUFFING—Arthur Knehans, right, of Higginsville, Mo., watches his turkey, said to be the largest in the United States, weigh in at 60 pounds, one ounce, at the National Turkey Federation convention in Milwaukee, Wis. G. E. Annin, secretary of the Wisconsin Turkey Federation, points to the spot on the scale that brought Knehans the prize-winning trophy. The turkey sold for $6 a pound.

Nurse Anxious To Return To Jungle Leper Colony

TORONTO (CP) — Missionary-nurse Helen Keller has had her first look at the outside world in more than two years. Her reaction: She wants to get back to the African jungle and the leper colony she administers there.

Miss Keller, a Toronto missionary with the Sudan United Mission, is enthusiastic about her life in Africa where she is the only white in a community of 5,000.

"I can't explain it," she said. "It just seems to appeal to me. I'm really anxious to get back to my charges and start working again."

She established her leper colony at Beladja in French Equatorial Africa in 1952 with 25 patients. Soon the number had swollen to 400, all her present staff can handle. Of 1,000,000 Africans in her district, she said 3,000 are in desperate need of treatment for leprosy.

"If people were aware of the tremendous need I am sure they would be willing to help," she said.

VERSATILE MISSIONARY

When Miss Keller began her first task of building a dispensary she took on the roles of architect, building boss and "everything else needed"—without any previous experience. Her native staff even made the bricks for the building and cut down trees for lumber. The result of their labors was a neat red-brick building completed in four months.

Encouraged by her experience, Miss Keller has plans for a nurses' residence, school, chapel, workshop and a six-room brick house when she returns to Africa.

On leave in Canada she has raised funds for the nurses' residence, a small truck, a microscope and $1,000 worth of drugs and medicines. The Sudan United Mission, she explained, is an international non-denominational society supported by various individuals and churches and interested in spreading Christianity in Central Africa.

NOT FATAL DISEASE

"Leprosy," said Miss Keller, "is not a fatal disease as most people think. It cripples for life but it does not kill. The disease weakens the victim to the point where he has little resistance to other fatal diseases.

"Nor is leprosy as highly contagious as we are led to believe," the missionary added, "but over a long period and with close contact it can be contracted."

Miss Keller leaves for Africa Feb. 10 and hopes shortly to have the assistance of two white nurses in addition to her now all-native staff.

EDITH CARLETON CHAPTER

At the meeting of Edith Carleton Chapter, IODE, on Wednesday evening at the home of Miss Wanda Deyell, Frank Street, election of new officers took place.

Regent Mrs. G. D. Donaldson was re-elected. Her vice regents are Miss Beverley Martyn and Miss Helen Watson; also re-elected are Miss Edith Miller and treasurer Mrs. R. Mounce. Educational secretary is Mrs. D. Addyman; Echoes secretary Mrs. Wm. Bunker; standard bearer Mrs. P. Brockenshire.

Mrs. Keith Alton was appointed to take charge of the scrap book for 1954.

It was decided to hold meetings on the first Wednesday of each month. Next meeting will be at the home of Miss I. Nicholls, 133 Fradette Avenue on February 3rd.

A report on the adopted school was given by Mrs. P. Brockenshire and it was then decided to send a picture of Queen Elizabeth II and the Duke of Edinburgh to the school.

Lunch was served by the hostess.

Grace Church WA Elects New Slate

First meeting of the new year of Grace church WA on Tuesday evening, opened with Mrs. J. Bailey in the chair. Mrs. I. G. Pollock took charge of the devotional period. She read two appropriate readings and concluded with prayer. The installation of officers followed with the Rev. I. G. Pollock officiating.

Officers for the year are: Honorary president, Mrs. Pollock; past president, Mrs. E. McKinstry; president, Mrs. J. Waddle; vice presidenst, Mrs. J. Bailey, Mrs. W. Gerow; secretary, Mrs. G. Stewart; treasurer, Mrs. H. Walker; social, Mrs. G. Close; press, Mrs. W. N. Thompson. Conveners are: Sunshine, Mrs. J. R. Hoskin; greeting cards, Mrs. B .C. MARY MOORE SAYS:

Low Cost Menus Trim Food Budget

Letter: Could you please send me your low-cost dinner menus? I have four children and would very much appreciate some help in cutting food costs.—C. N.

Letter: . . . I was wondering if you could help me to start the New Year right with a few budget suggestions . . . my husband and I have four children 8, 4, and twins 9 months . . . I have $145 for household expenses and foods. It costs approximately $20 a month for babies as they are on canned foods as yet. I have basic expenses of cleaning woman $6, music lesson $1, babies' food $20. The $145 must cover the drugs for the family, household sundries, clothing for myself and children, but not telephone, rent, light, etc. (name omitted).

Because these two letters come from the same area, and because both families have four children, the same answer may be satisfactory to both.

To each of these would-be budgeters I have mailed a copy of the release entitled "Julia Works Wonders For Four on $15.00 per Week" which appeared here on January 26, 1953. (January must be the annual budget-cutting time.) Also a copy to each of Florence M. T.'s letter which appeared December 22, 1953. Florence's food list for a month (cost $60.00 for family of 6) will help the mother of the twins in particular.

Now I will go to work and give you low-cost but healthful dinner menus.

In some ways cooks who are also mothers of large families, and who must economize, have an opportunity that is denied more affluent cooks. They can prove that economical food can be not only nutritious but attractive. So girls above all things don't feel sorry for yourselves, and do make every dish you serve look fit for the queen. You can do it.

LOW-COST DINNER MENUS

1) Devilled egg surprise, creamed spinach, raw carrot sticks, thick rye bread slices, apple dumplings, milk for children, tea for adults.

2) Meat, and vegetable soup, cheesed French stick, celery, prune open-face pie, milk for children, tea for adults.

3) Salmon casserole, stewed tomatoes with onion, hot bacon biscuits, orange Bavarian, milk for children, tea for adults.

4) Beef and kidney pie, red and green slaw, apple sauce, graham wafers, milk for children, tea for adults.

5) Cheese fondu, baked potatoes, tomato jelly moulds on shredded lettuce, canned plums, raisin bran muffins, milk, tea.

DEVILLED EGG SURPRISE

For six people hard-cook 6 eggs and chill in cold water and remove shells. Cut in halves, remove yolks carefully, mash them and to them add 1 tablespoon finely chopped mustard pickle, a little salt and pepper and about 1 tablespoon milk. Mix well, stuff egg whites with yolk mixture and put together in pairs. Have ready 3 cups freshly mashed hot potatoes and to them add tablespoon grated onion, salt and pepper to taste, and about ¼ cup milk. Beat until fluffy and cool. Carefully wrap each egg in 1/6 part of this potato. Now roll in finely crushed cornflakes to coat and make them smooth as balls. Arrange on greased shallow baking dish and bake in very hot oven of 450 deg. Fahr. until golden and heated through. Serve in centre of hot platter surrounded with creamed spinach.

MEAT AND VEGETABLE SOUP

Gently pan-fry ¾ pound broken-up lean minced beef in fresh bacon dripping—about 2 tablespoons, until it is golden, then add ¾ cup finely chopped onion, ½ cup chopped celery and saute until vegetables are limp but not brown. Add one 20-oz tin tomato juice, 2 cups water, ½ cup finely diced raw carrots, 1 cup finely diced potato, ½ teaspoon sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper. Cover and simmer 1 hour. Stir together 4 tablespoons flour and 2 tablespoons skim milk powder and mix to a paste with ½ cup cold water, then stir into soup until thick. Now add 3 cups milk and heat through. This milk may be skim, or ½ evaporated and ½ water or 2/3 cup skim milk powder, reliquefied with 3 cups water.

See yesterday's paper for other economical dishes included in these menus.

DOROTHY DIX

Widow Broods Over Early Housekeeping

DEAR MISS DIX: Before I was married, I had had little experience with people. I married at the age of 17 and had a baby. My mother had never taught me anything about housekeeping, or cooking, so I never learned to be systematic about my home. My husband did not complain, but his family did. Shortly after our second baby was born; my husband died.

Five years after his death I married another wonderful man, and now, with the knowledge I have acquired, I keep an immaculate house. I have the two boys from my first marriage, and a new baby. My trouble lies in the fact that I am brooding constantly over my domestic shortcoming during my first marriage. I feel I failed my first husband by not keeping a tidy, comfortable home. We truly loved each other, and he always appeared happy. However, his people never liked me, chiefly, I think, because of a nationality difference. Ida G.

NO REASON TO BROOD

ANSWER: Anyone who would expect a 17-year-old girl to be an expert housekeeper is indeed wishing for a miracle. You began your first marriage with a strong sense of co-operation, the desire to have a happy family and the ability to be a loving wife. That's not bad for a teen-age bride. Domestic arts would have come later—as indeed, they did. You have no reason to brood over these early errors; your mother, understandingly, couldn't teach you the practical things of life, since she was too involved with earning a living for her family. Your debut as a homemaker differed very little from that of thousands of other girls. Few have the time or the opportunity to acquire the homemaking skill their grandmothers had. For one thing, girls attend school longer than their forebears. A generation or two ago, elementary schooling was considered quite adequate for a young lady. Now, of course, high school is regarded as a minimum requirement, with many girls going on to college.

The important thing in your life, Ida, is the fact that NOW you are a competent homemaker, have learned to do all the necessary tasks—and do them well. Don't let your second husband suffer because of your brooding over the past. It isn't fair to him or your family. You did the best you could at the time, and no one could ask for more.

DEAR MISS DIX: A year ago I met Gilbert, and he soon gave every evidence of being in love with me, such as calling constantly, increasing our dates from once to twice, then three times a week. He never said he loved me, and never mentioned marriage. We did not have an argument until a month ago, when I met his mother for the first time. He's the only child of a widowed mother, and has been her sole support for several years. After she and I met, Gil began picking on small things. Finally, I asked him if he loved me, and he said he thought so. Then I asked if he intended to marry me, and he said he wasn't sure; marriage was a serious business and he didn't want to rush into it. I love him desperately, and the thought of breaking up is intolerable. Have I a chance with him? L.N.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The long detailed letter you wrote gave a very clear picture of your relationship with Gil, and, what's more important, his attachment to his mother. There's little doubt that she is against her son's marrying. Even if you did persuade him to marry you, there's very little chance of happiness. His mother will always come first with him. She will undoubtedly live with you, and would consider it her place to run the household. Of course, there are things to be said on her side, too, but she is determined to keep Gil dependent, emotionally. It's awfully hard advice to give, and much harder to take, I know, but a break now will save you much happiness in the future.

Bright Ideas for Winter Menus

The same chefs who know the secret of the world's favourite ketchup have put their heads together to give you smart simple recipes that will enable you to use Heinz "red magic" in your kitchen.

We're in the middle of the cold weather, and perhaps your good warming meals are already getting a teeny bit monotonous for your family. You can tickle tired palates with the same flavour that makes people reach for the famous red bottle in restaurants. Heinz Tomato Ketchup is asked for by millions who expect the best. Never buy less than two bottles—one for your cooking and one for the table.

LOOK FOR THIS FREE RECIPE BOOK AT YOUR GROCER'S

If the ketchup you buy does not have the recipe book attached, please write the H. J. Heinz Company of Canada Ltd., Dept. S.P., Leamington, Ontario.

Strange Creature Scared Pair, Share Ordeal

CHATHAM, (CP)—Two Windsor fishermen told today how they came near to hysteria when "something small with claws" tried to climb up their clothing during an eight - hour ordeal on the fog-shrouded ice of Mitchell's bay.

Robert Henry, 25, and John Sakal, 24, became lost on the ice of the Lake St. Clair bay where they had gone to fish perch. They stumbled around in fog and rain for eight hours before being guided back to the shoreline by the sound of auto horns.

SCREAMED IN FRIGHT

Mr. Sakal said "Bob let out a scream" when the unknown creature attacked. "I thought he was hysterical . . . he said something was crawling on him.

"It was so dark I couldn't see a thing. Suddenly I felt something trying to crawl up my raincoat. I let out a yell myself and jumped up and down until it fell off . . . we could hear it pattering off into the darkness."

Residents here suggested the creature might have been a small muskrat in search of food.

Loyalty Meeting Relieves French

TANGIER, Morocco (AP) — Reliable information reaching here today discounted French fears that a gathering of Moslem religious and civil chiefs in nearby Spanish Morocco threatens a step-up in terrorism in neighboring French Morocco.

The leaders gathered today in Tetuan, capital of the Spanish section of the divided North African protectorate. Information reaching here said they were expected merely to confirm their loyalty to the caliph — Spanish Moroccan representative of the Sultan of Morocco — and express approval of Spanish government policy.

The reports added that they might also reaffirm their previously-expressed non - recognition of Moulay Mohammed Ben Arafa, whom the French installed as sultan last August when they exiled Mohammed Ben Youssef to Corsica.

A French government spokesman in Paris Wednesday voiced fear that the Spanish Moroccan leaders would take the more - drastic step of publicly proclaiming the dethroned sultan as the only real ruler of French and Spanish Morocco.

Cost Of Moving

"The city square parking lot is suitable for that."

Ald. Gordon Powell emphasized the need for finding property to be used for parking.

"The parking situation is leading to fringe commercial development," he said, referring to the location of new stores on the city's outskirts. As a downtown merchant, he said this development was affecting the volume of trade in the business section.

City Engineer Chalmers said he had been studying the parking problem for four years and was of the opinion that a series of smaller parking lots was preferable to one large one, for two reasons: they were more convenient for shoppers and they were less of a traffic problem. Large parking lots tended to create traffic congestion.

The gas plant property might meet the needs of all-day parkers on a fee basis, he suggested.

On Ald. Rehill's motion, the matter was referred to the board of works.

U.S. Senators Take Big Step Toward Seaway

By JAMES C. MUNN

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate, after slapping down St. Lawrence seaway legislation for two decades, has finally taken a big step towards authorizing the United States to join Canada in carrying out the project.

But after a seaway bill sailed through the Senate Wednesday night on a 51-33 vote, Canadian government informants raised a serious question as to whether their country is still interested in U. S. participation.

After repeated failure of seaway legislation in the U. S. Congress, Canada undertook to go it alone. In Ottawa government sources said Canada still will push for an all-Canadian seaway on her side of the boundary river. The Canadian government was represented as feeling that the U. S., spending $105,000,000, would be getting too much of a bargain in joint control of navigation and shipping tolls.

Canada already has spent that much on locks, and is prepared to put up $300,000,000 for navigation facilities.

PERMIT U.S. TO JOIN

The bill approved by the Senate would permit the U. S. to join with Canada in building the 27-foot-deep St. Lawrence river channel linking the Great Lakes to the Atlantic.

The bill, strongly supported by President Eisenhower and the U. S. joint chiefs of staff because of the project's claimed importance to national defence, now goes to the House of Representatives.

Because the House has never considered the bill, observers are at a loss to predict its chances if it is brought up there for floor action.

First it faces a severe test in the House public works committee. If it should be approved there, the attitude of the rules committee—the group that decides what legislation the House will consider—remains a puzzle.

Representative John A. Blatnik (Dem. Minn.) said a recent informal count in the public works committee showed a substantial majority of members opposed to the seaway. He acknowledged that Eisenhower might be able to change some minds.

MIGHT USE INFLUENCE

The President might be inclined to exert his influence also, if necessary, on the rules committee, especially since the Senate action marked the first acceptance of administration-supported legislation at this session of Congress.

The seaway proposal met rebuffs in the Senate in 1934, 1944, 1948 and 1952. Ten committees of Congress have filled 8,977 printed pages with testimony taken on the proposal.

The bill approved by the Senate would establish a St. Lawrence Development Corporation, with authority to issue $105,000,000 in bonds. Tolls on shipping would be expected to retire these in 50 years or less.

Food President Elected

William Henry Fayle

Funeral services for William H. Fayle, 11 Burnham Court, who died suddenly on Tuesday, were held from the Kaye funeral home to Immaculate Conception church for solemn requiem mass at 9:00 a.m. today.

The Rev. Joseph O'Sullivan celebrated the mass, assisted by Rev. John Weis and Rev. Clayton O'Donaghue. Burial was in St. Peter's cemetery.

Pallbearers were: G. Sanders, Dan Netzel, Jack Short, Ken Smith, James Gates and Dick Martel.

Skids On Icy Hill Car Hits Pole

Damage of about $300 was caused Wednesday night to a 1947-model coupe owned by Ian Smith, 21, of 150 Benson Ave. The car skidded on an icy patch of the River Rd., just north of the northern limits of the city, and crashed into a hydro pole.

Smith was shaken up but otherwise uninjured.

Smith told OPP Constable Roy Feeley, who investigated, that he drove up the southern slope of a hill without any trouble because the road was sanded. However there was no sand on the northern slope and the car skidded and slewed into a hydro pole on the west side of the road.

The pole was not damaged but the car received damage to its right front fender, right front wheel, axle, transmission, right door and right side of the hood.

Hastings Groups Hold Meetings

HASTINGS (ENS)—The Women's Association of St. George's Anglican church in Hastings has been receiving many thank-you notes from England for food parcels, Mrs. E. Horwill reported to the January business meeting.

WA members in hospital have also received gifts from the group. Letters acknowledging flowers and good wishes have been received from Mrs. F. Baker and Mrs. Hannah Plant, the latter in hospital at Barrie.

Hastings delegates to the world day of prayer, March 15, are Mrs. C. M. Baker and Mrs. A. J. Patstone. Mrs. Baker was also named an officer for 1955.

Plans for 1954 were the theme of the meeting. It is planned to have several social meetings, as well as some along the lines of the last one—a study group on Africa. The February meeting will be held at the home of Miss D. Plant.

At Trinity United Church a "very encouraging" financial statement was given to group 2 of the WA by the treasurer, and plans for 1954 were discussed.

A quilting bee will be held at the home of Mrs. Arnold Poole, February 2. A Valentine supper will take place in the Sunday school rooms February 14 and Miss K. German will be hostess for the next regular meeting, February 17.

Touring Ballet

HALIFAX (CP)—The Royal Winnipeg Ballet opens its first Maritime tour at Moncton, N.B. on Feb. 24. The company will also play at Saint John and Sackville, N.B., and Halifax and Sydney, N.S.

Cavan Council Seek Meeting With Doucett

MILLBROOK (ENS) — At the inaugural meeting of the Cavan township council, held in the council chamber of the town hall, Millbrook, the new reeve, Lloyd Hooton, the new deputy, John H. McKnight, and councillors Donald Cathcart, John Kinsman and Joseph Thorn took their oath of office and their seats on council.

The opening prayer and invocation in guidance throughout the year 1954 were offered by the Rev. A. E. Larke, of Springville United church.

The reeve congratulated the deputy reeve on his new office, Councillor Thorn on being returned to council, and welcomed the two new members, Mr. Cathcart and Mr. Kinsman.

Congratulatory speeches were also made by the deputy reeve, and the councillors, who pledged their support in the coming year, and by Harry Tully, road superintendent, Mrs. P. I. Bentley, township clerk, by the Rev. A. E. Larke, and by G. T. Harrington, newly-elected reeve of Millbrook. The latter expressed the wish that the two councils might continue to work together harmoniously, as they had in the past.

In an itemized financial report for 1953, the treasurer showed receipts for the year amounted to $130,746.81, and cheques issued to the amount of $127,940.96, leaving a book balance of $2,865.

The reeve allotted the divisions of roads to the members of council as follows: Councillor Thorn, Division 1, Concessions 1, 2 and 3; Deputy Reeve McKnight, Division 2, Concessions 4, 5 and 6; Councillor Kinsman, Division 3, Concessions 7 and 8 and half of the quarter line; Councillor Cathcart, Division 4, Concessions 10 and 11 and half the quarter line; Reeve Hooton - Division 5 - Concessions 12, 13 and 14 and the Emily boundary.

A letter was read from the department of public works stating that this year they would pay the taxes on the land purchased for the new reform institution to be built on the outskirts of Millbrook. The work on the building is to commence in the spring.

DISCUSS ROAD

Mr. W. Turner and Mr. Miller addressed the council about the stretch of road on the 13th concession of Cavan which still needs to be rebuilt. The reeve stated that they hoped to hear from the Hon. Mr. Doucett, but at the present time there was no Cavan council some time ago asked the department of highways to take over this stretch of road, as they found it beyond their ability to make the necessary repairs. The clerk was requested to write the Hon. Major John Foote, member for Durham asking him to contact and make an appointment with Mr. Doucett for the reeve, councillors and road superintendent when this stretch of road could be discussed.

A. V. Thorn, collector of rates, made the following report — outstanding taxes in 1951 were $227.12, and in 1952 $1488.03. The 1953 roll amounted to $89,709.64 of which $69,945.75 had been collected leaving a balance for 1953 uncollected of $19,763.89. He stated that an error in copying the taxes of Mr. J. Davis had been made and he suggested that to correct this, $9.95 which had been overpaid should be returned to Mr. Davis, which the council agreed to do. Mr. Thorn drew attention to the fact that the total amount of the roll to be collected had increased, entailing a considerable increase in the work to be done and requested an increase in salary. Mr. W. Gillis operator of 99-H road machine also requested an increase in pay. The council stated that changes in pay would be dealt with later.

It was decided to engage Arnold Fallis and his truck for the same pay as last year, $6 an hour while snow plowing, and $5 stand by time, from December 1st to March 1st.

APPOINTED DELEGATES

The reeve and deputy-reeve were appointed as delegates to the "Good Roads" convention being held in Toronto, February 22, 23 and 24. The clerk was requested to make their hotel reservations. A membership fee of $10 to the Good Roads association was voted to be paid. $5 was voted for the assessor to attend the school of instruction for assessors held in Cobourg on January 18. A refund of $2 each was voted to be made to Fred Brown and Clarence Ball, each having been assessed for a dog he did not own.

The clerk was requested to write the health unit to inspect a building on concession 2, lot 7, of the township of Cavan.

Alex Gilbert, president of the chamber of commerce, spoke congratulating council and wishing them a pleasant and successful term of office. He made the presentation to Cavan township council jointly with Millbrook of a flag. The flag is to be in the council chamber for meetings of both councils and also for the C of C which meets in the same room. The clerk was requested to write a note of appreciation to the chamber.

Mr. Hewitt, of Dawson Hannaford Ltd., addressed the council with regard to the debentures for an addition to Brealy's school in North Monaghan School Area No. 2. Children from five families in Cavan township attended this school. Mr. Hewitt was informed that the council's bylaws had not yet been approved by the Ontario Municipal Board and that they were awaiting this approval.

Some of the larger items of the accounts to be paid were: $2,882.39 to the treasurer of roads, pay roll and vouchers No. 12; $235.25 to the United Counties hospitalization for indigents; $50 board for an indigent; salaries to the clerk, assessor, tax collector, etc.

First-Year Seaway Costs For U.S. Set At $5,800,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower, again urging Congress to approve American participation in the St. Lawrence seaway, today estimated first-year costs of the project to the United States at $5,800,000.

The estimate was made in the president's budget message to Congress. Under the seaway bill passed Wednesday night by the Senate, Congress would not be asked to appropriate money for the project.

The bill, which still must pass the House of Representatives, provides that funds for the seaway would be raised through issuance of bonds.

Eisenhower said the seaway proposal represents "one part of a broad development of the great potential of the St. Lawrence river for electric power and navigation.

"The power features of the international rapids section (between Massena, N. Y., and Cornwall, Ont.) are expected to be constructed in part by the province of Ontario and in part by the state of New York.

INCOME FROM TOLLS

"The seaway legislation would [illegible] the federal government, in co-operation with Canada, to build [illegible] navigation facilities (also in the international rapids section) needed for ocean - going vessels to reach the Great Lakes.

"As I have previously indicated, not only would the seaway make a major contribution to national security, but over a period of years the tolls received by the United States from the prospective commercial use should permit the federal investment to be fully repaid.

"Joint participation with Canada in this undertaking will assure that all legitimate American interests are taken into account in the construction and operation of this vital transportation link."

Trolley Drivers Return After Regina Strike

REGINA (CP)—Three days of waiting or walking in freezing weather are ended for Regina trolley passengers, the middle party in a dispute with city fathers and their transit union over a fired bus driver.

The union and city officials announced late Wednesday that the no-overtime ban imposed by the union last Monday would be lifted immediately. There were indications that the dispute is near settlement, ending a strike threat by the 165 transit employees which would have given this city of 72,000 its first transportation tie-up.

The no-overtime ultimatum seriously cut into Regina's transportation system. At the evening rush hour, as many as 14 of the system's 54 buses were idle.

Sleeping Car Fire Victim Inquest Today

PEMBROKE (CP) — Coroner Dr. J. C. Bradley of Pembroke will preside today at an inquest into the death of Dr. Hugh Allen Collins of Ottawa. A veteran member of the department of veterans affairs medical staff, Dr. Collins died in a burning Canadian National Railway's sleeping car near here early Dec. 30. Eighteen other passengers escaped injury.

A. E. Kylie

Solemn requiem high mass was sung today at Sacred Heart church for Alfred Edward (Fred) Kylie, who died Monday evening at 71 Aylmer St. in his 74th year.

The funeral ceremony took place from the home of Mr. Kylie's brother, Herbert, 340 George St. Pallbearers were Martin Meads, Keith Deck, Anthony Carley, James O'Dette, Raymond Crowley and Fred Crowley.

Chief celebrant of the funeral mass was the Rev. John O'Dette. He was assisted by the Rev. W. C. McCarney, deacon and the Rev. G. F. Sullivan, sub-deacon. Attending clergy in the sanctuary were the Rt. Rev P. P. Butler, the Very Rev. Vincent Corkery, the Rev. Dr. C. O'Donohue, the Rev. F. Mihelic and the Rev. G. Weiss.

Burial was in St. Peter's cemetery. The Rev. G. F. Sullivan said graveside prayers, assisted by Fathers McCarney and O'Dette.

Social Leader Dies

MONTCLAIR, N. J. (CP)—Mrs. Nora Mount, long a leader in civic and social organizations here, died Wednesday at her home. Mrs. Mount, a native of Brantford, Ont., was the wife of New York lawyer Russell T. Mount. She attended the University of Toronto. Among her survivors are a brother, Dr. Norman S. Shendstone of Toronto, and a sister, Mrs. Donald Fraser of Toronto.

Carrier Gauges Found Damaged

LONDON (Reuters — The admiralty announced today engine room gauges in the 36,000-ton aircraft carrier Eagle, Britain's newest and most powerful carrier, have been damaged at Devonport on the south coast.

It was the second such incident in the £16,000,000 vessel, flagship of the heavy squadron of the home fleet. Two stokers were sentenced to three months' imprisonment each last October and dismissed from the navy for causing "malicious" damage on the Eagle.

An admiralty spokesman said today the latest damage to the carrier is minor and will not affect the Eagle's program.

Last week a stoker was sentenced to two years' imprisonment for wilful damage to the carrier Warrior at Devonport Christmas Day.

Bar Sedgman Briefly At Border Crossing

DETROIT—(AP)—Frank Sedgman, touring Australian tennis player, entered the United States today after a brief encounter with U.S. immigration law Wednesday night.

Sedgman, on a professional tennis tour, was stopped at the border when he tried to enter the U.S. from Windsor, Ont., on a visitor's permit.

Edward Duggan, deputy immigration supervisor in Detroit, said the law states that Sedgman required a statement from his manager, Jack Kramer, to the effect he was playing tennis, before entrance could be granted.

Duggan said he wired the immigration service in Washington today for a waiver on the requirement.

Sedgman said the statement by Kramer would be filed as soon as possible.

Eisenhower Asks $2,000,000 For Niagara Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today recommanded that the United States Congress appropriate $2,000,000 to "preserve and enhance" the beauty of Niagara Falls, one of the world's great scenic attractions.

Work designed to halt erosion at the falls was made possible under a 1950 treaty with Canada. The treaty also provides that new power plants may be built by both countries to utilize the Niagara river's full electric power potential. Canada is nearing completion of its power development program; the U. S. has yet to start.

Plans for work to preserve the beauty of the falls already have been approved and, under the treaty, must be completed within four years. Canada only a few days ago announced award of a contract as its first step in the beautification process.

The $2,000,000 appropriation, if voted by Congress, would remain available until spent.

Cugat, Wife Abbe Lane 'Kidnapped', Robbed

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Band leader Xavier Cugat and his voluptuous wife, vocalist Abbe Lane, told police that they were "kidnapped" and robbed of nearly $20,000 in jewelry and cash Wednesday night by a masked gunman who lay in wait for them in Cugat's car.

The band leader and his wife were held captive for only a few minutes and were released after being forced to drive to a parking lot a few blocks away.

Cugat said the gunman took a $9,000 10-karat solitaire and a $12,500 diamond wedding ring from Miss Lane, and a $2,600 wrist watch, $5,000 diamond ring and $150 in cash from Cugat.

Hens Wear Spectacles Farmer Has More Eggs

ALVINSTON, Ont. (CP)—Walter Werden, a farmer near here, says he is getting more eggs for breakfast because he bought 200 spectacles.

He said "agitators" among his flock of New Hampshire hens kept pecking, pulling and tearing at the feathers of their weaker sisters; unsettling the whole flock and cutting down egg production.

He clipped the plastic spectacles on the beaks of the "agitators" so that they could not see straight ahead to fight. Peace returned to the hen house and more eggs appeared in the nests.

Weinmeister Signs For 2 Years With B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Arnie Weinmeister, rated as one of of American professional football's all-time greats, has signed a two-year contract with the new British Columbia Lions, it was announced today. His salary was not disclosed but a club official said the Canadian-born tackle would be "one of the highest-paid players ever to play in Canada."

Weinmeister, born in Rhein, Sask., and who moved with his parents to Portland, Ore., when he was an infant, is 30 years old, six feet four inches tall and weighs 235 pounds.

Weinmeister is not classed as an American import because of his Canadian birth.

Freak Spring Rains Hit Western Europe

LONDON (AP) — Freakish spring-like rains pelted Britain and much of Western Europe today, causing minor floods in north England and playing havoc with winter sports in Switzerland, Austria and North Italy.

Throughout most of England and the continent it was unseasonably warm.

Several highways were flooded in north England and a stretch of the main London-Scotland rail line was under water near Preston, Lancashire. Many village streets were flooded to depths of more than two feet. No casualties were reported.

OBITUARY

JOHN LEO O'BRIEN

John Leo O'Brien, retired farmer of Baltimore, Ontario, died Wednesday in a Peterborough hospital, after a lengthy illness. He was in his 65th year.

Born and educated in Baltimore, Mr. O'Brien spent most of his life farming near there. Three years ago he moved with his wife, the former Veronica Gallagher, to take up residence at 179 Adaline St., Peterborough.

The son of the late William Henry O'Brien and the former Mary Jane Smith of Toronto, who survives him, Mr. O'Brien is also survived by seven daughters, three sons, two brothers and two sisters.

Surviving children are: Mrs. Reginald Knott (Reta), Toronto; Mrs. John Plumpton (Christina), Peterborough; Anne of Downeyville; Helen of Toronto; Theresa and Agnes, both of Peterborough; Yvonne of Anchorage, Alaska and Gerald of Toronto, Leo of Cobourg and William of Peterborough.

The Rev. Wilfrid O'Brien, a brother of the deceased, lives in Toronto. Mr. O'Brien also leaves a brother William of Grafton, Ontario and two sisters, Jean O'Brien and Mrs. Mary McNama of Toronto.

The funeral will be held from the Anglesey funeral home to St Peter's Cathedral Saturday at 10 a.m. for solemn requiem high mass. Burial will be in St. Michael's cemetery in Cobourg.

Two British Soldiers Shot Near Suez Canal

CAIRO (AP) — The battered bodies of two British soldiers were found Wednesday night across the railway line near Moascar in the Suez canal zone, British military authorities said today.

They said the soldiers, whose names were withheld, had been shot in the chest and stomach and beaten on the head. An investigation is under way.

District Lodge Officers Elected

The annual meeting and election of officers was held Wednesday evening of District LOL No. D 76.

The following officers were elected and installed for 1954: District master, Bro. R. Moynes; deputy master, Bro. C. J. Beno; chaplain, Bro. A. M. Thorne; recording secretary, Bro. J. Hobson; financial secretary and treasurer, Bro. T. Joyce; marshal, Bro. J. Master; st lecturer, Bro. R. E. Langley; 2nd lecturer, Bro. H. Stinson.

Bro. George Fowler, past district master No. 1 district, conducted the election and Bro. Palmer Howden, district master, No. 1 district, conducted the installation of officers.

U.K. Electricians Walk Out Of Atomic Plant

LONDON (Reuters) — Members of the Communist-led Electrical Trades Union walked out of Britain's top atomic research establishment at Harwell today on an indefinite strike.

This is the fourth atomic research establishment affected by strikes called by the union in its running battle with employers for pay increases. Other key sites are also affected by the union's "guerrilla" strikes—lightning stoppages aimed at causing maximum inconvenience.

The union, claiming a pay raise of twopence an hour for London workers and 1½ pence outside London, has declared a "fight to the finish" with the employers. A week's stoppage is scheduled in London, starting Monday.

DOCKERS STRIKE BRIEFLY

Meanwhile, about 400 London dock workers agreed to return to their jobs this afternoon after a brief, unannounced strike to protest alleged victimization of one of their leaders.

The workers agreed to return after the man, Harry Constable, told a mass meeting he had had a "satisfactory" interview with port authorities.

The sudden strike came less than a week before London's 7,000 stevedores are scheduled to begin a ban on all overtime work.

Two ONR Locomotives Hit, No One Injured

NORTH BAY (CP)—Two Ontario Northland Railway steam locomotives were derailed today when they side-swiped each other in the Cochrane railway yards.

No one was injured.

One was a yard engine and the other a road locomotive. Both were put back on the rails by auxiliary cranes.

ONR officials said the accident is under investigation.

Television Producer Leaves For Stage Role

TORONTO (CP)—Mavor Moore, 34-year-old chief producer of CBC television, is leaving the corporation March 1 to take a leading role in the Shakespeare festival at Stratford this summer.

In addition to his reputation as an actor and producer, he is well-known as the author of articles, stories and verse which have appeared in Canadian periodicals.

Nervous; Always Tired, Limbs, Back Sore, Painful

Surprising How Much Better I Am Since Taking Syntona, Says This Grateful Woman.

MRS. ETHEL EDGAR

"I am so pleased with the way I feel since I've been taking Syntona that I am anxious to let other sufferers know how it has helped me," said Mrs. Ethel Edgar, 247 Oxford Street, in a recent statement.

"My nerves were very bad and I felt tired-out all the time. Especially in the mornings after a restless night, I just seemed to have no energy. I had a constant nagging pain across my back and, my limbs, joints and muscles were sore and painful.

Felt Better In Few Days

"In three or four days after I started taking Syntona I felt so much better that I was able to go out in the garden and work around the place, although I didn't have the energy to do this before. As I continued with Syntona the aches and pains gradually went away and my nerves calmed down so that I am getting sound sleep at night. I cannot begin to tell how pleased I am to be feeling better, and I owe it all to Syntona."

Easy To Take

Although Syntona is made from 12 Herbs and Roots, its fine flavour makes it extremely agreeable to the taste. And, its invigorating tonic action has helped thousands of men and women like Mrs. Edgar to get relief from common disorders of the stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels and associated nervousness, rheumatic pains and general rundown condition.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough by Elliott's Drug Store. (Advt.)

Have No Clues In Comet Clash

LONDON (Reuters) — Detailed examination of four stripped-down Comet jet airliners in Britain has failed to throw any light on the crash of a sister Comet off the Italian coast Jan. 10, the House of Commons was told Wednesday.

Alan Lennox-Boyd, minister of transport and civilian aviation, made the statement following his return from the scene of the crash this morning.

Labor member Arthur Lewis drew the minister's attention to "widely circulated press reports in this country that he was alleged to have made a statement in Rome that sabotage could not be ruled out." He asked the minister to confirm or deny the report.

Lennox-Boyd replied: "That statement was made first by the chairman of the British Overseas Airways corporation (Sir Miles Thomas) and he was fully within his rights in doing so. Sabotage cannot be ruled out.

"I believe, and so does the chairman of the corporation believe, that no more importance should be attacked to this particular aspect than to the many other causes. So much but no more."

Navy Shows Off All-Weather Jet

OTTAWA (CP)—The navy Wednesday showed off its new all-weather jet fighter, the Banshee.

However, the weather was so bad it couldn't give a flying demonstration. The ceiling was down to 100 feet. A curtain of freezing rain was falling.

"We could have got through the sound barrier all right but not through the ice barrier," a navy officer said.

The navy also previewed its new anti-submarine Grumann SF2 for the press, including a reporter from Tass, Russian news agency.

One officer said: "I was at the Yalta conference and kept talking like mad about the Crimea so the Tass man couldn't ask me any questions."

Amendments Housing Legislation

Down Payments To Be Lower Larger Loans

OTTAWA — (CP) — Lower down payments on National Housing Act loans and a mortgage interest rate below six per cent are contained in the government's new housing legislation. Works Minister Winters outlined details of the proposed NHA amendments Thursday as the measure came up for debate in the Commons.

He hinted that the $10,000 ceiling on housing loans may be increased by as much as $2,500 or $3,000. Interest rates, currently 5¼ per cent., are to be set later by cabinet order. Mr. Winters did not say what the new rate will be, except that it will be held below six per cent.

The legislation permits chartered banks to enter the mortgage-lending field under a plan of insured mortgages.

The repayment period will be extended to 25 years from the current 20.

Down payments will be cut to 10 per cent from 20 on the first $8,000 of the home's lending value, but will be increased to 30 per cent on the remaining portions up to an unspecified maximum.

The mortgage ceiling, as the interest rate, will be set by cabinet, Mr. Winters said.

CONSIDER INCREASED COSTS

In setting the new limit, the government would take into consideration a 25-per-cent rise in building costs since the $10,000 ceiling was established.

He also said that under the new ceiling, the loan on a house with a lending value of $16,000 will be more than 80 per cent of the value.

Housing experts outside the Commons said on that basis a builder could get a maximum loan of perhaps $12,800, making the down payment about $3,200 on a $16,000 house. The down payment has been $6,000.

As the new housing plan goes into effect, the government's Central Mortgage and Housing Cor-

Comet II Sets New Air Record

KHARTOUM, Sudan (Reuters)—A Comet jetliner flew 3,000 miles non-stop from London to Khartoum today in six hours, 24 minutes to cut the existing record for the flight by more than half.

Britain's latest version of its grounded Comet—the Series II—took off from Hatfield, England at 7:40 a. m. today on the 3,064-mile flight to Khartoum.

Group Capt. John Cunningham, at the plane's controls, had hoped to make the total flight in seven hours or less.

British Overseas Airways Corp. grounded all seven of its Comet I airliners for inspection following the crash of a Singapore-London Comet off Elba on Jan. 10 with loss of 35 lives.

The Series II is an improved higher-powered version of the Series I.

The London-Khartoum record has been 14 hours, 25 minutes 47 seconds, set by an RAF Lincoln bomber in 1950.

The four-jet airliner carried 13 persons on the flight. The Comet's average speed was about 480 miles per hour.

Pro-Red Prisoners Released

By BILL SHINN

PANMUNJOM (Saturday)—(AP)—The Korean war prisoners who stirred world-wide controversy by their refusal to go home were turned loose today. Twenty-one Americans, one Briton and 327 South Koreans who chose communism were abandoned by Indian guards in a flimsy neutral zone compound at 12.01 a.m. (10.01 a.m. EST Friday). The pro-Red PoWs said they would stay until their food runs out. They echoed the demand of the Communist command that Indian troops stay on. The UN command liberated as civilians the nearly 22,000 anti-Red captives returned to it Wednesday by the Indian command—a course the Allies assert was required by the armistice.

Gen. John E. Hull, UN Far East commander, announced liberation of the anti-Red PoWs.

20 GUARDS ON WATCH

In abandoning the pro-Communist prisoners, the Indian troops simply pulled back to their headquarters, with the last soldier opening the compound's inner gate.

About 20 Indian guards remained in the area to see that none of the prisoners was "kidnapped," an Indian spokesman said.

When official freedom came, more than 14,000 Chinese anti-Red PoWs already were aboard American ships en route to Chinese Nationalist Formosa. More than 7,500 anti-Communist North Koreans were in South Korean army reception centres.

REDS STAY IN BEDS

An Indian officer said the pro-Communist north camp was "absolutely quiet." There was no celebration among the Koreans. A RoK official said most were asleep.

Some of the freed prisoners had been in stockades almost from the start of the Korean war 3½ years ago.

The pro-Red American, British and South Korean PoWs staged a

Lost Two Weeks In Frozen North

ST. FELICIEN, Que. (CP)—A Montreal field geologist, lost for two weeks when his small plane developed an oil-leak and force-landed in the desolate snows of northern Quebec, was flown to safety Thursday.

Raymond Lecuyer was rescued when a search plane spotted his single - engined plane on an uncharted lake almost 150 miles north of Montreal. He was flown to St. Felicien, 120 miles north of Quebec.

Lecuyer was down to his last three tins of food when help arrived but said he felt "fine" despite his ordeal in 40 below zero weather. He said he was going back later to recover the plane.

An employee of the Quebec Mining and Smelting Company, he was forced down Jan. 10.

The geologist was the 14th person to come back from the Quebec wilderness in the last few months after hope had been all but abandoned.

FOUND CABIN

Rescue arrived for Lecuyer when pilot Hank Hicks and Phil Lariviere of Boral Airways sighted his aircraft, and brought their ski-equipped plane down on the lake.

Lecuyer told them he nosed his plane down on the frozen surface when he saw the oil guage dropping and realized he could only stay in the air five minutes.

He made for some fishing cabins he had noticed when circling to land and holed up. There was plenty of firewood and he got a fire going.

He said he could not find a trail and was afraid he might get lost if he wandered too far. Lecuyer said he spent his time sleeping and reading an old newspaper, conserving his dwindling supply of matches to light the stove to heat the tinned meat he had with him.

8 Men Killed In Air Crash

HONOLULU (AP) — A United States Navy Neptune patrol bomber with eight men aboard crashed in flames on a cloud-covered mountainside Thursday night and rescue teams found no survivors, the navy said today.

The plane, part of a Japan-based squadron returning from patrol duty in the western Pacific, was en route from Kwajalein in the Marshall islands when it got off its course for Barbers Point naval air station, a few miles south of the crash.

It had been cleared for a landing at Barbers Point when it smacked into a peak of the Waianae range about five miles northwest of Pearl Harbor, the navy said.

A six-man army rescue team which reached the scene reported that the fiercely burning shredded wreckage was too hot to approach —but it appeared there were bodies inside.

60 Killed, 50 Injured In Wrecked Train

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP)—Railway authorities announced today that 60 were killed and 50 injured in Thursday's train reck of the "Pakistan Mail" about 70 miles from Karachi.

Funeral prayers for those killed or burned to death were held today at the scene of the disaster in the Sind desert.

Canada Orders 2,000 Automatic Rifles

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada has ordered 2,000 Belgian automatic rifles for tests as a standard infantry weapon for the army.

Defence Minister Claxton said Wednesday in the Commons that if the rifle is accepted, it will be made in Canada under licence from Belgium. Meanwhile, Canadian Arsenals will be ordered to prepare its engineering so as to lose no time in starting production.

The rifle, the .30-calibre FN-2, will be tested under Canadian conditions and Mr. Claxton indicated it will be accepted. The Canadian Army now uses the .303-calibre Lee-Enfield No. 4.

The move follows agreement by Canada and four other major North Atlantic Treaty Countries on use of a standard small-arms bullet, the .30-calibre round.

3 Killed When Train Smashes Into Truck

MONTREAL (CP) — Three persons were killed today when a Canadian Pacific Railway freight train smashed into a truck at a level crossing at suburban Dorval.

So violent was the impact that pieces of the truck and parts of the bodies were hurled more than 800 feet.

Only one of the dead was identified immediately. Police said he was the driver, Georges Larue, 23, of Montreal. Eyewitnesses blamed the accident on icy road conditions.

A Cold For The Rodents

Calamity Strikes Hospital When Rats Start Sneezing

By GLENN ENGLE

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Ever see a rat sneeze? A University of Michigan scientist did, and it made him most unhappy.

Dr. David F. Bohr, associate professor of physiology, was about to move some white rats obtained from the Rockefeller Medical Research Institute into the new Kresge Medical Rsearch Building near University hospital. Then calamity struck.

He discovered that one of the rats had developed a cold and passed it on to the others. All, he said, were coughing and sneezing.

To Dr. Bohn that was not funny. He had been patiently striving to develop a strain of disease-free rats for experimental purposes.

Now he's starting all over again on a new strain.

It's important he explained, that none of the rats has even a common cold. For example, an experiment to determine how much radiation a rat can take would be next to futile if the subject were diseased.

So that's why Dr. Bohn wants disease-free rats and is going all out at the Kresge building to grow some.

The baby rats will be delivered by caesarean section under completely sterlized operating conditions. They will be housed in an immaculate laboratory. They will be fed with an eye-dropper every three hours by an attendant in a snow-white uniform and wearing a mask, rubber gloves and special laboratory boots.

And the attendant will be under strict instructions to watch for the slightest sniffle.

Police Arrest Belleville Woman, 48

Taken From Home In Late Morning Will Be Remanded

BELLEVILLE —(CP)— Mrs. Mary Bell, 48-year-old widow of a Belleville engineer whose body was exhumed from his grave seven days after he died, was arrested today on a charge of murder.

She was taken into custody by Belleville city police, apparently acting on orders from the Ontario Provincial Police who have been investigating the death of the 52-year-old Belleville engineer for several weeks.

An examination of stomach contents of Percy Bell was made at the Provincial Police crime laboratory at Toronto. Although the result has not been disclosed, published reports have said Bell may have died of strychnine poisoning.

Later Mrs. Bell appeared before a justice of the peace, Lt.-Col. A. P. Allen, and was remanded to Jan. 29 for preliminary hearing.

APPEARS CALM

Mrs. Bell appeared composed as she was led from her home by police after two hours of questioning and asked assembled press photographers: "Do you want a picture?"

John Lennox, Belleville lawyer who has been retained by Mrs. Bell, arrived at the Bell home 10 minutes after the arrival of police about 9 a.m.

The woman recently told interviewers that before her husband's death she bought strychnine for him to mix rat poison. She said that he mixed the poison in the basement of their home as he al-

Negotiations Choked Off In Auto Strike

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Company refusal of a union offer to drop its two main demands in exchange for an additional five-cent wage increase Thursday, choked off negotiations in the strike of 27 powerhouse engineers at Chrysler Corporation of Canada.

The men walked out Sunday midnight to enforce requests for time and a half for Saturday work and a six-cent wage increase retroactive to July. With the men went heat and compressed air for the Chrysler auto and truck plants.

Frigid buildings forced the company Monday to order about 6,000 production workers off the job. Office workers followed.

Company and union met Thursday for the first time, through the efforts of John Dunklee, Ontario government negotiator. After a two-hour session, company officials asked the men, members of International Union of Operating Engineers (AFL-TLC), to name their "rock-bottom" offer for ending the strike.

DROP DEMANDS

The union offered to drop demands for retroactive pay and time and a half for all Saturday work if the company would add five cents to its offer of a six-cent raise. Engineers' pay ranges from $1.87 to $1.97 an hour.

A conciliation board previously recommended the six-cent raise and time and a half for all Sunday work. The company accepted this but would not go along with union modifications. After the union made its offer to Mr. Dunklee, the conciliator returned to report the company found it "completely unacceptable."

Union officials said the negotiating committee had difficulty convincing the men the five-cent offer should be made. A spokesman said they were stunned at the company's refusal.

Dulles Arrives In Berlin For Big 4 Talks

By TOM REEDY

BERLIN (AP)—State Secretary Dulles flew into Berlin today—first of the Big Four foreign ministers to arrive for their conference which opens Monday.

Foreign Ministers Bidault, coming from France by train, and Foreign Secretary Eden, flying from London, were due later today. The usual Communist secrecy cloaked the movements of Foreign Minister Molotov, but he is expected in East Berlin by train tomorrow.

Departing from Washington, Dulles had been cautious about the parley's prospects.

He told reporters:

"If the Soviet leaders come to Berlin with a genuine desire to create conditions of peace, they will find us open minded and co-operative, and we can together do much good for Germany and Austria and indeed for Europe and the whole world."

But he queried: "Will Germany and indeed all Europe be unified for peace? Or will divisions be imposed which will make Europe again the breeder of war?"

There was no matching statement from Molotov.

From the conference sidelines in West Germany, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer was more optimistic than anyone else. He told the foreign affairs committee of the Bonn Parliament that there exists a real chance for unification of West and East Germany in the Berlin talks.

This was an about-face from the previous view in the West German capital, where most German officials have felt that nobody really wanted the parley and it was therefore doomed to failure.

It appears the foreign ministers will wrangle about three basic questions:

1. Reunification of East and West Germany—and how to do it.

2. An independence treaty for Austria.

3. A further conference on world tensions—and whether Chiang Kai-shek's nationalists or Mao Tze-tung's Communist should represent the Far East in such a meeting.

Neither West nor East so far has shown any willingness to give ground on these issues:

Germany: The West demands free elections in all of Germany to set up an all-German government the East demands a regime half Communist, half Western.

Austria: The West demands that Austria be given independence immediately; the Russians want the future of Trieste and various other questions settled first.

Communist China: The Russians demand recognition of Red China. Britain already has. The French still refuse Mao because of the help he gives the Vietminh rebels in Indo-China. American leaders have repeatedly affirmed that they will countenance no recognition of the Peiping regime.

Divided Berlin, meanwhile, bolstered by American-aid dollars, flashed all its neon signs. The Soviet sector spread paint and propaganda to present the same air of success as the West sector.

Want Return Of Naval Base

MADRID (Reuters) — Crowds milled around British consular buildings throughout Spain today, throwing rocks and shouting for the return of the British naval base of Gibraltar.

Several hundred Spaniards demonstrated in front of the British embassy in Madrid. They waved Spanish flags and shouted: "We want Gibraltar."

In Granada, crowds smashed 20 windows in the home of the British vice-consul and hoisted the Spanish flag over the building. Police took it down 20 minutes later.

At Seville, crowds pelted the British consulate with oranges in a 25-minute demonstration, shouting "Franco, Franco, Franco, we want Gibraltar." One window was broken.

Spain's long-standing claim to Gibraltar flared anew this month with a Spanish protest against a visit of Queen Elizabeth to the stratetic base this spring.

Send McNulty To Prison For 3 Years

Ontario Requests Return Of Man Face Murder Count

CALARY — (CP)—Frank J. McNulty, 36, who admitted he had attempted to set fire to the Calgary Salvation Army Hostel, was sentenced Thursday to three years in prison.

SCHEDULED FOR TODAY

McNulty, who had been scheduled to appear on the attempted arson charge today and who is wanted in St. Thomas on charges of murder and arson, was arraigned Thursday at the request of the attorney-general.

Inspector James Melville of the St. Thomas police arrived in Calgary to take McNulty back for trial but in view of the sentence passed here was prevented from doing so. He must obtain a written order from a judge in order to move the prisoner. It was understood Inspector Melville has made his application.

The warrant issued for McNulty in St. Thomas is in connection with a fire which demolished the YMCA Nov. 15, 1953, in which two men died.

"SLIGHTED" ALL HIS LIFE

McNulty, a salesman from Peterborough, was arrested here about 30 minutes after a smouldering fire in a storage room of the hostel was located and extinguished one week ago. He said the only excuse for his act was that throughout his life he has been slighted by his parents, his wife and his in-laws.

McNulty's story to police was recounted by Det. Sgt. Frank Whiteside following the guilty plea:

"I was sent to the Salvation Army Hostel under the care of Major Joshua Monk. I was placed in the alcoholics ward for a few days, then was transferred to another room. I was doing odd jobs . . . in the section for alcoholics.

"This room was on the same floor as the fire."

CIGARETTE IN BOX

"On the afternoon of Jan. 14, I needed a box in which to pack some silverware. I entered the room in which the clothing was stored. I was smoking a cigaret. I shoved the cigaret into a box, went out and closed the door.

"Twenty minutes later I smelled smoke and told Neville Johnson, the caretaker. Just at that time Major Monk and Brig. Rae (Brig. David Rae) walked down the stairs. They were looking for a fire. I saw them go into the stor-

Agreed To Pay $25,000 Reward

DETROIT (AP)—An official investigator says the United Auto Workers (CIO) agreed to pay Donald Ritchie $25,000 reward in the Walter Reuther shooting case.

Also, Ritchie's life was insured for another $10,000, payable if he were "feloniously killed within two years."

This was related Thursday by Ralph Garber, chief assistant Wayne county prosecutor, as Ritchie was appearing in court in neighboring Windsor, Ont., in an extradition fight. The union made no comment.

THREE-STEP PAYMENT

Garber said the $25,000 was to be paid in three steps: $5,000 if a warrant were issued; $10,000 if the defendants were held for trial, and $10,000 if they were convicted.

Ritchie received $5,000 for the story which brought murder conspiracy charges against four men. He later repudiated this story.

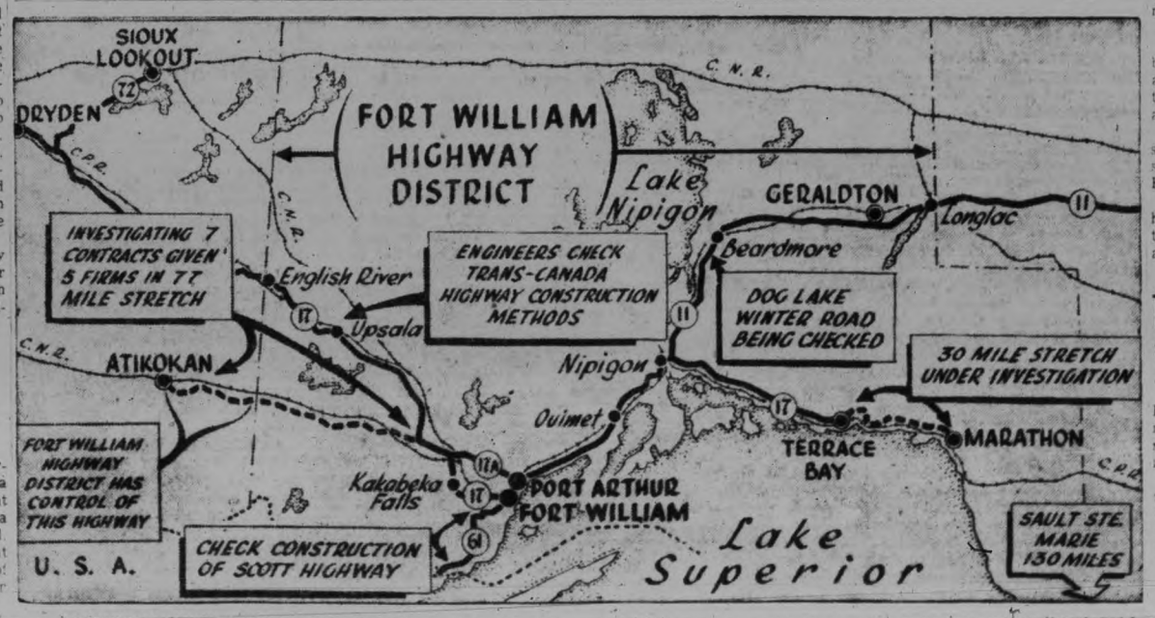
The Wayne county prosecutor has admitted that without Ritchie's testimony he will have no case against the four.

Tanks Surge Forward Smash Vietminh Reds

HANOI, Indo-China (AP)—The French moved tanks into the Red river delta today to smash Communist-led Vietminh troops attacking thinly-manned defence posts.

Army headquarters in Hanoi announced that 234 Vietminh were killed and 135 captured, with only minor losses among Franco-Vietnamese troops.

In northwestern Indo-China, here the French still await an assault by the Vietminh forces estimated at up to 40,000 fighters and bombers for the 29th straight day pounded rebels in hill positions encircling the fortress of Dien Bien Phu.



HIGHWAYS INVESTIGATION—A private firm of consultants has been given unlimited powers by the Ontario government to investigate reports of irregularities at the Fort William division of the highways department. This map lists sections being investigated. Premier Frost said the investigation will be carried out quickly and "the fullest report . . . will be made . . . to the people and the legislature."

Highway Payments Withheld Pending Inquiry

TORONTO—(CP)—The federal government has stopped payment on 14 contracts for the trans-Canada highway construction in the Fort William district until it is established whether work covered by the contracts has actually been done. The federal and provincial governments share equally in payment of the contracts, totalling about $10,500,000. Works Minister Winters said in the Commons Thursday the federal payments were stopped because of charges of irregularities in the Fort William division of the Ontario highways department. He said an investigation is under way and some cases have reached the courts.

So far, the federal government has paid $3,220,000 of its share, leaving a little more than $2,005,000 outstanding.

Mr. Winters said Ontario is solely responsible for the construction administration.

Meanwhile, as the provincial government ordered an investigation of the Fort William division and promised that any wrongdoers will be prosecuted, an investigation of the Blind River division came to light and there were indications the checkup will be extended to Kenora.

CONSULTANT FIRM

Premier Frost said at a Toronto press conference the investigation by a management consultant firm not only will clear up a situation at Fort William but also will reveal whether a better job can be done in the administration of the highways department.

Highways Minister Doucett said he plans to "let the chips fall where they may" in the inquiry. He said he wants the investigation to be as complete as possible.

Five members of the highways department at Fort William are under arrest on various charges. A number of others were suspended after a preliminary investigation showed what Mr. Doucett said were "what appear to be serious alterations in official documents, plans and records."

INVESTIGATE GRADER USE

In the Blind River division, which embraces the Sault Ste. Marie area and stretches north and east of the northern Ontario steel city, investigators were reported checking allegations of misuse of department graders on town streets of Thessalon, of the sale of a bulldozer and blade valued at $7,000 altogether and the disappearance of a grader and other equipment.

The investigators also looked into the amount of fill reported used in building the 30-mile stretch of trans-Canada highway linking Blind River and Spanish.

Gov't Asked If CNR Intend Layoff

OTTAWA (CP)—The government was asked in the Commons Thursday if the Canadian National Railways' plans employee layoffs late this month.

Howard Green (PC — Vancouver Quadra) got no immediate reply when he asked if "system-wide layoffs" are planned for around Jan. 26 and, if this were so, could they be avoided.

Leopold Langlois, parliamentary assistant to Transport Minister Chevrier, promised an answer later. Mr. Chevrier was out of the capital.

In Montreal, it was learned the CNR plans to lay off approximately 800 men next week. All are employed in motive power and car shops across the country.

HARDEST HIT

Hardest hit will be Winnipeg with 262 layoffs and Montreal with 116.

A CNR official said the layoffs reflect a continuing falling off of railway traffic. With traffic dropping, he said, fewer locomotives are running and fewer cars are in need of repair or maintenance.

In Stratford, D. E. McKinon, superintendent of the CNR motive power shops here, said 75 mechanics and helpers in the shops will be laid off next Wednesday.

At London, Ont., George McCready, CNR foreman said there will be a "small reduction." He said the number laid off will be less than Stratford's 75.

Some of the men here had already received notices.

Make Public Meyer Papers

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Drew wants the government to make public all documents in its possession relating to former Nazi Maj.-Gen. Kurt Meyer.

Mr. Drew made the request Thursday in a motion on the Commons order paper following Defence Minister Claxton's announcement that Meyer will be a free man "in a matter of months." Meyer's release from the British Werl military prison in the western sector of Germany has been protested by many veterans organizations.

Meyer was sentenced to be shot for his part in the death of 18 Canadian prisoners of war during the Normandy fighting. The sentence was commuted to life imprisonment and then to 14 years.

With time off for good behavior, it is expected that Meyer will be released from prison in September.

Highway Probe Extended To Blind River

BLIND RIVER (CP) — Investigators are checking activities of the Ontario highways department's Blind River division.

Inspectors arrived in Blind River and in Thessalon, 30 miles west of here, two days after investigation into highways accounts and contracts at the Lakehead was made public several weeks ago.

They have ranged back and forth over the division and taken at least 20 statements from some of the 150 department employees in the area. One employee is reported to have been suspended without pay since early in the investigation.

Thessalon town officials said Thursday they have been getting their streets graded by a system which "seemed funny" to them. The inspectors, arriving without warning, found a department grader at work on Thessalon streets. They ordered the grader and crew out of town at once.

HAVE AN ARRANGEMENT

Town officials said they have had an arrangement for at least the last seven years whereby department employees were paid $1.25 an hour for their time if they brought along the provincial graders without charge.

Mayor Thomas Hill, elected last month, said he was aware of such an arrangement but had nothing to do with setting it up.

"This year we intend to get a grader of our own and do the work in a proper manner," he said.

Former mayor Campbel Cork said the town cheques were made out directly to highways employees, who changed from time to time.

SAVED TOWN MONEY

"It has been an excellent arrangement and has saved the town a lot of money," Mr. Cork said. "It was an opportunity and we took advantage of it."

He said last year's cheques were signed by him as mayor and by Rev. Colin Grassie, minister of the Church of Pilgrim's Progress, who is town clerk.

The reported sale of a bulldozer and blade valued at $7,000 and the disappearance of a grader and other equipment also are being investigated.

Part of the equipment is alleged to have been sold to a Sault Ste. Marie contractor. It has been recovered.

The investigators are also looking into the amount of fill reported to have been used in building the 30-mile section of the trans-Canada highway linking Blind River and Spanish.

The Blind River division, one of the largest in the province, extends from near Espanola on the east to the Montreal river on the west and embraces the Sault Ste. Marie district as well as the north shore of Lake Huron and a section of the Lake Superior shoreline.

Pro-Red Prisoners

sitdown strike in their compound, to back the Communist position that they should be held until their fate is decided by a Korean peace conference. But it is considered likely that when their food runs out they will march north—and vanish behind the Iron Curtain.

FINAL APPEAL SPURNED

The Indian command made a final appeal Friday for the Reds to accept the pro-Communist prisoners, but it was rejected.

Instead, the Reds told Indian Lt.-Gen. K. S. Thimayya they will consider the Indians responsible for seeing that there is no "abduction and dispersion" of the pro-Reds.

The Indian commander then met with leaders of the pro-Red compound.

"He gave them his position," an Indian spokesman said, "namely, that by midnight we shall withdraw our guards, withdraw our custody and shall have nothing to do with them."

In a letter tonight to Gen. Thimayya, the Reds said they will submit the PoW dispute to two bodies —the military armistice commission and the proposed Korean peace conference.

In Washington, the defence department ordered the 21 Americans discharged as undesirable at one minute after midnight Korean time. The action cuts off their pay and allowances and will make it difficult for them to qualify for veterans' benefits.

The discharges are subject to appeal if any of the 21 should return home later.

SUBJECT TO DRAFT

The Red Peiping radio today blasted Allied handling of the 21,809 anti-Communist PoWs returned by the Indians.

"One of the darkest pages in history is now being written by the American aggressors with the blood and tears of the prisoners of the Korean war," Peiping said.

South Korean authorities got a rude surprise with the disclosure that only about a third of the more than 7,000 anti-Red Korean PoWs released by the Indians want to join the South Korean army. They had hoped to enlist perhaps 90 per cent.

One South Korean source said, however, that the freed captives who do not enlist will be subject to the draft if they are between 19 and 28 years old.

Plan Service Extension

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario council of the St. John Ambulance Brigade said Thursday that, in the hope of extending its highway service, it will launch a drive Feb. 9 for $261,800. At present, it operates 66 highway first aid posts and has two special ambulances on highway patrol and 11 more on other work. It says it needs more ambulances plus two-way radios.

Report Imminent Arrests In Highway Case

TORONTO (CP)—The Telegram says today in a newspage story arrest of contracting company executives is "imminent" in the alleged swindle in the Fort William division of the Ontario department of highways. The report was attributed to a leading Ontario government official who was not named.

The story said the swindling methods are being traced in great secrecy at government offices by 55 "pencil bloodhounds." It said some 40 survey experts had been brought in from all parts of the province to help in the study.

Until the last few months the Ontario government did not carry out pre-engineering work on contracts so as to arrive at an approximate cost estimate before work started, the story added, saying that the federal government was concerned about this failure to conform to practice in other provinces in connection with work on the trans-Canada highway on which it shares the cost.

poration will drop the current system of making loans jointly with lending institutions.

It will have power, instead, to insure a maximum of $2,000,000,000 in loans without further parliamentary approval. Cost of insurance, two per cent in the case of houses for owner-occupancy, will be paid by the borrower.

KEEP BUILDING UP

Mr. Winters said he hopes the new program, with banks entering the residential mortgage field, will keep house building in Canada at or near the 1953 peak of 104,000 starts. He urged the Commons to give it quick approval so that it can take effect in the spring.

Opposition speakers indicated they will not try to block passage of the bill, but criticized several of its features.

Donald Fleming (PC—Toronto Eglinton) said the entry of banks to the mortgage-lending field is a fundamental departure from existing banking laws and ignores the necessity that banks invest in short-term loans that are easily liquidated. There should not be "pressure" on banks to put depositors' money into long-term housing loans.

He said Mr. Winters had given no promise the interest rates on housing loans would not increase. Under the terms of the bill the rate could be set as high as 5.9 per cent. If it were increased one-half per cent above the current 5¼ per cent it would wipe out the benefit of extending the life of the mortgage.

Joseph W. Noseworthy (CCF—York South) said the bill will not overcome the housing shortage because it will not reduce the cost of building homes. This could be done if the government provided money for housing loans at two-per-cent interest.

Mortgage insurance was an unnecessary protection. It was not justified by the small amount of money the banks would be prepared to lend. There was no similar insurance of the owner's equity in cases of default.

James E. Brown (L—Brantford) said Mr. Fleming criticized the legislation but "offered no alternate proposals." He quoted Mr. Fleming as saying the banks will not co-operate and added he (Mr. Brown) thinks they will co-operate.

"I was puzzled and shocked by the member's speech," he said. It was impossible to gather whether the opposition was for or against the bill.

The legislation should be allowed to operate for at least two years "to see if it will have the desired effect."

Wallace Nesbitt (PC—Oxford) spoke against the "blot" offered by housing developments which presented row upon row of identical houses. They were "boxes" which in five years' time depreciated by as much as 20 per cent. He hoped the bill would not be thwarted by rigid local building codes.

TORONTO FRUIT

ways had and put it between two slices of bread.

Her arrest climaxed more than two weeks of police investigation under Inspector Frank Kelly of the criminal investigation branch of the OPP.

He and Inspector Clare Hayes of the Belleville city police went to her Belleville home and took her into custody about 11 a. m. She was taken to police headquarters and charged with murder.

BODY EXHUMED

Bell died Jan. 2 and a doctor at the time ascribed his death to a cerebral haemmorhage. However, the attorney-general's department, after communication with Bell's relatives, ordered the body exhumed.

Seven days after Bell died grave diggers dug into the frozen ground at the cemetery at Napanee where he had been buried 25 miles east of Belleville. Police stood by to supervise the disinterrment.

Inspector Kelly was assigned to investigate the case. He made a systematic check of the poison-book records of neighborhood drug stores and seized some of the records.

He did not talk with Bell's widow until today.

BOARDER MOVED OUT

Mrs. Bell was not told by authorities that the body of her late husband was to be disinterred. She termed it a "terrible thing" at the time and said even her boarder, Roscoe Jenners, a Belleville barber who had lived in the Bell home for some time, had moved.

Bell was said by witnesses to have died a painful death. The police investigation began after a member of the family told police that Bell had never been sick a day in his life.

County To Ask Experts' Advice About Forest

Peterborough county's reforestation committee will meet soon with forestry experts to decide what to do about the 4,448 acres of county forest in Dummer and Belmont-Methuen townships.

At present the county forest is not paying its way. This state of affairs has been dragging on now for years and county council are determined to do something about it.

The experts who have been called in for advice are W. B. Greenwood, regional forester, and John Bell, zone forester. After conferring with them the reforestation committee will bring in a recommendation to council at the March session.

"We are told it's not economic to cut timber; that the timber is too scattered to make it pay," said James Gifford, reeve of Ennismore. "This is very disappointing . . . We go on from year to year and very seldom show anything but 'in the red'."

"I think our forest isn't being handled properly and we need more skilful supervision."

Mr. Greenwood said he believed the forest should pay for itself. He also said, in answer to a question from Mr. Gifford, that it might be possible to get an agreement with the department of lands and forests in which the department would temporarily take over the handling of the county-owned timber lands. Some years in the future the lands could be handed back to the county after payment of the department's out-of-pocket expenses.

Fire protection would be provided while the department were looking after the lands.

Mr. Bell said that what the county forest needed was "intensive management" which the county are not in a position to give.

John Nixon, reeve of Norwood, said that in another county the district forester came to a demonstration woodlot, marked certain trees, and advised the owners on what should be cut.

"I dont' think it will ever pay the way we're running it," said Warden Willard G. Waterman.

Gardner Gawley, deputy-reeve of Belmont - Methuen, hunts through part of the county forest. He said he had seen many young trees ruined by skidding of logs from a grown-up section of the forest; and the construction of roads had also killed many trees.

Sports Car Rally Through City

The British Empire Motor Club will send three flights through here this weekend in its Canadian winter rally, a reliability test under winter driving conditions, sanctioned by the Federation of International Sports.

Most of the cars are sports models from Europe, owned and driven by Canadian sportsmen.

Secret control checks will be made as the drivers receive their instructions on each leg of the journey, the Peterborough control room being set up at Henderson's Garage, with the staff and personnel of the local Motor Club on hand for repairs and assistance.

The first flight will have 51 from Toronto coming through here at 10.06 tonight till 3.12 a.m. Saturday; the second has nine from Montreal coming in at 3.12 p.m. Saturday till 7.11 p.m.; and the third Sunday from 8:40 am. till 1.29 p.m.

The general route for the larger party is from to Toronto to Peterborough, Kingston, Montreal, Maniwaki, P.Q., and back to Kingston, Barrie's Bay, Peterborough, Huntsville and Toronto.

Judge Kennedy Heads Police Commission

Judge John de N. Kennedy was elected chairman of the Peterborough police commission for the ensuing year, when the first meeting for 1954 was held Thursday.

Mayor Norman Graham first proposed Magistrate W. R. Philp Q.C. for the position, but Mr. Philp declined and in turn nominated Judge Kennedy.

Ritchie Hearing To Be Held On February 16

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A clean-shaven, confident Donald Ritchie swung into county court here Thursday and heard the date for his extradition hearing set for Feb. 16.

The man who named himself and four others as those responsible for the 1948 shotgun attempt on the life of Walter Reuther, listened quietly while his lawyers and the crown attorney clashed briefly over a statement issued to the press by Ritchie from Essex county jail.

Ritchie is wanted in Detroit where he escaped Jan. 8 after naming his uncle, Clarence Jacobs of Windsor, as trigger man in the attempt on the life of the CIO and United Automobile Workers' Union president. Also named were Santo (Sam) Perrone and Carl Renda both of Detroit and Peter Lombardo, serving a term in a United States federal prison.

Wednesday, Ritchie issued a signed statement through his lawyer, Bernard Cohn of Windsor, denying that he was present at the Reuther shooting and that he knew who was involved.

Crown Attorney Bruce J. S. Macdonald said in court he thought the statement, released to the press, was undesirable and suggested the possibility it was in contempt of court.

STATEMENT "UNWISE"

Judge A. J. Gordon promptly agreed it was unwise. "I can't see how we can expect to get an unprejudiced jury when the case is aired on TV and in the newspapers beforehand," said the judge.

Mr. Cohn said the statement was issued in accordance with legal procedure and at the request of the accused.

Judge Gordon warned no further statements of this nature were to be issued before the hearing.

Ritchie was paid $5,000 for his information by the UAW which had offered rewards for the arrest and conviction of Reuther's attackers. It was reported the reason Ritchie fled was because the union failed to live up to an agreement to pay him $25,000.

A union spokesman denied the UAW violated any agreement with Ritchie. Asked if the union would take action against Ritchie in view of the fact he admitted his statement was false, the spokesman said, "No comment."

Nothing Wrong But Age Declares Woman, 103

KINGSTON (CP)—Mrs. Lenora Adeline van Luven, Kingston's oldest resident and one of the oldest women in eastern Canada, celebrated her 103rd birthday today.

"If you had only given me a few minutes more I would have fussed up my hair a little bit," she told a well-wisher. "You can tell my friends there is nothing wrong with me except old age."

Her mother, Mrs. Darius Smith, and a sister, Mrs. John Ferguson, both died at the age of 102.

Jet Production Increases 1953

OTTAWA (CP) — For the first time, the Canadian aircraft industry in 1953 built more jet aircraft than piston-type planes.

The Air Industries and Transport Association said Thursday the industry delivered nearly 1,000 military aircraft last year at a price of about $300,000,000. Most went to the RCAF but some were exported to the United States and Britain.

The swing to jet-dominated production resulted from increased output of the all-weather CF-100 jet fighter and a start on deliveries of the T-33 jet trainer for the RCAF.

There was a "fairly steady" output of F-86 jet fighters, bulk of which went to the RAF and USAF.

PISTON-ENGINED PLANES

Almost the entire military production of piston-engine planes—Harvard trainers and de Havilland Beaver liaison craft—went to the U.S.

The association said in its publication Air Age that percentage of jet aircraft rolling from Canadian assembly lines is expected to increase this year. Production of piston-type planes will decrease.

Canadian Car at Fort William soon will turn out its last Harvard, then begin construction of the Beech T-34 for the U.S.

Exact figures on production of each type of military aircraft are secret.

Bush Workers Reopen Talks

KAPUSKASING (CP) — Union leaders representing northern Ontario's 5,000 bush workers leave here tonight for Toronto and a meeting with Labor Minister Daley and lumber company owners in an effort to reopen wage negotiations broken off last November.

The wage dispute involves 20,000 members of the Lumber and Sawmill Workers' Union (AFL) employed by 19 Ontario pulp, paper and lumber companies.

Unemployment Rising In Sudbury District

SUDBURY (CP) — The ranks of Sudbury district's unemployed are swelling at the rate of 1,000 a month according to figures released today by the Sudbury office of the national employment service.

Completion of the cutting season in the lumber and pulp camps has accounted for part of the increase which leaves Sudbury with 3,382 unemployed men and 630 women.

Bitter Winter Coldest In Four Years

Western Provinces Suffer Most 30 Below In B.C.

EDMONTON — (CP)—The numbing Arctic air giving western Canada its severest winter in four years continued without letup today for the ninth consecutive day.

Below-zero temperatures on the three prairie provinces and heavy snow and cold in British Columbia have claimed at least 13 lives, caused a rash of over-heated stove fires, slowed traffic and generally disrupted routine.

The trend is towards warmer weather — that is temperatures around zero—but the weatherman cautiously said he wasn't sure that the warming period would be brief because there is evidence of colder air building up behind it.

Maximum temperatures Thursday were about 20 degrees below zero across the Prairies.

While the west coast felt below normal temperatures, snow plagued British Columbia to a depth of seven inches to two feet in the southern area.

WARMER UP NORTH

Coldest spots were Prince Rupert with 25 below and Smithers with 30 below in north and central B.C.

At the same time Aklavik, N.W.T., an almost consistent Arctic cold spot 1,200 miles northwest of Edmonton, reported eight above.

The cold weather on the Prairies started Jan. 13 and the temperatures have been the lowest since 1950 when there were 14 days of 30-below-zero temperatures.

Lows during the night were: Edmonton, 35 below; Calgary 30 below; Saskatoon, 45 below; Regina and Winnipeg, 30 below.

Less Time Lost Labor Disputes

OTTAWA (CP)—The labor department reported Thursday time lost through industrial disputes in 1953 was less than half that of the previous year.

A preliminary summary of strikes and lockouts for the year, the department said, shows a time loss of 1,332,929 days. For 1952, it was 2,879,955 days.

The 1953 loss was .13 per cent of the estimated working time of non-farm workers, compared with .29 per cent the year before.

Comparative statistics for the two years:

1952: 222 work stoppages involving 120,218 workers with the loss of 2,879,955 days.

1953: 166 stoppages involving 54,391 workers with loss of 1,322,929 days.

Seeking Finality On Bridge Proposal

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario highways department officials are scheduled to meet with federal authorities in Ottawa today to seek final agreement on plans for building a $16,000,000 bridge over the Burlington canal near Hamilton.

The canal has been served by a Bailey bridge since April, 1952, when a freighter rammed the canal's drawbridge.

It is believed the meeting today may result in the setting of a starting date for the new bridge. Provincial and federal governments will share the cost.

Orono Asks Counties Council Incorporation As Village

COBOURG — (ENS)——Incorporation of the police village of Orono into a regular village, is before the current session of Northumberland and Durham counties council. A delegation Thursday spoke in support of the request. Part of Clarke township would have to be taken into the enlarged village area and upon presentation today of the required census of the extra area from Clarke township, the necessary incorporation bylaw will be presented for approval by the council.

Reason behind the desire to advance from the status of a police village is because the village feels it can carry out its program of municipal progress on a more expansive scale if it relied on the township alone. There would be more than 800 residents in the village, an amount in excess of the present population by 120 people. Acreage would be increased from 225 to 500 acres. The new highway is expected to cut across the enlarged municipality. Warden Reg. McCann pointed out that highway No. 35, which runs through the older part of the village, if abandoned by the department, would revert to either the village or the counties or become a township road. It was formerly a county road.

$370,013 ON ROADS

Road superintendent G. L. Totten reported that counties road expenditure in 1953 was $370,013.88, which included suburban road outlay of $13,903.67, which left a moderate surplus in the road department for the year. He said that some of the road machinery was 15 years old and some ranged from six to nine. If it were not replaced soon the counties would run into a heavy expenditure for machinery as was the case in the period of 1945 to 1949. Construction equipment was in pretty good shape but a new grader would be needed in 1955 as the present one, while repaired, might not last more than a year, he said.

Mr. Totten considered it poor business to use the four-wheel drive trucks for gravel as they were better restricted to snow ploughing. They represented an investment of $54,000 and drawing gravel was too hard on them. For that reason he prefered the purchase of three gravel trucks for a total of $25,000. In reply to a question, he said that the counties had rented dept. of highways equipment but the trouble was there was that the equipment was not always available. The tendency nowadays was to build somewhat wider roads and they ranged from 16 feet wide to 24 . He felt that 20 feet wide should be satisfactory. It was essential that the shoulders were so well constructed that water would not undermine the edges of the pavement and break up under heavy transports.

The road superintendent recommended that in 1954, the sum of $142,000 be expended on construction and maintenance, $120,000 on bridges and $35,000 for new machinery. At the conclusion of his report, Mr. Totten, who was commended by Reeve Charlie Burrison his report.

Garnet Shields, counties assessor, informed the members that he hoped to have the new assessment set-up and in use in all municipalities by fall. He said he had observed many variations in municipal assessing last year but had let it ride until the first of the year. However he had now set up an appraisal list covering six different classifications with rates in effect throughout the two counties. However a house here would not be valued as high as the same house in Toronto. The appraisal cards would be called in each year to check for any change. The six classifciations employed in the valuation of buildings were de luxe, good, medium, fair, poor and substandard.

Percy Gooding, weed inspector, asked for a new sprayer. The present one was second hand when it was purchased 11 years ago and it was repeatedly breaking down, he said. Spraying must be consistent and competent to be effective and it was only a waste of money for an operator to spray indiscriminately, as had been the case sometimes when some counties road employees were delegated to do the job. Warden McCann interjected that an operator was paid 90 cents an hour and it was pretty costly to do it on that basis when a 70-cent-per-hour employee could do it, although it may have turned out to be a poor bargain. Reeve Garnet Rickard of Darlington observed that farmer lost more money because of weeds than they paid out in taxes. The discussion on weed spraying concluded with council recommending that the road commission purchase a new sprayer.

In regard to the demands of the law association of Northumberland and Durham for more adequate facilities in the town hall for the administration of justice, the county property committee took the view that it was too big a subject for them to tackle alone and they decided to recommend that the chairman of all standing committees sit in and work out a solution.

Following were the appointments made:

Road Commission, Northumberland, four years—Gordon Honey; Road Commission, Northumberland, two years, Ray Bothwell; Road Commission, Durham, one year, Alan Beer auditor of criminal justice accounts, H. G. Woodley; Durham Reforestation Commission, two years, H. B. Wilson; Board of Management, Durham, two years, Stuart Gray; Children's Aid Society, Durham, Art McKay Children's Aid, Northumberland, George Broadworth; Counties Board of Health, Durham, one year, Roy Nichols; Board of Health, Durham, two years,, Owen Nicholas, Bowmanville; Northumberland, Board of Health, Charles Burrison, three year term. Commissioners of registry offices — Cobourg, Jack Erskine; Colborne, I. Post; Port Hope, Horace Smith Bowmanville, Owen Nicholas jail and county offices commissioner, Charles Johnston; county property, Ward Archer.

Convicts Regard Sport Important

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—There's more glory in being a penitentiary's best home-run hitter nowadays than in being a prison "tough guy," Alex Edmison said Thursday.

Mr. Edmison, vice-principal of Queen's University and a worker for prisoner rehabilitation through the John Howard Society, said in a Canadian Club address that improvement in prison conditions since 1946 has given rise to a new class of time-serving heroes—athletes, newspaper editors and radio performers.

Some improvements still were needed but an enlightened reform institution already was producing trained and educated men who could obtain honorable employment.

CHANGE COMMAND—At a ceremonial change of command parade, Lt.-Col. M. E. Clarke turned the 50th HAA Regiment over to the new commanding officer, Lt.-Col. H. R. Command 50th HAA Reg't Turned Over To New CO

More than 200 guestsof the 50th HAA Regiment were on hand at the armouries Thursday night for the ceremonial change of command from Lt.-Col. M. E. Clarke, ED, to Lt.-Col. H. R. Hammell, CD. It was the first time in recent years that such a ceremonial parade has been held in Peterborough.

Actually the change in command was official on January 1. Then the Quaker Oats' superintendent, Lt.-Col. Clarke, retired at 41 after a 25-year military career. He had started as a private with the Peterborough Rangers in 1928, receiving his commission as second lieutenant with the 4th Canadian Machine Gun Battalion in 1935.

Lt.-Col. Clarke became a full lieutenant in 1938 and in 1940 went overseas with the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Regiment. He saw service in England and in Italy .

Upon his return to Canada and his discharge he joined the Prince of Wales Rangers which was changed to the 50th Regiment in 1946. He assumed command in April, 1948.

JOINED IN 1940

Lt.-Col. Hammell, a soldier for 13 years, first joined the army with the reserve Rangers in 1940. In 1943 he became a second lieutenant and went overseas in July, serving in France, Belgium, Holland and Germany.

After his return to Canada Lt.-Col. Hammell joined the 50th Regiment, becoming a battery commander in 1946 and the second in command in 1951.

Lt.-Col. Clarke took over the regiment on parade for the last time Thursday night after RSM H. B. Davidson conducted the "fall in," preparing the parade for the adjutant, Capt. Thomas Stanley.

Brig. M. E. Dunn, OBE, ED, Eastern Ontario Area Commander, then arrived to inspect the regiment with Lt.-Col. Clarke. During the inspection the regimental band under the direction of Sgt. S. Gallagher played John Slater's "Princess Elizabeth."

After the march-past, Lt.-Col. Clarke thanked the regiment for the co-operation given him during his time as commanding officer.

"The march-past is not a salute from you to me but from me to you," he told the troops.

FINE TRAINING

In paying tribute to Lt.-Col. Clarke, Brig. Dunn told the regiment that "there is no fraternal or service organization which should take precedence over the reserve army." He added that it offers a young man not only training in the art of war but in developing such attitudes as leadership, honesty, co-operation and team spirit.

"You are losing a fine commanding officer and gaining an up-and-coming officer," he said.

Lt.-Col. Hammell stated that he was proud to assume command of the regiment, promising that every action would be taken with the best interests of the regiment at heart.

The new commanding officer then took command of the parade and the regiment marched past the retiring commanding officer.

Gouzenko To Talk To Institute

TORONTO (CP) — Igor Gouzenko, former Russian embassy code clerk, whose revelations led to the cracking of a Soviet spy ring in Canada in 1946, is scheduled to address the Royal Canadian Military Institute here Jan. 27.

It will be his first public appearance since he was put under police protection following his spy disclosures.

His talk would be "quite informal," Institute President H. E. Boulter said. RCMP officers will be scattered among the audience.

There was no indication, he said, that Gouzenko would be wearing a mask or disguise.

Fire Department Gets First Call Of Year

CAMPBELLFORD — (ENS) — Local firemen answered their first call of the year about 6:30 a.m. Thursday morning to the residence of vernon Haig on the East River road, about two miles northeast of the town, in Seymour township.

The family had just lit a fire in the stove and noticed what they considered abnormally large amounts of smoke issuing from the chimney in the still, cold morning air. They notified the fire department who responded immediately, but their assistance was not required.

Report England Has Wonder Sub

LONDON (AP) — The Daily Express today displayed under a seven-column headline a report that the Royal Navy is secretly completing a "wonder sub."

"These experimental high-speed submarines are capable of patrolling under water for two months or more," Lord Beaverbrook's Empire-minded paper said.

The report said the submarines can race from Britain to Australia without surfacing or refuelling. The type of engine was secret.

The admiralty, when questioned, said it did not know to what the Express article referred.

It is known that the navy is studying the application of atomic energy to submarines.

The Express story carried at its end the report from the United States of the launching of the U.S. Navy atomic-engined submarine, the Nautilus.

Personal Exports

LONDON (CP)—Visitors to Britain bought £1,243,000 worth of goods in the third quarter of 1953 under the personal export scheme. This was 23 per cent less than in the same period of 1952.

Taxi Owners Claim Losing Money On Some Calls

A large percentage of Peterborough taxi owners and drivers consider that trip charges in the city are far too low and in many cases they say they are actually losing money.

At the first meeting of the 1954 Police Commission Thursday, a petition, signed by 34 of the owners was received. It asked for an immediate increase in taxi fares.

Representing the signatories, James J. Donnelly, proprietor of Call-a-Cab company, painted a picture of imminent disaster for taxi owners, only to be averted by the commission granting an increase in fares. He considered, however, that the public would get a more square deal with the proposed change.

In short, the petition asked that 50 cents be the charge for one or two passengers over a mile trip with the sum of 25 cents for each additional mile or part thereof. At present the charge is 50 cents for the first two miles and 25 cents for each additional mile, or part thereof.

For conveying two or more passengers to the same destination, the charge would be 50 cents, with 25 cents for every mile over the first mile or part thereof.

SEPARATE DESTINATIONS

For converying one or more passengers, each to a separate destination, the charge would be 50 cents up to the first mile and a further 25 cents for each additional mile or part thereof.

"At the present time the margin of profit is too small," continued Mr. Donnelly. "On a lot of calls we are losing money."

He gave the instance of a 50 cent trip. Wages to the driver took 20 cents, office administration 10 cents and the cost of running the car seven-and-a-half cents. That expense total of 37½ cents left only 12½ cents for the proprietor. As things were, it was possible for a cab to cover up to six miles in order to collect and deliver a two-mile fare.

"We are taking a terrific beating on these calls," he added.

Judge John de N. Kennedy, chairman, asked if radio equipment could not do away with much of the unnecessary mileage. Mr. Donnelly replied that unfortunately many of the cabs were not radio-equipped.

"Well then, how does your proposed rate compare with rates in other cities," queried the judge.

Mr. Donnelly said that was much the same as that used in Oshawa, and, he believed, in many other centres.

Hugh Davis, proprietor of Avalon Taxis, also representing his wife who operates Capitol Taxis, said he had signed the petition. He did not agree with the proposed increase, but wanted the opportunity to put another angle before the commission.

Judge Kennedy reasoned this procedure to be a little hard to follow, but agreed to listen to Davis's arguments.

TAXI METERS

Mr. Davis opposed the suggested increase in fares. He was of the opinion that it would put taxi owners out of business. Already it was evident that the public were preferring to crowd into buses in order to avoid high taxi fares.

His alternative, which he thought would eliminate his allegations of unfair charges, was the installation of meters in all cabs (Mr. Davis did not make any mention of proposed charges under this system). He also suggested that many cab owners were not giving the 24-hour service provided under the bylaw and that some drivers were not prepared to carry fares on certified 50 cent runs. In many cases drivers were passing the calls on to more willing transporters.

Mr. Donnelly did not like the idea of a meter system. Besides other unattractive aspects, the city would be obliged to supply a car and meter so that every cab meter could be tested each month. The cost of a new meter would range between $285 and $350. Drivers preferred to compute their own charges.

Mr. W. R. Philp: "We cannot consider what drivers prefer. We must provide the best thing for the public."

After some consideration, which was held in committee, the commission decided to adjourn its decision for a week. In the meantime other similar centres are to be asked to supply information regarding fares and governing bylaws. The commission may also ask the Toronto police commission for information regarding the matter.

East Germans Slain

BERLIN (Reuters) — The West Berlin anti-Communist "Information Bureau West" today said four Russian officers murdered two East German night watchmen in a state-owned store near Eberswalde, 20 miles north of Berlin. The agency said the murders took place Jan. 7 but had just been disclosed by refugees reaching here.

Churchill's Retirement

Churchill has always been going to retire—according to other people. When he was a lonely back-bencher between the two World Wars they said he was a spent man. When he was preaching against the danger of Hitlerism from 1933 to 1938 they said he was a man who had had his day and was now old and cracked. When has was defeated in the 1945 elections, it was said that that was the end of his great career; he would retire to the House of Lords and warm his old age with the adulations of the crowd for their great War leader. Last year, when he suffered a stroke, was again his end. Now, back from Bermuda and with great international conferences looming, he is once more said to be on the point of retirement.

* * *

The only validity in all these stories of his withdrawal from public life can be in this: he cannot forever outlive the rumours of his retirement. He is now in his eightieth year, and observers at Bermuda last month reported him "visibly enfeebled" in body, though mentally agile. He is becoming old and worn after many decades of great responsibilities and lavish expenditure of energy. These, in any other man would have been called unbearable responsibilities and reckless spending of his health.

No Pound Bloc

The Commonwealth Finance Ministers' Conference in Sydney, Australia, which ended last Friday, seemed remote in topic as well as distance from Canadians. The reason is that Canada is the only Commonwealth dollar country, the others are in the sterling area. Therefore Canada's financial and even commercial interests are different and to some extent contrary to those of the other Commonwealth countries. However, Canada did have representatives at the Sydney conference. No country today can separate itself from dollar markets, and because of the increasing strength of the sterling area, pound markets cannot be ignored either.

International finance must take account of both dollars and pounds. Among the subjects discussed were the International Monetary Fund, of which Canada is a director. The Commonwealth Finance Ministers took note of a statement in the Fund's report to the Economic and Social Council of U.N., which said that "in order to prevent small depressions from growing into large ones such supplementary reserves (i.e. international reserves in the International Monetary Fund) should be supplied early on liberal terms and in adequate amounts . . . but primarily reliance for the avoidance and cure of depressions must be placed upon appropriate measures at the national level especially in industrial countries".

The Finance Ministers could report on "the expansion of production in Europe and the substantial increase in monetary reserves outside the dollar area" which in their judgement give "solid grounds for confidence". This it does, together with President Eisenhower's recently-stated resolve to keep the economy of the United States strong and growing.

Since the war Canadians have seen sterling markets closed to their goods, and Commonwealth countries whose currency is in pounds dealing with each other to the exclusion of dollar-based Canada. Therefore this paragraph in the text of the communique issued at the close of the conference is reassuring:

> During the last year the Sterling Area countries of the Commonwealth have made great strides towards the objectives which they set for themselves in January 1952 and confirmed and amplified in December 1952. The Commonwealth countries rejected then, and we reject now, the view that any solution of our problems can be found in the creation of a closed system of discriminatory arrangements which could lead only to chronic restrictions and recurring crises. We therefore reaffirm our agreed objectives which are to strengthen the position of each country and of sterling as a currency, and to establish with other countries a wider and freer system of trade and finance in which the convertibility of sterling is an essential part. Thus we shall serve the best interests of all, not only in our own countries, but in the world as a whole.

Now that the sterling countries and the "soft" currency of Europe are in a stronger position than they have been since the war, more freedom of trade and exchange is possible between the dollar and the pound areas. It is well for Canada to hear the Commonwealth finance ministers reject the notion of an exclusive sterling bloc, and plump for "a wider and freer system of trade and finance in which the convertibility of sterling is an essential part".

Big Time Debtor

A person's importance is often more accurately determined by the debts he owes rather than by the money he has. Only a big operator (either as swindler or as an honest capitalist) can have big debts. Similarly the bigger the business concern or industry the bigger its debts can be. Take for instance Ontario Hydro. It used to be a rather modest affair, with a few million dollars worth of assets, a few millions in debts. Now it owns and operates properties worth billions, and at the same time has debts running into billions—it has to have, to finance its vast construction program since the war. By the same gauge of bigness—debts—Canada has grown incredibly. Its national debt is unbelievably big, and the interest alone, paid during the last fiscal year, amounted to nearly half a billion dollars.

The Public Accounts for the year (ended March 31, 1953) show that Canada's net debt is $11,161,734,268.97, nearly twice as big as it was ten years ago, almost four times its pre-war size. The interest payable on the debt last year was $451,339,521, which was a far bigger sum than the total net debt of Canada in 1914, at the outbreak of the First World War.

The figures suggest an interesting comparison to show how even in the matter of waging war, Canada has increased in stature as she has increased her debts. The net debt rose only from $335,996,850 in 1914 to a peak of $1,101,884,062 in 1920—an increase during the Great War of some $856 million. From $3,152,559,314 in 1939 the net debt rose to a 1946 peak of $13,421,405,449—a wartime increase of more than ten billion dollars.

One notes somewhat wryly that most of the public debts are listed as being payable to "Sundry Persons". They are, as often as not, the same people who have to pay the taxes to pay the interest on the debts (Victory Bonds, War Savings Certificates, etc.) owing to themselves. It is, of course, a somewhat more complex operation than transferring money from one pocket to another in the same jacket.

Let us not be frightened by the size of the National Debt. It is actually at the lowest point it has been since 1946. This is because in every year since, the net debt has been decreased by federal budget surpluses. In all the history of Canada as a nation, there have only been 22 years in which the net debt has decreased, and it is with some satisfaction that we note that seven of these have been the last seven years.

The fact that the Net Public Debt has been lowered in these post-war years when Canada has been growing by leaps and bounds seems to invalidate our contention that the size of one's debts can be a measure of one's stature. However, we are able to point out that while the net debt of Canada has decreased, its gross debt has increased. The total Public Debt now stands at $17,918,490,812.11. Why the 11 cents trailing such a vast sum? It is probably a cabalistic reference to the ten provinces and Ottawa.

The Death Of Senator Dennis

It was with real regret that we recorded the death of Senator W. H. Dennis; he was a newspaper publisher of individuality and enthusiasm who had spent his whole life in the newspaper world, and preferred it to any other. Under his guidance the Halifax papers, the Chroncile-Herald and the Mail-Star became great papers and very powerful influences in Nova Scotia life.

As a Senator, he was everything that abusers of the Senate insist that a Senator is not—youthful, energtic, full of ideas and keenly sympathetic with any reform which might improve the lot of the people of this country. His lively personality made him a figure in the Upper House and as the head of a committee to investigate the tourist industry he did a great deal to promote the popularity of Canada as a holiday ground.

He was a genial man, a true Canadian, and his death at the age of 66 is untimely.

The Fifty-Cent Piece

Our finest coin is the fifty-cent piece. The new (1953) issue bears the image of the Queen on the obverse side; the reverse side is the same arrangement of Canada's armorial bearings that the George VI fifty-cent piece had. The coin is beautifully engraved on both sides. The profile of the Queen is simple and pleasing, the lettering "Elizabeth II Dei Gratia Regina" is elegant though plain. The reverse side is very handsome indeed. The whole coin is a distinguished example of minting, and we doubt that any country anywhere has a better-looking silver piece. Further, its size, weight and material (real silver) makes it look like good money—which it is. Is it not possible for a country which can produce such a fine coin also to make good stamps?

PARIS LETTER

Noises In The Night

By DENNIS BLOODWORTH

WHATEVER the year 1954 may hold as far as France is concerned, it certainly came in with a bang. A dozen wild theories are still circulating here about the notable explosion a few nights ago which had the people of North France thinking they had jumped into a particularly distasteful piece of science-fiction.

Witnesses at Dieppe, in ships out to sea and in towns as far as fifty miles inland, corroborate one another's statements to an uncanny degree: for two seconds, they say, darkness turned into blinding daylight by the sudden appearance of an immense, fast-moving yellow fire in the sky. Four minutes of darkness and silence followed, and then came a shattering burst of sound as if the heavens themselves had blown up. The whole earth seemed to shudder, and Dieppe itself was shaken until its tiles rattled and its windows cascaded down into the streets.

TERRIFIED minds turn to past sins and future prospects. Was it the End of the World — or just another Atomic bomb? "If sound travels at 1,100 feet per second," one local said to me, "and the explosion came four minutes after the flash and right above our heads, how far up . . .? Well work it out for yourself."

The Astrophysics Institute of Paris now agrees with experts of the French Observatoire that what everyone saw and heard was the explosion of an aerolith — a piece of planetary debris scorching across the universe at such speed that resistance offered to it by the outer fringe of the earth's atmosphere would, through friction, render it incandescent and then blow it to smithereens.

The gravitational pull, it is assumed, was light, and the fragments continued to bolt towards infinity instead of falling to earth.

The phenomenon has produced a whole crop of rumours. Flying saucers are now seen daily and one man claims even to have watched one land on the Cote D'Azur (reports that tiny men emerged, formidably armed with one thousand franc roulette chips, remain unconfirmed.)

✧ ✧ ✧

NO ONE has yet suggested that the Dieppe explosion was connected with the activities of M. Christiaens, the world's first supersonic Secretary of State. Sixty-three years old (three of those years were passed in Germany's Buchenwald concentration camp) the French Secretary for Air has made history by breaking through the sound barrier. Flying a French "Vautour" fighter-bomber, he reached the speed of seven hundred and eighty miles per hour. He has announced that in the coming year he is going after the world speed and distance records for jet aircraft.

M. Christiaens is not doing this for personal publicity. Convinced that the latest French prototypes are among the best aircraft in the world, he is coupling his spectacular feats with an all-out campaign to get foreign orders. "It is my job to sell our planes," he commented after his flight, "and this is how I propose to go about it."

✧ ✧ ✧

HE IS NOT the only French Minister to have made an unusual and striking move this week. At the little village of Neuilly-Plaisance the other day a small funeral cortege of poorly-clad workers formed up under a freezing sky to follow a coffin to the local cemetery. They were quietly joined by a tall, well-dressed stranger. The coffin contained the body of a three-month-old baby which had frozen to death during the first glacial week of January in its parents' home — the dilapidated wreck of an old railway wagon. The stranger was the French Minister for Reconstruction, M. Lemaire, who is responsible for housing.

France's reconstruction record, especially poor where private home are concerned, has produced a housing situation so disastrous that groups of workers now band together to knock up inadequate and insanitary shanty towns around Paris in order to have a roof over their heads. The baby's home was in a colony typical of this kind — a bare stretch of ground between a railway line and a gasworks, dotted with hutches which desperate men and women have thrown together with any material available; old petrol tins, abandoned sections of corrugated iron, loose wood, and rusted remnants of outworn vehicles.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE local priest, Abbe Pierre, has rallied his almost homeless flock into the "Emmaus" Society, which has already built an "emergency city" at Pomponne of unorthodox but cheap and solid little houses, and is now planning another next to the present colony at Neuilly-Plaisance. While the unlodged workers pay monthly contributions towards their future home, however, the Reconstruction Ministry has refused credits, and the project is held up for lack of money. M. Lemaire has now replied to a strong open letter from Abbe Pierre by coming personally to witness the tragic results of this official cheese-paring. And after the funeral he promised all possible help to forward such schemes.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE BUILDING problem has its lighter side nevertheless. A friend who lives in an historic corner of Paris was visited the other day by an official who explained that there was a scheme to tear down an ancient house nearby and replace it with a modern laboratory. "It is argued by some," he went on, "that the house should be preserved as an ancient monument. We are therefore consulting the inhabitants of the quartier to find out whether the majority is opposed to its destruction. Your views will influence our decision in the matter."

My friend said he favoured leaving the house alone, and took the official to see it, as if to reinforce his arguments. The official then saw that he had come a trifle late in the day. Not only had the house been entirely demolished, but builders were energetically laying the foundations of the new laboratory. While one Ministry had left no avenue unexplored to decide the fate of the house, the other had certainly left no stone unturned.

✧ ✧ ✧

PARISIANS have become used to such warps in time since the recent postal strike. When it came to an end, about seven hundred thousand letters stacked in sorting offices began to flow towards their addresses in no logical sequence at all. A colleague, for example, received a letter posted to her three weeks before in Bombay. On the following day she received another letter which had been posted three days even before that. This one was not from Bombay, however, but from four doors down the Paris street in which she lives.

New Toynbee History

By KENNETH HARRIS

PROFESSOR Arnold Toynbee has just finished the last four volumes of his great ten volume work, "A Study of History." They will be published on October 1, the day after he ceases to be Stevenson Professor of International Relations at the University of London, as a consquence of passing the age limit of sixty-five. I telephoned him to find out what shape he was in after completing his monumental job, and he sounded as lively and youthful as ever.

He told me that he found the first three volumes the hardest to write. He had to develop a style and a rhythm of approach which neither the reader nor himself would find too tedious for the rest of the volumes he had planned. Once he had "broken himself in," the task became easier. Easiest of all, in spite of the much greater amount of detail which they contain, were the last four volumes. They set him another kind of problem, however: to span the gap between the time of writing and the period when he made his notes, from 1927 to 1929.

I asked him if he felt like resting on his oars now that he had finished what any historian might regard as a life's work. But he does not regard "A Study of History" as a great work, but only as "a contribution to the new kind of history that has got to be written now that world has become one community — a history that looks at the world, not at a nation or a religion." "Indeed," he said in his shy, hopeful voice, "I've got several other things up my sleeve." It is likely that these will irritate other professional historians, busy tilling their plots of specialized knowledge, as much as "A Study" has done.

Why Not This Deeper Probe?

(OTTAWA JOURNAL)

URGING Catholics, Protestants and Jews to unite in "a crusade of prayer and protest" against communism's goal of "complete destruction of religion," Archbishop Patrick A. O'Boyle of Washington asks:

> "Is it too much to ask that we join with other free nations of the world to request investigation by the United Nations of this diabolical aim?"

The Archbishop's call, it must be feared, is not likely to be answered; UN's authority for such an investigated would be questionable within its charter, and such an inquiry, if attempted, could hardly reveal much more than the world knows already.

But there is another investigation, one deeply relevant to Catholics, Protestants and Jews, which might be undertaken: An investigation to try to determine why it is that after 2,000 years of Christianity and more thousands of years of Judaism so many millions in so many countries have left Christian churches and Jewish synagogues to embrace communism?

Centuries before Karl Max was born, Christianity was entrenched in Europe. Why is it that its battlements have been stormed so successfully, that in Catholic Italy and France, in Protestant Germany, in many other lands of Europe where Christianity once flourished, so many millions have gone over to what Archbiship O'Boyle rightly calls the "the atheistic leaders of the Kremlin?"

Force is not the answer; not the whole answer. Long before Stalin's police put much of Europe in chains there were Communists in Czechoslovakia, in Yugoslavia, in Romania, in Germany, France and Italy. Why were they able, and so easily, to win so many converts — to turn millions from Christianity (or Judaism) to atheism?

Was there some failure — failure perhaps on a large scale — in the teaching of religion, or in education, or in social consciousness, in regard for the lives, the well-being and happiness of millions of the masses?

Somebody wrote not long ago that communism told the "failure of Christianity." What he meant, no doubt, was that it told the failure to practice Christianity, to preach and live its truth and keep its flame alive in the hearts of men.

Many there must be who, watching sorrowfully what has come in Europe, would like to see church leaders like Archbishop O'Boyle address themselves to this question. For it could be that in this way they would achieve far more for Christianity's survival, and Judaism's too, than would be possible by some inquiry by UN.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And upon the first day of the week, when the disciples came together to break bread, Paul preached unto them, ready to depart on the morrow; and continued his speech until midnight.

And there sat in a window a certain young man named Eutychus, being fallen into a deep sleep: and as Paul was long preaching, he sunk down with sleep, and fell down from the third loft, and was taken up dead. And Paul went down, and fell on him, and embracing him said, Trouble not yourselves; for his life is in him. When he therefore was come up again and had broken bread, and eaten, and talked a long while, even till break of day, so he departed. And they brought the young man alive, and were not a little comforted. (Acts 20:7, 9-12.)

Many are the afflictions of the righteous: but the Lord delivereth him out of them all. He keepeth all his bones: not one of them is broken. (Ps. 34:19, 20.)

Letters To The Editor

STRAY DOGS

SIR: I have been reading about stray dogs lately in your paper. If those concerned would take a walk down to the South End they would see lots of dogs running around like wild animals. I have to use Montegomery St. and I am usually followed by a Alsation and a Collie and a few more and it appears to me it would not take much to start something that may result in something serious. I think the root of the trouble is with the owners not the dogs. I hope this letter will catch the eye of those concerned (owners and officials) because I for one would take serious action if necessary.

Yours truly,
"CITIZEN."

CATALOGUE OF HISTORICAL ITEMS

SIR: At at recent meeting of the Peterborough Historical Society it was decided to write to The Examiner re help in finding the whereabouts of any written material or other articles, such as books and pioneer relics which would be of historical interest. The Society does not wish to collect these items as it has no suitable repository for them at present. The object in view is to compile a record for the files of the society. The preparation of an historical pamphlet about Peterborough and district has been started and the use of such papers and articles would be invaluable. Such a booklet would be of great interest to visitors and those requiring a short historical sketch for any purpose.

Any person having such papers or other items could write a description of same to:

Secretary,
Peterborough Historical Society,
617 Water Street,
Peterborough, Ontario.

The society wishes to express thanks to the Examiner for the very great interest in Peterborough history which has been shown in many ways in the past.

Yours truly,
MARY E. MEDD.

STUMPED

He sat with his hand outstretched as the fortune-teller read his palm.

"See that line?" said the mystic. "It means that you are going to make a journey in the very near future. To Manchester, perhaps."

When he left the fortune-teller the man headed for the railway station. "A ticket to Manchester, please," he said.

"Single or return?" asked the booking clerk.

The fellow stuck out his palm. "I don't know," he said. "Take a look!"

Russian Goal Is Free Bread Great Eaters of Bread and Fish

By BIL LBOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW (CP)—From the look of their shopping bags Russians are great bread and fish eaters.

No bag seems complete without at least two or three large loaves bulging between its strings. Bread is sold by weight, the kilo (2 1-5 pounds), the half-kilo, the quarter and even in smaller weights if you want. There are two large loaves to a kilo.

In a city in which a public-school teacher earns 650 rubles a month, a high-school teacher 800 and a principal 1,900, bread averages two rubles eight kopeks a kilo.

FREE BREAD IS AIM

There have been successive reductions in the price of bread (and other foods) since the war and I am told the goal is to provide bread free to the public, as are heat and water.

(The ruble (100 kopeks) is worth 25 cents at Russia's exchange rates but in terms of what it can buy its value is no more than five to eight cents. Thus the purchasing value of the high school teacher's 800 rubles ($200) is from $40 to $60).

Here are some other prices. The Russians use the metric weight system and the Canadian equivalents are approximate.

Butter, two rubles 55 kopeks for ¼ pound; margarine, one ruble, 48 kopeks; cheese from two rubles to three rubles 50 kopeks.

Tea, three rubles 80 kopeks a pound; coffee, five rubles, 50 kopeks to nine rubles 70 kopeks for ½ pound; cocoa, 12 rubles 85 kopeks to 14 rubles 90 kopeks a pound.

Cube sugar 10 rubles 70 kopeks for 2 1-5 pounds; granulated sugar 11 rubles.

FISH PRICES

Herring, 12 rubles for 2 1-5 pounds for third-quality small-size fish, 20 rubles for first-quality big fish; smoked herring and smoked sturgeon, three rubles 10 kopeks ¼ pound; salted salmon six rubles 10 kopeks ¼ pound.

Cooked meats and sausages such as liverwurst and bologna, one ruble 65 kopeks to four rubles five kopeks for ¼ pound; bacon, two rubles, 35 kopeks ¼ pound.

Red caviar, four rubles 86 kopeks for ¼ pound, black caviar, eight rubles 70 kopeks to 13 rubles.

Dried prunes, 16 rubles 90 kopeks for 2 1-5 pounds; eggs, one ruble each; macaroni, three rubles 25 kopeks a pound.

The best roasts and steaks are 15 rubles for 2 1-5 pounds of beef, pork or lamb while other cuts vary from nine rubles 50 kopeks to 14 rubles. Hamburger is 11 rubles 40 kopeks for 2 1-5 pounds.

RUSSIAN PRODUCTS

Wines and spirits are sold in one-pint bottles, except champagnes which are the usual size. All the products are Russian.

Vodka (56 per cent alcohol) costs from 20 to 28 rubles, port 15 rubles 20 kopeks, vermouth 12 rubles, cognac 63 rubles, white and red table wines from 12 to 15 rubles, champagne from 24 to 30 rubles. Russian champagne is good, but with more of an apple taste than the French.

Beer, sold at the soft drink counter, costs from two rubles 45 kopeks to three rubles 55 kopeks. Fruit squashes cost one ruble 28 kopeks a bottle.

Chocolate bars come in a number of sizes, the most common being two and four ounces. They are six rubles 50 kopeks and 14 rubles 90 kopeks respectively and are comparable in quality to ours. There are plenty of caramels and humbugs at one ruble five kopeks for ¼ pound.

Potatoes cost 40 kopeks for 2 1-5 pounds, cabbages one ruble 50 kopeks, carrots two rubles 60 kopeks and apples five rubles 50 kopeks to seven rubles 50 kopeks. Apples are smaller than ours and not as rosy.

Duke Starter At Race In Pair's Honor

CHRISTCHURCH, N. Z.—(Reuters) — The Duke of Edinburgh acted as starter Thursday for a harness race named in his honor when he and Queen Elizabeth went to Addintong track here.

They attended the royal meeting of the New Zealand metropolitan trotting club at the wish of the Queen, because in 1927 her father, King George VI, then Duke of York, visited the track and started the Duke of York Handicap.

Crowds cheered the royal couple along the five-mile route to the track.

The duke started the fifth race, the Duke of Edinburgh Stakes, by pulling a lever in the starter's box. Winner was the hot favorite, Rupee.

Earlier today Prime Minister Sidney Holland announced he has given orders for the royal cars to slow down as much as possible, in response to a protest by disappointed sight-seers.

He explained "crowds have been distributed over much greater distances than was anticipated" and the Queen's car could not pass every group at a walking pace without disrupting the time-table.

Uranium Deposits Near Ottawa Look Good

OTTAWA (CP)—Traces of uranium found on Calumet island in the Ottawa river 65 miles west of here are "suggestive of good possibilities," Deputy Mines Minister Marc Boyer said today.

More than 1,200 acres have been staked on the northwest end of the island. The bed of the river between the island and the Ontario shore has also been claimed.

Misener Re-Elected

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que. (CP)—Scott H. Misener of Port Colborne today was re-elected president of the Dominion Marine Association at a concluding session of the organization's annual meeting.

John Paterson of Fort William was re-elected vice-president.

Your Children's Aid Society

A Weekly Column Written in the Interest of the Peterborough Children's Aid Society

It has been established that the Children's Aid Society believes a child should remain with his parents if it is at all possible. However, there are parents who are unable to accept this responsibility and it is necessary to remove children from their care.

An obvious situation is where the child is in actual physical danger. Diane was only 2½ years old and unable to understand her father's stern commands for silence. When the Children's Aid was called to the home, Diane was found to be covered with welts and bruises. She had been beaten unmercifully. She was removed from her parent's care immediately.

Five year old Jackie was brought to the office by his parents. They were responsible people but they were also homeless people. There was no alternative but to give Jackie the protection and security of a temporary home until his parents were re-established.

The manner in which a child is prepared for the break with his family is most important. Jackie knew what was happening to him; it had all been explained beforehand and he was ready. Diane received no preparation. Jackie was a little frightened and upset despite his parents' reassurances, but Diane was terrified. Some parents threaten to send their children away to the Children's Aid Society if they are not good. Naturally the children are extremely distressed if a move is necessary. Most often, it is an unhappy, confused child who is greeted at the doors of the Children's Home.

It is these feelings of bewildering unhappiness that cause some of the difficulties in behaviour which occur in many children following separation from their family. They may fight, quarrel, lie or steal, not eat or sleep or become ill. They will need help with their feelings. It is for this help that children are taken to the Children's Home first on a temporary basis.

It is at the Home that the social worker and the foster parents of the Home, can know and understand each child and his problems. By means of affection, attention and interested conversations with each child, his world of confusion begins to take an organized aspect. He becomes adjusted to a life that no longer has the fears and terrors he has always known.

Physical health is as important as emotional health and each child is given medical and dental examination and treatment as he is ready for it. Each child shows his feelings in a different way. The length of time it takes him to become settled and used to his new life, varies. When this stage is reached, however, the social worker may feel that the child is then ready to be moved into a private foster home.

A great deal of time and careful consideration are put into the selection of the right home for the right child. The method and procedure of selecting such a home will be discussed in more detail next week. However, it is important to say here that infants are placed in these private homes immediately they come into the Society's care. A small baby needs the individual care and attention of a private home. It is the good fortune of the Society to have foster parents eager to give love and understanding care to these infants. They are chosen homes

Newspaper Man Dies Suddenly

NEW YORK (CP) — Kenneth Sutherland Clark, 54, former Canadian newspaper man, died Wednesday night from a heart attack while conversing with friends on a sidewalk in Greenwich village.

Clark, born in Toronto, attended Dalhousie University, Halifax, and began his newspaper career on the Halifax Herald. He later worked on the Halifax Chronicle and joined The Canadian Press at Halifax in 1919.

He was with the news-gathering organization for 17 years, as an editor in its Halifax, Montreal and New York bureaux, as Washington correspondent and as bureau superintendent in New York.

Municipal Association Asks To Tax Utilities

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Municipal Association today urged the Ontario government to permit municipalities to tax publicly-owned utilities and crown properties on the same basis as privately-owned utilities.

Other recommendations in a brief presented to Premier Frost and the cabinet:

That municipal boards of police commissioners be increased to five members from three and that the province assume municipal loss on indigent hospital patients who live outside the municipality in which their district hospital is located.

The association also asked that the province simplify payment of expenses for the administration of justice and assume its "proper share" of them and that the Children's Protection Act be amended to make the province as a whole responsible for the care of abandoned children.

Chess Tourney Over, Everyone In Hot Water

LONDON (Reuters) — The world of chess Thursday nursed an international hangover from the International Chess Congress tournament at Hastings, England, earlier this month.

In Russia, David Bronstein found himself in hot water for gaining no better than a tie for first place with his British opponent Charles Alexander.

Meanwhile, British chess officials feebly countered the protests of outraged Spanish players, who broke off relations with the British Chess Federation because Spain's champion was excluded from the tourney.

MOSCOW RAPS ITS STARS

The semi-official Moscow Literary Gazette scorched Bronstein and his team-mate Alexander Tolush.

"We cannot be fully satisfied with the results of the Hastings tournament," the article continued. "Our grand masters . . . must prepare seriously for these events."

Russian officialdom could find some consolation in the fact that the mere presence of Bronstein and Tolush had barred "Fascist" Spain from the tourney—as the director of the Hastings tournament admitted.

The director, F. A. Rhoden, explained he had originally invited Roman Bordell, leading Spanish player, to the tournament last November when he was not sure the Russians would attend.

When Bronstien and Tolush later accepted, Rhoden said, he decided to cancel Bordell's invitation, fearing the Russians would back out if they found a subject of the Spanish regime in the line-up.

Aces' Puck Squads Capture Three PMHA Victories In Keen Minor Hockey Tilts

Aces defeated Oddfellows 4-1 last night at Civic Arena in a juvenile fixture of the Peterborough Minor Hockey Association, the only juvenile joust staged in the four games run off. Aces midgets edged Shamrocks 4-3, and the bantam Aces—to make it a clean sweep for teams of that club—took a 3-1 decision over Optimists. The other bantam fixture saw the bantam Shamrocks trample Optimists by an 8-1 count. On Monday night, Aces and Shamrocks tangle in a bantam PMHA game, and the schedule winds up the following Thursday, with playoffs then being arranged and later OMHA playdowns for the winning local squads.

A CLOSE FRAY

Thursday's juvenile tussle saw an even, scoreless first frame, with each side counting once in the keen middle chukker, Goldie from Allen for Oddfellows, and two minutes later Ferren from Floyd for Aces. The latter team turned it on hard to throw in three tallies in the third without a return, Floyd getting two and Kane one and an assist, as Ferren also had an assist. The winners drew three of the five penalties in a dandy duel, Goalies Hobart and Masterson going good.

The midget melee was a close one, also. Darling and Mahoney got goals in the first period for Shamrocks, with Forestell helping on both. Parnell and Kinlin lit the lamp to sew it up in the second chukker. After Daly scored from Pace in the third, Aces rolled again for two to take the tilt, Garvey getting one alone, and Murphy tallying on a play with Towns and Heffernan. Aces drew two of three penalties.

TIED AT FIRST

The bantam Aces were tied 1-1 in the initial inning when Finney scored for them, and Ruttan counted for the Optimists. Allen put Aces up in the second on a pass from Vilneff, and Anthony clinched it in the third period on a play with Allen. It was a rougher game with five penalties to Aces and four to Optimists.

Shamrocks bantams had a 2-0 lead in the first as Doughty and McFadden scored, Nichols helping on one. Doughty, Shearer and McCarthy built it up in the next heat, Copping and Delpellaro each having an assist. In the third, McFadden, Shearer and Moffit tallied, DeNoble aiding on one. The losers' goal came in the third by Downer from Drummond. Each side drew two penalties.

Player Pestered By Rugby Club

EDMONTON (CP)—Billy Vessels says Baltimore Colts may force him to be rude.

"I don't want to be rude with them," the star football half said in a telephone interview from Oklahoma with the Edmonton Journal. "But it looks like they are going to force me to it."

Vessels said Don Kellett, president of the U.S. National Football League club, has been pestering him constantly since he left Canada last fall after a standout 1953 debut in the Western Interprovincial Football Union with Edmonton Eskimos.

Vessels, expected to be called up in the United States Army in June, said that he felt he owed his first allegiance to Eskimos and Canadian football, and would not be influenced by anything Kellett had to say.

"I was treated fairly and squarely in Edmonton and the Eskimos lived up to their agreements with me," Vessels was quoted as saying. "I am bound to honor my contract with them. I want to come back and play football for the Eskimos."

No Good Reason To Oust Rugby Schedule

MONTREAL (CP)—McGill University athletic board said Thursday there are no valid reasons for ousting McMaster University from the Senior Intercollegiate Football League's 1954 schedule.

An official statement from the board said the financial slump which hit all members of the conference last year — and which Queen's, Western, and Toronto Universities used as an excuse to drop McMaster—was a result of the combined effects of television, increased competition from professional teams, and a general tightening of the public purse-strings.

McMaster was virtually dropped from the league Saturday at a meeting of the intercollegiate athletics executive in Toronto. At the meeting McGill alone dissented and said it would take the matter back to its athletic board.

The ouster must be approved by all the universities and ratified by the iptercollegiate governors before becoming effective.

REASON NOT ADEQUATE

The McGill statement said disruption of traditional home-and-home games caused by McMaster's entry into the conference was not an adequate reason for dropping the team. McMaster was admitted last year with full knowledge that this disruption would occur.

The Hamilton entry did not win any games last year, but might have done so with a little good fortune, the McGill board said. A one-year trial could not be considered sufficient to judge the playing potential or the public appeal of a new conference member.

Must Fight To Hold Titles

CLEVELAND (AP)—The president of the National Boxing Association aimed a knockout blow at ring champions who avoid meeting their No. 1 challengers.

Andrew Putka said Thursday the NBA hoped to bring about meetings between the champions and leading contenders of five weight divisions. Failure to agree to the proposals could result in the champions' titles being declared vacant by the NBA, he indicated.

Putka told reporters he is sending his proposals to the 98 state and sectional boxing commissioners affiliated with the NBA and to Robert Christenberry, chairman of the New York state athletic commission.

Heavyweight Match Announced By Brown

NEW YORK (AP) — A heavyweight bout March 12 matching Nino Valdes of Cuba, against James J. Parker, a native of Barrie, fighting out of Paterson, N.J., was announced today by Billy Brown, matchmaker of the International Boxing Club. The 10-round bout will be held in Madison Square Garden.

Valdes, who jumped into contention for the heavyweight title last summer with an upset victory over Ezzard Charles, knocked out European champion Heinz Neuhaus in his last start Nov. 15. He is listed as the No. 1 contender by Ring magazine.

Parker's last fight was a decision over Edgardo Romero Nov. 9.

Canadian Skiier Fractures Her Leg

KITZBUEHEL, Austria (CP)—Joan Hewson of Montreal, member of the Canadian women's ski team participating in the third international ski festival here, broke her leg in training, physicians reported today.

Miss Hewson was scheduled to take part in downhill and slalom events of the championships which opened today. She fell during a training run Monday.

Doctors said her right leg was broken, and she was taken to Kitzbuehel hospital for treatment. She will be incapacitated for several weeks.

The accident reduced Canadian women's team to four members.

Dot Martin Tops

Dot Martin had high three of 697 and tied Betty Castle for top single of 273 this week in the YM senior girls' bowling circuit. Betty Castle rolled a 676 three, as Shirley Hackman had 634, Jean Snape 625, and Dot Woods 619. Good singles were: Ethel Stanbury 265, Min Arnold 259, Jean Snape 254, Shirley Heckman 235, Dot Woods 239, P. Selby 233, Marie Whiteside 232, and A. Dixon 231.

Glens, Tigers and Aces each took six points from Corvettes, Bombers and Lucky Strikes respectively, while Commandos took four points from the Hurricanes.

T. Dorrington Leads

Thelma Dorrington led in singles with 275 this week in the Mercantile Bowling League as Marg Widdis rolled high three of 665. Jack Martell topped men in the loop with a 298 single, Harold Page having best three with a 732 effort. Empress hit 2,855 for team's top pinnage.

Glen Baker's Meats blanked Crowe's 4-0, as did Neill's over East City Market. Austin's Jeweller's split 2-2 with Prudential, while Empress Coffee Shop downed Cal Nicholl's 3-1, and A & P No. 1 defeated A & P No. 2 by a 3-1 count. Leading team in the standing is Baker's with 42 points.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

When Mel Allen comes here to speak at the B'nai B'rith dinner honoring Mrs. Pansy Forbes as citizen of the year in '53 tomorrow night he will have a busy Saturday schedule. This top USA radio sportscaster will talk to the high school boys of PCVS, Kenner and SPS in St. Peter's auditorium in the morning, be received by Mayor Norman Graham early in the afternoon, have a get-together with local newspaper and radio sports scribes later, and wind up as main speaker at the dinner at the Empress. But for a radio "voice" like Allen, it probably will be a breeze. He makes a hefty haul annually broadcasting sports in the States, and works in a lot of lectures on the side.

A piece is noted in the Montreal Star concerning Eddie Shore who was there the other night watching his Springfield Indians — he owns several puck clubs — lose 4-0 to the Royals. It said that Shore's players insist that the man is mellowing with the years. Surprising enough, as the former great defenceman for Boston Bruins, in the days when Dit Clapper teamed up with him, has been a fiery figure for years in minor pro ranks. Bob Thorpe performed for him ere retirement, and Don Ashbee and Nip O'Hearn are others who came under him in recent years, all three being prominent lacrossers here in summer months. Shore never did live down that accident which put Irvin (Ace) Bailey out of hockey action 20 years ago.

* * * * * *

Pleased With O'Hearn

Anyway, Eddie in this article wasn't criticizing the Springfield goalie, Nip O'Hearn from here. "We've got a good kid in goal, but how can he win if they don't score for him?" he asked after the game. The scribe went on: "The good kid was Donald (Nippy) O'Hearn, whose thighs seem to be too slim, almost, above his legguards for a goalkeeper. Still he was sharp, making some good stops. He was cool and efficient. O'Hearn is a lacrosse player in summer months at Peterborough. Played with the Petes on the last three Mann Cup teams there. He is a defenceman in the boxla pastime." Shore said he was satisfied with the Springfield deal. Though they're in the cellar they're drawing pretty well, usually 4,000 or better on Saturday games.

Oshawa Truckmen cuffed Kingston Goodyears plenty in Bowman Villa the other gloaming, whilst Orillia downed the Petes up north in a 5-1 fray. The standing shows Truckers atop with 34 points. Petes next with 28, while K's and Orillia are half a tilt behind with 27 points apiece. Belleville has 16 and will be fighting fiercely here tonight as they continue their uphill battle for the fourth playoff slot. They made it a bruising joust at Civic last start, Petes having to rally in the third frame to win it. If Taylor and Wade are back in Quinte harness this trip, it should be a sizzler. Petes want to take a firmer grip on the second rung, as one-point margin is nothing to brag about.

Juniors Rolling Along

Junior Petes' executive appreciates the co-operation of all who helped put their "booster night" across so wel on Wednesday They drew well, despite counter attractions, and hope all these fans will continue to come out during the rest of the schedule, which winds up in three more weeks. Ed Curtin helped organize the program, he, executive officials and donors deserving credit. Red Creighton's crew have a healthy lead now in the group race, with Lindsay in second slot, and Port Perry third, as Collingwood and Midland trail the field. Locals lead Lindsay by two full games and hope to extend that margin when they tangle tonight on Scugog ice. Collingwood comes here Monday p.m.

Four tussles staged at Civic last cool e'en in the Peterborough Minor Hockey Association. Aces captured all three tilts they were in, the juves dumping Oddfellows 4-1, the midgets squeezing out a 4-3 verdict o'er Shamrocks, and bantam Aces taking a 3-1 win against the Optimists. The other bantam tussle saw Shamrocks sweep to an early lead and wind up with the heavier side of an 8-1 count. Monday has Aces and Shamrocks mixing it early in the evening at Civic in a bantam contest. Schedule concludes next Thursday, with playoffs and OMHA playdowns following.

Ti-Cats Prepared Withdraw Big 4 Union

HAMILTON (CP)—Hamilton Tiger-Cats were prepared to withdraw from the Big Four football union if Montreal Alouettes and Ottawa Roughriders had been successful in demands for an increase in the import player limit last week.

A Tiger-Cat executive said Thursday night the defending Grey Cup champions were ready to quit and enter the Ontario Rugby Football Union next season.

"As it is, our net profit was slim," the official said. "If the league had been allowed 12 imports it would have killed us off financially. We would have had no alternative than to withdraw and probably enter the ORFU next season."

BIG FOUR MEET

Tiger-Cats didn't make use of this argument at the annual Big Four meet last Saturday, but the executive spokesman said the Hamilton delegates would have been supported by the club if it had left the Big Four on financial grounds.

Although no financial report is given for the club, reports are that its profit was lower than last year's $27,000.

49 Golfers Hit Under Par

RANCHO SANTA FE, Calif. (AP) A veritable wrecking crew of golf, led by 27-year-old Bill Ogden of Chicago, gave par a thorough dismantling Thursday in the first round of the $15,000 San Diego open tournament.

No less than 49 players out of a field of 134 starters came in with something under par 36-36—72 for the Rancho Santa Fe Golf Club course, and leading the parade was Ogden with a crisp 33-33—66.

Tied at 67 were U.S. amateur champion Gene Littler, San Diego, with 32-35; Earl Stewart, Jr., tournament pro from Dallas, 34-33, and Bob Harris, San Jose, Calif., 35-32.

Jerry Kesselring of Kitchener, Ont., shot 36-36—72. Further back were John Kay of Montreal with 40-37—77 and John Hendrick of Ottawa with 40-38—78.

Havelock Captures Minor Puck Frays

HAVELOCK (ENS)—Havelock were victors, Thursday night, in a double-header of hockey at the local arena.

The first encounter was in the bantam "B" OMHA with Madoc which Havelock won by a score of 5-2.

Havelock led throughout the game, ending the first period with a score of 2-0 and the second with a 4 to 1 tally. Top scores of the evening were Scott Little and Reg Scott of the local team, each scoring two goals with Bill Watson getting the assist on the latter's two goals. It was a fast game with only one penalty being handed out by referee Bill Laing.

Madoc: Goal, Douglas Danford; defence, Kenneth Catair, Daniel Devolin; centre, Larry Stitchwood; wings, James Blue and Wendell Empey; alts., Glenn Broadworth, John Atinson, Donald Henderson, Douglas Pitt, Donald Ellis, Ray Broadworth, Ronald Empey.

Havelock: Goal, Garry Whitney; defence, Bob MacMillan, Reg Scott; centre, Scott Little; wings, Bill Watson, Bob McLaughlin; alts., Bob Rutherford, Jim Watson, Donnie Wilde, Keith Scott, Doug Gerow, Bill Toms, Don Brunton.

The second game was in the midget "B" series with Norwood, which the locals won by a score of 10-7.

Hannah and Byers scored all of Norwood's goals, the former geting four and the latter three. Revoy of Havelock played one of his best games, scoring two goals and assisting on two more. Larry Sayers also picked up four points with one goal and three assists. Kennedy came next with two goals. It was a clean game with but two penalties being handed out by referee Laing, one to each team.

Havelock: Goal, V. Robinson; defence, Bob Revoy, Scott Sayers; centre, T. Kennedy; wings, C. Chase, D. Newman; alts., G. Ellis, J. Cosgrove, J. Turpin, B. Scott, B. MacMillan.

Phil Pryde Hits 910

Phil Pryde smashed out a 910 triple and J. Wade a 377 single to lead this week in the men's City Bowling League. Cookie's Place led teams with 3831, and Royal York had best single game of 1377 for teams in the loop. The 6-0 wins went to Payne's, Cookie's, Sunocos, McGillis and Edwards over Primeau's, Parkhill, Golfers, Stopawhile and Family Credit. Ferguson beat McBride & Anderson 4-2 and Novelty won 4-2 from MacDonald's.

Good triples: S. Richardson 750, W. Firth 742, D. Abraham 766, W. Boon 764, J. Wade 835, G. Walton 713, A. Pilling 786, B. Nichols 841, T. Basciano 705, C. Nichols 825, J. Murray Sr. 724, R. Red Wings Beat Canadiens In 1-0 Battle

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

If you want to beat Detroit, you have to beat Terry Sawchuk. Montreal fans learned that again Thursday night as the Canadiens lost 1-0 to the Red Wings for their second home-ice defeat in 23 games. Though Maurice Richard and Ed Mazur kept trying and the Canadiens pressed a last-minute power play, still the Montreals couldn't get by the man in the Red Wing cage. The lone tally came early in the third period when Metro Prystai angled a shot from the side past goalie Gerry McNeil for Prystai's ninth score of the season.

The win increased Detroit's first-place National Hockey League lead to five points over the Montrealers and gave Sawchuk his seventh shutout of the season, one less than Toronto's Harry Lumley.

In their last seven games, Detroit has lost one to New York Rangers and shared a scoreless tie with Toronto Maple Leafs.

HAWKS SINK LOWER

The latter two teams were idle Thursday night but at Indianapolis Boston Bruins shoved Chicago Black Hawks a little deeper into the NHL cellar with a 3-2 win.

The Bruin tallies came on a first-period fluke by defenceman Ray Gariepy and a third-period pair by Joe Klukay. Gariepy's goal was scored for him by Chicago defenders who snared his high shot only to drop it into the net. The win earned undisputed fourth place for the Bruins, dropping the Rangers to fifth.

Saturday sees Chicago at Montreal and Detroit at Toronto. Rangers are at Boston for the week-end. The other four clubs reverse the visiting Sunday night.

Canadian Rinks Capture 5 Wins

UTICA, N.Y. (AP)—Two Canadian and two United States rinks are setting the pace in the international curling bonspiel.

Play opened Thursday for the Mitchell Medal, top prize in the four-day competition.

The four that curled second-round triumphs after winning first-round matches were Lennoxville, Que., skipped by Dave Clark; Oshawa, Ont., skipped by Bard Canning; Utica No. 5, Dr. Preston Clark, skip, and Utica No. 1, skip R. W. Murray.

The Utica rinks were among 16 U.S. rinks that won in the first round. Canadian rinks captured five first-round matches. There are 30 rinks entered.

Losing rinks in Mitchell Medal play compete for the Allen Medal. Allen Medal losers began play today for the Country Club Cup. Rinks defeated in Allen and Country Club cup matches today began play for the Dewar Cup.

In first-round Mitchell Medal play, Joe Shamess' rink from Kingston, Ont., and G. G. Seymour from the same city advanced. A.F. Woodley of Gananoque, Ont., lost. Joe Ellwood's rink from Smiths Falls, Ont., was knocked out in the first round and Walter Code's Smiths Falls rink lost to Clark in the second.

They'll Do It Every Time — By Jimmy Hatlo

Says Ice Rink Disgraceful

TORONTO (CP)—Curley Davis, manager of Kitchener - Waterloo Greenshirts, said Thursday he will protest the condition of the Hamilton rink at the next Ontario Hockey Association Junior A council meeting.

"That Hamilton rink is a disgrace," Davis said after his team dropped a 4-3 decision to Hamilton Cubs in Hamilton Wednesday. "They haven't even a time clock that works."

Talking about the Kitchener loss, Davis said "the time went awfully fast after Hamilton scored their fourth goal. It certainly wasn't the same as on my watch."

The Kitchener coach said the Hamilton rink "is like a barn." He added:

"I haven't seen good ice there this season. Next time our team plays there I'm going to have the players wear water skis."

Emms Agrees With Skinner In Criticism Of Linesmen

TORONTO (CP) — Hap Emms, coach of Barrie Flyers in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, said Thursday he agrees with Jimmy Skinner on the officiating in the Quebec Junior Hockey League.

Skinner, coach of the OHA Hamilton Cubs, was suspended after a ruckus during an interlocking game with Montreal Canadiens in Verdun Monday. Sibbey Mundey, the official who refereed the game, was also suspended.

Both are awaiting word from the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association on their status.

Most of Skinner's criticism after the wild game, called by Mundey in the second period with the Canadiens leading 2-1, was directed, not at the referee, but at the linesmen. This is where Emms agrees. "The referees weren't too bad," said Emms, who just completed a tour in Quebec. "But those linesmen are terrible. They must operate on a different set of rules in Quebec."

Emms said he thinks that the interlocking schedule between the Quebec and Ontario teams will come to a halt after this season.

"I don't see why we bother with the Quebec teams anyway," he said. "We've had nothing but trouble with them."

NOTICE

Owing to hundreds of people being turned away Wednesday night when the Midget wrestlers appeared here, Fred Scates has arranged with Promoter Frank Tunney for a return engagement of these popular little grapplers next Wednesday at the Brock. This is definitely a wrestling scoop as the mites are in great demand all over the country and it is not an easy matter to secure their services. So for the benefit of those unable to get in in and those who did and want to see the little fellows in action again the Midgets will be back next Wednesday.

TRY FOR CANADIAN HONORS—A first aid team from the Peterborough branch of the Bell Telephone company is well on its way to the company's Dominion championship. Competing against teams from Toronto, Central Ontario and western areas, the Peterborough team will meet the Quebec winner, as yet unnamed for the Canadian honors. Practising Thursday night, the team includes Jerry Ackford, Joe Pollack, Jack McDonald, Fred Garside, Ray Cox (the coach), Les Sage and Bill Hutchins. The team competition arises out of a company policy set down in 1922 to train its personnel in the arts of first aid.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

First Aid Experts Of Bell To Try For Dominion Crown

Should you break a leg, crack an elbow, or, for that matter, disengage any part of your anatomy including the epidermis, and you have a friend from the Bell Telephone Co., handy, your chances of being reconstructed properly, and within the minimum amount of time, are A-1.

Since 1922, it has been a policy of this company to train its personnel in the arts of first aid, and for the past 30 years this training has been in effect in the Peterborough branch. The idea sprang from the fact that men engaged in the relatively hazardous task of communication maintenance work, should be equipped to deal with the injuries of fellow workers. Studies of development along these lines indicated that first aid training not only minimized the effects of injury, but also acted as a preventative measure. Men who knew anatomy and the care of it, were less liable to damage it.

With a program in effect which trained an estimated 75 percent of the male, and 15 percent of the female employees of the company, in first aid, it follows, considering individual aptitude, that a limited number would show greater dexterity in the art. Such was the case, and it resulted in the creation of company teams, and competition between branches.

AIMING FOR TITLE

This year, the Peterborough squad, composed of six local men, and trained by another, formerly of Toronto, is well on its way to the company's Dominion championship. It has bested teams from the Toronto, central Ontario and western areas, and is now patiently training for the final bout with an unnamed Quebec team, for Dominion supremecy.

The local bandage experts are team captain, Joe Pollack, Bill Hutchins, Jack McDonald, Fred Garside, Les Sage and Jerry Ackford. Their coach is Ray Cox. All the men are employed in the plant department of the Peterborough Bell Telephone branch.

To achieve such mastery of the curative arts has not been easy. Since early September the boys have been practising and always on their own time. For the first few weeks practice sessions of three hours duration were held twice a week. By October, another night had been added, totalling nine hours each week given over to the study of first aid.

Once the fundamentals (based on the St. John Ambulance technique) had been mastered, hypothetical situations were presented by the instructor, and the team would proceed to ease the plight of the "patient."

PROBLEM

"You men have been assigned to a first-aid tent on the grounds of a large picnic. Your equipment includes a telephone, stretcher, and all the supplies of a first-aid station. A woman enters the tent and reports seeing a man, apparently unconscious and bleeding, lying in the bushes about 30 feet from the tent."

This is an example of the hypothetical situation given by the instructor. A "patient" appearing to be in the condition described is encountered by the team. The case must be diagnosed according to the symptoms the "patient" displays, and correct procedure in treatment given.

Every conclusion and subsequent action is judged by a competent referree, and the ability of the team is rated by comparison with other teams performing under the same conditions.

The local team will meet in Toronto on February 5 for the final contest. Its performance will be judged by Dr. W. H. Cruickshank, medical director of the Bell Tellephone Co., and compared with that of the Quebec team. Whatever the result, each team will enjoy a company sponsored banquet in Montreal April 2.

Ted Lake, safety supervisor of the western division of Bell Telephone, stated Thursday night, that the Peterborough team will be placed in the provincial competitions to be held next Spring.

Coach Confident Of Success At World Hockey Championships

By WALTER GRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto's East York Lyndhursts, armed with a fighting spirit and a supply of vitamin pills, leave today for Stockholm and the 1954 world hockey championships.

"And we'll be back with it," said Greg Currie, coach of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior B club, in an interview.

"It" is the world trophy, won by Canada five times in the last six years.

The 16 players making the trip were on the ice at the East York Arena Thursday trying out new skates purchased for the trip.

"Hey, take it easy fellas," yelled manager Don Preston. "We want no broken bones before we get on the boat."

The club sails on the Queen Mary from New York Saturday.

Just slamming the puck around was enough to indicate that the club, subject of a storm of criticism over its alleged weakness, was a tough, well-balanced team.

"People who haven't seen us play shouldn't comment," said Moe Galand, 23-year-old rightwinger and the club's leading scorer.

Currie believes the club's competition will come from Czechoslovakia, Sweden and Switzerland, in that order.

PLAY EUROPEAN STYLE

The Lyndhursts, whose league record this season was 23 wins, eight losses and two ties, played their last eight games European style—no body contact. Of these eight they won two, tied two and lost four.

Ben Chapman, 23-year-old defenceman, said he found it difficult becoming adjusted to the European style but "I figure we'll win the title."

The club will play 13 exhibition games in France, Italy, Switzerland, Germany and Sweden prior to the championships.

"Those games will give us a chance to let us know just how sweet we can play," Currie said. "If they want to play rough we will play rough too."

Gar Vasey, coach of the Milan, Italy club and a former member of Guelph Biltmores of the OHA Junior A series, said in recent correspondence with Currie that the Lyndhursts have nothing to worry about. Other European coaches have expressed the same opinion, Currie said.

In past performances Czechoslovakia has played a good brand of European hockey, featuring passing patterns, the closest style of game Canadian clubs used to play.

Tommy Campbell, 29-year-old defenceman and team captain summed it up:

"Czechoslovakia and Sweden may be the teams to beat but we're going to win."

Saqueneens Beat Sherbrooke 4-3

CHICOUTIMI, Que. (CP) — Chicoutimi Sagueneens Thursday night rapped in two goals in the second period to edge Sherbrooke Saints 4-3 in a Quebec Hockey League game.

With the score tied 2-2 going into the second, Pete Tkachuk hammered home a tally midway through to put the Sagueneens ahead, while Red Leger scored what proved to be the winning tally four minutes later.

Jacques Locas and Fern Perreault got Chicoutimi's other scores while Al Arbour, John Bownass and Nellie Podolsky connected for the Saints.

Rural Tie Games

NORWOOD—(ENS)—In rural hockey games here Thursday night, two draws resulted in keen action. Westwood and Hastings drew 2-2 as Norwood and South Dummer fought it out to a 4-all tie in fairly rugged encounters.

Frank Lynch scored for Westwood, with Bob Wilson assisting, nd Rex Warr got their other one. Jack Crowley counted both for Hastings with Alex McMillen having one assist. Play was speedy and rather rough in spots. Teams:

Westwood: Humphries, J. Lynch, Warner, F. Lynch, Wilson, Warr, Bullied, McMillen, Cardwell, Post, Green.

Hastings: Montgomery, Lockhart, McCoy, Copeland, Radford, McMillen, Crowley, West, Cook.

In the other game, Peoples and Wilford notched two each for Norwood, Coughlin getting two assists, and VanVolkenburg one. For South Dummer, Clements and Bott tallied in the second period, with Thompson aiding once, and Chamberlain clicked for two in the third. Plenty of penalties marked this one, especially in the last half. Teams:

Norwood: Sinson, Wrightly, Brown, Coughlin, LaBrash, Peoples, VanVolkenburg, Cuthbertson, Wilford, Courtney.

S. Dummer: A. Love, Sedgewick, W. Love. Clement, Bott, Ivey, Lunn, Chamberlain, Moore, Thompson, Jones.

Two-Hole Lead First Round Women's Golf

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Betsy Rawls of Spartanburg, S.C. shot even par 75 Thursday for a two-hole lead after the first round of the $5,000 Tampa women's open golf tournament.

Tied at 77 came two more professionals, Babe Zaharias of Tampa and Jackie Pung of Honolulu, and amateur Polly Riley of Fort Worth, Tex.

Defending champion Louise Suggs, who shot the front nine in 36, best of the day, went to pieces on the back nine, taking a 43. Her first round 79 put her in a tie for ninth in the 72-hole tournament.

Marlene Stewart of Fonthill, Ont., British and Canadian amateur champion, had her troubles in the opening round and posted a five-over-par 80 to tie for 11th place.

ROUNDS OF 40-40

Marlene had nine-hole rounds of 40-40. Women's par is 38-37 for the 6,093-yard Palma Ceica course.

Playing in the threesome with pro Betty Bush of Hammond, Ind., and pro Betty MacKinnon of Dallas, Tex., Marlene had trouble with her putting and chipping. On several holes she underclubbed and got into trouble.

She birdied the 211-yard par-three 13th but took two over par on the 14th.

She was pleased with her driving but said she will get out early Friday and work on her chip shots, especially those from the edge of the green to the cup.

England Beaten In First Test

KINGSTON, Jamaica (Reuters)—The West Indies beat England in the first test cricket match by 140 runs after a dramatic collapse by England's middle batsmen here Thursay. The score was West Indies 417 and 209 for six declared and England 170 and 316.

England went to lunch needing 180 more runs with seven wickets left on the last day of the six-day match.

But in the second over after the interval, little Sonny Ramadhin began a collapse which saw six England wickets crash in 36 minutes for only three runs.

MUSIAL SIGNS

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The signing of outfielder Stan Musial, highest paid player in the National League and winner of the league's hitting crown six times, was announced Thursday by St. Louis Cardinals.

His contract is believed to call for about $80,000, the same as for the last three seasons. That probably will make Musial's salary the biggest in the major leagues with the possible exception of Ted Williams, who returned from military duty late last season to Boston Red Sox of the American League.

The contract was for one year. Neither Musial nor the management would disclose terms of the contract, but Musial said he took no cut from last year.

✦ ✦ ✦

MATHEWS COMES TO TERMS

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Milwaukee Braves owner Lou Perini and his prize young slugger, Eddie Mathews, agreed on salary terms for 1954 Thursday during a 20-minute automobile ride from their hotel to the Milwaukee airport.

"He's getting a substantial increase," said general manager John Quinn, who presided at the talk between the owner and star infielder as he drove the car on the seven-mile trip. The agreement ended Mathews' threat of a holdout. The best guess on the major league home run king's salary for next season is about $25,000.

✦ ✦ ✦

COACH SIGNS FOR YEAR

DETROIT (AP)—Buddy Parker, who has guided Detroit Lions to two straight National Football League titles, Thursday expressed satisfaction over a new one-year contract.

Parker and Lions officials reached agreement on the contract after a brief meeting. Parker was undismayed that the contract was for just one year.

"I'm perfectly satisfied," Parker declared. "This will be my 20th season in the league and I've never had a contract longer than one year."

✦ ✦ ✦

MARTINEZ FAVORED

NEW YORK (CP)—Vince Martinez, boxing's rookie of the year in 1952, will be a 12-to-6 favorite tonight when he meets Rocky Casillo in their 10-round televised welterweight match.

Martinez streaked into the higher ranks of his class by 13 straight victories until defeated by Chico Vejar last March but has won his last five bouts. Since 1945, he has won 32 matches and lost three.

Casillo has won 26 of 29.

✦ ✦ ✦

SOCCER BETTING UP

LONDON (CP)—The government reported Thursday Britons bet a record $190,400,000 on football pools during the last soccer season.

It bettered the previous mark of $163,800,000 wagered during 1952.

The government's tax bite on the huge outlay was $57,120,000. The government takes 30 per cent of the gross play but the prizes won by the bettors are tax-free.

"War Is On" Says NFL Canadians Not Worried

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

In an age of undeclared wars, the commissioner of the National Football League was formal to the point of bluntness.

Not for him the evasion that it might be a "police action." He said:

"The war is on."

Thus did Bert Bell launch the latest move to stop star players from succumbing to the lure of Canadian football and big pay cheques.

In an unprecedented statement since Canadian football clubs started signing American imports years ago, Bell said in Philadelphia Thursday that the NFL will fight fire with fire because Canadian leagues are "again breaching contracts."

It came a few hours after Arnie Weinmeister, one of the best tackles in United States professional football, signed a two-year contract with British Columbia Lions of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

"BREACHED CONTRACTS"

The Canadian reaction: "We don't care."

Bell didn't pull any punches.

"Weinmeister is under contract to New York Giants. The Canadian leagues have again breached our contracts. They had better start counting their players."

The Giants went further. Club president John V. Mara threatened legal action because, he said, the 30-year-old Weinmeister was under option to play with them. The club had already told Weinmeister of exercising the option.

Not so, said coach Annis Stukus of the Lions, whose entry into the WIFU is expected to be made final at the union's annual meeting in Regina this week-end.

"As far as Weinmeister and the Lions are concerned, we feel that we have fulfilled all obligations concerning the Giants. He told them at the close of the season that he would not be back and that he was retiring from the National Football League."

Said Norm Perry, of Sarnia, Ont., president of the Canadian Rugby Union:

"I'm glad to know that Bell has given us some recognition and now we probably can sit down with him and talk things over.

NOT WORRIED

"The National Football League has ignored us up to this time."

Bill Ross, president of Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four, commented:

"We've heard this talk and threat about war before."

Ed O'Connor, president of Calgary Stampeders of the WIFU, said:

"I'm not a bit worried."

The Lions did not disclose the amount of Weinmeister's contract. They just said he "would be one of the highest-paid players ever to play in Canada."

Weinmeister, a six-foot-four, 235-pound tackle, was with the Giants for the last four years. A native of Rhein, Sask., he is reported to have made the move to Vancouver because of the closeness of the Canadian city and Seattle, where he now lives, and the fact that he didn't like playing with the Giants.

Bilarik Has Win In Third Round

SARNIA (CP) — Sam Pilarik, Sarnia middleweight, assaulted Hector Ross of Windsor with a flurry of head blows to take a third-round technical knockout in an amateur boxing card here Wednesday night.

Pilarik, winner in his first Golden Gloves bout at Port Huron, Mich., last Saturday, entered the ring at 159 pounds, one pound less than his opponent. He was awarded the fight at 125 of the third.

Excellent Skiing Reported In Ontario

TORONTO (CP)—Skiing is reported excellent in five Ontario areas — Flesherton-Markdale, Larder lake, North Bay, Sudbury-Levack, and Sundridge.

Good skiing was reported at Gravenhurst, Haileybury, Owen Sound, and Muskoka's Sinclair township. Skiing is fair at Bracebridge, Brimmacombe, Huntsville, Kirkland Lake, and Midland; and poor to fair in the bush at Collingwood, Orangeville-Hockley and Raglan.

January is the Month for Comstock's Bargains

A SALE OF REGULAR STOCK FURNITURE DURING

COMSTOCK'S JANUARY CLEARANCE

At Savings that will Surprise You!

Yes, January is the month of bargains. That's because we clear out the slower selling furnishings to make way for newer designs. Sometimes we buy too many of a popular item and have several left to sell out. In many cases the items listed here are from our regular stock but some have been purchased from the manufacturers at attractive discounts. Each year we pass these savings on to you during our January Furniture Sale.

There is a new convenience built into furniture these days. Bedroom furniture is roomier, Chesterfields are more comfortable and more colourful. Finishes are lighter, easier to care for. Buy in January and get new furniture you want at real January Bargains. Whether you are furnishing a new home or trading in your old furniture, be sure and see the January Savings at Comstock's.

Three Bodies Found In Burnt Plane

FORT FRANCES (CP) — The charred remains of three persons were found Thursday in the wreckage of a light plane, believed to have crashed two days ago in the international border area 50 miles east of here.

The wreckage was spotted by two men flying over the area in a ski-equipped plane.

Positive identification has not yet been made. The victims are believed to be R. J. Fox, 56, of Excelsior, Minn., Bert Langford, 40, of Fort Frances and Mrs. Mae Dutcher of Kettle Falls.

Cause of the crash was not known. Police said the plane, a ski-equipped Piper super-cub, apparently crashed Tuesday because tracks it made in the snow had been obliterated.

The aircraft had not been reported missing. An aerial search was started Thursday after Mr. Langford's mother said she feared there had been a crash.

Checking Curriculum

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Education Minister J. B. Chalker says his department is studying the aim of putting it "on a more comprehensive and organized basis." He did not forecast possible changes but said it would take some time "to effect major improvements."

Adult Education

VANCOUVER (CP)—Noting that more than 4,000 adults in Vancouver now attend night schools for voluntary education in many fields, Dr. J. K. Friesen, director of the University of British Columbia education department, said "Adult education is the key to freedom because it teaches people to think clearly on the issues of the day."

Industrialist Dies

PORT COLBORNE (CP)—Frederick L. Woods, 50-year-old industrialist, collapsed and died in the police office Thursday as he was about to make out a report on a minor accident in which he was involved earlier. He was president of the Lakeside Foundry Limited.

Police said he suffered no apparent injuries in the accident.

War Relic

GRAND FALLS, Nfld. (CP)—A sandbag used by the Royal Newfoundland Regiment in the Battle of Beaumont Hamel during the First World War has been presented to the Canadian Legion club here by Joseph Goodyear, former club president. He found it on the old battlefield during a visit to France last year.

MARCHING TOWARD FREEDOM — Anti-Communist ex-Red Army soldiers carry signs and banners as they march to freedom at Panmunjom, Korea. After a final chance to choose repatriation, these ex-PoWs elected to take up a new life in South Korea and Formosa. Only 31 North Koreans and 49 Chinese, out of a total of 22,000 prisoners, declined the UN offer to enter South Korea.

BOARDING THE FREEDOM TRAIN— RoK soldiers help their former enemies, North Koreans who rejected Communism, aboard a freight car at Panmunjom, Korea. The men are part of the 22,000 ex-soldiers of the Red Army who refused repatriation to Communism.

John Watkins First Envoy To Russia Since 1946

OTTAWA (CP)—John B. C. Watkins, 51-year-old bachelor, is to be Canada's first ambassador to Russia since 1946.

He will be replaced as Canadian minister to Norway and Iceland by Chester A. Ronning, 59, married and the father of six children. Mr. Ronning has recently served as head of the Far Eastern and Commonwealth divisions in the external affairs department here.

The department also announced Thursday that Robert A. D. Ford, 39, charge d'affaires in Moscow since 1951, will return to Ottawa. His new job was not announced, but he may head the European division.

Mr. Watkins, a native of Norval, Ont., who joined the external affairs department only 7½ years ago, is expected to assume his Moscow post next month. Mr. Ronning will reach Oslo in early April.

RECALLED BY KREMLIN

When operations of a Russian spy ring were uncovered in Canada in 1946, the Kremlin recalled Georgi Zaroubin, Soviet ambassador to Canada. The royal commission on espionage later found that Zaroubin, now Russian ambassador to Washington, had no knowledge of the spy ring though cipher clerk Igor Gouzenko fled the embassy here with documents exposing it.

Canada recalled ambassador Dana Wilgress from Moscow about the same time.

Last fall, Dmitri Chuvahin arrived here as Russian ambassador to Canada and the Canadian government said it would consider filling the Moscow vacancy.

Mr. Watkins was educated at the University of Toronto and Cornell University and was secretary of the American-Scandinavian Foundation in New York from 1930 to 1945. He was associate professor of history at the University of Manitoba for one year and joined the external affairs department in 1946.

He served as Canadian charge d'affaires in Moscow from 1948 to 1951, when he returned to Ottawa to direct the European division. He was appointed Canadian minister to Norway and Iceland in October, 1952.

TAUGHT IN CHINA

Mr. Ronning, born at Fancheng, Hupeh, China, was educated at the Universities of Alberta and Minnesota and, after a year's service in the Royal Flying Corps in the First World War, took up teaching in Edmonton. He later taught at his birthplace in China.

He was principal of Camrose, Alta., collegiate from 1927 to 1942 and served in the RCAF from then until 1945, when he joined the external affairs department. He served in the Canadian embassy in Nanking for more than five years and returned to Ottawa in 1951.

Mr. Ford, a native of Ottawa, was educated at the University of Western Ontario and Cornell University and joined the external affairs department in 1940. Since then, he has served at Rio de Janeiro, London, Moscow and Ottawa.

Car Plunges 150 Feet

HAMILTON (CP)—A car went out of control on a patch of ice Thursday and plunged 150 feet over the brow of Hamilton mountain. Its occupants, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Carmen Richards, who had just bought the car, suffered severe injuries. Police said the car bounced down the embankment until it finally came to rest against a large tree.

New City Hall Opened

OSHAWA (CP)—Premier Frost Thursday officiated at the opening of Oshawa's new $475,000 city hall, a building that looks like a miniature of the United Nations building in New York. The building is part of a planned civic square. For years the city business was conducted in crowded offices of the public utilities commission.

Rare Editions

HALIFAX (CP)—The Dalhousie University library has discovered three rare editions of an early Halifax almanac in its storehouse. The works dated 1794, 1798 and 1801 were printed for German settlers along Nova Scotia's south shore by printer Anthony Henry.

Lakevale Ladies' Aid Plan Making Quilts

FOWLER'S CORNERS (ENS)—The Lakevale Ladies Aid held their first meeting of the New Year at the home of Mr. David McAdam on Wednesday with the new president Mrs. Bruce Scott in the chair.

The other officers for 1954 are as follows: vice-president, Mrs. Moncrieff; secretary, Mrs. Blackbourn; treasurer, Mrs. M. Deyell; flower committee, Mrs. W. Richmond and Mrs. K. Nurse; phone committee, Mrs. H. Fowler and Mrs. R. McAdam; press reporter, Mrs. R. McAdam.

After an address given by Mrs. Robertson, entitled the "New Birth", solos were given by Mrs. Stewart Mitchell accompanied at the piano by her daughter, Miss Betty Mitchel and Mrs. William Richmond.

Scripture reading was given by two young visitors of the evening Miss Barbara McAdam and Miss Betty Mitchell.

Cards of thanks were received from Mrs. Sid Tully and Mrs. Ross Smith.

Plans were discussed for the making of quilts in the near future.

A vote of thanks was moved by Mrs. Scott to Mrs. McAdam for the use of her home.

The meeting then came to a close with lunch being served by the hostess and the lunch committee.

Rare Catch

BIRSAY, Sask. (CP) — Charlie Parkhirst captured a whistling swan and shipped it to the provincial museum at Regina. The swan was caught at Lucky lake when Parkhirst and his companions crept up and threw a blanket over it.

TO TRAVEL WITH DUKE—Campbell Moodie, counsellor at the Canadian high commissioner's office in London, will accompany the Duke of Edinburgh when he visits Canada this summer. Mr. Moodie has been appointed Canadian assistant private secretary to the Duke for the visit. A native of Capetown, Mr. Moodie studied at McGill University and served with the wartime information board in London during the Second World War.

County Treasurer Reports Surplus Of $21,436 In 1953

County council wound up the year 1953 with a fat $21,436 surplus, in sharp contrast with the year before when they had a $524 deficit.

This welcome report was read to county council Thursday afternoon, during the third day of the inaugural session, by Mrs. J. A. Spurway, county clerk and treasurer.

Mrs. Spurway conceded that the large surplus was a combination of good luck and good management.

First of all, the cost of paying jurors on county and Supreme Court cases was some $6,800 less than was estimated at the beginning of the year.

Children's Aid was also down $2,600.

Hospitalization for indigent patients was $5,100 less than was estimated.

Education costs were $2,468 less than were estimated. And there were a number of other savings.

Another help was the fact that the county roads account, which often goes into the red, just about broke even in 1953. It all added up to a $21,436 surplus that will be carried over into the 1954 account.

Following is the statement of revenue and expenditures:

Historic Trails

REGINA (CP)—Some of the historic trails across Saskatchewan will be marked this year by the historic sites branch of the Saskatchewan golden jubilee committee. One of them is the Fort Pelly-Fort Livingstone route, traversed in the early days by Red River carts and ox-drawn wagons.

Coffee Hike Protested

WASHINGTON (AP) —Attorney-General Herbert Brownell told a press conference Thursday that the justice department has received some complaints about recent advances in coffee prices in the United States. He said these have been referred to the anti-trust division for study.

HOMEWARD BOUND—Joe and Margaret Bell and their children, Wayne, 3, and Jay, 2, arrive in Calgary on their way to Luenburg, N.S. Joe, jobless for 18 months in British Columbia, wanted to return home but went broke. Anonymous donors provided the fare from Vancouver to Lunenburg for the Bells who feared they would have to make the transcontinental journey by hitch-hiking.

Roslin Rector Speaks At Stirling Service

STIRLING—(ENS)—The special preached at St. John's church on Sunday evening was the Rev. T. B. Purvis of Roslin. Mr. Purvis came from England last year to make his home in Canada.

After the service, the men's association met in the memorial hall, when Mr. Purvis gave a short address on the heritage of the Church of England and the need for the building up of the church in Canada.

Mr. George Noble conducted a business meeting, and Mr. Seeker presided for the election of officers which resulted as follows: president, Roy Mallory; vice-president, Ralph Andrews; secretary-treasurer, Stewart McArten.

Chaplin Studio Undergoing Transformation

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Charlie Chaplin would scarcely recognize his old studio. The Hollywood landmark is getting a face-lifting.

The last time I visited the Chaplin studios was when the comic was shooting "Limelight." The place was quiet, old and musty, a throwback to the casual days of the silents.

I went back again this week to find a transformation taking place. Workmen were noisily converting the drab offices into modern rooms with the latest styles in equipment. Over the noise of the hammers, general manager David Garber told me that Chaplin sold the lot to a New York real estate firm for $650,000. The company has given a 10-year lease to Kling Studios, a commercial art concern branching out into TV. Stanley Kramer, again an independent producer, will also have offices there.

Garber introduced me to Eddie Mann, a Chaplin employee for seven years. Mann showed me around the lot, much of which is still a wonderland of Chaplin lore.

First stop was the leading lady's dressing room. It was first created for Edna Purviance, then made over for Paulette Goddard. Among the later occupants were Martha Raye and Claire Bloom. It was a roomy place, but the faded maroon drapes and wicker furniture made it look like a second-class hotel room.

MEMORY ROOM

On the sidewalk outside were the duck-walk footprints of the famous Chaplin brogans. They led to the sound stage, where a block of cement records Chaplin's signature and the date the studio opened, Jan. 21, 1918. Legend says it was here Sid Grauman got his idea of having stars' print in the cement before his Chinese Theatre.

The prop room would stir memories of any movie fan. I found the baby carriage Jackie Coogan was wheeled in for "The Kid," snowshows from "The Gold Rush," a shell from "Shoulder arms," the huge wooden gears from "Modern Times," the defendant's stand used in "Monsieur Verdoux," and double-cross insignia of "The Great Dictator."

"Between pictures—and he only made them every five years or so—Charlie would come to the studio only twice a year," Mann said. "He'd be here once in the summer and once before Christmas—to see that those on the payroll got their Christmas cheques. He kept many old-timers on salary for years. This business (government's refusal of a re-entry permit) hasn't been as tough on him as it has on his employees."

Mann showed me Chaplin's dressing room, a wooden building with a drab interior. "Charlie was like that—he didn't believe in anything fancy," Mann remarked. The closet contained the comic's tramp costume, which is being sent to him in Switzerland, along with the prints of his pictures and the furniture from his Beverly Hills home.

Near the dressing room was a mass of wood debris. It had been a large backdrop supported by telephone poles, which snapped in the last big wind—Termites.

HELMETED AGAINST FEAR—Jimmy Brown, son of a Navy corpsman stationed at the Naval Medical Centre, Bethesda, Md., models the "space helmet" in which he pioneered the first "blast off" from surgery for young spacemen. Lt. J. G. Morrow explains use of the helmet, which helps eliminate fears many children associate with administration of anesthesia. As the doctor fits the helmet to the child, he explains that oxygen is being supplied in preparation for a trip through "space"—and quick, fear-free oblivion for the young patient is said to follow.

Union Asks Return Relief Money

SARNIA (CP)—A union which gave $1,500 to the Sarnia tornado relief fund Thursday asked for the return of the unspent part of its donation because "we disapprove payment of these contributions to other than what the fund was established for."

The request came as a result of arguments between city council and the tornado fund committee over disposal of $35,000 left in the fund after individual claims were paid.

The fund committee proposed to pay businesses and uninsured automobile owners 75 per cent of their losses. City council said the money should be turned over to the city for possible future disasters.

No solution of the differences has been announced.

"NOT OUR CONSIDERATION"

The letter to the mayor and council from Local 14, United Chemical Workers (CIO-CCL) said "businesses and cars were not our consideration" when the union made the donation. It asked council, "before the council places any monies contributed for tornado welfare into the city funds," to return the unspent part of the union donation "so that it may be used to aid our own members in distress."

The fund committee said it will meet Mayor W. C. Nelson and city council today to suggest arbitration of the problem of what to do with the $35,000.

It was suggested a two-man board which would elect a third member and rule on the dispute. A public hearing would be called to allow anyone to make representations.

The tornado relief fund was collected after a twister swept through Sarnia last May, damaging many homes and businesses.

TRANSCONTINENTAL RIDE — When Bill Martsch's doctor told him 20 months ago to quit work because of a lung ailment, he started out on an 11,500-mile horseback ride. It took him from Kitchener, Ont., to Halifax, then to Vancouver and back to Kitchener. The panel on left shows the clean-shaven Martsch as he started out on Rocky, his mount. On the right he is shown with the beard and long hair he vowed not to cut until he finished his ride. Travelling in temperatures ranging from 104 degrees to 32 below zero, he didn't have a single cold.

Unions Announce Agreement With CPR Co.

MONTREAL (CP) — Two railway brotherhoods Thursday announced an agreement has been reached with Canadian Pacific Railway Company covering the payment of union dues by employees in the railway's eastern division.

The agreement was announced by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, both independent unions.

Details of the agreement were not disclosed but it was learned that the railway agreed to withhold from service any man who does not pay dues to the brotherhoods. The effect will be that all firemen and engineers will have to pay union dues whether they belong to the union or not.

The unions collect their own dues from railway employees, hereafter, when a man is reported in arrears on his dues, the railway will arrange for him to pay or stop him from working.

The agreement, it was learned, is expected to settle a jurisdictional dispute between the two brotherhoods. The brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen recently announced that its membership had voted in favor of strike action to back its stand in the dispute.

The brotherhood claimed that it should retain the right to represent firemen temporarily raised to the rank of engineer.

The division covered by the agreement stretches from the Maritimes to Port Arthur.

May Restrict Use Coastal Waters

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada is expected to tighten restrictions on the use of Canadian coastal waters by Commonwealth shipping before the St. Lawrence seaway gets into operation.

The so-called coastal area, in which Commonwealth vessels now can ply freely between Canadian ports, probably will be redefined to exclude the St. Lawrence river and the Great Lakes from free access in this trade.

The move would be a protection for Canadian merchant shipping, which will be open to stiffer competition from low-cost British craft once large ocean-going vessels can move up the proposed deep waterway into the lakes.

Canadian authorities also are known to be giving some thought to the question of a suggested treaty with the United States to allow only ships of these two countries to engage in international Canada-U.S. trade in the lake-river area. Senator Charles Potter (Rep.-Mich.) has stated President Eisenhower approves such a treaty concurrently with the seaway.

More Soviet News During 1953

NEW YORK (AP) — The Associated Press succeeded "in producing more news out of Russia in 1953 than in any year since the Second World War," AP president Robert McLean said Thursday.

"This was coincident with the death of Stalin—the most electric story out of Russia—but it also reflected staff enterprise, some unusual co-operation of AP members and some easing of restrictions by the Soviet government," McLean said.

McLean's statement was issued at the close of the mid-winter meeting of the board of directors of The Associated Press, worldwide news-gathering co-operative.

"Censorship and other barriers to a free exchange of information continue to darken a large part of the world," he said. "Despite these handicaps, the year just closed was a notable one for news."

AP member newspapers in the United States totalled 1,733 at the close of the year, an increase of eight over last year. There were 1,264 radio members, an increase of 79. Outside the United States, the number of users of some form of AP service increased from 3,138 to 3,708.

4-Power Committee Complete Discussions

BERLIN (Reuters) — A four-power technical committee today completed discussions on all principal arrangements for the Big Four foreign ministers' conference here next week.

A joint communique issued after the meeting at United States headquarters said: "Basic agreement was reached on the questions of administration, security, communications and the press. The remaining details will be resolved by direct consultation between the individual experts concerned."

Details of the agreement were not immediately known.

Criticism Given Drama Players

WINDSOR (CP) — The London Little Theatre's presentation of "The Cocktail Party" by T. S. Eliot, was credible stage craft but on too low a dramatic plane, Graham Suter said Thursday night.

The British actor and producer, adjudicating five plays in the Western Ontario Drama Festival, had little good to say about the production by last year's winners.

Mr. Suter said it is a matter of urgency that the players learn to project their voices.

The first act of the play was light and speedy but colorless, he said. It was credible stage craft but dull because the audience could not hear it.

He said Muriel Thompson as "Julia" had a good idea of the character and a good sense of humor but when she wasn't gay, she was dull. Jill Millsap as "Celia" needed more variety in her attack and less monotony in her voice, the adjudicator said.

"In spite of the harsh things I have had to say, I salute the enterprise of the actors and company in tackling such a play," said Mr. Suter.

250 Friends Give Party For Newlyweds

FENELLA (ENS). — Approximately 250 friends, neighbors and relatives from Fenella, Burnley, and surrounding communities gathered at the Community Hall, Fenella, recently to honor Mr. and Mrs. Jack Blodgett (nee Mrs. Florence Hutchison), who were married recently.

After an evening of dancing, the couple heard an address read by Stanley Hutchison, and were presented with a mirror, a wool blanket, two dresser lamps and a bed lamp by Mrs. Stanley Hutchison, Mrs. J. McVety and Elmer Sherwin, on behalf of the Fenella and Burnley charivari groups. The couple were also given a purse of money. Arnold McBride did a step dance, and Jean Elder and Shirley Ferguson did a dual tap dance. Later lunch was served.

A charivari for Mr. and Mrs. Blodgett was held at Mr. Blodgett's home earlier in the week. Cards were played and lunch was served, and on Wednesday evening a charivari was held for the couple in Bowmanton school.

Final Reading Given VON Incorporation Bill

OTTAWA (CP) — The Senate Thursday gave final reading to a bill to incorporate the Victorian Order of Nurses.

The bill, sponsored by Senator N. M. Paterson (L—Ontario), outlines the purposes of the VON and defines its powers and membership. It still must be approved by the Commons.

The Senate passed the bill after a committee of the upper chamber had studied it in detail.

Boy Killed By Bus

TORONTO (CP)—David Kamins, 9, Thursday became Toronto's fourth traffic victim of the year when he was struck by a bus while running home from school. Police said the boy was running for a safety island when he was struck by a Stratford-bound bus driven by Percy Langford, 59, of Stratford. They said Langford, a veteran of 30 years' driving experience, couldn't continue the trip and had to be relieved by another driver.

Ask Regulations Be Extended To Foreign Ships

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que. (CP)—A joint committee of the Lake Carriers Association of the United States and the Dominion Marine Association Thursday passed a resolution asking the governments of the two countries to impose the same navigation regulations on foreign ships as now apply to Canadian and American ships in the inland waterways.

Captains have complained that foreign ships, once they pass Father Point, Que., take on only one pilot for the full trip through the lakes. The ships, for that reason are forced to operate on a daylight basis and frequently delay Canadian and American ships in passing through the canals. The captains also said the safety factor is involved. Canadian and American ships carry at least three pilots for the various stages through the St. Lawrence river and the Great Lakes.

Two other joint committees approved the draft of a brief asking the governments of Canada and the U.S. to protect the inland shipping industry of the two countries against "unfair" competition of foreign vessels.

The resolution and the draft brief go before a joint meeting of the two associations and are expected to be approved.

Hans Fread is a renowned baking authority. He stars in his television show "Hans in the Kitchen" every Tuesday night from 10:30 to 11:00 on CBLT Toronto and CBFT Montreal. His restaurant, the Sign of the Steer, in Toronto, is one of Canada's best-known restaurants.

Hans Fread says-

"At the Sign of the Steer we always bake with MONARCH FLOUR"

"People keep coming back for our Pastries and Cakes Because Monarch Flour Makes Them Deliciously Light and Tender.

"We meet all kinds of people at the Sign of the Steer. It's our job to keep them all well-fed and happy. Often it's a rewarding job. For instance:

'Your order, sir?' asked one of our waitresses.
'Just sirloin steak and plenty of it,' came the gruff reply.
'Any dessert, sir?'
'No.'

"But when he had finished his sirloin steak he called the waitress and ordered Viennese pastry.

"He liked it. In fact, he ordered more! Later, he explained his abrupt behaviour. He was a travelling salesman who had developed an intense dislike toward the flat taste and soggy texture of what he called 'Restaurant Baking'. He knew we were famous for beef—but he didn't know we baked pastries and cakes that 'taste as though they came from home.'

"We've received many favourable comments on our baking. And we feel much of the credit is due to Monarch Cake and Pastry Flour. We've found that Monarch is a consistently fine flour—specially milled from soft Ontario Wheat. This makes it perfectly suited to get the best out of all non-yeast recipes. People enjoy light, tender cakes, and smooth, flaky pastries at the Sign of the Steer—because we always bake with Monarch Flour!"

You too will find in your kitchen Monarch Cake and Pastry Flour is perfect for all non-yeast baking. Buy a bag next time you're shopping.

1. Which English Monarch reigned during World War II?
2. Which English Monarch was Queen Victoria's son?
3. Which Monarch was the first Sovereign Queen of England?
4. Which English Queen reigned longer than any other English Monarch?

Enclose the lion's head cut from a bag of Monarch Flour with your entry and mail it to "January Contest", Maple Leaf Milling Co., 12 Monarch Road, Toronto. Entries must be postmarked not later than midnight Jan. 31st, 1954. Prizewinners will be the first fifty correct entries drawn, and will be notified by mail within 14 days after closing date. This contest is limited to Canadian residents. Employees of Maple Leaf Milling Company, Ltd., its advertising agency and their families are ineligible.

MONARCH CAKE AND PASTRY FLOUR

Isolationism Wrong, Say U.S. Ministers

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the prominent tenets being preached from pulpits in the United States today is this: That a nation, like a man, should not always do as it pleases.

Around this view revolves a basic issue of the times. It has stirred wide discussion, usually under the labels of "internationalism" versus "nationalism."

Hundreds of religious leaders have entered the fray, asserting that a fundamental law of God is involved.

Most of them hold that a nation's decisions should be guided by the interests of all peoples everywhere. But they grant many Americans see national self-interest as the governing rule.

"There is mounting evidence," says a recent interdenominational report, "of a resurgent . . . moral isolationism which fails to recognize our dependence on other peoples or our responsibility to them."

SAY ISOLATIONISM WRONG

Such an attitude, denominational leaders say, is contrary to "God's order."

All this touches on some currently acute matters, such as foreign aid programs and co-operative projects of the United Nations. But it also raises some general questions concerning "national sovereignty."

Representatives of most major churches, at a recent conference, declared a nation should recognize it is "bound together in mutual responsibility with all others whom God made and loves."

"The key word for this generation," they said, "is neither dependence nor independence but interdependence."

WHAT BIBLE SAYS

1. God is the supreme sovereign of all nations, and has set forth universal laws applicable to all.

2. Among these laws is the equal worth of all men under God. He plays no favorites.

3. A nation, to abide by this universal law, must give consideration to the welfare of all lands and peoples. Otherwise, it "falls short of the ethical demands of the Christian faith."

These factors, as church leaders see it, mean a nation's policies should be "broad enough to include the rights, needs and interests of other nations and peoples, including those we now count as hostile."

FOREIGN AND ENDORSED

The churchmen, using biblical doctrine, also make a case for generous foreign aid programs. The reasoning went like this:

1. A nation's power, technological skills and natural resources "are a trust from God."

2. Since these gifts come from God, they should be used in His interests, which includes all mankind.

3. Furthermore, "plenty for the few and want for the many cannot be reconciled with the law of love . . . the moral obligation to feed the hungry and heal the sick is not rendered inoperative by geographical distance."

Witnesses Get Permit

TORONTO (CP) — Mr. Justice D. C. Wells Thursday ordered the Toronto suburb of Weston to allow the town's Jehovah's Witness congregation to build a church on the site of its choice. The town had argued that a building permit should not be granted because the congregation wanted to build in a residential area. Mr. Justice Wells said the church would not destroy the area's residential nature.

May Proceed Without Quebec In Navigation Development

QUEBEC (CP)—Transport Minister Chevrier said Thursday night the federal government will proceed alone with a deep navigation development in the St. Lawrence river's Lachine section if the Quebec government does not join it in a power-shipping project.

The proposed undertaking would be part of the downriver works of the St. Lawrence seaway. The navigation works in the Lachine area would cost around $98,000,000 on the last estimate made public, while the 1,200,000-horsepower development would cost more than $270,000,000.

Mr. Chevrier, in an address prepared for delivery before the Canadian Electrical Association, said two alternatives are being considered for the Lachine section just above Montreal harbor.

The first, solely for navigation, would be a two-lock canal system to accommodate ships of 27-foot draught. It would follow close to the south shore of Lake St. Louis. The federal government would build it alone.

The second alternative would have Quebec harness the 1,200,000 horsepower of hydro current with the federal government building the canals. It also would follow the south shore.

Mr. Chevrier said he does not know now which will be selected, but he said the power-navigation project appeared to be the most practical choice, in view of the growing industrial development of Montreal.

EARLY START

Dealing with the waterway generally, Mr. Chevrier reiterated that Canada proposes to build the navigation works alone from Montreal into Lake Erie. He expressed the hope construction can start next summer if court obstacles in the United States are cleared away.

"The government is determined to construct an all-Canadian seaway as soon as these hurdles are overcome," he said.

"At the same time, we are committed to consider any firm proposal for United States consideration that would not upset present power plans and would not unduly delay completion of the seaway.

"Congress has such a measure before it even now, but its prospects are most uncertain, especially in the House of Representatives."

(The seaway bill was adopted in the U.S. Senate Wednesday night. The House has yet to act on concurrent legislation.)

Two Officers Charged After Kenya Whipping

NAKARU, Kenya (Reuters)—Two white police reservists were indicted today on charges of assault and causing bodily harm to Mau Mau suspects by flogging them with a rhinoceros hide whip.

The men, Michael Sawyer, 31, and Dennis Pharazyn, 29, were freed on bail pending the opening of their trial. Sawyer was indicted on one charge and Pharazyn on eight.

One African witness said he was told to lie across a dead snake while being flogged.

Narcotics Siezed

TORONTO (CP) — Police said nearly 1,000 narcotic pills were seized Thursday when they captured Joseph Kikola, 35, of Windsor after a break-in at a suburban Willowdale drug store. A second man escaped. Kikola was charged with shopbreaking and illegal possession of narcotics.

Dragging Market For Cattle At Toronto Sale

TORONTO (CP)—Early trading on a dragging market saw all classes of slaughter cattle except bulls under pressure at the Ontario stockyards this week. Volume increased Tuesday strengthening all grades except cows and heifers—down 50 cents from the market's opening. Wednesday brought a cleanup with orders for top quality slaughter steers unfilled. Veal calves were steady; hogs were steady to 50 cents lower while sows remained unchanged. Sheep and lambs were active at steady prices.

A cattle run of 7,022 head, including 900 westerns, was added to 600 carried from last week. Choice light steers $19-20; good light steers $18-19; mediums sold downward to $17; plain light steers and heifers $10; choice weighty steers $19-20; good weighty steers $18-19; mediums downward to $17; common as low as $14; good heifers mostly $17; few $17.50, mediums downward to $16. Good cows mostly $11-11.50; few light heifery cows $12.

Good bulls steady at $12-13; plain light bulls $9-11.50; Choice fed yearlings $21-22; good fed yearlings $20-21; mediums downward to $17; Few stockers $13-18, according to quality.

Calves totalled 1,358 head. Good to choice vealers $26-28; few tops $29; common to medium $15-25; grassers $11-13.

Hogs were 2,104 head. Grade A $35.50; dressed sows $25.

Sheep and lambs totalled 713 head with good lambs steady at $23-24; common $15-22; good light sheep $8-10; common sheep downward to $4.

Radio Service For Shipping

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que. (CP)—Canadian and American shipowners decided Thursday to go ahead with a new weather broadcasting service for ships in the Great Lakes March 15.

A joint meeting of the Dominion Marine Association and the United States Lake Carrier Association accepted offers of a broadcasting channel by the Canadian and U.S. governments.

Weather reports have been broadcast by two Canadian and two American stations, but interference from other broadcasts made a separate channel desirable, delegates said.

The Lake Carriers Association will recommend to its members that they install equipment to receive the broadcasts on channel 39. The U.S. government will be asked to supplement weather broadcasts on channel 30 until the new channel goes into operation.

BRT Consolidates Grip On Railway

OTTAWA (CP)—The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen (Ind.) Wednesday consolidated a grip on Canadian train operations by taking bargaining rights away from a rival union in three Canadian National Railways regions.

The BRT obtained from the Canada labor relations board certification as bargaining agent on the Atlantic central and western regions of the CNR, except for Newfoundland. The certification includes conductors and assistant conductors in freight and passenger service.

About 1,900 workers are in the new certification, which gives the 22,000-member Canadian branch of the BRT jurisdiction over most workers on the trains except those on the engines.

The brotherhood took the bargaining rights away from the Order of Railway Conductors of America (Ind.) an older organization whose membership in Canada has been slipping in recent years while the BRT gained strength. The ORC's Canadian membership now is around 4,000.

WMS Considers Plans For Marking 60th Year

MILLBROOK (ENS) — The WMS of Grace Presbyterian church met on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Walter Patterson. Mrs. W. H. Heustin, the president, conducted the opening worship assisted by Mrs. Ken Moncrief who read the scripture.

Introduction to the study book "The Life and Task of the Church Around the World" was given by Mrs. Heustin. Miss Agnes Johnston gave an interesting account of the work among Chinese in Canada. A skit "Who Is Your Neighbor?" was given by Mrs. S. E. Eakins, Mrs. Clifford Northey and Mrs. Donald Pritchard. All the members joined in discussing the skit at its close.

During the business period plans for the celebration of the society's 60th anniversary which takes place this year were considered.

Mrs. John Thompson, the treasurer, reported that the group had exceeded its allocation in the past year. Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. S. E. Eakins and Mrs. Heustin.

British Buses

LONDON (CP)—An appeal for single-deck buses, as opposed to Britain's present big red double-deckers, was made in a paper read to the transport ministry. The paper claimed the double-deckers, "almost peculiar" to the British Isles, are less efficient and more expensive.

Dressmaker's View

LONDON (CP)—Norman Hartnell, the Queen's dressmaker who attended a west end dance hall recently to get a "first-hand idea of what girls wear outside the world I usually see," noted four of some 150 girls had real dress sense and that the girls "danced much better than most persons in the exclusive west end clubs."

Gulf-Bridging Power Line Means Much To Victoria

VICTORIA (CP)—A gulf-bridging power line may bring new industrial wealth to Vancouver island.

The B.C. Electric Company will lay a $5,000,000 island-hopping cable from the mainland, bringing an end to an acute power shortage which for years has hampered industrial development.

The island boosters' dream has been an industrial empire, likened to the British Isles and highly-industrialized Japan.

Greater population and boosted payrolls may follow the submarine cable across the Strait of Georgia, carrying 132,000 kilowatts of power to match the output of the B.C. power commission's multi-million dollar John Hart plant.

In 1943, before construction of John Hart hydro, Vancouver island's population was 163,000, its total payroll $70,000,000. Last year, the island had a population of 227,000 and payrolls had more than doubled to $160,000,000.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett forecasts industrial expansion when more power is available.

Many industries have been lost to the island because the long-term power picture was not bright. The new source will change this picture.

"The new plan will assure an adequate supply of power for future industrial growth," Premier Bennett said.

The route for the cable has not been determined, but it will be somewhere between greater Vancouver and Nanaimo, 80 miles north of Victoria. It will be 19 miles long, making it one of the world's longest underwater cables. One single piece will be 17 miles long.

The ocean floor along the proposed route is comparatively free of jagged rocks and swift currents.

The cable is a new type developed in England. Construction will start soon, and it is estimated the cable will be in operation by 1956.

CONCERTS CAMPAIGN DATE

The Peterborough Community Concerts association will hold its subscription campaign the week beginning Monday, February 22; not as stated yesterday, Feb 27.

TWO CHIMNEY FIRES

Firemen used an aerial ladder to inspect a chimney fire Thursday at Arthur Burrow's store, 442 George St. An extinguisher wasn't needed. Shortly after midnight they used two handpumps to put out a chimney fire at P. J. Burke's home, 485 Murray St.

ELECT CHAIRMAN

John Kitney, a member of the board of education, on Thursday night was elected chairman of the advisory vocational committee for 1954. Mr. Kitney is the county's representative on the board. He was elected on the first ballot. Arthur Pitchford was the 1953 chairman.

TO ASK CONCILIATION

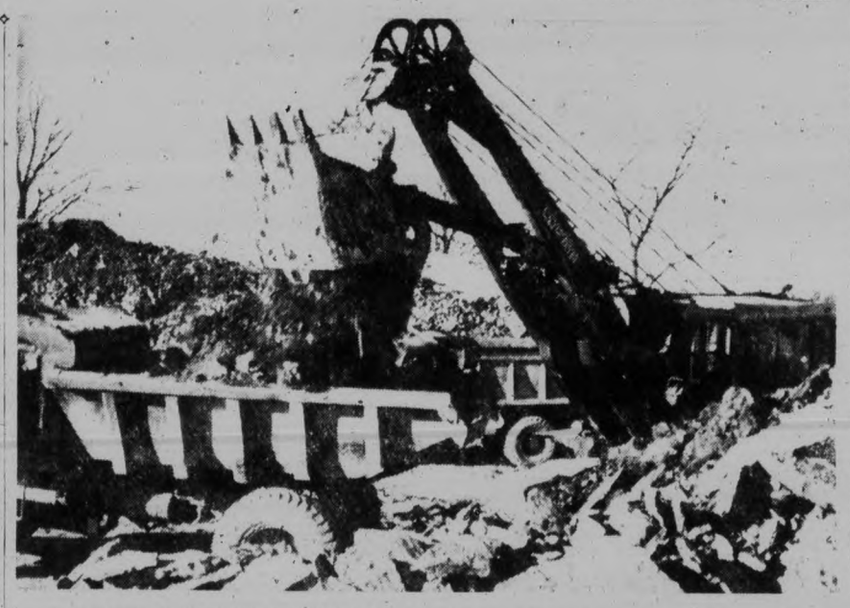
Local 19 of the National Union of Public Service Employees plans to take its grievances to a conciliation board, chairman M. J. Swanston reported to the Board of Governors of Civic hospital Thursday. The union, which seeks wage increases, offshift differentials and various security benefits, represents 130 non-medical employees of the hospital.

CLINIC HITS SNAG

Plans for Dr. J. S. Pratten's psychiatric outpatient clinic in the unfinished basement section of the east wing are bogging down, Superintendent John Hornal reported to the board of Governors of Civic hospital. The federal government has taken the position that the hospital must be more specific in its plans before any action can be taken. It has also suggested several changes in the proposed layout of the clinic.

WANTS FREE TREES

Reeve Peter Pearson of Galway-Cavendish township said today he thought that young trees—other than Scotch pine—should be supplied free to people willing to plant them. At present the charge is one cent a tree, and 1.4 cents for Scotch pine. "In the past, people up our way have grown some fine woodlots with the voluntary planting of trees." The department of lands and forests have been charging for trees for a couple of years now.



GANNON'S NARROWS CAUSEWAY is gradually edging its way across the narrows stretch of water joining Buckhorn and Pigeon lakes. The Armstrong Construction Co. of Brampton started the $206,000 project on January 6 and already the causeway fill is two-thirds completed (shown in the top photo from the northeast shore). Meanwhile on the west side snow (middle photo) piles up along the crooked approach to the old floating bridge which has been taken away. Thousands of yards of fill will be taken by trucks (lower photo) from a pit, two and a half miles from the narrows, for the causeway. —(Examiner Staff Photos)

Civic Hospital Ends Year With $9,673 Surplus Bolstered By City Grant

Revenue of 1953 Exceeds Estimates By $37,000; Salaries Take $777,446 Bite Out of Budget

The Peterborough Civic Hospital operated at a loss during 1953, according to the annual financial report submitted to the Board of Governors by treasurer Thomas T. Rodger. The hospital is, however, in an improved financial position and with a $225,600.14 grant from the city revenues exceeded expenditures by $9,673.09. Total operating revenue for the year was $803,221.67, nearly $37,000 more than was anticipated in the budget. The present working capital of the hospital is $47,481.

Total net earnings from patients for 1953 was $713,280.97 up $35,000 from estimates. Grants from the province in connection with wards, indigents and isolation patients added up to $70,215.74. This, plus county of Peterborough grants of $15,216.84 and some miscellaneous revenues produced a total operating revenue of $803,221.67.

Biggest debit item for 1953 was $777,446.96 paid out in salaries and wages. Surgical supplies and medicines added another $61,909.56 to the total. Administration costs were $34,373.06 and professional costs (services, radiology, physiotherapy, blood bank, etc.) required another $51,285.40.

With general service expenses of $127,987.11, maintenance costs of $48,320.06 and miscellaneous minor expenses the gross expenditure for the year was $1,104,601.63. From this total receipts from such money-making ventures as the cafeteria were deducted. The cafeteria brought in over $54,000 in 1953.

The consolidated balance sheets as at December 31, 1953 show the hospital has fixed building assets in excess of three million dollars. Other major assets include patients accounts receivable of $135,509.80, less a $65,399.97 reserve for doubtful accounts.

PAY UP BILLS

Commenting on delinquent debtors, superintendent John Hornal observed that revenues the December average higher than the other eleven months. He said this was because debtor patients like to be paid up before the end of the year in order to secure income tax benefits.

Biggest liability on the balance sheets is debentures payable to the extent of $1,800,000. The debenture obligation, however, is not the hospital's but the responsibility of the city of Peterborough.

Coupled with the financial report was a statistical survey of activities in December. Patients numbering 668, including 63 births were treated at the hospital last month. These were given 23,414 hours of bedside nursing care by 54 nurses and 101 students. The daily average number of patients, including children and newborn, was 190.7.

4 Freight Cars Of Barley Leave City For Korea

Four freight carloads of Canadian barley destined for hungry children in Korea will leave the Quaker Oats Co. yards here before noon Monday with some ceremony of send-off.

This will be the second consignment of four carloads of specially prepared barley for Korea financed by the Unitarian Service Committee, who will be represented here Monday by Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova, director of its welfare committee.

Under the committee's barley-for-Korea campaign, 125,000 South Korean children between the ages of two and 14 will receive a hot bowl of barley-rice gruel daily throughout March, April and May.

The Unitarian Service Committee is planning to sustain this aid in Korea by further public subscription.

SUPPLEMENTS RICE

From E. J. Wolff, manager of export sales at Quaker Oats, it was learned today that pressed barley is used in Japan as an "extender" of rice in dietary use. The Unitarian Service was supplying children in Korea with milk and other food, and became interested in the barley supplement. Its special preparation was developed by Quaker Oats, and Dr. Hitschmanova took samples to Korea after getting the approval of Hon. C. D. Howe of the Department of Trade and Commerce.

The mixing of barley and rice cooked as gruel was provided to children in Korea, "and they love it." Clearance for shipping was obtained from United States Army officers, and Dr. Hitschmanova returned to Canada to arrange for the launching of the USC Barley-for Korea campaign.

"One dollar spent on this barley will feed five children one month with gruel," Mr. Wolff said today. "Four carloads were sent from the Quaker Oats Co. in Saskatoon in December. Monday's four carloads will be the second shipment from Canada. There will be a third from Saskatoon, and it is expected that there will be at least another from Peterborough."

ASSUMES FLAVOR

The processing of the barley first removes the outer hull. The inner substance of the grain is cooked with steam and then pressed. After the cooking it returns to its original pearl form resembling rice, and in the final cooking for food it assumes the flavor of rice. For shipping, it is packed in 100 pound export cotton bags.

The four cars will be started on their delivery journey from the Quaker Oats Monday at 11:45 a.m. The ceremony of departure will be on the ground level of the freight yards which can be approached by way of Simcoe St.

The freight cars will be identified with prominently printed banner signs of "Barley from Canada for Korea" and otherwise decorated. Mayor Norman Graham has been invited with other citizens, and Mr. Wolff said the public would be heartily welcomed.

"Invitations have been sent to the Local Council of Women, the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion and to other organizations," Mr. Wolff said. "There is nothing exclusive about this departure of relief food from Peterborough. We hope there will be a crowd out to greet Dr. Hitschmanova and encourage her and the Unitarian Service Committee in the fine work they are doing of sending food to the children of Korea."

Civic To Buy New Respirator To Treat Polio

A new $2,400 respirator for polio patients will be installed at the Peterborough Civic Hospital in the near future the Board of Governors decided Thursday night. The respirator will be an Emerson Dome Cylinder model, a type recommended by a hospital polio committee under Dr. J. T. R. Stewart.

The new respirator will replace the present "inadequate" machine on permanent loan from St. Joseph's hospital. This respirator, donated in the 30's by Lord Nuffield, British car manufacturer, was considered insufficent for the Civic's needs because the patient using it cannot be nourished without removing the appartus entirely and applying artificial respiration.

Although he paid tribute to the generosity of both Lord Nuffield and St. Joseph's, hospital superintendent John Hornal said the old machine did more harm than good, because "it gives the patient a false sense of security."

Basic purpose of the new machine is to provide efficient treatment for emergency polio cases. Less critical cases will still be referred to polio treatment centres. The Peterborough Civic Hospital has not been recognized as a polio treatment centre and there is no indication, said Mr. Hornal, that such recognition is forthcoming.

It is hoped that the hospital's Women's Auxiliary or one of the local service clubs might raise the money for the respirator.

There are two basic types of respirators, the tank or cylinder type in which the patient's whole body is enclosed except for the head and the type in which a shell of suitable size is applied to the chest. The shell type is often unsatisfactory for patients who have not been conditioned to the uses of a respirator.

Additions to the hospital's urological equipment were also approved Thursday. The Board approved purchase of a Mead telescope and an Iglesias modification of the Nesbit resectoscope.

Planning Board Turns Down Store, Garage

The city planning board Thursday night turned down one application to build a service station and decided to take no action on another until the zoning bylaw is completed.

The board also turned down an application to operate a grocery business.

Canadian Oil Companies Ltd. applied for permission to erect a service station on the northeast corner of Parkhill Rd. and Donegal St. but were turned down on the grounds that the site was zoned as a residential area.

M. K. Reid applied for permission to erect a service station on the northwest corner of Park and Chamberlain Sts. George W. Carphin, representing Mr. Reid, indicated that a petition had been signed by a number of residents of the neighborhood supporting the application but the adjacent property-owner had refused to sign.

CIRCLED BY INDUSTRY

Although the site is zoned as a residential area, the board decided to take no action on the application until the zoning bylaw had been completed, because the location is surrounded by industrial property, which might affect its classification under the forthcoming bylaw.

Mrs. Mary Michels, 690 Frank St., requested permission to open a general store in her home on the northeast corner of Frank and High Sts. She said the store would meet a need in the area as a nearby store was going out of business. But permission was not granted because her property is in a residential zone.

Rock Causeway Stretching Across Gannon's Narrows

Against a background of dynamite blasting and endless rumbling dump-trucks, 25 men are working double-shifts on the causeway in the Gannon's Narrows between Pigeon and Buckhorn lakes. Already nearly two-thirds of the fill has been poured for the causeway, and it is expected that this portion of the massive engineering project will be completed well before spring break-up. Building the causeway is the first step in permanently linking the two sides of the narrows. Later a bridge will link the end of the causeway with the south shore and the roads on either side will be repaired and straightened. The $206,000 project will replace a precarious wooden floating bridge formerly used across the narrows.

Work is proceeding especially quickly because, for the first time in years, the narrows are icebound. Usually the current is too strong at this point to permit more than occasional formations of ice.

ON ROCK BOTTOM

Godfrey E. Cook, of the Armstrong Construction Co. in Brampton, is supervising the job. Mr. Cook has built his causeway on solid rock on the narrows bottom, so that the possibility of the rock fill settling is slight. At present the causeway is just above water-level and another 15,000 cubic yards of fill will be required to bring it up six feet to the level of the bridge.

Eleven trucks are carrying an average of 200 loads per 13-hour day from a quarry 2½ miles from the causeway. Each truck carries an eight or nine-ton load. At this rate the causeway will likely be completed before the end of February.

The causeway portion of the project is estimated to cost $104,000. The Ontario Department of Highways pays 80% of this with Peterborough county and Harvey township splitting the difference 8 11ths and 3 11ths.

The new bridge, on which work will begin this spring, will cost $99,000, cost to be borne by the federal department of transport. One abutment of this bridge will be anchored to the Ennismore shoreline.

WAITED FOR FREEZE-UP

Work on the causeway actually began before Christmas but little was accomplished until January 6. Reason for this was that the road from the quarry to the building site was filled with bogs, and the heavy trucks quickly became mired. After the earth was frozen hard, the Armstrong firm returned from a Christmas job in Ottawa and resumed operations.

It is a spartan existence for the men of the Armstrong firm. On the job at seven in the morning they work through till ten at night on the windswept, unprotected ice across the narrows. A wooden shack marked "Office" contains a blazing, home-made oil stove and not much else. The men are boarded with area farmers.

Newfoundland Needs Engineers

MONTREAL (CP) — Ross L. Dobbin of Peterborough, president of the Engineering Institute of Canada, said Thursday Newfoundland needs engineers more than any other part of Canada.

Addressing students of L'Ecole Polytechnique and of McGill University, Mr. Dobbin described Newfoundland as "practically undeveloped."

Mr. Dobbin who recently completed a tour of the Maritimes, Quebec, and Ontario, said talks with Newfoundland Premier Joseph Smallwood convinced him great developments were underway in the province.

"You won't get rich right away if you go to Newfoundland," he said. "But if you stick it out you should."

Kawartha Encampment No. 6 IOOF special meeting Saturday January 23rd, 1954, at 8 p.m., to be held in the Normal School Auditorium.

Royal Purple Degree will be conferred by Excelsior Encampment No. 88 Toronto. All members and visiting Patriarchs are requested to attend.

County Farm Notes

By HARRY THEOBALD

Dairy Farmers of Canada Report $329,508 in Their 1953 Fund For Advertising Their Products . . . Rally of Forums Jan. 25 at Teachers College . . . Plans Prepared For Leadership Sessions Feb. 11 . . . Ontario Crop Improvement Convention Next Week in Toronto.

Dairy Farmres of Canada report a total of $329,508 from their June set-aside coll[illegible] for their 1954 advertising [illegible]otion campaign.

That is one of the most important farm news items of 1953 The set-aside plan of financing publicity for dairy products has now been established, and the suggestion, has been heard here that the period of contribution should be extended through more than one month. Henry Sharp, president of the Peterborough Federation of Agriculture, mentioned some weeks ago "the whole year round."

A schedule of national promotions was recently received here from the office of the Dairy Farmers, beginning with butter advertising in January and November; fluid milk in April and September; cheese in March and October; concentrated products in February and December; ice cream in May.

June is designated "dairy month," signifying dairy foods related to summer meals.

Specimen advertisements for concentrated milk are also laid out presenting form and type of publicity, the newspapers, magazines and other mediums whose space and time are being purchased out of the set-aside fund.

ALERT TO SELLING

Marketing of farm products has already been marginally discussed on Forum broadcasts such as "The challenge of dairy substitutes" and "The farm price trend." Ontario Federation devoted much of its time to this question. It has continued into the sessions of the Dairy Farmers of Canada in Hamilton this week, and is included on the agenda of the Canadian Federation meeting in London next week.

The Examiner has reported every phase of progress in this financing of publicity of agricultural products, even to that Arkell proposal, at Court House years ago, of the two-price system which he was, by implication at least, recommending to the thinking of farmers. It has recurred more substantially only within the last month.

GRADING OF FOODS

Forums should note their subject for February 8: "What grade, madam?"

Grade determines categories or classes of quality and has already been developed with many foods by the federal Department of Canada, and the government of Ontario, in meats, milk, canned goods, maple syrup and so on. To repeat an assertion of a few months ago, no people in the world are better fed than Canadians. And they are paying for this assurance of quality.

Inspection of canned tomatoes at the factory is only a minor reminder of this service which consumers have been so used to and for so long that they now take it all for granted.

The farmer who is turning out high class foodstuffs should be the first one to demand grading as protection of his product in its price equivalent.

One of the questions submitted to the Forum groups is this: "Should all farm grades carry through to the consumer?" They will arrive at their own comments on that proposal, and if it is "yes" they are bound to realize that grading is linked with marketing, and that they are now in better financial position to advertise grading and its meaning to the consumers of their goods, particularly the people buying dairy products.

SHOULD AFFECT INCOME

These are progressive steps which should lead to farm income. The June "set-aside" provides the dairy industry with a war chest to be expended on publicity whose purpose is to inform the consumer of the quality of the farm foods he buys. This awareness and activity may result in advantage to be credited to the arousing threat of edible oils.

Service To Asphodel

The retirement of James Humphries from the council of Asphodel township, of which he was reeve ten years, recalls the service of his family to that municipality. His father, the late Adam Humphries was a member of the council 20 years, three as reeve and member of the county council. Jim Humphries has been 16 years in the council, ten as reeve, including one year in the wardenship. Father and son were careful and sound administrators for a total of 36 years in Asphodel.

James Humphries ends his reeveship with many friends throughout the city and county. From that experience it should be hoped that men like himself and Dick Stewart in Otonabee will find other activities in the community. Rork Ferguson at Norwood and Norman Wilson in Burleigh are two others who have acquired knowledge of municipal and community affairs that equip them for other service even if unelective.

Spring Show Executive

The officers of the Central Ontario Spring Show which is held at Morrow Parkk, Peterborough, in March are:

Past president: Robert Armstrong, Cavan.

President: James T. Brown, Newcastle.

Vice - presidents: George McLaughlin, Oshawa, RR 1 and Harold Detlor, Stirling, RR 4.

Secretary-treasurer: A. O. Dalrymple, Stirling.

General manager: F. C. Paterson, Peterborough.

Seed show manager: Stuart A. Bowman, Peterborough.

Judging competition manager: W. M. Cockburn, Newmarket.

4-H Show manager: Harold Detlor.

Executive officers: Gaynor Rendell, Deseronto; Owen Sweetman, Little Britain; Joe Vrooman, Odessa; Wesley Down, Hilton; Sam Danford, Consecon; Wellington Sutton, Peterborough.

Committee chairmen: Publicity, John Hunter of Quaker Oats Co., Peterborough.

Concessions and displays: R. R. (Dick) Stewart, Otonabee.

Grounds committee: Mel Johnston, North Monaghan.

Finance: Wilson Gemmell, Peterborough.

Program committee: LeRoy Brown, Lindsay.

Program sub-committee, entertainment: Ken Best, Peterborough.

Features: H. L. Fair, Uxbridge.

Seed fair: Stuart Bowman, manager; Garnet Rickard, Bowmanville, assistant manager; John A. Dawson, district supervisor of the seeds branch of the federal department of Agriculture.

PUBLIC CAN HELP

People of the city and district can help the show executive by inviting friends to visit them during the days of the show in the middle week of March.

They must have many friends living in the outer counties of the district, Ontario county, Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox-Addington, Frontenac. Invitations for a day or two could result in attracting many farmers of that large area who might not otherwise come in for the show. This is a suggestion which could be m terially helpful in enlarging its attendance and success if the public would visualize themselves as co-operators with the officers and executive.

✦ ✦ ✦

Holstein Meeting

Holstein breeders of the Central Ontario counties, who promote the October championship show, are meeting here Feb. 3 about 11 a.m. They will have lunch together and return to their discussions in the afternoon at the office of the Department of Agriculture.

✦ ✦ ✦

Bonspiel Here March 1

Entries for the fourth annual Junior Farmers curling bonspiel are due on Feb. 1 at the office of Dick Hilliard of the Department of Agriculture, Toronto. The games will be played at Charlotte St. rink Monday, March 1.

Peterborough Curling Club is turning over their seven ices to the visitors for the entire day. It is expected that at least one rink will represent each of the 28 counties to whom invitations have been sent. If there is a blank, one of the counties will be permitted to send a second rink.

Canada Packers will provide the evening meal for the junior competitors, and Quaker Oats Co. is awarding the individual prizes for the winning rink.

Leadership Meeting Feb. 11

Morning and afternoon sessions were drafted Thursday afternoon for the leadership meeting Thursday Feb. 11. Present at the office of F. C. Paterson, agricultural representative, were Mrs. Joseph Moore, Lakefield, Rev. A. E. Larke, Henry Sharp, Wellington Sutton, Harold Lewis and Ken Best, assistant agricultural representative.

"We are expecting at least 50 to 75 from our farm organizations such as the Federation, Women's Institute, Junior Farmers and others," Mr. Best reported "We are not yet certain of the place of meeting, and we are planning to have lunch together Miss Eleanor Saracuse of the Folk Schools will be here"

"How not to conduct a meeting" is the title of one of the skits on the program, and opposite it will be the conduct of a meeting according to parliamentary rules. Members are likely to brush up on their parliamentary guide if they are rusty about procedure. That reference will probably be more than most municipal administrators ever consult before assuming public office.

The purpose of the Feb. 11 sessions, is to review essentials in community leadership. One of them is the public meeting, and the men and women attending will be informed in the right and wrong details of procedure.

Interest in leadership is steadily increasing, Mr. Best remarked. "It is something that can be developed and directed, and we are hoping for a big attendance."

Going To Perth Sale

Attending the annual sale of Scottish Shorthorns at Perth, Scotland, will be Louis Cadesky, owner of Louada Manor Farms in Harvey township, and the Manor Superintendent, W. W. Donaldson.

Mr. Donaldson is leaving on Saturday for the Old Country. They both intend to visit some of the leading Shorthorn breeders in Scotland, and have purchases in mind at the sale and elsewhere if stock and prices attract them.

Speakers From U.S.

Robert H. Rumler, executive secretary of the Holstain-Friesan Association of America, will be the guest speaker at the annual meeting of the Canadian Holstein-Friesian Association Wednesday, Feb. 10 in the Royal York Hotel. His subjject will be "A Changing Industry". Mr. Rumler recently succeeded H. W. Northon, Jr., who was secretary since 1938. He is also coming to the Toronto convention.

It is understood that the Peterborough directors are arranging for a C.P.R. coach Feb. 10.

A Co-Operative Farm

Seven farmers are investing their capital and skill in a collective farming experiment which is said to be the first of this type of co-operative in Ontario.

They have bought 900 acres of the Hemlock Park Farms near Kingston, formerly owned by Col. A. H. Fair, and intend to [illegible]nt an additional 900 acres.

James Little and Harold Ghent of Teeswater, Morley Mills of Ripley and Robert Bartwell of Lucknow are four of the group who are planning mixed farming with emphasis on dairying. They believe that by joint action they can cut down operating costs and use machinery to better advantage than by individual effort.

The seven men have had co-operative experience. Seven dwellings containing 11 housing units have been purchased, and will be converted into seven modern farm homes.

"Champ" . . . But Too Fat

"A recent article in the Australian Meat Board Journal "The Meat Producer and Exporter" refers to the economic problems created by the marketing of cattle which produce overfat carcasses. The following statement is made:

"The producer has first of all to realize that the beast which is most attractive to the eye in the live state frequenly does no make the most desirable carcass. Provided fat is laid on evenly, most cattlemen prefer to see steers as well covered as possible before marketing, but on slaughter this class of steer frequently gives an overfat carcass."

The truth of the foregoing remarks was well supported by events at the 1953 Royal Winter Fair, when the eye-filling Grand Champion steer produced a very wasty carcass, with an unusually small percentage of lean. A cross-section tracing revealed only 23.31 sq. in. (37.2%) of lean out of a total area of 62.59 sq. in. with an eye of lean measuring only 6.63 sq. in. This animal fortunately proved an exception as the majority of show steers as usual produced very fine quality carcasses.

"The steer judging competition sponsored by the council also once more demonstrated that it is not easy to appraise carcass quality on the hoof. Contestants, for the most part experienced cattlemen, awarded the most top placings to animals which later ranked in fourth and fifth positions on the rail. Animals which ranked seventh and eighth on the rail got more top placings alive than those with the second and third carcass awards." (Council of Canadian Meat Packers Bulletin.)

Convention Jan. 26-29

The convention of the Ontario Crop Improvement Association Jan. 26-29 will be held in the industrial section of the Coliseum, Exhibition Park, Toronto, during the day and evening sessions at the King Edward Hotel. Farmers have found the annual programs so helpful that they look forward to this convention as a highlight of the winter. Junior Farmer machinery club day will be the 29.

Leaf Loss Important In Raking Hay

RAKING HAS ALWAYS been one of the most efficient operations in hay harvest. It accounts for only about one-fourth man-hour per ton, where the hay is raked but once.

Major emphasis today is on the side delivery rake rather than the dump and sweep type rakes, because side delivery rakes generally handle hay more gently and with less leaf loss. They tend to produce uniform windrows that are continuous and well adapted to picking up with loaders, field balers and choppers.

Tractor-drawn rakes are widely available and have come up from adaptions of horse-drawn machines. Within the last two years, a nuumber of significant developments have been made in tractor-mounted side delivery rakes.

A rake should handle the hay as gently as possible. It should move the hay from the swath position into the windrow in the shortest possible distance. The windrow should be uniform, and not tightly packed or roped. This facilitates drying in the windrow as well as efficient feeding into pick-up type machines.

The time during which the froage crop is at the best stage of matuurity for harvest is relatively short. Quality is lost if harvest is not timely. It is in this category that mechanization makes its greatest contribution.

Rocket Tone And Juliette Repeat As All-Canadians

Several of the Holsteins exhibited at the Central Ontario Championship show in October are listed in the All-Canadian honorary awards of the Holstein Breeders Association of Canada.

Rockwood Rocket Tone, owned by the Quinte District Cattle Breeding Association of Belleville, repeated his win of 1952 in being selected All-Canadian aged bull. He was grand champion at the Royal and at the International Livestock Show in Chicago.

Making his last bid for show honors in Canada was Illehee Sovereign Supreme, exhibited by H. C. McCloskey, Queensville, Ontario, and now owned by Rosendo Aja Vizcainas of Mexico city. Both these great sires have been in turn senior district champion at Peterborough.

The All-Canadian senior yearling heifer is Springbank Polly M., the junior champion at the Royal, exhibited by T. R. Dent and Son, Woodstock and the Reserve award in this class went to Lyn Baroness Sovereign, which was second to Polly at the Royal and Junior champion at the Peterborough championship show last year for Roy Ormiston of Brooklyn and E. Oyler & Son of Port Perry.

WON AT PETERBOROUGH

S. B. Roman of King had the All-Canadian heifer calf, Cedar Nook Beth Monogram, who was first prize winner at the Royal, the CNE, Peterborough Championships and York County Black and White Day. Mr. Roman also took the Reserve All-Canadian award in the junior yearling heifer class on Texal Fond Hope Darkie, junior champion at the CNE and reserve junior champion at Peterborough championships.

Sons of the noted Marksman were named All-Canadian two year-old senior yearling bulls, the former being exhibited by J. J. E. McCague, Alliston, and the senior yearling by C. J. Cerswell of Beeton.

The Creswell bull was Bond Haven Rag Apple Diplomat who was reserve junior champion at Peterborough last October.

McCague's Golden Nugget sold at the 'sale of stars' for the top price of $8,000, paid by D. F. Mereilles, Sao Paulo, Brazil.

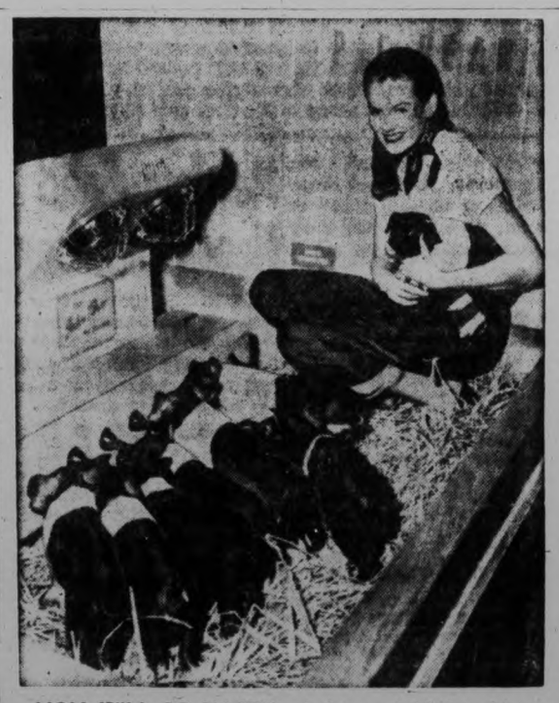
Winning junior bull calf at the Royal, Acme Larry Rocket was selected as All-Canadian bull calf for Pickard and Clark of Carstairs, Alta. He is now owned by J. R. Henderson of Kingston.

These announcements from John E. Powell of the national Holstein Breeders' office, Brantford, winds up the events of 1953.

What every Peterborough breeder knows is that these All-Canadian awards and the results at CNE and the Royal, contribute largely to the prestige of the herds from which the winners are drawn. The Peterborough championship counties comprise one of the best sections of Holstein country in the nation, and carrying of the top ribbons here is a coveted honor.

JULIETTE'S FIFTH

For the fifth consecutive year, Spring Farm Juliette, bred and owned by J. M. Fraser, Streetsville, was named All-Canadian aged Holstein cow. This honor has never been won by any other cow more often than three times. Juliette started her All-Canadian winnings as a senior yearling, and has been remarkably consisten in the show ring. She has taken seven All-Canadian awards, an accomplishment never approached by any other Holstein female. She won her third Royal Winter Fair grand Championship last November. Not only a top show cow, but an excellent producer as well, Juliette has a 365 day twice-a-day milking records of 931 and 928 pounds of fat. She and her maternal brother, Spring Farm Fond Hope combined again to take the All-Canadian produce of dam award for Fraser for the fourth straight year.



MOM WILL BE HAPPY—A litter of 12-day-old pigs seems to have taken to this automat-style feeding device on display at the Smithfield Agricultural Show in London, England. The John Percy Pig Rearer features infra-red light for warmth, and allows the mother sow enough time to recuperate and bear at least one extra litter every two years. Holding one little pig back from the mechanical instrument is Hilde Moray, a German-born model.

Percy Gooding New President

Percy Gooding of Hilton was elected president of the Northumberland-Durham Plowmen's Association at Cobourg last week.

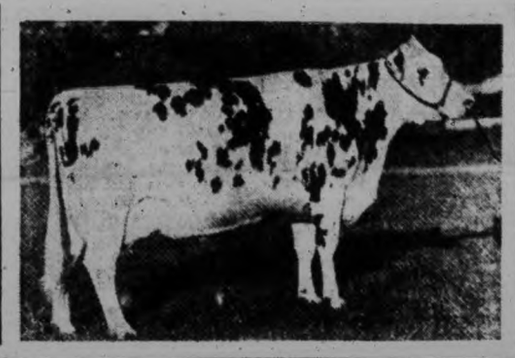
The other officers are: Vice-presidents, Howard Quantrill of Campbellcroft and Charles Wilson, Cobourg; secretary - treasurer, Ralph Banbury, agricultural representative in Northumberland.

Directors: Edwin Wilson, Garden Hill; Leonard Henderson, Millbrook; Don Budd, Port Hope RR 1; Newton Selby, Newcastle; S. Allin, Newcastle; Howard Henry, Campbellcroft; Howard Cryderman, Bowmanville; Pat Lappin, Cobourg; Earl Linton, Cobourg RR 6; Don Carruthers, Cobourg No 5; Frank Tinney, Cobourg RR 6; Wesley Down, Hilton; Harry Campbell, Bailieboro; Harold Mallory, Cobourg; Frank Staples, Cobourg; L. H. Winslow, Millbrook; Leonard Smith, Millbrook; Earl Drope, Harwood; Ken Symons, Cobourg.

Mr. Campbell and Mr. Gooding were appointed delegates to the Ontario Plowmen's convention in Toronto.

The meeting recommended that the International match should be continued to Saturday, instead of the finals on Friday.

Howard Henry was recommended for appointment as a director of the provincial association. Another suggestion was that the Twin County match in Durham this year be dated in advance of the provincial match at Waterloo in October.



FOR THE FIFTH CONSECUTIVE YEAR Spring Farm Juliette, bred and owned by J. M. Fraser, of Streetsville, has been named All-Canadian aged Holstein cow. This award has never been won more than three times by any other cow. She was All-Canadian senior yearling in 1945, and All-Canadian four-year-old in 1948. "Juliette" has taken seven All-Canadian awards. She was for the third time grand champion at the Royal Winter Fair last November.

Farmers Using Baled Straw To Build Barns, Homes

SWIFT CURRENT, Sask. (CP)—Farmers in southwestern Saskatchewan are finding new uses for baled straw or hay. They make strong buildings at fractional cost.

Within the next year, homes are expected to be erected of straw bales. Walls will be stuccoed on the outside, plastered on the inside. Cost is nominal and so far tests have proved construction to be excellent.

Preliminary tests are being made at the Dominion experimental station here. Greville B. Harrison, construction superintendent, has blocks of baled hay and straw — coated with stucco and plaster—placed outside unprotected from the weather. They will remain there until spring when results will be announced.

CATTLE SHED POPULAR

The most popular building built to date is a cattle shed. A roof suspended by cables which eliminate centre pillars is suspended over baled straw walls. The job was finished quickly. Ranchers said it is warm, one of the best cattle sheds they have seen.

Another form of farm building being developed is a modern root cellar made of concrete. Construction entails use of a form which can be used repeatedly. Buried underground, only the ventilators and the front entrance will be visible when the cellar is completed next summer.

Forum Advises Car Governors

"We suggest for discussion that car manufacturers should be required by law to place goverors on cars that would not allow them to exceed 50 miles an hour. We feel that this would eliminate 70% of accidents."

That proposal was attached as a rider to the report of Beaver Forum's meeting Monday night at the home of Sherman Northey with an attendance of sixteen. The subject was: "Stop, Look and Listen", and the appended question: Do we need a more business like approach to the level crossing problems"

Coldsprings Forum at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wilson, 15 present, and Mrs. Jean Tully discussion leader, dismissed the detail of apportioning costs of protective measures.

Their comment on this point was: "No matter how the cost is paid, the taxpayer assumes it any way either by taxes or car license fee." Their estimate of unprotected crossings within ten miles of their meeting place was 75 to 100.

Central Smith Forum, 15 present at the home of Milton Clark, recommended flashing lights at level crossings, which should be plainly marked. "Our Forum thinks the cost of $8,000 for one signal too high. The public should have more respect for crossings . . . Railway cars should have some type of reflectors or luminous tape to help approaching motorists."

32 AT STEWART HALL

Stewart Hall Forum reported an attendance of 32 members at the home of Howard Harper where R. R. Stewart was leader. They estimated 100 unprotected crossings in their 10 miles. "Warning signs should be painted with luminous paint to be visible at night. Bushes and banks should be removed at approaches . . . We wish to emphasize the human element:—educate the driver to take care."

Clare Telford was leader of Daisey-D Forum at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Webster. They recommended: (a) on township or concession roads, the cutting of bush and the sloping of banks to allow clear vision of the track. There should be signs with added glow tape at least 100 yards from the railway, and further back if the view is obstructed; (b) on county roads—more protection such as automatic signals."

All new highways should have subways or overhead bridges at level crossings is a proposal from Lily Lake Forum, 12 present at the school house. Archie Ackison was leader. "Clearance of brush should be the responsibility of the municipality. The other devices should be assumed by federal and provincial governments."

Westwood, Fairview and Maple Row, reported 50 or more unprotected crossings within ten miles of their meeting places. Eight members were present at each.

AN ADVERTISING IDEA

Westwood Forum met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Patterson with Wm. Mood leader. They came up with one novel idea: "that the railways might sell advertising space on their unlighted cars, such advertising to be done in reflecting lights . . . We suggest the railways paint large diagonal crosses on all unlighted cars with reflecting paints, as there are quite a number of crossings in our area where the engine can be out of sight around a curve and the van not yet around another curve."

R. Harrison was leader at Fairview Forum, meeting at his home. "We recommend that motorists observe the 20 miles an hour speed limit at crossings, and as funds become more available that flash lights would be satisfactory in our area."

Bert Armstrong was leader of Maple Row Forum at the home of Raymond Robinson. "We recommend luminous stop signs 300 ft. from railway crossings, with enforced law to STOP before going over a crossing. Freight, box and flat cars should have luminous markings so they can be seen after dark."

Weathermen Just 'Dabblers' Moon Drippings Surer Guide

Are there sundogs around the sun, circles around the moon or wrinkles in the sky? If there are, beware, brother, for a storm is coming.

At least this is the view of retired painter and amateur meteorologist William Whatman, 71, who has been scanning the heavens "for nigh on 50 years".

Professional weathermen are just 'dabblers,' avows Mr. Whatman. The only way to predict the weather accurately is to "know the signs"—drops of water on the moon, the foliage in the earth, direction of the wind or location of celestial bodies.

The January thaw should begin the middle of next week says Mr. Whatman. There will be a severe cold snap over the weekend until Tuesday. After that things will warm up again.

QUITE SIMPLE

"It's really quite simple," says Mr. Whatman, "providing you don't let the wind throw you off. The weather was mild Wednesday because on Saturday the moon was in the south and was dripping. If the moon were in the north, colder weather would be coming. You can always tell the weather at least four days in advance just by looking at the moon, provided, of course, that the moon is visible.

The moon, too, can make even more specific predictions. The bigger the circle around the moon, the more severe will be an inevitable storm (no circle, no storm). And the number of stars within this lunar orbit indicates how far off the storm. Four stars: four days. No stars: head for cover.

Barometers, muses Mr. Whatman "may be all right," but the man who studies the heavens carefully, doesn't need any equipment of any sort. "Take sundogs . . ."

OK, let's take sundogs. A sundog isn't a dog but a junior-sized rainbow. If two sundogs flank the sun—stormy weather.

But of course the weather isn't always depressing. If the sun rises underneath a cloud, fear not for the day will be fair. On the other hand, if the sun sets below a cloud there will likely be rain tomorrow. If the sun sets bright and red, it will be nice and, if summer, likely quite hot.

Even after storms have started, it's sometimes possible to predict their intensity, says Mr. Whatman. If the snow billows in from the east, it will be a big snow but snow from the west is less worrisome. (On the prairies snow from the west often portends a warm Chinook wind.)

LONG RANGE ESTIMATES

Is it possible to make any long range predictions about the weather? Sometimes the position of the moon can give hints to the weather for a month in advance, but "you have to take all-day-to-day factors into account too". It is, however, possible to generalize.

You can make long range predictions by getting closer to earth. Is the foliage relatively thick and abundant? If it is it will be a mild winter. On the other hand if the greenery shows signs of disappearing even before the weather cools, warm up that igloo.

Mr. Whatman has no patience with "fairy stories" about the weather. The time-worn tale of Groundhog Day is "just a myth". Similarly, you can't tell weather from corns, bunions or Uncle Henry's rheumatism.

What of those beautiful washboard skies, with the soft rippling clouds? All very nice says Mr. Whatman, but a wrinkled sky means a storm in less than 24 hours. And if, later, the northern lights are visible the mercury will soon be cowering at the bottom of the thermometer.

WIND VARIABLE

The wind is the most variable weather factor, and one that throws most forecasters off, Mr. Whatman warned. But a strong south wind forebodes rain. Smoke heading straight up from the chimney indicates colder weather and smoke drifting in lazy billows is a sign of mildness.

If the half or quarter moon is rocking on its arc, weather will be dry and possibly hot. On the other hand a moon lying with the arc up and "dripping," tells one "instantly" that wetter times are coming.

Mr. Whatman learned his weather-forecasting from an old Indian while he was lumbering near Blind river 50 odd years ago. The Indians of a few decades ago, he said, knew "far more" about the weather and its vagaries than "any modern scientific weatherman."

A friendly rivalry exists between Mr. Whatman and George St. druggist Frank Greatrix. Mr. Whatman is a frequent visitor in the drugstore, checking his weather predictions against Mr. Greatrix's barometer records. Says Mr. Greatrix: "He's nearly always right."

When he is not predicting weather, Mr. Whatman is proseletyzing in favor of better health habits. His creed is simple: "An orange a day keeps the doctor away."

Oranges, says Mr. Whatman, contain beneficial acids which counteract the effects of headache, neuralgia and lumbago. He recalls that he was troubled with a sore back for years until he discovered that a daily orange makes him "as sound as a dollar."

For those not partial to oranges, Mr. Whatman has but one rule: "Never, never eat anything at all before going to bed." The food churns inside all night, says he, and the result is blockage of the alimentary canal.

Mr. Whatman credits his own good health to his passion for oranges, lots of sleep and drinking nothing stronger than water.

After an early career spent knocking about the province — Uxbridge, Cannington, Lindsay, Blind river—Mr. Whatman joined the Westclox Company in 1922. After 25 years with the company as a painter, he was superannuated and put on pension. Later he joined the Empress Hotel staff as a houseman, a position he held until last fall. He lives with his wife at 47 McDonnel St.

Charges Red Build-up

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (AP) — The Korean ambassador to the United States charged Thursday night that the Communists have brought into North Korea 400 jet aircraft and have constructed 30 airfields intended for military purposes. Dr. You Chan Yang said the Reds in Korea are using "the uneasy truce" to expand ground and air forces.

Lobster Plant Burned

BOOTHBAY HARBOR, Me. (AP) The Brown brothers lobster packing plant was swept Thursday night by fire with loss estimated by management at $25,000. Firemen with a portable pump tended salt-water tanks containing 9,000 pounds of live lobster while an emergency crew worked to restore damaged power lines and get the tank pumps back in operation.

Gets Life For Murder

ATLANTA (AP) — David G. Price, 19-year-old ex - marine, Thursday night received a life sentence for the mutilation murder of Betty Bagby, a 22-year-old crippled neighbor. The jury recommended mercy. Miss Bagby's battered, mutilated body—nude except for shoes—was found last June. Police termed it "one of the most brutal murders in Atlanta History."

THIS STOVE will blaze until Tuesday when the back of the present cold wave will be broken and the January thaw will begin. At least that's the view of William Whatman of 47 McDonnel St. He's been predicting the weather for 50 years and has an enviable record for accuracy.

Missing Sword Returned New Brunswick

FREDERICTON (CP) — A surprised New Brunswick is going to get back a sword it didn't know was missing.

The secret came out in a report from Sarnia that the sword of the legislature's sergeant-at-arms had been turned over to New Brunswicker D. Leo Dolan, director of the federal government travel bureau.

The sword was taken from a closet in the sergeant-at-arms' room during the tenure of Carl Walker, who retired from that office in 1947. He doesn't recall what year the disappearance occurred but knows that it was shortly before his retirement.

PUBLIC DIDN'T KNOW

The loss was never made public. A new blade was obtained and has been carried for eight sessions by the present office holder, Frank M. Ayers. The secret was so well kept Mr. Ayers did not even know that the sword he used was not the one carried by the first holder of the office.

If Mr. Dolan can arrange delivery in time, Mr. Ayers may get the other sword in time for this year's session, which opens Feb. 18. A sword is part of his regalia throughout the session.

"I was wondering where it had got to," Mr. Walker said when told of Mr. Dolan's discovery. "We just kept quiet about it and hoped it would turn up. They got Mr. Speaker's beaver hat at a ball once, but I knew who had it and got it back. But I guess everyone just forgot about the sword, it's been gone so long."

Hundreds See Suicide

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — About 300 people watched in awe Thursday as a despondent man leaped to his death from the roof of a three-storey hotel building in downtown Phoenix. The victim, identified as William Walter Failey, about 50, of Washington, walked around on the ledge for several minutes before making his fatal dive. Police and firemen were summoned as pedestrians gathered below.

TV Advances Claimed

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Tass news agency said today that the technique of television transmission is being continuously improved in Russia and that new sets to be put on sale this year give clear, stable images while using 1½ to two times less current than former sets. The smallest of the new sets has a four-by-5½-inch screen.

Trenton Youth Wins Judging Competition

STIRLING (ENS) — Douglas Harry of Trenton won the championship of the Hastings county grain judging competition with a score of 818 points in the Stirling community hall.

Thirty-two junior farmers took part. Robert Burkitt of Frankford was runner-up with a score of 800 points.

M. Harry was awarded a tray donated by the Hastings County Crop Improvement Association, the Bishop trophy, the silver medal donated by H. R. Tompkins and a book "Hunger Signs in Crops," donated by Mr. Dalrymple.

Coldsprings WMS Officers Installed

COLDSPRINGS— (ENS) —The Women's Missionary Society met at the home of Mrs. Herb. Davidson. There were 25 members and 8 vistors present.

The president, Mrs. Percy Davidson presided and conducted a short worship service.

The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. F. Shier who stated that the $400 had been raised for the allocation and sent to the presbyterial.

Mrs. V. M. Gilbert conducted the installation of offiers for 1954.

Mrs. J. Ritchie gave a temperance talk. Mrs. A. Jamieson and Mrs. H. Davidson were appointed delegates to the WMS presbyterial at Brighton, January 27.

The president announced an invitation to attend the World Day of Prayer at Camborne on March

Mrs. Mathew Linton, leader of the group four, was in charge of the program. The theme was "The Church —the Image of the Kingdom." A hymn was followed by prayer and a scriptural reading by Mrs. Linton.

The program topic was "The Four R's in Europe which are "Relief, Reconstruction, Rehabilitation and Reconcilation." Short readings were given on these by Miss Stella Watt, Mrs. D. Buttars, Mrs. A. Taylorand Mrs. Linton.

Install New Officers

St. Luke's Scout and Cub Mothers' Auxiliary met at the home of Mrs. R. Tuck on Cricket place Wednesday evening.

Annual reports by the secretary and treasurer showed a very active year. Mr. E. Macdonald installed the new officers for 1954 and gave a talk on scouting, followed by an open discussion.

Mrs. D. Walker moved a vote of thanks to him. Incoming officers are: President, Mrs. R. Miller; vice-president, Mrs. E. Price; secretary, Mrs. K. Starr; treasurer, Mrs. R. Pammett; telephone conveners, Mrs. E. Price and Mrs. G. Little; sewing, Mrs. R. Tuck, Mrs. R. Harvey and Mrs. J. Watson; social convener, Mrs. J. Robinson.

Lunch was served by the hostess

PRIOR TO THE LOCAL COUNCIL OF WOMEN'S annual dinner meeting at the YWCA Thursday evening, members were seen chatting with their guests of honor, Mrs. Norman Graham, wife of Peterborough's mayor, (at extreme right) and beside her the guest speaker for the occasion, Mrs. William W. Majoribanks of Toronto. From the left are Miss Lillian Esplen, Council's chairman of United Nations, Mrs. W. T. Fanjoy, the corresponding secretary, and president Mrs. A. W. Nelson. —(Examiner Staff Photo)

Women's Work To Bring Peace—Loc. Council Speaker

"To pray for peace, and then get up off your knees and do nothing about it is an insult to God" declared Mrs. Wm. W. Majoribanks, forcefully, as she commenced her address at the Local Council of Women's annual dinner meeting here Thursday evening. Her topic was "The responsibility of women for peace".

"United Nations is the only organization striving to bring about peace, and those who want peace should support it" she said. Praying for peace and working in support of the peace organization is women's work, Mrs. Majoribanks reasoned, because the men must be engaged in the support of their families.

There was also the point that most women are mothers. "How mothers of sons can sit back with their hands folded appals me" said this mother of three grown-up young men. "What is the sense of looking after children, guarding them from disease and taking care to feed them properly so they may be strong and healthy adults, if they are then to die in war?" was her question.

"If war came tomorrow every one of you would throw yourself into working to win it. Why can't you work for peace?" she challenged. "Aren't you interested in preserving your sons?"

"How many of you have raised your little finger to make sure that war won't come again?" Mrs. Marjoribanks asked, and paused, facing a silent audience. There are many opportunities to do a practical job, she told them. UNICEF, the council of United Nations which is looking after the countries devastated by war, whether a member country or not, is crying for help. "A very little money regularly would supply the needs of these people."

Copies Of Reports Provided Council Members

Mimeographed copies of the annual reports of all officers and committee chairmen of the Local Council of Women and of most of the 34 affiliated societies of the council were provided for those attending the annual dinner meeting at the YWCA Thursday evening. The sheaf, which included a new year's message from the president of National Council, Mrs. A. Turner Bone, was 20 pages thick.

President Mrs. A. W. Nelson's report for 1953 mentioned in particular the organization of the Council for Retarded Children, in which she has had a part and has been in charge of the volunteers who drive the children to their school which started in September. She said the council is continuing to work toward "housing for elderly persons," and mentioned a meeting in this regard on January 29th at the public library.

The secretary's report, by Mrs. A. Hancock, advised that a resolution asking for the lowering of speed laws in school zones had been sent to Provincial Premier Leslie Frost, following a meeting of council women with Constable Don McKay, school traffic safety officer.

Letters to the city council had been in protest of their accepting a low figure or demolishment of the Queen Mary Hospital, and of the sale of firecrackers to children weeks prior to May 24th.

Treasurer Mrs. P. Martyn reported receipts for the year at $915.53, of which $606.25 was realized from the spring fashion show, $208.20 from luncheons, dinners and birthday tea, (with expenses in this connection being $240.91), a total of $40.58 from collections at monthly meetings and $60.50 in affiliation fees from 30 societies. Disbursements, of which the largest sum was for sending delegates to conventions amounting to $154.15 after the grant from National Council was paid, left a balance carried forward of $198.49.

The chairmen reporting were: laws, Mrs. F. Merrett; education, Mrs. E. Chambers, who is responsible for the starting of the School for Retarded Children which expects shortly to receive the government grant making it possible to admit children free of charge; economics, Mrs. W. A. Burrell; archivist, Mrs. W. H. Morton; radio, Mrs. E. B. McWilliams; housing and town planning, Mrs. A. A. McIntyre; public relations, Mrs. C. C. Pilon; trades and professions, Mrs. A. Moldaver.

The 20 affiliated societies whose reports were included were: Hadassah Chapter, Ladies' Auxiliary to Canadian Legion, Business and Professional Women's Club, Silver Cross Chapter, Civic Hospital Women's Auxiliary, Civic Hospital Nurses' Alumnae, 57th Regiment Chapter IODE, St. James' WA, Trinity WA, Murray St. WA, St. Andrew's WA, Humane Society, WCTU, Women's Progressive Conservative Association, Lyceum Club and Women's Art Association, Police Ladies' Auxiliary, Eastern Star LOBA, Children's Aid Society, YWCA, St. Paul's Ladies' Aid.

St. Giles' Choir Elects Officers

Following weekly practise of the St. Giles' Presbyterian church choir on Thursday night the officers were elected for the new year. William Saunders was returned as president. Following are the officers: honorary presidents the Rev. Gilbert D. Smith and G. Wilson Craw, president William Saunders, vice- president Leslie Sage, secretary Miss Christine Monk, treasurer Miss Betty Thomson and executive committee Mrs. Adam Sands, Jr., and Mrs. Stewart Perry. Gwen Craw is choir director.

MARMORA

MARMORA (ENS)— Marmora Home and School Association met in the public school, with a large attendance of members and parents.

Mrs. Roy Frost, president, was in the chair. The treasurer's report showed a good balance on hand.

Mrs. Frost reminded the ladies of the lecture on Wedgwood china to be given under the auspices of the IODE on February 8.

The attendance of parents and grandparents was taken. The banner went to Principal E. C. Prentice's room.

Three Grade 8 pupils, Sandra Bear, Jean Trumble, and Frank Marett, appeared in the playlet, "The Travelling Man."

Canon J. M. Brownlie, guest speaker, was introduced by Mrs. Frost. He gave a talk on some of his experiences while acting as chaplain for a month in 1952 at the penitentiary on Ryckers Island, N.Y. He was thanked for his talk by the Rev. K. J. Crawford.

Mrs. E. Manchester put on a contest. Winners were the Rev. J. E. Glover and Miss Jean Trumble.

The meeting closed with the national anthem. Refreshments were served.

St. Jos. Ladies' Auxiliary Gives Painting To Bishop

A painting of Eel's Lake presented to His Excellency Bishop Gerald Berry by the Ladies' Auxiliary of St. Joseph's Hospital, at the sixth annual dinner meeting Thursday evening will be a treasured memento of his less strenuous days while Bishop of Peterborough.

A farewel message to the Bishop expressing appreciation for his guidance during her two-year term of office was given by president Mrs. Bernard Monaghan before she presented the handsome painting done by a local artist, Jack Hamer.

The Bishop in his remarks previously referred to the Auxiliary as "a baby of mine and still an infant organization." He said he hopes it will grow in ratio to the increased hospital facilities and increased number of patients, which in turn will increase the duties of the auxiliary.

He approved the ladies' plan to canvas also some Protestant homes in their membership campaign, since the hospital statistics show more Protestant patients than Roman Catholics.

All branches of the auxiliary work were commended by the Bishop, but he singled out the tuck shop as one of their worthiest projects, being a convenience to al who use the hospital. Sister Lagourie was particularly mentioned as a worker in this.

ANNUAL REPORTS

Reading of annual reports of the Auxiliary and the election of officers took place in the auditorium of the nurses' residence with many of the Sisters being present. Opening prayers were led by Sister Josepha, Mother Superior.

Secretary Mrs. P. J. Anglesey had prepared an overall report of the past year's activities. Treasurer Mrs. H. J. McLarnon reported a total of $3,011.15 raised in the year. The balance on hand was $201.52 after supplying some equipment for the hospital and maintaining the auxiliaries' services to patients, nurses and sisters.

City membership had increased by 178 to 1,700 and the rural membership showed an increase of 98 with the largest increase being 31 in Ennismore. The increase in St. John the Baptist parish, Peterborough, was 76. Two new life members were Mrs. Hugh Waddell and Mr. D. A. McGillis.

Mrs. M. Armitage reported on Violet Day, for which the financial return was $1,097.81, and the booth at Peterborough Exhibition which realized $1,101.63.

Mrs. J. J. Crowley reported favors put on patients' trays on the holidays of the year and her committee also decorated for the dinner last evening. Nurses-in-training were entertained at three dances last year Mrs. Grace Poole, advised. They also were given a prize of $25 for the highest in theory by this committee.

Miss Louise Flynn is in charge of the hospital tuck shop. She reported the revenue from it was used toward purchase of hospital equipment. She is to give a detailed financial report at the February meeting.

The sewers completed 1,538 articles last year Mrs. Paquette Sr. reported. Each city parish provides the workers for a half day per month. The library committee made 2,776 contacts and distributed 713 books. They found the patients liked lighter reading material and were grateful for the magazine subscription supplied by 57th Regiment Chapter, IODE, also for donations of books the report prepared by Mrs. Vera Hickey stated.

Some discussion ensued on a proposed change in the constitution regarding the number of vice presidents. After reading of the new constitution by Miss Agnes Grant, the matter was discussed from the floor and when a vote was taken it was decided to revert back to having six vice presidents, but to omit the clause which made it their duty to be chairmen of the standing committees.

NEW EXECUTIVE

New president, elected at the meeting, is Mrs. J. L. Paquette. The six vice presidents were Mrs. M. Armitage, Mrs. O. Hallihan, Mrs. R. Gravelle, Mrs. D. Dwyer, Mrs. J. P O'Brien of Douro and Mrs. J. T. Howell.

Mrs. P. J. Anglesey was re-elected the recording secretary. Corresponding secretary is Miss Irene Howarth and new treasurer is Mrs. D. J. Emery.

Appreciation to retiring president Mrs. Bernard Monaghan who has served for two years, was expressed by Sister Josepha, superintendent of the Hospital, and by Mrs. J. L. Paquette who worked with her as first vice president last year.

DOROTHY DIX

Hopes Service May Soften Boy's Arrogant Manner

DEAR MISS DIX: After two years of love and devotion, my boy friend and I have broken up. We got along beautifully, liked the same things, enjoyed each other's company and had many mutual friends. The trouble was, that I began to get fed up with the tone of voice he used toward me. He would order me to do things in a harsh voice, and it made me rebel. I never had the courage to put him in his place, since I am not that kind of person. He realized afterward what he had done, and asked me to help him change his attitude. I don't think that's up to me. Perhaps the Army will curb him. He's a senior in college, and must serve two years in the armed forces after graduation.

He has an older brother who is mature and understanding. Do you think I could appeal to him for help? Do you think there's any chance of getting my boy back, or should I return his frat pin and forget everything?

Donna.

DOMINEERING, TEMPORARY

ANSWER: Since the young man had never before displayed arrogance toward you, nor shown signs of a bad temper, his conduct appears to be of a temporary nature. He may be overtired from a strenuous school schedule, or the arduous study it takes to be an honor student. It's quite likely, too, that his sudden bossy attitude may be a reaction against 16 years of school. It's characteristic of some college seniors that they do begin to rebel against an overdose of authority, especially if they attend a school where discipline is what it is in many of our higher institutions of learning. It's up to you to decide, (1) just what has been causing your friend's sudden change of disposition, (2) whether or not you love him enough to help him combat it, (3) whether or not one temperamental quirk will or wil not offset all his fine qualities.

My summation would be that he's well worth any efforts you must exert to get him back to normal. Do talk to his brother, discuss the problem with the young man (fortunately, he seems to be open to reason), and exercise all posible patience and tact in dealing with him. Fine young men don't grow in trees; once you've found one, he needs cultivating. As a textbook, I can recommend nothing so good as James Barrie's Play, "What Every Woman Knows." Maggie's problem was somewhat akin to yours.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Recently, while I was a patient at a tuberculosis sanatorium, I met John, who was also a patient. After we were both discharged, we went out together several times. We had our last date shortly after he had been back to the hospital for a checkup, and he said he didn't know when he'd see me again. I was very hurt, since I don't know what I did to make him mad.

Gerry.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: It seems quite obvious that John's moodiness was a reaction to unpleasant news concerning his checkup. At the moment he needs somebody to cheer him up, not let him down. When the time comes for him to tell you what he heard, he'll talk, but in the meantime don't add to his worries by being unreasonable.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm a busy mother of three children, and can't always manage to be dressed up when my husband comes home. He lets me know just what he thinks of my appearance on these occasions, but when I do manage to look nice, he never says a word.

Estelle.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: It's the perversity of the male that complaints come more easily than compliments. Even if your husband ignores your efforts to look nice for him, don't relax them. Take the extra few minutes for needed primping.

QUESTION: Once more I am calling on you for help. Will you please send me a recipe for Pork barbecue also Beef barbecue . . . Mrs. G. J. C.

ANSWER: There are many different barbecue sauces, some calling for ingredients almost impossible to obtain in most stores. I will give you a barbecue sauce which may be used on both beef and pork, especialy pork spareribs.

BARBECUE SAUCE

One-half cup catsup, 1½ teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon tabasco sauce, ⅛ teaspoon chili powder, 1 cup water, ½ teaspoon mustard, 1 tablespoon brown sugar. Mix these well together until smooth.

For Barbecued Beef this may be used in two ways: 1) Buy a rolled rump of beef or rolled porterhouse roast. Unroll it and spread the inside with the Barbecue sauce plus ¼ cup finely chopped onion, and sprinkle with extra salt and pepper. Roll up again and tie securely. Now sear the roll on all sides in hot fat in heavy kettle. When all sides are dark gold, add ½ cup boiling water and cook, covered in moderate oven of 325 deg. Fahr. for 2 to 3 hours, or over very low heat on top of stove until tender. (The rump will require 3 hours. More liquid may be needed for the rump if it is cooked on top of stove. 2) Make double the quantity of Barbecue Sauce above and add ¼ cup vinegar or lemon or lime juice (I recomemnd the lime). Buy a 5-lb. piece of fresh brisket point that is well-trimmed. Wipe it with damp cloth and sprinkle with salt. Place the beef brisket in heavy pan, pour the sauce over, and bake in oven of 325 deg. Fahr. for 3½ hours, turning and basting the meat with the sauce every half hour. Have on hand 1 can of condensed consomme. If and when the sauce becomes too thick, dilute it with a little consomme at basting time. This latter is a gourmet's dish and well worth the trouble. You will see it is quite inexpensive too. Delicious served with boiled dry lima beans. I hope other readers try this second version for it is a beauty.

For Barbecued Pork or Spareribs place pork chops or spareribs in 1 layer in bottom of heavy kettle. Cover with layer of slices onions. Pour barbecue sauce (above) over top; repeat these layers. Cover and bake at 325 deg. Fahr. until meat is tender—about 2 to 2½ hours. Uncover during last 30 minutes.

QUESTION: . . . tried your medium dark Christmas cake and found it luscious. Everyone enjoyed it. Could you tell me on what rack in the oven you usually place your fruit cakes. Mine had a tendency to be a bit dark on the bottom . . . My sister is being married shortly and has asked me to bake the wedding cake. Would you send me a recipe for a real fruity cake? — Mrs. F. E. D.

ANSWER: I placed my cake in the exact centre of the oven, and kept a waterpan with water in it during entire baking period. I baked 4 18-lb. cakes using this method and none of them tended to burn at all.

The following recipe is my richest dark fruit cake. I can recommend it highly for a wedding cake.

RICH DARK FRUIT CAKE

One lb. cut citron peel, 1 lb. candied pineapple, 1 lb. washed and dried currants, 1½ lbs. candied cherries, 3 lbs. seeded raisins, ½ lb. blanched almonds, 2½ cups sifted flour, 1 teaspoon each baking powder, cinnamon, nutmeg, ½ teaspoon cloves, ½ lb. butter, ½ lb brown sugar, 6 eggs, 1½ cups fresh cider or canned unsweetened pineapple juice. Cut the citron, cherries and pineapple thinly, and add to them the washed and dried currants and the raisins. Chop the almonds or leave them whole, just as you wish, and add to the fruits. Sift flour, measure it and sift it with the spices and baking powder, then mix it thoroughly with the mixed fruits and nuts. Cream the sugar and butter together until very light and add the beaten egg yolks until well mixed. Now add the fruit and flour mixture to the butter-sugar mixture alternately with the cider or pineapple juice until you are sure they are evenly mixed. Beat egg whites until stiff and fold them in. Line pans with unglazed paper doubled, then with wax paper buttered. I have baked this in 4 loaf pans 4½ x 8½ inches and in 1 large pan. It is 10 lbs. of cake. If you are going to bake it in the 3 graduated pans to make a 3-tier cake I think it will be just about right if you fill pans a little more than ¾ full. Don't overfill pans though. Bake at 275 deg. Fahr. with waterpan in oven. Don't be impatient for this may take anywhere from 3½ to 4½ hours—depending on pan sizes.

Lakefield United WA Holds Pot Luck Luncheon

LAKEFIELD— (ENS) — The Women's Association of the United Church met in the Sunday school rooms with a good attendance present. With the singing of Grace all sat down to a delicious pot luck luncheon.

Following the luncheon, Mrs. T. E. Rath took charge of the devotional period, reading Matt. 7, 21-25, and basing her address on these verses. Put the best work of heart, mind and soul into your work and soon your labor will be rewarded and you will discover that you have builded well. Our abilities and talents are forms of power and if we want to increase our stock of these we must put them to work. We must have faith in them by thinking success thoughts, thinking health, happiness and victory. The best way is by doing our work each day to the best of our ability.

The president, Mrs. P. H. Darling took the chair for the business. Due to the illness of the Rev. H. C. Wolfraim the installation of officers was postponed until the February meeting.

Mrs. Elwood Dunford gave the secretary's report and the treasurer's report showed a balance on hand of $131.

Mrs. S. Northey, Mrs. E. Allen and Mrs. I. Madill were named a committee to take charge of raising funds as there will be no groups this year.

Mrs. E. Edwards, Mrs. A. C. Carveth and Mrs. Rath were appointed to the parsonage committee.

It was decided that each member set aside $1.50 at the first of the year to be used as talent money. The proceeds to be turned in at the December meeting.

A committee was formed to take charge of some quilting to be done.

Couple Finally Take Baby Home To U.S.

TORONTO (CP) — Jack and Edith Shinder Thursday were granted a visa permitting them to take to their Brooklyn, N. Y. home the baby they have fought to get for almost 11 months.

The United States consulate granted the visa for the child, son of an unwed Toronto teen-aged girl.

The Shinders were arrested at suburban Malton airport Feb. 25, 1953, as they tried to board a New York-bound plane with the baby when he was just five days old.

The couple was charged with getting a birth certificate by fraud. The husband was convicted on the charge in March and was fined $150. The charge against his wife was dismissed.

Mrs. Shinder has been in Toronto most of the time since March.

Last week she was granted permission by the Ontario department of public welfare to take the baby to the United States and adopt it under the welfare regulations of New York City.

Radio Pioneer K. S. Rogers Dies

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP)—Keith S. Rogers, 62, who brought radio to the Maritimes in 1924, died Thursday after a brief illness.

Mr. Rogers was president and general manager of Island Broadcasting Company, operators of station CFCY here.

Born in Summerside, P. E. I., he was commissioned a lieutenant in the Canadian Signalling Corps in 1911 and eventually retired as commanding officer of No. 5 signals regiment here after the Second World War.

Early experiments with wireless led to his building the first military mobile wireless set at Petawawa in 1911. In 1924 he opened CFCY with the first commercial broadcasting licence east of Montreal.

Mr. Rogers' company also had an application for a TV station before the CBC board of directors.

He was a past president of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters, the Maritime Boards of Trade and several local organizations. He was also president and managing director of W. K. Rogers Agencies, an insurance firm.

Minister Cancels Trip To London, Ont.

OTTAWA (CP) — Agriculture Minister Gardiner has decided to cancel his scheduled trip to London, Ont., where he was to have been a guest speaker at the annual meeting of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture next Tuesday.

His parliamentary assistant, Robert McCubbin, will speak instead.

Mr. Gardiner, now in Regina, recently visited the Mayo Clinic for a medical examination. Doctors were understood to have advised him to let up on his activities.

MOVIES

Shelly Films representing Fox Movietone will be here to take motion pictures of the ceremony, and the barley cars moving off by rail to New York and thence by sea to the Orient.

Quaker Oats gave the committee a close price on the shipments, and feel a special satisfaction in the results of their processing of the barley that is produced by farmers of Western Canada.

Unitarian Service Committee will make appeal for further funds up to $100,000 to enable them to carry on the Korean relief that is already in effect.

$28,800 Placed In Estimates Of School Board

The board of education's advisory vocational committee estimates are $28,806 for 1954. This is $5,669 less than a year ago.

There are two main reasons for drop in the estimates. The machine shop is down from $10,131 to $1,100. Last year the committee set up and fully equipped a new machine shop; now the job is complete so that expenditure will not recur.

Secondly, grants for equipment and general grants from the department of education will not be large this year; so there has been a tendency to cut down on budget items that are not absolutely necessary. (Grants are given on a ratio of population to assessment. Peterborough is now into a class where they get less and less provincial help).

As usual, the principal item is salaries—$16,000 for 1954.

In the industrial department $1,000 has been put in the estimates for a new milling machine for the machine shop. And in the electrical shop there are a number of items that were to have been ordered last year but weren't.

BUDGET LARGER

H. A. Toole reported that the commercial budget is slightly larger than last year, $1,338 compared to $1,219 actually spent in 1953.

Five old typewriters will be replaced with five new ones and an automatic electric calculator will be bought.

Miss Katherine MacDougall convinced the committee that she needed two washing machines for her home economics department —one automatic and the other, described as an "easy spin dry washing machine. The two washing machines wil cost about $830.

NEW DINING SUITE

The home economics department will also get a dining room suite consisting of a table, six chairs, and two china cabinets.

Following is a list of the estimates, which now go to the finance committee for inclusion in board's demand on city night school salaries $16,000, vocational science $250, home economics (day) $2,327, home economics (night) $250, drafting $425, electrical shop $1,756, machine shop $1,100, woodworking $805, motor mechanics $1,900, plumbing $100, sheet metal $755, commercial $1,337.90, and miscellaneous $200.

Queen, Duke Enjoy Rest

ASHBURTON, N. Z. (Reuters)—Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh left the New Zealand city of Christchurch today and came here to the South island's most famous estate, Longbeach, for a week-end of relaxation by the sea.

They arrived nearly an hour late because of the vast crowds on the road from Christchurch, where they spent four busy days. Their week-end home, a rich farm created out of a swampy wilderness, is the private residence of a wealthy New Zealand family.

Longbeach resembles a comfortable brick-built English farm. Nearby, a lagoon provides good swimming as a contrast to surf bathing, which the duke can enjoy on the ocean beach.

A mile from the house, police have set up a check point to prevent sight-seers encroaching upon the royal holiday—the last relaxation the Queen and duke will have in New Zealand.

Plan Censorship Of Immoral Films

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Duplessis said Thursday in the legislative assembly "immoral films" have been shown on CBC television in Montreal and that his government plans to apply its censorship legislation.

Mr. Duplessis made the statement during discussion of 1954-55 estimates of expenditure.

Government censorship legislation was extended to television Dec. 10, 1952. It provides that no films may be shown on television in Quebec without being submitted to the provincial board of cinema censors.

Infringement of the law may be punished by confiscation and destruction of films and by fines.

The board of cinema censors is also charged under the law with supervision of live television programs and shows and must report to the attorney-general, Mr. Duplessis.

Says Few Taxpayers Aware Bus Company Pays $14,000

"If you asked the average ratepayer how much the bus company pays annually into the city treasury, mighty few of them could tell you," one of the drivers, prominent in their union, commented to the Examiner today.

"How many of them know that bus service is a considerable problem in a lot of cities across the country, that some of them are subsidizing local transportation, and that others would be glad to get rid of the expense of municipal ownership and operation of their lines?

"I understand that the company paid close to $14,000 into the treasurer in 1952, and I imagine the 1953 payment won't be far off that amount."

City Treasurer Couper confirmed the 1952 receipts from the company, an annual payment fixed in the franchise agreement.

CITY ERECT SIGNS

This employee of the company began the conversation by suggesting that the city should put up bus stop signs.

"I can't see what right the company should have to go along the streets placing signs at crossings. It appears to me to be up to the city, and might be a matter for that traffic committee we hear about. Especially in the summer time, we have quite a lot of people from out of town riding the buses, apart from our own citizens some of whom are confused about certain bus stops."

Peterborough bus lines will have paid $13,000 or more to the city for their franchise rights on the streets last year, (1953).

"We used to hear some people say that street paving has been laid for the benefit of the buses. Even if that were so, it means accommodation for citizens. But, today nearly every other house has an automobile, and those people are as much interested in paved surfaces as we are. If pavement was once a concession to the buses, it isn't today. Snow removal is a necessity. It also applies to the thousands of private cars."

Peterborough is extending in nearly all directions, and especially thrusting farther beyond the old north boundary. This growth may bring requests for projecting the bus service farther than today's routes.

"What we think the people should remember is that many another municipality in this country would be happy to have transportation such as our company provides, plus $13,000 or $14,00 a year for doubtful dividends."

Plan Organizing Navy League Unit In City

A branch of the Navy League will shortly be organized in Peterborough. Decision to set up a body to administer to naval needs and sea cadet training was taken at a preliminary meeting of sea cadet officials Thursday night.

The local branch of the sea cadets, RCSCC Howe, has been active in Peterborough since 1943, but there has been no Navy League Branch. The Navy League ministers to the morale of sailors, provides parcels for overseas, provides help for sick sailors and ex-sailors, all on a voluntary basis.

In cities where Navy League branches are operative, it also looks after sea cadet training. It is expected that William Carr, CO of the corps, will be named to direct this phase of the Navy League's activities.

CHARLES SHAW SPEAKS

Chief speaker at the preliminary meeting was Charles Shaw, secretary of the Ontario division of the Navy League. Mr. Shaw discussed the aims and functions of the group and discussed problems of organization with local backers.

Special guests included Ald. Gordon Powell, representing the city, the Rev. A. S. Roblin, cadet chaplain, Stanley Darling of the Lions' Club and William Keen from the Kinsmen Club.

Gone To Extreme In Witch-Hunting

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Labor Minister Daley said Thursday night the United States "has gone to the extreme" in "witch-hunting" for Communists.

Addressing the Grantham Townships Lions Club, the Ontario minister referred specifically to the recent detention of two University of Toronto students who were held in Florida for questioning about possible Communist connections. They were later released.

"We hear so much about the Communist element creeping into our affairs," he said. "I am one who thinks it is greatly exaggerated. I think the country to the south of us has gone to the extreme, particularly in detaining a couple of our college boys from Toronto.

"They're witch-hunting," Mr. Daley said.

Cecil R. B. Hope

Funeral services for the late Cecil R. B. Hope of 253 Mark St., who died on Monday in hospital following a short illness, was held on Thursday at St. Luke's Anglican Church.

Canon Walter J. Gilling officiated and pallbearers were Don and James Forbes, Harry Hope, Robert Long, Ernst Abraham and Roland Krant. Burial was at Little Lake cemetery.

Mr. Hope was very active in church work. He was a former Sunday school teacher, past president of St. Luke's branch of AYPA and member of its Dominion Council. Mr. Hope was also a former member of the Peterborough Male Voice Choir for many years.

Europe Has 2-Headed Baby Doctor Chases Newsman Out

WUERZBURG, Germany (AP)—An angry doctor chased a reporter from his home today as an official silence cloaked Wuerzburg's single-trunk twins, born in a local clinic three months ago.

Prof. Julius Stroeder, head of the children's clinic of Wuerzburg University where the twins are being cared for, refused to discuss the case and ordered a reporter off his premises.

Stroeder confirmed Thursday that the twins, with two heads, four arms and two legs, had been born to the 25-year-old wife of a German workman. Today he would not disclose the babies' condition nor talk of the birth.

The father has asked that the birth be given a minimum of publicity.

The birth of the German twins, who have two hearts and a single intestinal tract, apparently preceded a similar birth in the United States last December.

Local doctors called the Wuerzburg birth an "unfinished Siamese twin," and that the children should be considered two individuals.

The church, christened "both heads separately, while the registration office listed one child.

Physicians who declined to be named said they have a good chance to live.

Women's Work

The matter of Canada holding surplus wheat while so many people of the world are starving is one which the women might do something about if they would all send protests to the government, the speaker suggested. Many other ways to work will present themselves if you are interested, she told them, or "ask the United Nations Association in your city what you can do."

OUTLINES SET-UP

Mrs. Marjoribanks said it has been her observation that few people know much about the United Nations. So, she outlined the set-up in a manner which made it quite clear and will no doubt enable her hearers to understand better the UN news reports in future.

Most important body of the UN is the Security Council, dealing with acts of aggression and threats of war, she said. In this there are the five permanent member nations, "the Big Five," and six non-permanent who are elected for two-year periods on a staggered system.

For a motion in the Security Council to carry it must find the favor of all of the five, plus two of the non-permanent members, "and this system has almost hamstrung the UN," said Mrs. Marjoribanks. "Russia, one of the Five, has used the 'veto' 60 times," she explained. "However, Russia is not the only nation to use the veto, it works for the others too, but you might say that they 'use' it while the Soviet delegate 'abuses' it."

This system of voting comes up for revision in 1955 and Mrs. Marjoribanks hopes it may be changed. She said she believes the Russians would behave better if they did not get so much attention from the public, who pack the visitors' gallery whenever they are scheduled to speak, and from the television cameras which always play on them for the full time they are speaking though it may be hours, and only occasionally picture other nations' delegates.

The General Assembly with 60 nation members, the newest of which is Indonesia, allows five delegates from each but only one vote, and "is the nearest thing to a parliament of man," Mrs. Marjoribanks said.

After a quick tour through the United Nations buildings, which cost 68 million dollars to build and were furnished by the member nations, Mrs. Marjoribanks outlined the Economic and Social Council, which looks after the welfare of the nations like a family doctor, she says, diagnosing their ills and recommending them to the "specialists" which include UNICEF, UNESCO, the World Health Organization, the Food and Agricultural Organization, and the newest one called Korean Rehabilitation Association. She mentioned as "most spectacular" the Economical and Technical Aid to underdeveloped countries which looks after sending their resources and means of developing them. She touched briefly also on the Trusteeship Council looking after the non-self-governing countries, and then the Secretariat, the machinery of UN, in which the 60 nations are represented on the payroll with many more than 30 languages being spoken among the employees.

"We cannot have UN fail if we know what's good for us, for it's all that stands between us and a third world war," declared this outspoken daughter of a Scottish shipbuilder on the Clyde, with a "burr" still in her voice. "If we've any sense at all, we'll back it to the full to save ourselves and our sons."

Mrs. Marjoribanks (pronounced Marchbanks) has been largely responsible for the raising of $30,000 for the work of the Toronto United Nations Association during the past few years. She has visited United Nations headquarters as an official observer and has spoken internationally and on Canadian radio networks and major stations. She is a member of the discussion panel on the Universal Declaration of Human Rights which has been presented more than 20 times in Ontario.

Introduction of the speaker was by Miss Lillian Esplen, the Local Council's chairman of United Nations, and appreciation was expressed by Mrs. H. T. Rehill, and extended by presiding president Mrs. A. W. Nelson.

Third Of Priests Quit Church, RC's 'Perturbed'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Asserting that many Roman Catholics are "perturbed about their church," an excommunicated priest said Thursday night that nearly a third of all Roman Catholic priests quit the clergy.

"The number of priests quitting the priesthood is kept as secret as possible," Emmett McLoughlin told the annual meeting of POUA —Protestants and Other Americans United for Separation of Church and State.

KNIGHTS REPLY

The District of Columbia division of the Knights of Columbus, a Catholic fraternal organization, said in a statement that "this unfortunate man certainly is not representative of the more than 45,000 American Catholic priests."

The Knights said McLoughlin, after 15 years as a priest of the Franciscan order, "automatically excommunicated himself" by refusing a change of assignment and "quitting his priestly duties," and that he subsequently married a twice-divorced woman.

Many sincere Catholics, McLoughlin said, "deplore its (the church's) financial rapacity, its political alliances, its archaic moral doctrines which they either ignore or permit to ruin their lives and their marriages."

NOW RUNS HOSPITAL

McLoughlin, who left the priesthood in 1948 and now is superintendent of Memorial Hospital, Phoenix, Ariz., said "30 per cent of all Roman Priests leave Rome" and that as many as 75 per cent might quit if it were not for "fear of hell, fear of family, fear of the public, and fear of destitution, deprivation and insecurity."

The Knights of Columbus said: "We are certain that fair-minded non-Catholics will repudiate his exploiters" and that "Catholics will continue to pray that Emmett McLoughlin will return to the observance of the splendid vows he professed as a follower of St. Francis."

Jury Says Tragedy Not Due To "Criminal Negligence"

PEMBROKE (CP)—A coroner's jury ruled Thursday night that no criminal negligence by railway employees was connected with a railway sleeping car fire but urged that smoking in bed be restricted in drawing rooms and compartments.

The jury's decision was handed down after a day-long inquest into the death of Dr. H. A. Collins of Ottawa who died in a blaze in the rear car of a Canadian National Railways train near here Dec. 30.

The sleeping car porter testified to seeing the occupant of the compartment in which the fire broke out grind the burning ash from a cigaret into the carpet of the sleeper. Charles Faucault of Noranda, the sleeper occupant, testified he could not remember smoking before the fire broke out.

WAS EXAMINED, FREED

Faucault said all he remembers is being put into a cell following the fire. He was later mentally examined and released.

Porter Joseph Bailey said he warned Mr. Faucault about smoking in bed and later saw him grind out the sparks from his cigaret in the carpet.

Examined with the aid of an interpreter, Mr. Faucault said he had been undergoing treatment for a throat ailment in Montreal and had been put on the train there by a doctor.

"I woke up when I smelled smoke. There's a red button to call the porter and I pressed it two or three times. After that I don't remember anything."

CAN'T RECALL SMOKING

When asked by Mr. Neville if he had been smoking before the fire started, the witness replied: "I don't remember. I don't think so. I smoke very little."

Porter Bailey testified he had been told by a Montreal doctor to look after Mr. Faucault on the trip and make sure he made the proper train connections for Noranda.

Flagman J. P. Labraque testified that the fire was reported to him as the transcontinental passenger train was pulling out of the Pembroke station, but that when he pulled the emergency cord, the train stopped only briefly and then proceeded about a mile down the track before stopping again.

The conductor, Francois Sarault of Ottawa, said he misunderstood a signal from the head-end brakeman, Patrick Malone, when the train stopped the first time and signalled the engineer to start off again.

The emergency cord was pulled a second time by Francis D. Pink of Verdun, Que., the sleeping car conductor. Sarault then learned of the fire and hurried to the rear of the train, only to find the flames out of control.

URGES MORE PROTECTION

The jury ruled that Dr. Collins died from "suffocation and burning" and said it "does not find criminal negligence on the part of the railroad employees." It recommended that:

1. More adequate fire protection be provided;
2. There be a more definite understanding of signals;
3. Smoking in bed be restricted in drawing rooms and compartments as well as in berths.
4. Railway employees be given "more adequate" instructions and training to cope with emergencies.

Drs. J. O. Foohey and J. A. O'Connor, Pembroke physicians who examined Dr. Collins' body, said it was badly burned and that they found the left leg was broken.

Dr. Collins, a long-time member of the veterans affairs department medical staff, was the only one of 19 passengers who failed to escape from the burning coach.

Nature's guarded secrets

Is there ANY explanation when an empty lake refills after five years — and fish return in days? . . . when a rider's lost in a flood at night — and his mare finds the way home? . . . when a dreaded rattler slithers on a baby's lap — and doesn't strike?

Leave 347 PoWs In Neutral Zone, Reds Refuse Them

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Twenty-one Americans, a Briton and 325 South Korean pro-Red prisoners in Korea's neutral zone were caught today between a new Communist refusal to accept them and a tougher Allied attitude. Two Communist generals rejected for the second time an Indian proposal that the Reds accept "under protest" the prisoners who renounced their homelands for communism.

Indian guards abandoned the captives last midnight after the Reds wouldn't take them.

ORDER TO REDS

The United Nations command virtually told the Communist command to take them back.

"We welcome any statement that you will make as to your plans for removing them as rapidly as possible from their present camp to any area north of the present demilitarized zone," Maj. Gen. J. K. Lacey of the UN command told the Reds at a session of the military armistice commission.

Growing Allied impatience with the pro-Reds was reflected also in Washington, where Defence Secretary Charles Wilson said the 21 Americans "must make up their minds quickly" if they want to come home. "Their pay is going to be cut off very shortly," he said.

SOLDIER ARRESTED

Cpl. Edward S. Dickenson, 23-year-old U.S. soldier who originally stayed with the Reds but later changed his mind, was arrested in Washington and accused of "intercourse with the enemy" to get "favorable treatment."

Indian Lt.-Gen. K. S. Thimayya conferred today at Red headquarters with Communist generals Lee Sang Cho and Ping Kuo Yu on his suggestion that the Reds accept custody of the pro-Red prisoners under protest.

"The situation remains the same," he reported. "Nothing short of continued custody by the Indian command would satisfy them . . . they made it quite strong."

He said the Red generals proposed sending Communist Red Cross personnel into the camp to care for the men, which he agreed to provided it is in accord with the armistice.

Although Thimayya said he no longer has control over the anti-Red soldiers, he disclosed that a token guard of 20 Indians was left behind to "ensure law and order."

Tax Board Allows Rancher Appeal

OTTAWA (CP)—The income tax appeal board said today the revenue department ignored the intention of Parliament when it refused an Alberta rancher's election to average his income.

The board allowed the appeal of George L. Stringam of Lethbridge, Alta., and ordered the revenue department to re-assess his income to permit average income for the years 1946 to 1949 inclusive.

In 1948, Mr. Stringam, then 72 and a rancher since his arrival in Canada in 1910, sold his reanch lands to his youngest son but continued to raise cattle on rented land. He also had other sources of income, including Dominion of Canada bonds and mortgages.

In 1949, Mr. Stringam lost money on his stock-raising operations. Having made profits in the three previous years, he elected to average his profits for income tax purposes under provisions of the Income Tax Act.

The revenue department contended that Mr. Stringam's chief source of income in 1949 was not farming under meaning of the Income Tax Act and that he therefore could not average his income

Irregularities Worry Doucett

OTTAWA (CP)—Highways Minister Doucett of Ontario said Friday he is "gravely concerned" over irregularities in road-building contracts at Fort William.

He said he will invite the federal government to sit in at the investigation and will "leave nothing undone" to get the matter cleaned up.

Mr. Doucett conferred with Works Minister Winters. Mr. Winters informed him of the government's decision to hold back $2,000,000 in trans-Canada highway payments to the province until the Fort William inquiry is completed.

Five men are under arrest following disclosure of grafting in the Ontario highways department office in that area. The government here is responsible for payment of half the contracts totalling $10,500,000. It has paid $3,200,000.

2 Orillia Citizens Found Dead In Car

ORILLIA (CP) — Two Orillia residents were found dead in a car at noon today, apparently the victim of carbon monoxide poisoning.

Dead are Fred Fowler, 22, and Ruby Readman, 21.

Their bodies were found in a car parked two miles west of Orillia.

The girl was a dispatcher for a local taxi company, and Fowler a driver for the same company.

CHARGED WITH MURDER—Mrs. Mary Bell, 48-year-old widow of a Belleville, engineer, is taken from her home after arrest on a charge of murdering her husband. The body of her 52-year-old husband was exhumed seven days after he died. Mrs. Bell was remanded to Jan. 29 for preliminary hearing. She is shown with Inspector Clair Hayes of Belleville police.

Strike Ends For Workers At Chrysler

Mayor's Intervention Aids Settlement; Take 9-Cent Raise

WINDSOR (CP)—A week-long strike of 27 maintenance workers at the big Chrysler Corporation of Canada plant which made idle 6,000 other employees was settled Friday night.

The settlement followed intervention by Mayor Arthur Reaume, Liberal member of the Ontario legislature for Essex North.

The agreement was signed today in the mayor's office. The engineers returned to work today and the production and office employees will go to work Monday morning.

TAKE 9-CENT RAISE

The 27 striking members of Local 944, International Union of Operating Engineers (AFL-TLC) settled for a nine-cent hourly wage increase plus time and a half for Sunday work. The contract runs for two years. The engineers will also receive any benefits which the company negotiates with the United Automobile Workers (CIO-CCL) when its contract comes up for renewal next July. The UAW represents most production employees.

The mayor met both sides separately and then sealed his recommendations in two envelopes. He forwarded them to company and union officials with instructions to call him by 10 p. m. Friday. Both gave affirmative answers and the strike ended.

Thursday, John Dunklee, Ontario government negotiator, brought union and company together for the first time. After a two-hour session, the company asked for a "rock-bottom" offer from the union to end the strike.

DEMANDS WITHDRAWN

Union negotiators withdrew their two major demands for a six-cent raise retroactive to July and time and a half for all Saturday work. They agreed to end the dispute for five cents more than the six-cent increase the company offered. The company refused.

Engineers received $1.87 to $1.97 an hour according to rating. The new hourly rate is $1.96 to $2.06.

The company previously approved a conciliation board report recommending a six-cent raise and time and a half for Sunday work. The union refused and asked that the raise be retroactive and for the extra day on time and a half.

HEAT CUT OFF

Talks broke up a week ago and the men walked off the job leaving Chrysler car and truck plants without heat or compressed air

STRIKE ENDS

Inquiry May Go Back 20 Years

TORONTO (CP)—The Telegram says today that the scope of a provincial government inquiry into irregularities in northern Ontario highway divisions "may extend to contracts awarded as long as 20 years ago."

The newspage story says a crew of 55 investigators studying surveys and the engineers' reports will be enlarged and will get bigger quarters.

The inquiry started in the Fort William division and spread to Blind River.

Calls Hog Producers 'Legalized Bandits'

STRATFORD (CP)—Reeve Theodore Parker of Ellice township said Friday the Ontario Hog Producers' Association and its marketing agent are "legalized bandits" and asked Perth county council to seek a new farm vote on the association.

Council turned down the request in favor of giving the association at least a year to iron out its problems.

Reeve Parker said the association and United Livestock Sales of Toronto were merely providing high-salaried jobs for their officers.

He said the association has the right to tell producers where they may or may not ship hogs.

"We can get a better price at Kitchener than at Toronto," he said.

The association was made sole marketing agent for hogs after a vote of hog producers.

TO THE SKIRL OF BAGPIPES, the "great chieftain o' the puddin' race," the haggis, was ushered in by piper Thomas B. Kay at the Canadian Scottish club dinner Friday night celebrating the 195th anniversary of Robert Burns' birthday. The club's director of welfare, Ben Caldwell, is seen as haggis bearer. Combined with servings of Scotch broth, steak and kidney pie, tatties and neeps, the haggis made a delectable meal. —(Examiner Staff Photo)

$300,000 Fire In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—A general-alarm fire gutted a three-storey office building Friday night, forcing 150 guests out of a nearby hotel and threatening for a time to spread through a block of one of the oldest sections of the city. Two firemen suffered minor injuries when hit by flying bits of glass. Damage to the Notre Dame St. West building was estimated at $300,000, the heaviest from fire in the city this winter. Some 170 firemen from 18 stations fought the flames for two hours in sub-zero weather. At one point it was feared the blaze would stretch all along the block and dynamite stored seven doors away were removed.

Twenty persons were in the building when the fire broke out in a section occupied by Taylor Advertising Limited. Three were cut off from the doors by smoke and flames and climbed down fire-escapes to the street.

Firemen immediately ordered evacuation of the nearby York Hotel which suffered heavy smoke and water damage. A part of the roof was touched by the flames.

FIREMAN ESCAPES

One fireman was almost pinned when the roof of the building collapsed but he dodged concrete moulding and other debris tumbling to the ground.

It was the second major fire in Montreal within a week. On Jan. 14, three persons were killed in an early-morning blaze that destroyed the Chateau Hotel. Property loss was $100,000.

V. Traversy, president of the advertising firm where the blaze started, said furniture valued at between $50,000 and $60,000 had been destroyed.

"But the damage to our records, which date back as much as 20 years, and a large set of plans and designs for display advertising, cannot be estimated," he said.

The blaze tied up traffic on Notre Dame St., one of the city's busiest arteries, during the evening rush-hour. Hundreds of spectators jammed the street outside firemen's cordons to watch the flames leaping skywards.

S. Ontario Only Section Slated For Relief From Cold At Weekend

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A fresh blast of Arctic air bore down on winter-weary Canada today, promising a renewed onslaught of far-below-zero temperatures that have claimed at least 15 lives on the Prairies in the last 10 days.

The Dominion weather office said the Arctic blasts will give most centres on Sunday weather as cold as any they've had.

The gloomy forecast followed a breathing spell of moderating air which today raised daily lows as much as 20 degrees.

B.C. VERY COLD

The west coast, ordinarily comfortable, labored under heavy snow and below-freezing temperatures. Eastern Canada hovered around or below the zero mark.

Moderating air from the southwest spread today over Saskatchewan, Manitoba and northern Ontario. The new blast from the Arctic will sweep into these areas Sunday, dropping temperatures 20 degrees in some centres.

Only comparatively warm spot in Canada Sunday will be southern Ontario, with temperatures rising to about two degrees below freezing. But the rest of the country, from Vancouver to Halifax, will remain cold.

When moderating winds hit White River in northern Ontario Friday night, the thermometer jumped to 17 above. The previous night's low was 25 below.

Some lows recorded across Canada Friday night: Edmonton -28, Calgary -33, Saskatoon -28, Winnipeg -7, Ottawa -16, Montreal -11, Quebec-19, Moncton -11, Halifax-10, Peterborough-9.

At Kingston, Ont., the thermometer shot down to -15 Friday night, putting an end to the ferry service to Wolfe Island. The harbor froze over on exactly the same date in 1952. By contrast, the ferry was unable to operate on only two days in 1953—March 2 and 3—setting a record for winter service.

A curling rink roof at Duncan, B. C., caved in under weight of snow, doing $10,000 damage.

Prayers Not Answered

Reports Burned Plane, Finds Own Son Victim

INTERNATIONAL FALLS Minn. (AP)—Praying her own son wasn't among the victims, an elderly woman tried for three days to notify authorities she had discovered a burned plane near her wilderness area resort. But Mrs. Barney Langford's worst fears were realized. Her son, Burt, 40, was one of three who died in the crash.

Mrs. Langford, 68, and her husband saw a swirl of smoke shortly after their son's plane took off. The 75-year-old husband is in poor health and unable to move around. Mrs. Langford got close enough to see the plane Tuesday but couldn't reach it because of ice. She was also barred by ice from advising the nearest neighbor who had two-way radio.

Finally on Thursday she donned snow shoes and walked five miles through the woods to reach the radio-equipped home.

Authorities at Fort Frances, Ont. put a plane in the air the same day and spotted the wreckage.

Bodies of Langford, R. J. Fox of International Falls and May Dutcher, Excelsior, Minn., were to be flown to Fort Frances today.

17 Prisoners Problem For 2 Detectives Take All Wallets, Followed Like Pied Piper

NEW YORK (AP)—Detectives Philip O'Brien and Thomas Cagney had a problem on their hands Friday night.

They had just raided a card game, nabbing 17 persons. However, there was no telephone available for calling the nearest station house for reinforcements, and the two officers figured one of them could not watch the prisoners alone while the other went for help.

The two officers thought a bit, then forced the 17 to hand over their wallets, announcing:

"If you want your wallets back, come to the station house."

Say Scaffolding Collapsed At Bersimis Site

LABRIEVILLE, Que. (CP)—Ten men were killed today in a construction accident on the Bersimis river power project, about 175 miles from Quebec. The accident occurred at Lac Casse, a few miles north of this project-base community. Reports said the men were killed when a scaffolding collapsed but confirmation and further details were lacking pending full reports from the rugged bush area. The men were employed by the Angus Robertson Construction Company of Montreal, engaged in work on the Quebec-hydro project.

The provincial police authority said officers were sent to the area.

A spokesman for the company in Montreal said meagre reports had been received and that president Donald Robertson would leave for the area this afternoon.

The construction project extends from Labrieville up the Bersimis river to Lac Casse. There was no immediate indication how many men are employed there at the present time.

Atomic Plant Will Be Built

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—An official of the Atomic Energy of Canada Limited said Friday that it is "certain" an atomic power-producing plant will be built in Ontario.

C. C. Kennedy, public relations officer of the government-owned plant, said:

"All that has to be decided is what type it should be. As long as we can see a square inch of uranium as the equivalent of 1,300 tons of coal, we just cannot overlook that source of power."

Speaking to a service club meeting he explained the working of an atomic reactor and said the rebuilt NRX reactor at Chalk River is expected to be back in service in a few weeks.

Jacobs Released On $5,000 Bail

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Clarence Jacobs was out on $5,000 bail Friday after a hearing which postponed his case to Feb. 17, the day after Donald Ritchie appears in court.

Jacobs, Ritchie's uncle, was named by his nephew as trigger man in the 1948 attempted murder of Walter Reuther, CIO and United Automobile Workers' Union president. Ritchie named four other men.

In Friday's hearing, Jacobs' lawyer, Ross Riddell, applied for bail and was not opposed by Bruce Macdonald, crown attorney. Mr. Macdonald said he thought bail should be substantial and suggested $5,000.

Mr. Riddell said since Jacobs was not actually facing a criminal charge but merely held for extradition, it seemed unfair to keep him in jail. He quoted precedents and bail was allowed.

Million Dollar Fire Sweeps Oil Tank Dock

SEATTLE (AP)—Fire swept the length of Standard Oil Co.'s 1,000-foot dock at the Point Wells "tank farm," 13 miles north of here, early today. Damage was estimated at more than $1,000,000 but no injuries or deaths were reported.

The blaze was brought under control at 3 a. m. PST (6 a. m. EST) after threatening a huge area of gas, oil and fuel-oil tanks, one of the largest "farms" on the Pacific coast.

The fire started late Friday night after the oil-laden tanker J. L. Hannah smashed into the pier while attempting to dock.

Sparks ignited oil flowing from 10 ruptured fuel lines leading from storage tanks to the dock. The fire, in turn, set off a number of explosions in 50-gallon drums of fuel oil piled on the pier. Great columns of flame roared 600 to 700 feet in the sky.

700 FEET OF PIER LOST

The fire, fanned by a stiff wind, spread along the dock, destroying 700 feet of the pier. As the flames neared the north end of the dock there was another explosion and the blaze ripped through the final 300 feet in less than five seconds.

Burning fuel oil covered the waters of Puget sound in the immediate vicinity of the dock, keeping six fireboats from effective range.

The Hannah, being nosed to its berth by a tugboat, was pulled safely away when the fire broke out. Eight men of the dock, ready to moor the Hannah, escaped without injury.

Unidentified Planes Cause Seoul Alert

SEOUL (AP) — A flight of unidentified planes from North Korea flew as far south as Seoul today and touched off a half-hour air raid alert.

U. S. Sabre jets "scrambled" into the air but failed to make contact with the unidentified aircraft which turned and flew back into North Korea.

The unidentified flight of "several planes" was picked up by radar and tracked as it crossed the demarkation line, sped over the Seoul area and turned back north.

Molotov Prods Big Four On Arrival About China

By ARTHUR GAVSHON

BERLIN (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov arrived here today for a Big Four meeting and immediately prodded the Western powers to admit Red China to the conference table if they want to speed up the end of the cold war.

Under security protection of thousands of troops and secret police, the Kremlin's No. 1 diplomat came to East Berlin by plane from Moscow. He declared:

"The sooner the Chinese People's Republic takes part in negotiations over current international questions of the great states, the better it will be—the better for the strengthening of peace between peoples."

Only a handful of Communist officials of East Germany and other Soviet bloc countries heard Molotov's statement read at Schoenefeld air field but it was broadcast 2½ hours later.

COLD TO IDEA

The West has been cold to the idea of having Red China sit in on the present meetings.

Molotov's convoy of seven limousines coming from the airport, roared down Unter den Linden to the Russian embassy at 60 miles an hour shortly after noon. The elaborate security measures made it clear that the Russians were taking no chances of incident in the areas where just seven months ago East German workers rose in bloody rioting against the Communist regime.

As Molotov put in his appearance for the Big Four talks on German unity and an Austrian independence treaty, the three Western ministers conferred for several hours in the French sector. They discussed plans for co-ordinating their views for their meeting with Molotov. It will be the first such session of the Big Four foreign ministers since they failed to agree on Austrian independence at a session in New York in October, 1949.

FIRST TO ARRIVE

Britain's Anthony Eden was the first to arrive for the Western strategy talks at the French high commissioner's residence deep in the Tegel forest area of northern Berlin, where France's Georges Bidault was host. Eight minutes later State Secretary John Foster Dulles of the United States drove up.

Diplomatic sources said the Western ministers have devised two broad plans for getting some positive results out of the Big Four talks.

Diplomatic officials said the first plan, agreed upon at last month's Bermuda conference, retains the key Western stipulation that free German-wide elections must precede formation of any all German government. The second plan, British in origin, envisages for the East and West Germany another way of life if unity talks fail.

The Russians have insisted that an all-German government must come before elections.

Britain feels a breakdown in the Big Four talks would increase international tension. To that end she has come up with proposals aimed at winning a breathing space for East and West which could be used to improve day-to-day cooperation between the divided zones of Germany.

TO MOSCOW—John B. C. Watkins, 51, has been appointed Canadian ambassador to Moscow. A native of Norval, Ont., he is expected to take office March 1 and will be the first to fill the post vacant since Dana Wilgress was withdrawn in 1946 at the time of the Russian "spy trials" in Canada. Before his new appointment, Mr. Watkins was minister to Norway and Iceland. He joined the external affairs department in 1946.

Say Housing Legislation Good For Banks

OTTAWA (CP)—The CCF and Social Credit parties regard the government's proposed housing legislation as a good thing for the banks, but not for prospective home owners.

This was the appraisal of the government's mortgage-insurance scheme given in the Commons Friday by spokesmen for both parties.

One Progressive Conservative speaker, however, said the banks could be made to look "nasty." All opposition parties wanted lower down payments and interest rates and longer periods to repay the mortgages.

Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) said the insurance scheme will protect the money-lending institutions against default of mortgages at the expense of the borrowers.

The banks would get "not only a new field for investment, underwritten, guaranteed and protected at public expense, but as well are getting insurance against a depression, to be paid for by the people who purchase these homes."

Of the insurance—two per cent of lending value in the case of home ownership—is to be paid by the borrower. In cases of default, the lender is repaid 98 per cent of the loan outstanding.

WOULD EXPAND CREDIT

C. E. Johnston (SC—Bow River) said the country's credit will be expanded by allowing the banks into the mortgage field. The banks would be permitted to use mortgages to obtain credit from the Bank of Canada, making for an expansion in the amount of credit outstanding in the country. Lending of depositors' money would not be involved.

He was not critical of the credit expansion for housing, but said it should be done directly by the Bank of Canada instead, lending from a revolving fund to municipalities.

George Hees (PC — Toronto Broadview) said there is no indication banks can increase the supply of available money for home mortgages.

Moreover, the banks would be doing the "dirty work" if a recession occurred and bankers were forced to foreclose the mortgages and evict the home owners. Mortgage loans would divert the banks' investments from industrial and commercial enterprises and that would slow down Canada's expansion.

LOWER REQUIREMENTS

To qualify for housing loans under the act, a man would have to earn at least $3,860 a year, he said, and that would eliminate half of Canada's wage-earners. The income requirement should be lowered to $3,000, the average annual income of wage-earners in Canada.

Mr. Hees said the down payment should be held to 10 per cent on homes up to $12,000 in value, instead of 10 per cent on the first $8,000 and 30 per cent on the remainder.

Mr. Knowles went further, suggesting the government consider eliminating down payments altogether in the case of homes for low-income families.

Two Liberal members, however, opposed any reduction in the down payment below the level set in the new legislation.

Paul T. Hellyer (L — Toronto Davenport) said lower down payments would bring more purchasers into the market for homes and force up their price.

Tom Goode (L—Burnaby-Richmond) said the $500 down payment suggested by some opposition speakers would mean that a year after purchase, the home-buyer's share of ownership in his house would not equal the depreciation on the building.

Dairy Farmers Seek Further Protection

HAMILTON (CP) — The Dairy Farmers of Canada Friday moved to seek further protection for their industry and at the same time to provide some explanation of the benefits they claim their efforts have brought the consumer as well as the producer.

The annual statement of policy was prepared during the final moments of Friday's open sessions as the 1954 annual meeting came to a close. The organization voted in favor of a policy that would seek equality with other industries in the matter of protection and at the same time continue a public relations program aimed at explaining agriculture to the urban consumer.

Butter stocks, said one clause in the policy, are reaching the point where they might be detrimental to dairy economy. The organization voted to urge federal action to "substantially curtail such unfair competition (dairy substitutes, which it said caused further detriment to the industry) and enable the butter industry to be maintained in a healthy and stable condition."

3 Killed When Train Smashes Into Truck

MONTREAL (CP)—Three persons were killed Friday when an Ottawa-Montreal passenger train struck a skidding truck, hurling bodies and parts of the demolished truck more than 800 feet.

The accident occurred at a level crossing near suburban Dorval. A provincial police officer said icy conditions of the road appeared responsible.

The dead: Georges-Aime Leroux, 23; J. P. Lamarre, 18, Leroux' cousin, and Roger Croteau, 23. All lived in Montreal.

The truck was driven by Leroux.

Summary for Sunday: Milder.

New Department Formed At Civic

A new department has been added to the Peterborough Civic Hospital medical staff with the detachment of three anaesthetists to form a separate service of surgery.

On the motion of the medical and surgical advisory committee, the board of governors has named Drs. Agnes K. Moffat, D. W. Aitken and J. M. Wishart to form the new unit.

The new arrangement leaves 12 doctors on the service of surgery, including recently-appointed Dr. S. L. Rutledge.

There are 10 doctors on the service of medicine, six on obstetrics and gynaecology, 20 on general practice, four on eye, ear, nose and throat, two in dentistry, three in pediatrics, two in pathology, seven on the associate staff and 11 on the honorary staff, making a total of 80.

CGE Plans Picnic For June 5

The CGE's annual employees' picnic will be held at Nicholls Oval June 5. The picnic committee is hoping that at least 5,000 children will be on hand, and that a good percentage of the children will be adults.

Feature of this year's picnic, designed to make children of all ages wide-eyed, will be a miniature railroad. This machine, which can accommodate 36 junior-sized passengers at a time, will be brought from Buffalo with its operator Eddie Bach. Complete with its own engine and three open passenger coaches, the railroad moves over a substantial area of its own tracks.

Already plans are afoot to book vaudeville attractions for the picnic, on the grounds that better acts can be obtained if action is taken early. There will be nine acts slated for the evening performance, four for the afternoon.

Also on hand, mainly for the youngsters' benefit, will be last year's "Gritz and Gravy" team. Gravy is described as a highly intelligent mule, and Gritz, his boss, is owner of numerous miniature bombs.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP)—Flax prices continued to show the best tone as most grains held to a narrow range in dull trade Friday on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Flax moved up on local and commission house buying which found offerings light. Best commercial demand was in oats, where domestic shippers made purchase for eastern feed requirements. Prices for the top grades of Class 2, IWA and domestic wheat dropped one-eighth cent, except Class 2 durums which were unchanged.

Purdon Helps Sunderland Smash Arsenal

LONDON (Reuters)—Ted Purdon, husky forward from South Africa, today scored three goals to help lowly Sunderland smash London's Arsenal, 1953 champion of English League Division I soccer.

Sunderland, third from the bottom of the table, defeated Arsenal 4-1 before 60,000 soccer fans on the Gunners' home ground. It was a repeat performance for Sunderland, who beat Arsenal 7-1 last September.

There were no changes at the head of the first division. Leader West Bromwich Albion was held 0-0 by Burnley and now has 41 points. Wolverhampton Wanderers were beaten 2-0 by Portsmouth but still hold second place with 39 points, four ahead of Huddersfield, Burnley and Bolton. Arsenal is in seventh position.

Everton went to the top of the second division with 35 points after a 2-2 draw with Doncaster. Leicester, last week's leader, lost 3-1 to Nottingham Forest and both teams now join Doncaster, Birmingham and Blackburn Rovers with 34 points each.

IPSWICH LOSES

Ipswich, leader of Division III (Southern), lost 1-0 to Reading but with 43 points has a comfortable five-point advantage over Southampton and Brighton, which both won today.

In the northern section, leader Port Vale drew 0-0 in a clash with its nearest rival, Gateshead. Port Vale has a five-point lead with 44 points. Barnsley downed Darlington 5-1 to reach 38 points, one behind Gateshead.

Hearts, 4-2 victor over Dundee, retains first place in Scottish League Division A with 30 points. Queen of the South, downed 3-1 by Celtic, is in second place with 26 points.

In Division B, league-leader Motherwell, fighting hard to return to the premier division at the first attempt, blasted Dundee United 12-1. Kilmarnock and Stenhousemuir, both winners today, are in second place with 27 points, eight behind Motherwell.

PoW Facing Army Charge

WASHINGTON (AP)—Cpl. Edward S. Dickenson, a Virginia farm boy who changed his mind about staying with the Communists in Korea, faced United States Army charges that he dealt illegally with his Red captors to get better treatment. If tried and convicted of one of the charges, he could be sentenced to death.

The army notified Dickenson of the charges Friday night, then placed him under arrest at its Walter Reed hospital here, where he has been undergoing a physical examination.

The 23-year-old soldier stands accused of unlawfully holding "intercourse with the enemy" to get "favorable treatment." The formal charges say his activities hurt other prisoners-of-war held by the Reds.

Officials explained that the filing of these charges, based on accusations by former fellow prisoners, is only a preliminary action. It does not even necessarily mean he will be brought to trial.

TO INVESTIGATE FIRST

An official announcement by the military district of Washington said no decision will be made on whether to try Dickenson until after an investigation of the charges and evidence has been finished and its results "fully reviewed for legal sufficiency." The army said this preliminary will be held "at the earliest date possible."

Dickenson, whose home is in the remote mountain town of Cracker's Neck in southwestern Virginia, was one of 23 U.S. soldiers who refused to return to United Nations lines when the Korean truce was signed last summer. He later asked neutral Indian guards to take him back.

The young Virginian told reporters at the time that the Chinese Reds "kept me back" with threats.

A second American, Cpl. Claude Batchelor, renounced the Communists New Year's Day. He now is in a Tokyo hospital.

The Far East command said Friday night that it has not knowledge of any similar action that may be taken against Batchelor. The soldier's mother, Mrs. O. L. Batchelor, said in Kermit, Tex., that she hopes her son will come home "and face whatever he has to face."

Airmen Involved In Montagu Case

LYMINGTON, Eng. (AP) — A prosecutor today accused Lord Montagu of Beaulieu and two friends facing 19 morals charges of bringing two young airmen under their "seductive influence" by lavishing hospitality upon them.

The 27-year-old bachelor nobleman appeared for preliminary hearing with Michael Pittrivers, 37, Lord Montagu's cousin, and Peter Wildeblood, 30, a London journalist. All three are charged with committing serious offences and acts of gross indecency with male persons.

The prosecutor disclosed the evidence against the trio developed from an investigation by the RAF security department.

The prosecution alleged there had been drinking parties at which the men involved danced together and told of affectionate letters written by the accused men.

Cold Affecting Market Sales

Although the recent cold spell may aid in keeping produce fresh at the farmers' market, it is not doing much for sales.

Opinions differ among the vendors; some claim that todays' market was better than it has been for weeks, others claim that it was worse, but it is certain that warmer weather will not be scorned.

As usual the two major items for sale were fowl and eggs. Chickens and capons remain steady at 50 cents a pound. A few ducks were selling at the same price. Eggs ranged in price from 60 to 40 cents a dozen. Extra large grade 'A' were selling at 55 to 60 cent a dozen, large, 53 cents a dozen, medium, 45 cents a dozen, and pullets, 40 cents a dozen.

A large assortment of pastries were being sold. Homemade bread was 25 cents a loaf, tarts, 50 cents a dozen, muffins, 40 cents a dozen, date squares, 40 cents a dozen, meat pies, two for 25 cents, and cup cakes and tea biscuits, 30 cents a dozen.

Some home-knit socks were selling for $2 a pair, mitts ranged in price from 50 cents to $1, while hand embroidered pillow slips were selling at $2 and $3 a set.

A single basket of Talmen Sweets was selling for 60 cents.

Sentences Imposed For Attempted Murder

WINDSOR (CP) — Sentences were imposed Friday on two men convicted of attempted murder in separate cases during recent Supreme Court assizes.

Frank Trelya, 51, of Windsor, was sentenced to three years in connection with the shotgun wounding of Mrs. Alex Drozdowsky of Windsor. He was convicted of attacking the woman and her husband while they were painting a fence.

John S. Ferguson, 39, of Windsor, was sentenced to two years less a day after being found guilty of trying to murder Joseph Cymbalisty, 41, of Windsor. Testimony showed he fired a revolver at Cymbalisty.

Valuable Mineral Field Opened At Sudbury

TORONTO (CP)—Mines Minister Philip Kelly said today that a potentially valuable mineral field has been opened for development in the Sudbury district, with two leases of land lying under Windy lake.

Successful bids totalling $220,762 were by Falconbridge Nickel Mines Limited and J. Bradley Streit of Toronto, Mr. Kelly said in a statement. This gives a 21-year lease with annual payment of $10 an acre for the 1,650 acres.

Several lake bottoms in the Cobalt and Porcupine areas were set up for similar leasing several years ago.

Canada Will Buy Commonwealth Sugar

BRISBANE, Australia (Reuters) — Canada will soon buy 150,000 tons of raw sugar from Commonwealth countries but how much she will buy from Australia depends on the price, a Canadian deputy trade minister, William Bull, said here tonight.

There is no reason to believe that the sugar agreement between Canada, Cuba, Haiti and San Domingo which has just ended will be renewed, he said.

Buy 193,830,348 Gals. Of Beer At Breweries

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadians paid record sums to the breweries during 1952 for the ninth straight year. They bought 193,830,348 gallons of beer, ale, stout and porter.

The bureau of statistics reported Friday that value of brewery sales soared to a peak of $303,929,962 in 1952 compared with $274,418,064 in 1951. This was two and one-half times the $121,815,600 sales value in 1942.

Purchases of beer, ale, stout and porter were nine-per-cent higher than the 177,657,694 gallons sold in 1951 and compared with 109,017,630 gallons sold in 1942. These four beverages account for 98 per cent of the breweries' output.

Net sales value after deduction of $125,161,156 in federal and provincial taxes and duties totalled $178,768,806 compared with $161,159,033.

Royal Couple Taking Rest

ASHBURTON, N.Z. (Reuters) — Queen Elizabeth strolled today on shady lawns and by ornamental lakes of a private estate near here.

But the Duke of Edinburgh, impelled by his interest in science, left the leafy groves of Longbeach and motored to the Winchmore irrigation research station.

There were no official engagements to worry the royal visitors this weekend. They have been assured of a complete rest and are secluded from the public gaze until they resume the busy round Monday.

They have 4,000 acres of park and farm land to make themselves at home in — land won from a swampy wilderness by the pioneer first owner, John Grigg.

The present owners, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Grigg, vacated the house for the royal couple and are staying elsewhere on the estate.

Suggest Sanatorium Used Treat Cancer

KITCHENER (CP)—Using nearby Freeport Sanatorium as a cancer-treatment centre was suggested Friday night to the Waterloo county unit of the Canadian Cancer Society.

Dr. A. E. Broome of Kitchener recommended a committee be formed to work with the Waterloo County Health Association, operators of the sanatorium, to obtain a separate building there for cancer treatment.

Five Remanded At Ft. William, Bail Renewed

FORT WILLIAM (CP) — Five men accused of irregularities in the Fort William division of the Ontario department of highways today were remanded two weeks by Magistrate C. D. Lemay.

No plea was taken from the accused and bail of $1,000 each was renewed. The court room was filled to capacity.

Crown attorney P. V. Ibbetson, in asking for the remand, said that Charles Dubin, appointed special prosecutor for the attorney-general's department, will be here Feb. 6 at the preliminary hearing.

Remanded was A. M. Mills, 60, of Port Arthur, former division engineer, who is charged with "authorizing payment for work not done" and of misrepresenting the amount of work actually performed under highway contracts.

TWO BROUGHT BACK

Others remanded were Douglas T. Cutting, 41, of Fort William; Donald T. Gandier, 30, of Fort William; Thomas L. Ayres, 56, of Guelph; and Graham W. Turner, 29, of Cochrane, Ont. The latter two, formerly highways employees in the Fort William division, were brought here by provincial police escort.

The latter four are charged with conspiring together and with one another to defraud the government.

Mills was represented by T. P. Callon, Cutting by Bernard Black, Gandier by A. W. Maloney and Turner will be represented by G.T. Evans of Timmins.

Mr. Callon criticized newspapers "outside the Lakehead" which he said had tended to "prejudice" the case against his client by their reports. He accused the newspapers, which he did not identify, of "flagrant contempt of court."

He added he wished to go on record as requesting "some particulars" to the charge against his client so a defence can be prepared. Mr. Black and Mr. Maloney supported his remarks.

Tax Board

with the three previous years, when he owned his own land.

Board member W. S. Fisher ruled that Mr. Stringam was a farmer in 1949 under terms of the act and that he could elect to average his income. In his written judgment, he said:

". . . One has to keep in mind the intention of Parliament, which obviously was aware of the hazardous nature of farming and fishing operations and the fact that, due to the effect of business conditions, farmers and fishermen are frequently experiencing profitable years followed by years of losses.

"The legislation was enacted, therefore, in an endeavor to equalize the tax which a farmer or fisherman would have to pay, depending on his average income over a number of years.

"If the contention of the (Revenue department) is to be accepted . . . then the whole purpose of the legislation is completely nullified.

"If that were the interpretation to be given the legislation, it would mean that any person in the business of farming, if he desires to average his farm income for the purposes of the Income Tax Act, must never save any of his money, or at least must never invest it so as to receive investment income since, if he does and suffers a loss on his farming operations in any year, he will be denied the right to average his income however small the amount of his investment income may be in the year of loss.

"Indeed, the interpretation also envisages that a taxpayer must have an income from his farming operations in each year of the averaging period, as, if he suffers a loss in any one year, it will be stated that he did not have a source of income from farming in that year, irrespective of whether he has income from any other source or not."

Ducharme In Hospital Can't Answer Phone

MONTREAL (CP) — Edgar Ducharme, 22, found half frozen recently in a ditch near Sarnia, has been admitted to hospital here but the situation still hasn't been clarified.

Police said they believe Ducharme lay in the ditch for 22 hours after jumping from one train to another. Railway police said he made the jump when he was asked for a ticket and was unable to produce one.

A spokesman in Ducharme's hospital room said today Ducharme can't answer the telephone.

Dr. Maurice Hill of Sarnia said Ducharme will probably lose some of his toes "but his condition is not as serious as it seemed at first."

Police Arrest Editor Over Peron Article

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Police today arrested another newspaper editor charged with publishing an article showing disrespect for Argentine President Peron.

He is Abel Guillermo Estrada, 25, editor of Pregon, published at Coronel Suarez in Buenos Aires province.

The most prominent newspaper man held by police is David Michel Torino, former owner of the expropriated paper El Intransigente at Salta. He has been imprisoned for more than three years and recently was sentenced to a six-year term.

2 Security Men Shot Near Plant

BOMBAY (AP)—Two members of the Indian defence ministry security corps were shot dead early today while guarding a naval installation near the proposed atomic research laboratory at Trombay, 15 miles from here.

The Indian Navy opened a court of inquiry into the shootings, and a security corps colleague was arrested shortly afterward.

Groom-To-Be Ends Up In Hospital

NEW YORK (AP) — A 23-year-old bridegroom-to-be is in a psychiatric ward as the aftermath of a break-up with his fiancee over a television show and a pre-dawn tussle with her father in the girl's bedroom.

It all started Thursday. The young man, Sigmund Welt, and the girl, Josephine Buoho, were to be married on the NBC television program, "Bride and Groom." The program was to have been televised Friday.

They went to the TV studio for final preparations, and were told the all-expenses-paid honeymoon would be in Princeton, N.J.

Welt became indignant and insisted the honeymoon site be in Florida and California. After an argument, the whole TV affair was called off.

Josephine went to her Brooklyn home and Sigmund to a Brooklyn hotel.

Early Friday Sigmund left the hotel and went to his girl's house, where he got in through a cellar door. It was about 5 a.m.

FATHER DISTURBED

He crept into Josephine's bedroom, touched and awakened the sleeping figure in the bed. It was the girl's father, Fred, who had decided to sleep in his daughter's bedroom that night. The girl was sleeping with her mother.

A struggle ensued between the father and Sigmund.

Sigmund was brought to court on a charge of malicious mischief.

Magistrate Matthew Fagan told Sigmund he was sending him to a hospital for mental observation.

"That's good," said Sigmund, "I have my own psychiatrist."

Soviet Veto Kills Settlement

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) The Soviet Union used its veto in the United Nations Security Council for the 57th time Friday night and killed a Western proposal for settling the Israel-Syria dispute over a Jordan river irrigation-power project.

The proposal was acceptable to Israel but opposed by the Arab states. Put in by the United States, Britain and France, it would have given the UN mediator in Palestine the power to act as he deemed appropriate to effect a reconciliation.

The veto, in the council's first meeting this year, climaxed a debate that has run through three months and 15 sittings. It is not over yet.

Israel last September began digging a canal for a power and irrigation project fed from the upper Jordan. Syria complained that this violated an agreement and robbed her people of irrigation water.

The meeting was closed and refreshments were served.

Report Mao Ill Since September

LONDON (AP) — A British publicist who claims to have sources behind the Iron Curtain said today that Red China's leader, Mao Tse-Tung, has been ill since September.

The Intelligence Digest and Weekly Review, edited by Kenneth de Courcy, said Mao spent at least part of the last four months in a Peiping hospital and claimed that Mao is under continual medical supervision by a Chinese and a Russian doctor, and that the Russian doctor is known to be a cancer expert.

Lindsay Scots Honor Memory Of Robert Burns

LINDSAY (ENS)—"Burns, the man and poet", was the theme of the talk by Dr. Molsom Cain, B.A., M.B., at last night's annual Burns Dinner, held at St. Andrew's Presbyterian church by the men's club.

Chairman for the evening was James Kingsborough. After the guests had been piped to their places by piper John Lunen, the haggis was brought to the dining hall, where John McIsaac proposed the toast.

David Thompson proposed the toast to "the immortal memory" and the guests enjoyed a group of songs of the poet sung by Misses Olive Geach and Jov Nesbitt, and Francis Taylor, Baritone. They included "My Ain Folk", "Road to the Isles" and "Aften Water".

H. H. McFadden introduced the speaker for the evening, who traced Burns history, his works and his character, and gave a two-centuries late diagnosis of Burns' ailments that caused his death. The speaker a former member of the Canadian Army Medical Corps and a former practioner at Bobcaygeon, said that the symptoms pointed to rheumatic fever, complicated by a rheumatic heart.

Two more songs, "Scots Wha Hae" sung by John Moore, and "Cuddle Doon" by Miss June Waddell, brought the program to a close, before the Rev. Donald McQueen, minister of St. Andrew's thanked the speakers and entertainers in both English and Gaelic. Accompanist for the musical portion of the program was Robert Cutt.

Shoes Stolen Walks Barefoot

KALYANI, India (AP) — Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, president of the United Nations General Assembly, had to trudge barefooted through slush after leaving a youth conference here today. The sandals she had left outside the conference hall were stolen.

Her brother, Prime Minister Nehru, also was a victim of thieves. He was to have been given a scarf by a woman representing sherpas (porters) of the Darjeeling area. But the woman's handbag containing the scarf was stolen as she drank tea in a restaurant.

Nehru and Mrs. Pandit are here for an Indian Congress party conference.

Film Tells Story On Conversion Of War Prisoner

"Tomorrow morning at sunrise I'm going to cut off your head."

But the head was not detached and its owner, after 40 months in a Jap prison camp, has returned to Japan to become a Free Methodist missionary to his former enemies.

This strange, hideous story of three years in filthy quarters is the theme of a film to be shown in the Collegiate auditorium on Tuesday at 8 p.m. The film describes the religious conversion of Sgt. Jacob DeShazer, one-time aviator with Brig.-Gen. James H. Doolittle's Tokyo raiders.

Half-starved, beaten with bamboo whips and sentenced to death by a Japanese general, DeShazer survived 40 months of torture and privation. Given a Bible for a brief period in his cell, he became converted.

The film "DeShazer" features professional Canadian actors, with Harry Woodward playing the title role. It is adapted from a biography written by Dr. C. Hoyt Watson, president of Seattle Pacific college.

Major To Receive OBE At Investiture

OTTAWA (CP) — Maj. Joseph I. Dolan, 44, of Stratford, will receive the Order of the British Empire at an investiture to be held Tuesday by the governor-general.

The award, announced several months ago, recognizes Maj. Dolan's successful work as commander of No. 23 Transport Company, RCASC, in Korea in 1952 and 1953.

Maj. Dolan took over command of No. 1 Company, RCASC, and became transport officer for western Ontario area with headquarters at London, Ont., last September.

Ont. Traffic Deaths Reach New High 1953

TORONTO (CP)—Traffic deaths reached a new high in Ontario in 1953.

Incomplete figures released today by the Ontario department of highways showed 1,079 fatalities, an increase of 69, or 6.8 per cent, over 1952. The department reported 22,187 persons injured up to the end of November, 1953.

During the year, motor vehicle registration and mileages driven increased about 10 per cent. Tourist traffic entering Ontario was up 12 per cent to the end of November.

Pair Sentenced

ORILLIA (CP) — On charges arising from a series of housebreakings in Barrie and Orillia, Clarence Stonehouse, 31, Friday was sentenced to three years at hard labor in penitentiary and Ernest Ringe, 50, to one year at hard labor. The charges included one of breaking into a large lakefront home here during the spring of 1952 and stealing articles valued at $3,877.

TRAVEL: with Jean Stenton

Tropical Acapulco Most Beautiful Riviera-Like Resort In All Mexico

Acapulco, an hour's plane flight from Mexico City or an eight-hour drive over good roads, is one of the most beautiful spots in the world and the most popular resort in Mexico.

Situated on the Pacific Coast, it is tropical with palms, bananas and other flowering trees. From one of the high hilltops it is like lifting the curtain on a fantastic stage setting. The brilliant blue waters of Acapulco Bay surrounded by green mountains, tiled roofs of the exotic town nestling at its feet and beyond the majestic Pacific Ocean—a magnificent and indescribable paradise.

There are hotels to fit every pocketbook. You can pay 200 pesos ($25) per person per day American plan or there are many others for 50 pesos ($6). Among some of the most glamorous spots are the Hotel Club de Pesca, Hotel de las Americas and the Hotel Caleta. But many less expensive are delightful too. No Mexican or visitor to Mexico is considered to have travelled until he has visited Acapulco.

In addition to fine fishing and swimming, there are many charming excursions to be made from here. The paved road leads to Pie de la Cuesta where planes land. Here the tide is so strong there is no swimming but a visitor can enjoy the view from hammocks in the shade and drink fresh cocoa milk or something stronger.

VISIT JUNGLE

A short distance beyond is the village of Coyuca, situated in colorful, tropical jungle. Another delightful excursion by car is to Puerto Marquez, on a bay with good swimming. The natives there serve fish lunches and are very friendly. From there you can row through tropical lagoons with marvellous tropical vegetation.

Launch trips can also be taken from Pie de la Cuesta through lagoons and rivers in cocoanut, banana and palm groves. Winter is the best time for a visit. At La Quebrada (Good hotel El Mirador) you can watch dark-skinned boys dive from the rocks straight down 60 feet or more into swirling eddies for coins.

Acapulco is an Aztec name meaning the "Place of Reeds" and it was the first port at which Spanish brigantines landed in the 16th century. When the Conquistadores arrived they were captivated by its climate and beauty. The harbor was perfect for shipping and it became the Mexican gateway to Asia for trade and a bustling port.

Hundreds of prosperous merchants from New Spain and even Peru gathered to exchange gold and silver bars for oriental perfumes, spices, etc. Ambassadors en route to Mexico City passed through with colorful retinues.

Toward the end of the 16th century, Dutch and English pirates began to prey on rich-laden vessels off the coast. By 1616 a fort had to be built on the hill overlooking the bay and town and this can be seen today. Eventually trade from the Orient was diverted to new channels and Acapulco passed into eclipse.

In 1920 it was a glorified village, but today it is a blend of Riviera sunshine and South Sea glamor. The average temperature is 75 degrees and the humidity 27.5%. You can bathe the year round day and night. At night the beaches are floodlit. A strictly informal wardrobe is necessary here. Sports shirts and light slacks and comfortable cottons are the order of the day.

The most popular way to visit Acapulco is to go by car from Mexico City one way, stopping overnight in the charming silver town of Taxco. Then on the return travel direct to the capital by fast plane.

The Hotel Club de Pesca rates are as low as $9 (U.S.) per day. It is the only hotel in Acapulco with its own private beach. Meals are served on the terrace overlooking the bay or in the main dining salon. The Quinta Rosa apartments for two or more people are attractive and reasonable. For four people having an apartment with two bedrooms and two bathrooms—$12.50. The Aguirre Travel firm in Mexico City offers excellent round trip bargain tours.

Most people stay only 3 or 4 days in this paradise so that it is not too hard on the visitor's pocketbook and he has a memory he can never forget.

Tenors Getting Very Scarce Only 10 In Entire World

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Tenors are getting almost as scarce as larks at the North Pole.

"In the entire world today there are only 10 tenors who can sing major dramatic roles with authority," said Ramon Vinay, a former baritone who became a tenor by accident.

"As a result we have to travel like mad, and we are getting tired. And some of us are showing voice strain."

This may not appear much of a tragedy to the average man, who ordinarily doesn't list tenors among the earth's major blessings, but when a few top tenors go hoarse it is a real blow to the world of serious music.

Some fellow has to hit all those high notes and kiss the dying soprano, or how can the opera go on?

PRACTICE HARD WORK

And it isn't as easy as it looks.

"Before a new production we rehearse for about three weeks," said Vinay, who keeps in shape by weight lifting. "And believe me, five hours on the stage of the metropolitan Opera is like 12 hours on the docks. It's like pushing a street car 20 blocks. You come home and drop dead."

All tenors are unusual but even among his fellow tenors Vinay is a standout. He is a big bear-like man who looks like Luis Firpo, the former South American heavyweight boxer.

Vinay was born in Chile, raised in France, and started his career pushing a broom in a Mexico City department store. He also worked as a travelling salesman and a medicine box manufacturer before he settled down as a baritone in a small Mexican touring opera company.

SOPRANOS KISSABLE

One night the regular tenor refused to go on. Vinay cleared his throat, sang the role—and learned he was a natural.

"I like it better," he said, smiling. "The baritone is always the villain and never gets to kiss the soprano. The tenor does." He is the hero—and the sopranos are getting pleasanter to kiss every year.

"But the audiences require more now than in the old days. They not only expect you to be able to sing. You must also act and look the part."

Chocolate Price Rise

TORONTO (CP) — Chocolate bars will weigh less or cost more shortly due to a sharp increase in the price of cocoa beans, Fred Saunders, general manager of the Confectionery, Chocolate and Cocoa Industries of Canada, said today.

He said cocoa beans have risen in price from seven cents a pound in 1939 to 53 cents at present.

Airplane Used To Round Up Buffalo Herd

FORT SMITH, N.W.T. (CP)—Pat Carey, British Columbia bush pilot, has been rounding up by plane the largest surviving buffalo herd in the world.

He is working in Wood-Buffalo Park, a 17,000-square-mile national preserve extending from both sides of the Alberta-Northwest Territories border between Lake Athabaska and Great Slave lake.

Several hundred of the 15,000 buffalo are slaughtered each year to thin out the herd and provide food for the Indians.

Pat Carey's task is to find the herd and stampede the animals into corrals by diving his plane at them.

"It is some sight," he said. "First you cruise around looking for a herd of buffalo; then you dive at them and start them toward the corrals.

"Some don't want to travel in the desired direction, especially some of the old bulls. Well, you must get them on the move or others will take the same notion."

Another of Carey's jobs is hunting down marauding wolf packs, while a partner in the seat behind him picks off the wolves with a rifle.

East-West Telephones Reconnected For Talks

BERLIN (AP) — Telephone connections between Communist East Berlin and the Allied West sector, cut off by the Russians 19 months ago, were restored Friday for the Big Four conference.

German communications officials said 48 lines are available for official Allied use and 20 lines for the world press. The press lines connect the Allied press centre in the American sector and Communist press headquarters in the Soviet sector.

Well Known On Lakes

COLLINGWOOD (CP) — Capt. Walter W. Inkster, 87, well known throughout the Great Lakes as a marine compass adjuster, died Friday in Ottawa. Up until two years ago he had lived here where he had settled after leaving his native Scotland.

ICE BRIDGE FORMED

Ice Bridge Formed

Texas Oilman Given Away $175 Millions

By SAUL PETT

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — In this land of the big rich and the rugged individualist, Hugh Roy Cullen ranks among the biggest, the richest, the most rugged and the most individual.

Giving away money or opinions, this 72-year-old oil millionaire is often unpredictable. He is by turn impulsive, deeply sentimental, opionated, gentle, shary - tongued folksy and as tactful as a Texas steer stampeding a glass works.

But all the adjectives pale in favor of one word: generous. Over the years he has given away about $175,000,000 in cash and in present and future income from oil leases.

A few weeks ago, at a student football rally celebrating a victory over Baylor University, Cullen rose and announced he was giving the University of Houston $2,250,000. Two weeks later he gave Baylor $1,000,000. Both gifts, he explained, were for education, not football.

Texans have leanred to expect the unexpected from Cullen, in spectacular amounts. In 1947, Cullen was quietly making a routine speech when he popped a "little secret." He said he was getting up the Cullen Foundation with the income from oil leases which had a production potential of 40,000,000 barrels. Reporters got busy, figuring oil at the market price of $2 a barrel. They came up with $80,000,000.

SPENDING IS PLEASURE

The next day chamber of commerce officials dropped in to thank the philanthropist. He thereupon doubled the gift. Most of the money was earmarked for the University of Houston and the beautiful Texas medical centre now building here.

"My wife and I are selfish," Cullen explained. "We want to see our money spent during our lifetime so we may derive great pleasure from it."

Virtually all of Cullen's charity is confined to Texas institutions but within those limits, he has said frequently, his gifts have no regard for race, creed or color.

"I feel friendly to all people," says Cullen, who is tall and powerfully built, with an imposing, leathery face and a thick shock of grey hair flowing over one side of his head.

But Cullen can, on occasion, clobber his fellow man.

In 1950, at the University of Houston, he was making the principal speech. He was speaking to a distinguished university audience and to many thousands of others over the radio.

APOLOGY FOLLOWS BLAST

His prepared text led him into an attack on President Truman and his policies. Then he began to focus his attack on one member of the Truman cabinet.

Suddenly, he pulled away from his prepared text and blasted the cabinet members in terms not usually heard in polite discourse.

As is usual after he gets off an ill-tempered blast, Cullen apologized to the audience later.

Cullen made his first money in cotton, buying, classing and shipping it. As a man who travelled much, he was in a position to pick up promising-looking oil leases.

He had his share of dry wells but he also had several spectacular strikes. All in all, he has drilled more than 1,000 wells and most recently has turned his attention to the rich possibilities of Canadian oil.

Five days a week, Cullen is driven to his downtown office, where he presides over the Quintana Petroleum Co., which is a multi-million-dollar oil producer, and also keeps a critical eye on the government.

Hold Foreign Affairs Debate On Friday

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons next Friday will hold the session's first debate on external affairs.

Citizenship Minister Harris, government house leader, said Friday night in the Commons that he understands all parties want a debate on external affairs next week.

He said that no other business will be scheduled for next Friday and if the parties agree, the entire afternoon and evening sitting will be devoted to the discussion.

Orchestra Leader Dies

TORONTO (CP)—James C. Magill, 48, leader of the Northern Ramblers square dance orchestra and director of its weekly radio show, died Friday following a heart attack. He also was a daytime employee of Canadian National Telegraphs.

JUST IN CASE—Two U.S. Air Force F-84 Thunderjets of the Japan Air Defence Force sweep over one of the many JADF radar sites in Tokyo. Modern aircraft, and a vast radar and communication network help them from any potential attack.

Safety Of Queen's Mail Special Job For Detectives

SYDNEY, Australia (CP)—The safety of the Queen's mail on her commonwealth tour is another job for air detectives, a little-publicized force who are active on the world's airways.

On the payroll of Australia's QUANTAS Empire Airways Ltd., for example, are 34 detectives working under the company's chief security officer.

QUANTAS and British Overseas Airways Corporation, co-operating on the 10,000-mile flight from London to Sydney, carry the royal diplomatic mail. Dispatches come to Sydney three times a week and go on to New Zealand by Empire Airways flying boat.

At Singapore, only night stop for Constellationson the London-Sydney route, the Queen's mail goes into strongrooms guarded by Gurkha troops. At every transfer it is watched over by men specially chosen from the security force.

Chess Takes British Public By Storm

By MILTON MARMOR

LONDON (AP)—Rarely has the ancient game of chess captured the imagination of a people as it has in Britain.

A single match prompted almost unanimous headlines in the British press, all reading something like this:

"Alexander the Great Wins the Battle of Hastings."

This was not a historical anarchronism, nor an attempt to change the result of 1066 when William the Conqueror came from Normandy to defeat the Anglo-Saxons here and alter the face of this island.

It was a reference to the victory of Charles Hugh O'Donnell Alexander, a 44-year-old British foreign office code expert, over David Bronstein, Russia's 29-year-old grandmaster, in the Hastings International Chess Congress recently concluded in the cellar of a coastal pavilion.

TEXT BOOK ENDING

Alexander and Bronstein tied for first place in the final standings, but the great excitement was over the Briton's victory in a 120-move marathon "queen and pawn" ending that may soon find an honored spot in chess textbooks.

Alexander's triumph so thrilled the groundlings — "many wouldn't know which way to push a pawn —that the newspapers were crowded with:

1. Poetry anent the classic contest.
2. Diagrams of the final 10 moves, many incorrect.
3. Paens of praise for Alexander and warm acclaim for Bronstein's sportsmanship.
4. An editorial in The Times laying to rest the notion that Hastings is unlucky ground for the home team.

Throughout all the tumult, one gentle and elderly chess grandmaster kept in the background. He was Dr. Savielly Tartakower of France who finished well in the rear.

RUSSIAN MASTER

Dr. Tartakower is a three-time winner at Hastings. He has played against the greatest in the almost half-century since he started competition against the famous names of chess in imperial Russian tournaments long before the Russian revolution. He left Russia before the First World War.

You'll find Dr. Tartakower's games in any chess collection of famous contests. He never became a world champion. The reason can be found in his over-fertility of ideas and imaginative flights. He'd rather let his speculative powers run riot than play the solid game of most grandmasters.

That may be why—when asked how today's chess compares with the golden days—Dr. Tartakower replied:

"The technique is better, but not the imagination."

WHY SO OUTSTANDING?

Then came the matter that may puzzle some people: Why are the Russians so outstanding in chess?

(There are 37 world grandmasters of chess of whom eight are inactive. And of the 29 remaining, 16 are Russians.)

To Dr. Tartakower, the reasons are not difficult to elaborate. Russians have a reservoir of 10,000,000 chess players. Chess is a national sport and is, as he described it, "sustaining."

But what may be a more cogent explanation, he said, is the fact the Slav and Oriental mind is more talented in fields of imagination and speculation than the Western—and chess is nothing if not speculation and imagination.

You can't go ALL-OUT

If you feel ALL-IN

These days most people work under pressure, worry more, sleep less. This strain on body and brain makes physical fitness easier to lose—harder to regain. Today's tense living, lowered resistance, overwork, worry—any of these may affect normal kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backache, disturbed rest, that "tired-out" heavy-headed feeling often follow. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulate the kidneys to normal action. Then you feel better—sleep better—work better. Ask for Dodd's Kidney Pills at any drug counter. 55

Zoning Bylaw Needed

Seven years ago Dr. E. G. Faludi was employed by the city of Peterborough as a town planning consultant, to draw up a master plan for the development of the city. A City Planning Committee was formed; the plan was completed. Some of its recommendations have been adopted in subsequent developments, but the whole has never been implemented because, basic to the Plan, is a legal instrument—a zoning bylaw.

At the same time that the Planning Committee was formed, a Zoning Committee was also created, composed of local citizens—members of the Council, of the City Hall staff, and others with special qualifications. A report was drafted after many months of study and in consultation with Dr. Faludi. This has never been acted on.

* * *

There have been many reasons for the delay, among them, lack of unanimity about the clauses. Another has been an expensive legal obstruction—that every property owner must be notified of every detail of the zoning bylaw. This would have been a costly and weightly matter.

However, last year, Ontario regulations were changed, permitting notification in a modified, cheaper form. The city Planning Board and the Council are continuing with the work of drafting a comprehensive zoning law, and the services of a Toronto expert have been intermittently employed. We understand that the bylaw is now taking final form. It cannot be presented to the citizens too soon, for without it property owners, business firms, and intending operators of business—and the Planning Board itself—are in a state of perplexity. Without the law, the lines are not clear-cut and wrangles develop.

* * *

What is urgently needed, of course, before the law is put into effect, is that the people of Peterborough be made thoroughly familiar with the proposals as they affect their own particular districts. A suggestion was made long ago that a city-wide display and explanation be given the people, district by district, at meetings to be held, say, in school buildings. Some attempt has been made in the past, by Mr. James Dutton and others, to acquaint the citizens with what is proposed. This should be done thoroughly and comprehensively, so that criticisms, complaints and suggestions may be received before the law is put into effect, and not after.

A Long Way From Disraeli

Insular Englishmen still do not accept the notion that the Commonwealth countries are not only independent but also all of equal status in that Commonwealth. They may be ready to admit that the Dominions have their own independent governments and that each Dominion is constitutionally the equal of the other; but they cannot see that in the Commonwealth Britain herself has no superiority of position. Yet the Statute of Westminster of 1931, and the earlier Balfour Declaration (1926) make it plain that the Dominions and Great Britiain are "equal in status" and "freely associated" as members of the British Commonwealth of Nations.

Some British journalists reporting on the Queen's tour in New Zealand, one judges from their dispatches, are still under the misapprehension that New Zealand is merely a colonial copy of England. The fact that most New Zealanders talk about "home" and "going home" in referring to England and visits to England may have misled some of the English journalists. The New Zealanders do say it, in much the way that Canadians of British and Irish stock talk about "the Old Country". But the same New Zealanders who speak of "home" may be third generation New Zealanders and never have seen England; and they certainly are proudly independent, giving their allegiance and their affection to New Zealand. They are not displaced Englishmen, longing to return to the bosom of the Mother Country.

The English notion that the Dominions are in some way inferior to Britain within the Commonwealth dies slowly. It belongs to colonial empire days, to the imperialist megalomania of Joseph Chamberlain, to the late Victorian English era which tried to woo Laurier to imperial federation with a common foreign policy and a grand Council of Commonwealth centred on London, in which the British Prime Minister could occupy the chair. The creed of this cult was enunciated by Benjamin Disraeli years before:

> Self government, in my opinion, when it was conceded, ought to have been conceded as part of a great policy of imperial consolidation. It ought to have been accompanied by an imperial tariff; by securities for the people of England for the enjoyment of the unappropriated lands which belonged to the soverign as their trustee; and by a military code which should have precisely defined the means, and the responsibilities, by which the colonies should be defended, and by which, if necessary, this country should call for aid from the colonies themselves. It ought, further, to have been accompanied by the institution of some representative council in the metropolis (of London), which would have brought the colonies into constant and continuous relations with the home government.

Disraeli's way was not the one chosen by the Dominions; nor was Joseph Chamberlain's proposition accepted by Laurier and the other Dominion Prime Ministers of 1897. Consistently since then, through Borden to King and St. Laurent, Canada has resisted any attempt to form a Commonwealth Cabinet. They knew that not thus could independence be achieved or preserved. Comonwealth conferences, yes; Commonwealth cabinet, no; for in Britain the idea of the Commonwealth is still too close to the conception of Empire, and the United Kingdom too habituated to dominance, for real equality around a Commonwealth table to exist.

A few more Royal tours, such as that of the King and Queen to Canada in 1939, and the present Queen's tour to New Zealand and Australia, may serve to show even the most insular Englishman that the ties that bind the Commonwealth are not knotted in Downing Street. Canada, New Zealand, Australia and other members of the Commonwealth, formerly colonies, have gone a long way from Disraeli's day. To be a Canadian or New Zealand citizen is no way inferior, constitutionally or in his own thinking, to being a British citizen. The Queen of New Zealand is now being received in New Zealand, not the Queen of England. In 1939 the King of Canada visited this country. A few months later he, as King of Canada, declared war on Germany on the advice of his Canadian ministers—seven days after he had declared war as the King of the United Kingdom.

The Fuss At Hawkesbury

We have watched the dispute at Hawkesbury, about Roman Catholic nuns teaching Protestant children, with an amused eye, for it seemed to us to be a fuss about nothing. At one period of our childhood we, with some other Protestant children, were taught by nuns who wore the habit of their order, displayed crucifixes plainly on their robes, and were addressed by us as 'Sister'. They were first-rate teachers, stern yet kind, and we recall them with affection. We never knew what their family names were, and would have felt very queer if we had been instructed to call them 'Miss Jones' when the others were calling them 'Sister Teresa'. Nor did the daily sight of their crucifixes seem to diminish our Protestantism a jot.

How has the notion grown up that a crucifix is a distinctively Catholic object? We have had Protestant teachers who wore crosses around their necks on chains. Is the hiding of the crucifixes worn by the nuns at Hawkesbury intended to conceal from Protestant children the knowledge that Christ died on the Cross? If so, we think that there must be something amiss with Hawkesbury's Protestantism. We went to one school as a child which was often visited by a Canon of the Church of England; he wore a cross on his watch-chain, and there was never any suggestion that he should put it in his pocket when he was talking to us about religion—which was his reason for visiting the school.

Protestantism and Catholicism are in the grain; the sight of a particular symbol is not going to root it out. Surely it is better that Protestant children should learn that nuns are often very fine teachers, and that nuns should learn that Protestant children are often very nice children, without all this ugly, hate-provoking fuss? Let us save our religious quarrels for things that really matter. If Protestants could learn a little more about Catholics, and Catholics a little more about the Protestant point of view, neither side would change its opinions very much, but a great deal of unworthy squabbling could be avoided, and our thinking about religion would rise to a more fitting level.

NOTE AND COMMENT

"A good MP is worth $10,000 a year", says the Calgary Herald. Perhaps, but those fellows aren't paid according to ability—they've got a powerful union!

A Cincinnati church congregation has unanimously voted to expell a member who has sinned. When one person does that, it's called 'casting the first stone'; when a congregation does it, it's a pious avalanche.

A 45-year-old woman fell 13 stories from a hotel window, and landed in a sitting position; her excess weight is supposed to have protected her from injury. Nevertheless, we should not be surprised if she chose to sit in a bathtub full of Jello for a few days.

EISENHOWER'S YEAR (1)

Soldier Into Statesman

By ALASTAIR BUCHAN

(The first of two articles.)

ONE YEAR AGO last Wednesday General Dwight D. Eisenhower raised his right hand, swore to defend the liberties and Constitution of the United States and become its thirty-fourth President. He was by far the most famous general in American history; he was one of the most respected international figures of his generation, and had been elected to the Presidency with the staggering figure of thirty-three-million votes. Despite the doubts which his conduct had aroused, during the previous autumn's campaign in the minds of many thinking people, President Eisenhower stood, on that cold January day, at the apex of a great pinnacle of international and national trust and affection.

One year later the President still commands much of the same popular loyalty and respect; but the man and his attitude to his job have altered considerably. Last January's State of the Union message gave indications of a new and "tough" American foreign policy which would use drastic methods to redress the balance of power in Asia, while expressing merely pious hopes about contentious domestic issues. This year's State of the Union message uses more cautious and less belligerent language about foreign policy while presenting a number of concrete and contentious proposals for legislation in the domestic sphere. The general has become the politician; the professional soldier has learnt a great deal about the realities of civil power and politics.

✧ ✧ ✧

IN THE FIRST SIX months of last year the new President was clearly suffering from ignorance of the lines of action which his office required of him. The political structure of the United States, one of the most complicated in the world, requires years of close observation to understand even its rudiments. The professional soldier is not well placed to understand it, and President Eisenhower, despite his obvious flair for politics, brought to his new office several misconceptions.

In the first place, he had derived from somewhere—presumably from a misreading of the past few years—a belief that the position of the Presidency had been exaggerated under Franklin Roosevelt and Harry Truman, and that the dogfights between Congress and the White House, which are really inherent in the American Constitution, could be avoided by tact and humility on the part of the President.

SECONDLY, he appeared to consider that the two American political Parties were ideological rather than sectional groups, between whose principles a man must choose, in the sense that a British politician chooses irrevocably when he enters politics to be Labour, Conservative or Liberal. Having espoused the Republican cause, he seemed to feel it was more important to conform to the orthodox Republican ideas, which remain far to the right of centre, and so maintain Party unity than to follow the liberal bent of his own mind, even where this meant basing his programme on the support of liberal Democrats in alliance with liberal Republicans against the more old-fashioned members of his own Party.

Finally, he came to office with a false picture of the needs and aspirations of the American people. Until very recently no military caste, not even the German, lived in greater isolation from the ordinary intercourse of civil life than the American professional soldier. It has been said of Eisenhower that he emigrated from America when he went to the West Point military academy in 1911 and returned to it as President in 1952.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE EFFECT of this isolation was painfully apparent during the election and during the first year of his Presidency. His utterances, both formal and informal, showed not only a profound ignorance of modern America—which for instance led him to describe the Tennessee Valley Authority, a sensible scheme for integrating various hydro-electric schemes under federal authority, as "creeping socialism"—but also a belief that the American people responded to the same kind of shibboleths about self-help and hard work which were current in his Kansan boyhood before the First World War.

In the years of the general's exile, especially in the last twenty years, the United States has undergone a profound social and political revolution—embodied in Roosevelt's New Deal and Truman's Fair Deal—which has redistributed income and established a considerable measure of Government control over the economy by the majority of the voting public,—a public to whom the general's exhortations to rugged individualism were largely meaningless, an echo of battles fought and decided years ago.

✧ ✧ ✧

IN CONSEQUENCE, the first year of President Eisenhower's term of office was in many respects a wasted one—except in so far as it advanced the education of the President. The modest legislative programme which the president recommended to Congress last year was emasculated beyond recognition, including as it did a number of measures such as Statehood for Hawaii and the approval of American participation in the Saint Lawrence Seaway scheme which are dear to the hearts of many Republicans. A number of important issues, such as freer trade and a new agricultural policy and labour relations, were relegated to commissions to study, justifying the charges of Mr. Adlai Stevenson, leader of the Democratic Party, that this was "Government by postponement." Moreover, the members of the President's Administration seemed to take their cue from him: little if anything was done by Mr. John Foster Dulles, the Secretary of State, Mr. Charles Wilson, the Secretary of Defence, or the Attorney-General, Mr. Herbert Brownell, to stand up to the arrogant pretensions of Senator McCarthy and his colleagues to dictate foreign policy or to jeopardise civil liberties in his search for Communists.

✧ ✧ ✧

IN NOVEMBER the Attorney-General made his deplorable charges against President Truman of tolerance towards Communists in his Administration, in the case of Harry Dexter White. At the same time Mr. Dulles seemed to feel it his duty, as the first Republican Secretary of State in twenty years, to "talk tough" not only with Russia but with America's European allies. The Eisenhower Administration on the one hand, and the British and European Governments on the other, responded very differently during the six months following Stalin's death, to the possibility of negotiations with Russia; and the prospect of a United States suffering from resurgent nationalism and trying to impose its will on its allies was a disquieting one.

But by the beginning of 1954 it was clear that President Eisenhower had achieved a much firmer grasp of his position, and that by his proposals to the United Nations on the international control of atomic energy had reasserted his leadership, both of the nation and of the free world.

An American Opinion:
THERE'S CERTAINLY NO PRECEDENT TO FOLLOW

Going To Church

By JOHN FAULKNER

EIGHTY years ago, when I was a small boy, my family lived in the then somewhat select suburb of Lower Clapton and we attended the services at the parish church of St. John-at-Hackney.

It was probably one of the largest and certainly one of the ugliest, parish churches in London. Built of brick with broad gabled roof, it had five entrances, each with porticos of white stone supported by heavy columns, and it had a square massive clock tower.

The main front entrance was an enormous affair approached by a semicircular flight of stone steps, and here on Sunday mornings the two beadles were expected to be on duty to open the carriage doors for the gentry on their arrival to attend the services. These men wore black silk top-hats with cockades and broad gold bands, and dark-blue frock-coat uniforms trimmed with gold lace.

In front of the church was a large plot of rough grassland, with a yew tree in the centre. This tree was believed to have been planted there to mark the spot of a burial-place of victims of the great plague, when 100,000 persons are said to have lost their lives in London alone.

Ranged along the main pathways of the very extensive churchyard were hundreds of family vaults, and when interments took place deep excavations had to be made in the pathways to reach the entrances to the vaults. When the stone slabs used for closing these vaults were removed, one could see the mildewed coffins of previous burials arranged on stone shelves on either side of vault.

In another section of the churchyard stood the old tower of a previous church. This was used by the police as a mortuary.

✧ ✧ ✧

ON duty inside the parish church were ten pew-openers. They were elderly women and wore dresses of dark-grey alpaca and lace bonnets trimmed with black velvet, with lapels resting on their shoulders on either side. Each of these women was in charge of a large block of the high, old-fashioned pews which had brass drop-handled latches. They were expected to open these doors and usher in the seat-holders.

In my youngest days I attended the children's service on Sunday afternoons, accompanied by my nurse. As the pews were so high I could not see out of them, and my nurse always took one of my toys to amuse me during the service. I used to sit on the floor and play with it!

As I grew older I joined the church choir and subsequently became the leading boy on the cantoris side. With my opposite number on the decani side, I led the procession of choir and clergy to and from the vestry. I remember that when we reached the choir-stalls we had to stand aside and allow the choir-boys to file into their seats, and we then took the corner seats nearest the congregation. This enabled us not only the better to lead the singing of the congregation, but placed us in a convenient position for leading the recession back to the vestry after the service.

Sections of the galleries were reserved for the boys and girls of the "Free and Parochial Schools," with another section for the inmates of the local truant school. These little "criminals" came to church with close-cropped heads. They wore black-peaked caps, rough blue-serge tunics and brown corduroy trousers, with heavy hobnailed boots. My father conducted a Bible-class for them at the truant school on Sunday afternoons, and I was expected to accompany him. I hated it, and them.

Another thing that would not be tolerated now was the establishing of a special Sunday school for the "better class" girls of the parish, to which my three sisters went.

The organ in the church was a large and powerful one. It was supposed to be especially good for Handel's music. It was not allowed to be used on Good Fridays, when all the hymns and psalms were read by the congregation and the church was heavily draped in black.

The rector at that time was the Rev. Arthur Brooke. He was so active in looking after the needs of his parishioners that he was often called "the Running Brook."

HE DIDN'T KNOW

In the office of the manager of a large department store a woman customer was complaining.

"I can't understand," she said, "why your shopwalker had to be so unreasonable. I asked him a simple question, but before he answered he wanted to know where I came from. Why must he know that?"

"What question did you ask him?" the manager nquired.

"Just a plain, simple question. I simply said, 'Is this the second turn to the right?' "

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Hear, O Israel: The Lord our God is one Lord:

And thou shalt love the Lord they God with all thine heart, and with all they soul, and with all thy might. (Deut. 6:4, 5.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Sing unto the Lord, all the earth; shew forth from day to day his salvation . . .

Give unto the Lord the glory due unto his name: bring an offering, and come before him: worship the Lord in the beauty of holiness . . .

Let the heavens be glad, and let the earth rejoice: and let men say among the nations, The Lord reigneth. (I Chron. 16:23, 29, 31.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Thine, O Lord, is the greatness, and the power, and the glory, and the victory, and the majesty: for all that is in the heaven and in the earth is thine; thine is the kingdom, O Lord, and thou art exalted as head above all . . .

Now, therefore, our God, we thank thee, and praise thy glorious name. (I Chron. 29:11, 13.)

Poor Us

(Toronto Star)

Newspapers issue "Style Books" containing their preferred spelling, capitalization rules, and all that sort of thing. Our effectionate Globe and Mail neighbor at the corner of York St. has just given birth to one of these pronouncements, and we confess to being intrigued by something on Page 4. This:

"Capitalize the word 'The' in the name of The Globe and Mail, The Telegram, The New York Times, The London Daily Mail, The Canadian Press, The Times of London, BUT the Toronto Daily Star. Lower-case when in doubt here."

We do not, it appears, suit Globe and Mail taste to a T — not to a capital T anyway. Its staff must capitalize "The" in the listed cases; must use the little "t" when in doubt. But there is no doubt as to what must happen to "the" Star. It is picked out as the one specified exception on the list, and the ban is emphasized by "BUT" in capital letters.

We are not exactly heart-broken by being "BUTTED" by our loving contemporary in that way, but we are sorry for what is going to happen to some intelligent G. and M. reporter who capitalizes the "The" in referring to this great family newspaper; and what will happen, also, to any proofreader who lets a reference so heretical go by unaltered.

As Tall As They Come

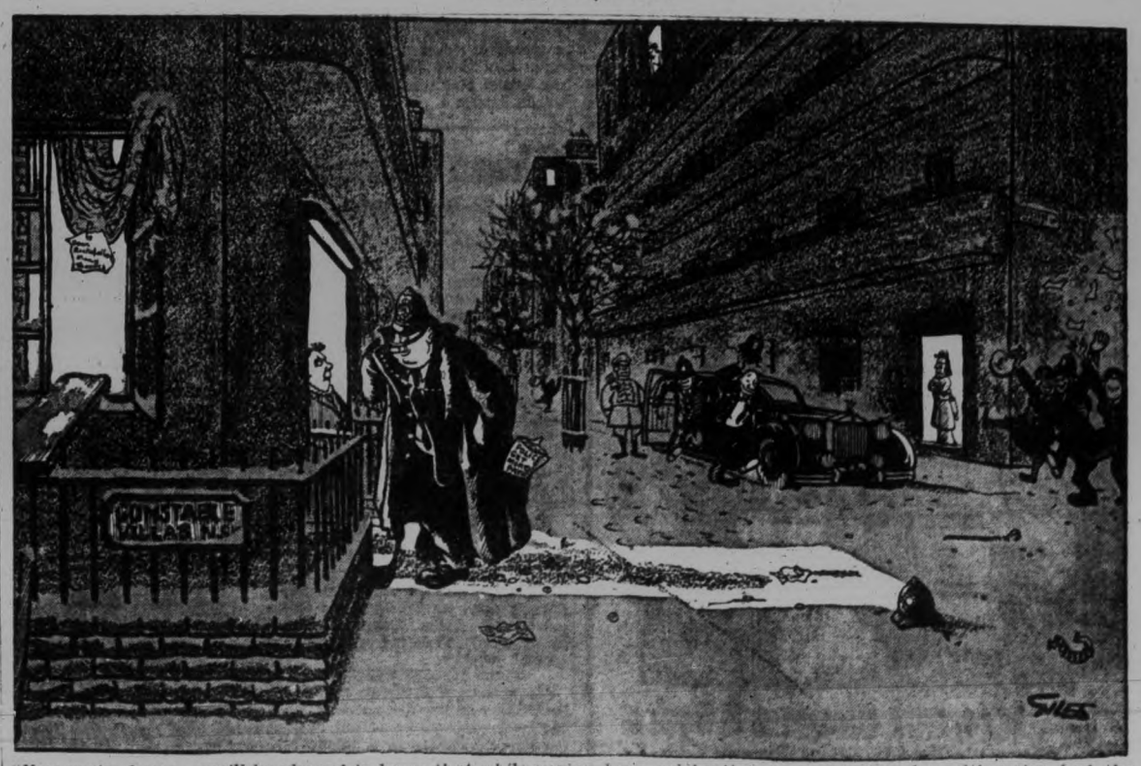
(Montreal Gazette).

Texas has lost the "World's Champion Liar" title this year. The Burlington Liars' Club which each year decides who deserves to be called "the flower of American falsehood," declared in favour of a man from Richmond, Virginia, for 1953. He told of a high wind that blew a huge (three feet across, two feet deep) cast-iron kettle away. It blew the kettle away so fast that lightning struck at it five times— and missed.

The Richmond man follows a great tradition. Last year a Texan told of mosquitoes in Korea that were six feet tall. The mosquitoes decided to eat him on the spot because they feared that if they carried him home "the big mosquitoes would take him away from them."

It is strongly suspected that the Korean locale was a political trick to get the soldier vote. Everybody knows that incident really happened in Texas, itself.

A British Opinion



"Now you're home—you'll be pleased to know that while you've been celebrating your new-found wealth we've had the burglars in."

C.P.R. Station Site Leased For 99 Years In 1894 By City Trust Commission

By HARRY THEOBALD

This is the third in a series of articles by Mr. Theobald on the Peterborough City Trust.)

The name of E. A. Peck, who subsequently was a member of the Trust for years, first appears in its minutes Feb. 2, 1884, as an applicant for the position of secretary-treasurer, succeeding John Carnegie at his resignation. The Commissioners engaged Edgecombe Pearse, effective April 1, that year. Mr. Pearse afterwards became clerk-treasurer of the county.

Walter Patterson was appointed to the Commission in 1883, taking the place of William Toole who is mentioned as having "left town". Incidentally, Mr. Toole, proprietor of a sash and door factory which he built at Murray and Bethune Streets, had been mayor from 1875 to 1878 inclusive. Eventually his factory was destroyed by fire.

The members of the Trust at the beginning of 1884 were: James Stevenson, chairman, William Cluxton, Edmund Chamberlen, J. J. Lundy and Walter Patterson.

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR LEASE

In May that year the Commission received a letter from the town council requesting them to sell lot 3 south of Wolfe St. and west of George St., to the Ontario and Quebec Railway "at such price as may be agreed upon by the Trust and the railway".

That letter brought prompt action. The Commissioners gave the railway company a 99 year lease at an annual rental of one dollar a year "on condition that they will, during the first five years, fill the said lot above the high water mark".

Obviously that property is the present site of the CPR station. The reference to the high water mark recalls the old course of the Jackson Park creek, for years a municipal problem until its way was straitened to the narrow stream between cribbed walls that finally brought it under complete control.

Its water flowed around a wide island north of Charlotte St. when the town was incorporated in 1850. A dam at King St. and a wooden flume along its north side operated a grist and lumber mill down on the bank of the river, leaving a broad bay extending westerly beyond Louis St. where reviving frogs greeted the spring and the townspeople. The creek parted around two islands between King and Sherbrooke Sts. That division was repeated at a broad island lying across what is now Sherbrooke St., and extending nearly half way to Dalhousie St. And there the creek turned east to George St. in an errant diversion that turned westerly again as it approached Wolfe St.

On either side of Wolfe, which was laid out to George St. on a map of the hopeful future, before the CPR came through, the water covered acres between George and Aylmer Sts., leaving little of Townsend and Rink Sts. in that block. Traffic south of Rink was by way of Aylmer St. and George St. ending abruptly at what was called Spaulding's Point, approximately where the George St. bridge crosses the creek today.

BREWERY ON CREEK

A man named Spaulding owned a brewery or distillery on the east side of the creek just north of Townsend St. A wide stretch of water lay between the brewery point and the rise of land on George St., between Rink and Lake Sts.

The topography of that area reached a final stage of changing appearance after Alfred McDonald built a lumber mill on the site of the city's park at the rear of Beaver Lumber Company's buildings. Its sawdust was dumped as fill on both sides of Rink St. and eventually was covered with soil and gravel. Remembrance by elders of the sawdust bottom when soundings were made for the Memorial Centre footings along the north side of Rink St. informed their predictions of unsound bottom which the borings of engineers confirmed.

That finding of a recent yesterday was a reminder of the council's problem in its years of wrestling with the meanderings of the creek. The Trust Commissioners lent a municipal hand by stipulating in their selling of lots on Rink and Townsend Sts. that the property, most of it then under water, must be filled up to specified levels.

MIDLAND RR DEBT

Turning back to 1884 and the lease to the approaching railway, the Trust had a railway worry on its hands. The council sent them a letter urging them to "press the Grand Trunk Railway strongly for the overdue interest on the Midland Railway indebtedness, as it appears that no part of the principal money has been paid for over eleven years, which now amounts to $13,200 overdue principal and $4,023 overdue interest."

The Trust responded with a directive to its secretary to send the railway statement as of June to the president, Mr. Hickson, "notifying him same must be settled, and that the council's statement be attached to the account."

George A. Cox, president of the Midland, attended the Trust meeting in October, explaining the position of the Midland with the GTR "in relation to the debt due the town."

The Trust decided that the GTR be allowed until Dec. 1 to adjust the debt with the Midland "and pay same." They also made demand on the council for $7,290 to pay interest and sinking fund for that year on the debentures.

Dec. 2, 1884, a letter was sent to the Midland that unless they arranged within two weeks a satisfactory settlement with the town "the secretary be instructed to hand this matter to the town solicitor for collection."

E. B. Edwards, town solicitor, was paid $900 in Dec., 1885, by the Trust for legal advice and services "in connection with the collection of money from the Midland Railway."

BONDS LOST AT SEA

Peterborough debentures of $11,300 held by the Scottish-American Investment Co., Edinburgh, Scotland, were lost with the sinking of the steamship (Cunard) Oregon. The Trust decided that "the agents of the company be informed that until satisfactory security be obtained or until the debentures are presented for payment, the principal amount will be deposited in a special account in the Ontario Bank, Peterborough, until satisfactory arrangement is arrived at."

Proof of the loss of the debentures was accepted in December, and the Scottish-American Investment Co. was paid $11,300 principal, with interest coupons amounting to $203.80 and a further item of interest from June 1 to December 1 of $89.16.

In June, 1886, Robert S. Davidson was appointed by the council to the Trust in the place of J. J. Lundy, resigned, and John Carnegie succeeded to the vacancy caused by the death of Edmund Chamberlen.

At that meeting the Trust agreed to buy $5,000 debentures from the town, thereby providing money for the building of a town hall and lockup. Authority for that loan was obtained 25 years earlier when the Trust was instituted by Act of Parliament. As then ordered, consent of the ratepayers had to be given to the council's bylaw No. 497. Town clerk Charles D. Macdonald reported the bylaw was endorsed by a majority of 137 August 10, 1885.

POWDER MAGAZINE POINT

The powder magazine was built in an isolated place as cover for the supplies of explosives sold by the town's hardware stores. In the pioneer days it was known as Hospital Point, location of tented accommodation for patients during a smallpox epidemic. That point at the narrows at the head of Little Lake, could be reached on foot at that time only by the circuit of Aylmer and Lake streets.

Alfred McDonald offered the Trust $400 for one-quarter of an acre of the property on Little Lake, known as Powder Magazine Point, as site for a lumber mill.

Mr. McDonald undertook to fill in Rink St. east of George St. Assessors William Aldridge and Thomas McGrath, with Robert Rowe valued the quarter acre at $535, without the magazine. The terms were accepted by Mr. McDonald.

That was the beginning of the sawmill industry Mr. McDonald established, filling the lake with logs as they floated down the river from waters in northern townships, and leaving only a steamboat channel to the Wolfe St. wharf between CPC and CPR.

The commission advanced money to the council for the purchase of lots on Townsend St. "partly to fill in the bay." Lot 4 on Rink St. west of George was sold to W. J. Hall on condition that "he fill in the lot to the present level of Rink St. within five years at the rate of one-fifth a year."

The trust's demand on the council in 1888 was $7,540.

BUILD CREEK BRIDGES

In 1887 the council decided to build "permanent bridges" over the creek on Brock, Simcoe, Charlotte and other streets, and pay part of the cost of an iron bridge at the Locks, and also construct a cribbing around the Crescent St. side of Little Lake," to prevent further erosion of the street. Cost was estimated at $20,000. The bylaw was passed Aug. 29, 1887. Debentures were issued for 20 years, requiring from the council $800 interest and $750 sinking fund annually.

That minute of the trust suggests to present day imagination the conditions at the creek crossings and also the Crescent St. shore line.

Assessment of the town at the end of 1886 was $3,551,000, and the municipal debt was $185,000 "with no part thereof in arrears."

Richard Hall was appointed to the commission in 1890, replacing Wm. Cluxton who resigned.

A three year extension was granted the CPR for filling in its Wolfe St. property, and they were offered an adjoining lot at the same terms.

Lease of part of the market block to the CPR for an uptown ticket office was authorized by the Commission in June 1890.

Debentures held in the sinking fund were placed with the manager of the Ontario Bank for safe keeping. This action by the chairman and secretary was approved by the trust. They were instructed to continue this new practice, and other securities were to be placed with the bank, "endorsing on them notices that the debentures are the property of the commission and not negotiable without endorsement of the chairman and secretary."

Those were debentures bought with funds of the trust for investment purposes. Another decision was to transfer to Nicholls Hospital trustees all school debentures held as investments for the sinking fund, "on being paid face value of the same."

DEAR OLD RULE DAYS—This is the Fourth Reader class of South Central school, as they smiled, frowned or grimaced when told to watch the birdie on June 12, 1890. Their teacher was John Stirling. Do you recognize yourself, your cousin, your mother or father in the group? My! Look at the girls' skirts and the boys' vests and high-buttoning jackets! To help you find your relatives—or yourself—here is the roll-call of names of that class sixty-four years ago. Mysterious Boulders In The Arctic: Who Placed Them?

(From "The Beaver," magaine of the Hudson's Bay Company.)

One of the unsolved mysteries of the Arctic concerns a scattering of huge boulders which are to be found, supported on smaller rocks, at the upper end of Melville Peninsula. Nobody knows why they were thus raised, nor how the primitive people who placed them in position were able to lift such enormous weights.

Eetigaseemaute the Eskimos call them, meaning "that which is raised from the ground." But none of the natives I questioned when I was serving at Igloolik post claimed any knowledge of how the feat of raising them was performed, nor why. They simply replied that once the Illisimayoke—the informed white man—saw them, he would be enlightened.

However, the natives have no hesitation in explaining who put them there. It was the Toonikduak, a race of comparative giants who lived in stone houses, many of which can still be seen today, on the summits of small hills. These houses were similar in design to the present day snowhouse, but had a much smaller sleeping bench. To us this would imply a people of small, rather than great, stature; but not so to the Eskimo. His legends describe the Toonik as big, powerful people, but with the mentality of children, who slept with their feet up the wall. Hence the small sleeping bench!

This odd position apparently gave them greater use of their legs in walking and running. Though this may sound ridiculous, there is little doubt that the Toonik were men of great strength. The huge stones used in the construction of their houses, and the lack of any mechanical aids in setting up these monumental stones, combined with the numerous legends the Eskimos relate about them, help to confirm this theory.

STORIES

One of these tales I fell heir to, and told in all seriousness, was about two Eskimos who while out hunting, came upon fresh bear tracks which they immediately began to follow. Unknown to them, a Toonik had also crossed the bear's track a few miles farther ahead. Being swifter of foot he very soon caught up with the bear and killed it. He was about to start skinning the animal when the two Eskimos appeared on the scene. At once on the defensive, the Toonik picked up the bear, laid it across his shoulders and made off with it! I should add that, though the white man is often inclined to exaggerate a story for the benefit of the listener, the Eskimo has no interest in whether we accept his tale or not. To him the impression we get is of no importance. Indeed had no enquiry been made, the tale would not have been told.

The great stone monuments which these Tooniks are supposed to have erected are of varying sizes, some of them weighing many tons. They bear neither carvings nor inscriptions, merely consisting of the native rock, red granite, mounted on four stones, with the whole structure sitting upon surface rock. The most intriguing specimens are the leaning stones. They also vary greatly in size, but are all canted at an angle of about 15 degrees to the horizontal, one end resting on the ground and the opposite end supported by two stones. These boulders almost all point northeast and southwest. The horizontal rocks are to be found mainly on the edges of valleys, or on the crests of hills. On travelling up the valleys, one can often see them silhouetted against the sky, giving an impression not unlike an altar. There appears to be no uniformity in their setting, none in regard to their distance apart, though at times two or three are to be found within a few yards of each other. The leaning stones are situated at the heads of valleys, in areas commanding a view of two or three miles.

One possible way such bulk and weight could be moved would be by rolling the boulders onto two of the base stones, with the aid of skin lines used in the parbuckle system. Then lifting the opposite end and placing the other two stones underneath. This sounds very simple, but the power required to lift such a weight would call for more men (as we know them) than could stand around its base.

WHY?

Probably the chief question relating to these monuments, is why were they put there. For what purpose did they go to that tremendous effort of erecting such stones, so numerous over such a wide area. Perhaps the fact they are in good caribou country would indicate some purpose connected with hunting. Were they raised to persuade strangers who invaded their territory, that a race of giants inhabited these parts, leaving the intruder's imagination full play and thus discouraging any infringement on their hunting rights? Or did they simply employ their idle moments erecting these stones as a feat of strength, while waiting for the caribou to arrive?

Photos of some of the boulders have been sent to the eminent Danish anthropologists Dr. Kaj Birket-Smith and Dr. Helge Larsen, but they can shed no light on their origin. Sir Edward Parry and Capt. G. F. Lyon, who spent the winter of 1822-3 at Igloolik and did some travelling on the northern part of Melville Peninsula, do not mention them in their books. Perhaps, like some of the cromlechs and menhirs of the Old World, they will always remain a mystery.

An experienced Arctic traveller, Colonel G. W. Rowley has put forward the suggestion that the stones under the boulders may be merely the remnants of several that had originally been deposited by glacial action. The natives may have used the boulders as meat caches by placing the meat on top out of the reach of animals; and they may have removed all but the key supports for two reasons: 1. To make it more difficult for the animals to get on top of the boulders; 2. To prevent snowdrifts forming at the bases.

"Preventing the cache from drifting up," wrote Col. Rowley, "is I think very important. Only a few miles from where my Eskimo used a cache of this sort, a complete family starved about four years ago within easy distance of a number of cached caribou which they were unable to locate under the changed conditions of winter."

It is unlikely that a small boulder like the one at the bottom of the opposite page would be used as a cache, since any Arctic animal larger than a lemming could jump on top of it. But it may have been used as a landmark, and the stones placed under it to prevent it drifting up.

House Plants Get Hungry

By HENRY PREE (NEA)

House plants are beginning to show some signs of winter with their dust-coated foliage asking for a bath and a few masses of mealy bugs just waiting to be exterminated.

Hunger signs are in evidence at this time, and many indoor garden plants take on a languid appearance. Plants must eat and drink and breathe, like all other forms of cellular life.

It is not difficult to recognize when a plant is hungry, thirsty or sick.

The warm atmosphere of the home is ideal for the rapid increase of insect pests. One writer declares that "the multiplication of insect colonies on indoor plants is more amazing than pleasing, and here if anywhere is applicable the old adage, "a stitch in time saves nine."

While many insects must be killed with some chemical, it is surprising what effect the weekly bath of soapy water has in reducing their numbers.

The lovely gardenia is often infested with a pest that looks like little wads of cotton.

This pest is the white mealy bug, and if allowed to go unchecked will seriously stunt the plant and keep the buds from opening. The simplest method of control is to place the plant in the bathtub or sink and go over the infested areas with soapy water, using a soft flat paint brush.

A teaspoonful of nicotine sulphate may be added to each quart of soapy water. After making sure that no bugs remain lodged in the joints of the branches, spray the plant with clear water and return to the window garden.

Another mean insect to disturb our inside garden is the red spider, a very small insect which causes unsightly, yellow-spotted foliage. The red spider protects itself by a shielding web and thus is not disturbed by the usual insecticide. However, it survives only under warm, dry conditions and is quickly killed where moisture is present. The best method of control is to wash foliage regularly or to use forceful spraying.

Aphids are small green or brown sucking insects which seem to thrive best on new growth. Aphids, also known as plant lice, should be exterminated as soon as they are detected, because they produce a new generation every 10 days.

The recommended control is one-half teaspoon nicotine sulphate to a quart of soapy water.

A good washing with soap and nicotine sulphate will prolong life of plant.

Roots of house plants are sometimes infested with another kind of aphids. Plants thus infested appear as if suffering from jaundice.

Control is difficult unless the plant is removed from the pot, the roots thoroughly washed in soapy water, and repotted in new soil.

Gardening Questions

Q.—My rubber plant has developed rust spots such as are on the leaf enclosed. What is wrong?

A.—There are indications of scale infestation. Weekly washing of both sides of the leaves with Black-Leaf 40 soapy water solution should clear it up. Four or five treatments will be necessary. Do not overwater the soil.

Q.—Geraniums were taken indoors. After two weeks the plants began to bud but dried up before coming into bloom. New buds continue to form, but also dry up. Why?

A.—Geranium buds dry before opening because the temperature is too high and the atmosphere too dry. Lack of sufficient sunshine may also be a contributory cause. They need a temperature of 50 to 55 degrees at night and five or ten legrees higher during the day.

Q.—A friend waters her plants with water in which uncooked egg shells have been standing for several weeks. Is this brew really beneficial?

A.—The water in which eggshells are steeped has extremely little fertilizer value. Alkalinity that it provides may be useful in correcting slightly acid conditions of the soil.

A·F·I·E·L·D with NICK NICKELS

We read a news item in the Examiner this week which referred to a current article in that splendid periodical, the National Geographic Magazine; it dealt with the transportation of gold by air transport. A line that read "whether on plane, train or ship it (gold) is a pampered passenger and always commands a retinue of guards", brought some nostalgic memories, and inward amusement, about occasions without end we shipped gold by air in Northern Canada.

In those days gold bricks were flown out to the "Steel" by registered mail and there was nothing unusual to see mailbags containing a brick apiece lying around warehouses or on loading docks where youngsters amused themselves between plane arrivals trying to heft the bags of wealth. Rather than "pampered" shipments, they were totally ignored; everyone around the air bases knew of their proximity and there were no guards.

We remember coming out of God's Lake, Manitoba, on one flight for Winnipeg where gold sacks were thrown in the cabin to bring the payload up to weight; there were other items, as well.

A corpse of a drowned miner, frozen for a week in a rough box in the commissary quick-freeze room, topped by a mattress on which a sick man had to lie with about six inches of headroom to spare and myself to feed the horizontal passenger opiate pills at intervals. Concern for the sick man, the necessity of getting the rough box delivered before the frost had completely come out of it—it was a hot August day—gave the bullion little attention; it was the least important item of the payload.

How Cruel Can You Get?

Conservation officer Ray Simpson of Bobcaygeon surprised a party of city-dwelling deer hunters last fall trying to lead a severely wounded deer by forcing it to walk four miles from the spot they had maimed it to their car where they intended to kill it. This method saved them a heavy carry.

Fortunately, Simpson caught up with these sadists, made them remove pulling ropes from the wounded beast, ordered it killed and saw that the carcase was carried to the hunters' car. But according to the Fish and Game Act there was nothing in it to charge the ?port? with! According to the Criminal Code, however, members of the Humane Society could do well to look into this particular case.

We meet many farmers in town these winter days and they have time to talk. We like to feel them out on farmer-sportsmen relations, knowing full well their side of the story. A million words have been written on this subject as more and more playtime becomes available to sportsmen. We will side with the farmers every time.

Perhaps it is not understood correctly but, though wild fowl and game belong to the Crown the control of a great deal of its habitat is vested in the owner or tenant of the land. The farmer can lock the gates to all hunting on his land, or, he can be generous with his hospitality. And sportsmen have the key to those gates, COMMON COURTESY.

The farmer suffers the insult of property trespassing to avoid unpleasantness, for a while, but in knowing his rights, does not take long in posting NO HUNTING signs.

So, if sportsmen refuse to smarten up and get on friendly terms with friend farmer, the issue is deadlock; the situation will spawn another million words of prints. It looks like a rat race to us.

From the Federation of Ontario Naturalists I quote in part from their latest circular entitled "Bird Baseball". (The quote starts:)

'The Northern Shrikes are down with the Snowy Owls, again this winter, so this is a good time to introduce your children to the fascinating game of bird baseball.

'One observer is the pitcher. When he spots a shrike he calls out: "Shrike one!"

'The other observer checks his identification. If he thinks he can prove (and does prove) that the pitcher made a mistake he calls out "Fowl!" and scores one run. (This is how you can tell bird baseball from the real thing.)

'Three shrikes, of course, is out—for the pitcher, and sides change.' (End of quote.)

This drivel came on a nice letterhead, mimeographed, and cost four cents to mail. For the total cost per mailing piece the federation could buy and mail small pine seedlings for planting. Outdoor writers would drum up their foresight. May I suggest for our part, Mr. or Madame secretary, that if such is the stuff of your news releases that you Shrike my name from your sucker list.

Petes Pound Out a 7-1 Win Against Quinte Squad For Tighter Hold On Second

Trouncing Belleville Memos 7-1 here last night, the TPT Petes took a tighter hold on second place in their OHA senior "B" group race behind Oshawa, and in front of Kingston, Orillia and the cellar-dwelling Memos. The victory gave Ed Redmond's men a three-point margin over K's and Pontiacs, and left the locals just two full games behind the league leaders. Zero weather kept down the crowd, but the rival teams kept warm by turning it on throughout in speedy going. While the checking was rugged, play was fairly clean, the Petes drawing five of the nine minor penalties. Twice fights threatened to break out but no damage resulted. Petes led by periods 2-0, 2-1 and 3-0.

SCORED A PAIR

Chum Fryia potted two tallies to lead the victors, as singles were counted by Rod Belisle, Bert Hill, Toodie Greenlaw, Bill Crowley and Roy Armstrong, the latter playing a wing as Denny Peterson is out with a knee injury. Tops in assists were Ed Redmond and Gus Leonard with two each, as Greenlaw, Bill McMaster, Belisle, Fryia and Crowley had one apiece. The lone Quinte counter was by Doug Day on a pass from Ed Duncan.

Goalie Jack Donlevy almost earned a shutout with a fine cage performance, being peppered hard in the even second period. Rolly Sarrault in the other net had a busy night as the Petes had a good margin on play in the first and third periods. He didn't let any soft ones by him. One of the Petes' goals was an offside one and Memos argued hotly but vainly over it. Bill McMaster had a field day bumping opponents around by the blue-line. The only goal scored when a team was a man short was when Petes counted with one of their own men in the sin bin.

SMART FINISH

Fryia scored early with fast finish on a pass-up play started by McMaster and relayed by Greenlaw. Wade went off for high-sticking and was nicely back when MacDonald got the nod for a similar offence. He returned in two minutes and Crowley scored but it was ruled offside. Crowley got the gate for hooking then and prentice ragged well till his return. A Leonard-Collins' thrust was stopped by Sarrault, and Montgomery then was chased for charging. Belisle had a good try and, with Monty back, Fryia made it 2-0 from Leonard on a smart rush and good finish in close.

Day tallied for Belleville to start the second on Ed Duncan's rebound in close. DeGray and Munroe nearly tangled, and Belleville's forechecking stopped the Petes and had them disorganized a good part of the period. Memos gave Donlevy plenty to do in fast rugged going. Crowley finally tallied as he roared in fast to hammer home his own rebound. Armstrong made it 4-1 shortly as he took Belisle's pass offside and cuffed it into the rigging. Ed Duncan was waved over for charging and Montgomery followed at period's end for interference.

HAD THE EDGE

The Petes dominated through the third, though Memos fought hard to the final going. Greenlaw hitched the counter up to 5-1 on a rebound of a play built up by Fryia and Leonard. Goyer returned from a tripping penalty and Belisle pulled a very nifty rush and finished it off neatly with Redmond's pass. Fryia was penalized for high-sticking as a fight threatened, and Hill scored on Crowley's passout on a play started away back by Redmond. That ended the scoring, but Armstrong drew a sentence for slashing near the close.

Belleville: goal, Sarrault; defence, Goyer and Bastedo; centre Ed Duncan; wings, Erwin Duncan and Day; alts, Wade, R. Doran, P. Jones, DeGray, MacDonald, Wardhaugh, D. Jones and Semark.

Petes: goal, Donlevy; defence, Redmond and McMaster; centre, Leonard; wings, Fryia and Greenlaw; alts, Hill, Crowley, Collins, Belisle, Prentice, Armstrong, Garvey, Montgomery and Munroe.

Referees, D. Calhoun and B. Cain.

CGE And Blacks Take Wins In Lasses' Loop

CGE colleens triumphed over Nurses 34-25 at the YWCA last night for their first victory of the Girls City League basketball schedule this season. In the other part of the cage double-header, Black's barely yanked out a 33-32 decision over Lindsay Neill's in a nifty number. The schedule resumes again next Friday evening.

In the opening tussle, Nurses were in front 9-8 in the first quarter but were held to two single points next heat as Electrics dropped in two field baskets. CGE clinched it with a hard-driving third period and withstood a strong assault by Nurses in the fourth to earn the decision. The winners lost M. Hodson through personal fouls.

Dot Jackson topped CGE scorers with 11 points, and H. Miller had 10. B. Luther clicked for seven, M. Jones four, and M. Hodson and J. Pearson one each. D. Mark was outstanding for Nurses with 14 points, as S. Frost came through with six, P. Peryer four and B. Lewis one. Teams:

CGE: M. Hodson, J. Brunt, B. Luther, D. Jackson, J. Pearson, M. Jones, H. Miller.

Nurses: P. Peryer, B. Lewis, S. Frost, W. Heard, D. Mark, M. Flavelle.

A KEEN FRAY

The nightcap was a keen fixture with the issue very much in doubt till the final whistle. Black's rolled to a 10-3 lead in the first quarter and were in front 13-10 at the half. Lindsay outscored them 14-11 in the third but Black's squeezed it out by a point in the dying seconds of the lively tussle. J. Vanstone and M. Owen of Lindsay had four personals each, and C. Boswell four for Black's.

C. Gibson led Black's with 17 points as C. Boswell had seven, R. Naylor six, M. Middleton two and R. Butcher one. Tops for Lindsay was M. Owen with 20, D. Copp and J. O'Brien with four each, J. Vanstone and L. Jordan two each. Teams:

Blacks: C. Gibson, R. Butcher, C. Boswell, M. Middleton, V. Barnett, E. McIlhagga, R. Naylor, H. McConnell.

Lindsay: J. O'Brien, J. Vanstone, E. Humphries, M. Owen, D. Copp, F. Thornbury, L. Owen.

Referee: F. Wade.

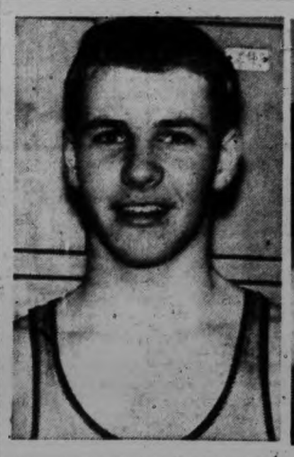
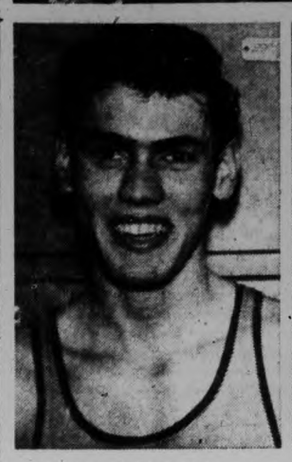
LONDON (CP)—This year's cup final—the Football Association cup final based on a season-long elimination tournament—will be broadcast in its entirety on television and sound May 1, the BBC announced. In the past only half the game has been broadcast.





RECORDS BROKEN—Basketball records for individuals and teams were broken Friday night by high school teams. Doug Ash and Bob McKinney with 22 and 20 points led PCVS seniors to a record-breaking 107-9 win over Lindsay Collegiate. Only four hours earlier, Kenner Collegiate bantams had set a new team scoring record at 104, trimming Lakefield High 104-2. Bill Hendry set a new individual record, totalling 46 points, and was helped by Peter Faulkner with 24. Brian Bell (top left) and Paul Davis (lower left) were high scorers as PCVS juniors defeated Lindsay 41-34. Jerry Vincent (top right) scored 18 points as PCVS bantams trounced Lindsay bantams 75-19.—(Examiner Staff Photos).

Selkirk Rink Entered In Tankard

OWEN SOUND (CP)—Fourteen southern Ontario rinks will start play here Monday in the Ontario ladies tankard, premier competition for the province's women curlers.

Fifty sets of matched curling stones have arrived here from Mauchline, Scotland, and will be used for the first time in championship competition in the tankard games.

The entry list is headed by Mrs. L. E. Wooley's Toronto Granite club rink which won the tankard last year at Peterborough.

RINKS ENTERED

Other rinks entered:

Mrs. N. Kay of Lindsay, Mrs. V. Selkirk of Peterborough, Mrs. C. B. Schmidt of Kitchener, Mrs. H. Smith of Bracebridge, Mrs. R. McIntosh of Bobcaygeon, Mrs. M. Code of Toronto High Park, Mrs. Kay McLaren of Hamilton Victorias, Mrs. D. W. Fox of Guelph, Mrs. W. Robertson of Brantford and Mrs. T. Doughty of Peterborough.

Each rink will play two games Monday and Tuesday. Losers of first-round games will enter competition for the Northey Trophy.

Hastings Victorious Against Wellington

HASTINGS (ENS) — Hastings TVL entry dropped a 6-3 decision to Wellington Friday before a slim crowd.

It was the fastest game of the season on local ice, with but 3 minor penalties handed out.

Mulholland was terrific in the Hastings net, but there were times he could have sued his mates for non-support.

Hastings: Goal, Mullholland; defence, McGillen and Vype; centre, Oliver; wings, Killen, Donahue; alternates, Bacon, Burns, West, Ford, Allen, Maloney.

Wellington: Goal, Letman; defence, Hurst, Cousins; centre, Scott; wings, Garrison, Petteagill; alternates, Carey, Graham, Hatfield, Bone, Greer, Mowatt, Parks.

PCVS Girl Cagers Beat Kenner 26-21

PCVS junior girls defeated Kenner Collegiate 26-21 last evening in a keen high school basketball encounter. The uptowners swept to a 15-8 halftime lead but had to battle hard to eke out the verdict as the southenders poured on the pressure in the late stages. Kenner outscored the Garnet and Grey girls 13-11 in the last half. B. Callan of PCVS had four personals called on her.

Leading scorer for the victors was Joan Weir with 10 points, Bernice Callan clicking for eight, and Margaret Patterson, Janet Hughson and Gloria Clements two each. For Kenner, Sally Reynolds led with eight points, Barb Succee having six, Joan Guthrie, Beverly Tully and Sally Samis two each, and Susan Reynolds a single point. Teams:

Kenner: S. Samis, B. Tully, B. Succee, S. Reynolds, J. Guthrie, R. Trotter, J. Cunningham, Sally Reynolds, S. Wood.

PCVS: J. Weir, G. Clements, D. Kingston, G. Ferguson, J. Hughson, M. Patterson, B. Callan, S. Fee, P. Collins, M. Tudhope, J. Buckland, C. Bertram, C. Harrison, D. Pearce.

Referee, B. Williams; umpire, M. Galoska.

Lyndhursts Stock Up With Ear Muffs

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto's East York Lyndhursts, stocked with vaseline and ear muffs, left Toronto Friday for the world hockey championships in Sweden.

Their participation in the tournament will be preceded by 13 exhibition games in France, Italy, Switzerland, Germany and Sweden.

Because most of their games overseas will be on open air artificial rinks, Lyndhursts say they believe the vaseline and ear muffs are almost as important as their hockey equipment. The vaseline is to prevent wind burn.

They board the Queen Mary in New York today.

High School Hoop Records By Kenner and PCVS In Lopsided League Frays

By DON GRANT

High school basketball scoring records in Peterborough are in for a bad season. At least that's the way it appears after Friday's game at PCVS and Kenner Collegiate. Kenner bantam Rams' star, Bill Hendry, set the new individual record at 46 points as the Rams set a new team record of 104 as they smeared Lakefield High 104-2. But the team record didn't last very long, in fact only four hours, for PCVS Garnet and Grey seniors promptly broke it as they crushed Lindsay Collegiate seniors 107-19.

The other games played were all fairly high scoring. Kenner junior Rams handed Lakefield High juniors a 58-18 setback. PCVS bantams trounced Lindsay Collegiate bantams 75-19. The only low-scoring game was also won by PCVS, the juniors handing Lindsay a third defeat this time 41-34.

Kenner's two records came at the expense of an inexperienced Lakefield High bantam quintet, which was making its debut in high school basketball. The young Rams simply checked the Lakefield lads under their own basket, running in basket after basket.

ROLLED FAST

From the first two minutes it was evident that the Rams would break both records. They climbed to a 32-0 first quarter score, raced on to 58-0 half-time score, rose to a lofty 79-2 third quarter score, and set the new dizzy-high record at 104-2 in the fourth.

All the Rams fed the 15-year-old Hendry who has four years of basketball experience. With short one-hand set shots and layups he gradually amassed his 46 points. Even then he missed at least a dozen other close-in shots.

Hendry's record came on the heels of a near-record tie on Wednesday this week when he scored 36 against St. Peter's High.

The game's loudest cheer wasn't for the Rams or Hendry. The Kenner fans, along with the Lakefield boys, really cheered and whistled when Webb dribbled in and sank Lakefield's only basket in the third quarter.

The news of Kenner's and Hendry's record efforts was quickly spread about the PCVS gym during the collegiate's triple-game night with Lindsay Collegiate. Yet no one realized that they would see a new record set there.

POURED IT ON

Zolton Temesy's smooth-passing, quick-breaking Garnet and Grey seniors soon made the 150 fans sit up. The collegians poured through a loose Lindsay CI defence, racing ahead 28-4 at the quarter and then 53-6 at the half.

But it wasn't until the three-quarter mark that the fans and the PCVS and Lindsay teams realized that the Garnet and Grey might reach the century mark. Going into the fourth leading 76-17, the Temesy-coached quintet aimed at 100.

Bob Boorman with a layup shot sent PCVS over the 100-mark, and within two minutes the collegians had broken the team record for the second time within four hours.

Little Doug Ash with 22 points, Bob McKinney with 20, and Bob Boorman with 18 led the PCVS scoring, as all seven players fattened their scoring averages. McDuffee was Lindsay's best with 12.

WORKED HARD

PCVS juniors had to work for their victory over Lindsay. The Garnet and Grey held a slim lead throughout, staying out in front 14-11 at quarter, 23-19 at half, and 31-29 at three-quarters. A fourth quarter rally, led by Paul Davis and Brian Bell, gave PCVS the win 41-34.

Bell led the scoring with 14 points, one more than Davis. Blackwell took scoring honors in this game, dropping in 19 points for Lindsay.

In the other junior game the Kenner Rams easily disposed of Lakefield High juniors, also making their debut in high school basketball. Although Lakefield juniors were better than their bantam schoolmates, they couldn't come close to the Rams, who led 13-1 25-7 and 48-9 at the quarters.

Jerry Montgomery and Bob Hollingsworth paced Kenner with 13 points each, followed by Ron Ward with 11.

Bev Goulding's bantams also showed plenty of scoring power for beginners as they trounced Lindsay 75-19. They slopped ahead 13-3 in the first quarter, jumped ahead 34-7 at the half, matched points in the third 55-11 and rocketed to 75-19 in the fourth.

Bruins, Rangers Playing Before More Customers

MONTREAL (CP) — Boston Bruins and New York Rangers are playing before substantially more customers—eight per cent in Boston and 6.5 per cent in New York compared with last season—president Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League told The Canadian Press today.

A survey of league attendance for 120 games, compared with the same stretch last season, shows a big 37-per-cent drop by Chicago Black Hawks, enough alone to pull the league total under the mark at this stage a year ago.

The 120-game total this season is 1,121,014, a loss of 37,309 compared with 1,158,323 last season.

SMALL INCREASE

Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs show small increases—a matter of standees since all games are seat-sellouts. Montreal is well in front with an attendance of 301,218, an increase of 746. Toronto is second with 250,517, up 186.

Detroit Red Wings, with seven consecutive seasonal increases, show a loss at this stage, 202,869 compared with 209,623 a year ago. Campbell said this is more than offset financially, due to the sale of a larger percentage of high-priced seats. The sacrifice is in standing room, said Campbell, and likely is attributable to television.

Boston and New York currently are battling for fourth place in the league—last playoff spot. The Boston attendance is 132,275, up 9,312. New York's is 147,068, an increase of 9,795.

Chicago Black Hawks' attendance has nose-dived, from 137,661 to 87,067 for a net loss of 50,594.

Havelock Gains A 10-3 Win Over The RCAF

HAVELOCK (ENS) — Havelock triumphed 10-3 over Trenton RCAF in a TVL game at the local arena Friday night before about 400 fans. This was Havelock's fourth straight win.

Kane of Havelock was the top scorer with three goals and an assist to his credit. One of his goals was on a break-a-way. He drew the goalie to one side and flipped the puck in the net. Mason also played in good style throughout the game and scored a goal, shot from behind the net. Nicholls, the goalie for the locals, put on another demonstration of fine netminding. The forward line of Ruttan, Laing and Scott did effective work. Hannah was also strong on defence playing second goal-tender on some shots. Beatch was the outstanding player for Trenton.

Havelock: goal, Nicholls; defence, Hannah, Wooton; centre, Mortimer; wings, Floyd, Brooks; alts.: Kane, Mason, Slater, Kelly, Scott, Eakins, Brown, Ruttan, Laing, Berardi.

Country Lad Wins Heat At Dufferin

TORONTO (CP)—Country Lad, owned by G. Kirkpatrick of Kingston and Scott Frisco, owned by A. Balcombe of Tillsonburg, each won a heat in the class BB pace, top harness attraction at Dufferin Park Friday.

Mary's Boy, owned by W. Sarama of Buffalo and Swing Up, owned by Gerald Hess of Morrisburg, divided the secondary feature, a class B trot. Each won a heat.

Detroit Red Wings set the NHL record for most goals scored by one team in one game when they walloped New York Rangers 15-0 at Detroit 10 years ago tonight. The record still stands, along with most total points—37—for one team in one game. Ken McAuley was in the Ranger nets, while the outclassed New Yorkers had only nine shots against Connie Dion in the Detroit cage.

The B'nai B'rith dinner honoring Mrs. Pansy Forbes, ornamental swimming club coach, as Peterborough's citizen of the year 1953, is at 6:45 tonight in the Empress Hotel's Kawartha Room. For the past five years, Mrs. Forbes' local aquatic aces have been winning various awards in Canada and the States, topping it off with an international title and a U.S.A. team award last summer across the line. Mrs. Forbes is a worthy recipient of the tribute of being termed citizen of the year here. Guest speaker Mel Allen, top sportcaster in the States, will add his words of praise at the dinner as guest speaker. He was to have addressed high school boys of the city at St. Peter's auditorium this morn, be received by the Mayor early in the aft, have a press and radio get-together later, and then attend the dinner. A full day for Mel.

The AHL bulletin the other day showed George (Red) Sullivan atop the league still in scoring with 62 points, his 46 assists being best also to date in the circuit. Shows the Ashburnham hustler is a real playmaker in the pro loop just a step below the National Hockey League. He should be up there now with Bruins, or sold to another NHL club which could use his ability. Red has three points more than his nearest rivals, Jack Gordon and Ed Olson of Cleveland. While Ike Hildebrand was sold to Vancouver several weeks back by New York Rangers, little Ike is back up there again since Chicago Hawks bought his contract. A real break, even if Hawks are in the NHL cellar.

Quinte Scribe Worrying

Quinte columnist was worrying in print the other day about the Memos' chances of grabbing onto the fourth playoff berth in the OHA senior "B" grouping. And well he might. They were 11 points back of Orillia and Kingston, with 15 games left to play in the schedule. Says he: "There are no weak sisters in the four other squads and from here in we would not bet a nickel on any one team defeating another. Oshawa, Orillia, Kingston and Peterborough are travelling at top speed and have their sights set on the playoff target. None of them shows any signs of dropping into a slump." But he rightly points out that the Belleville puckists have plenty of ability and fight, and are apt to upset any club in the group at any time. It's a hard race to dope, eh?

* * * * * * *

Petes can't be dislodged from second place in the senior "B" standing this week, as they now have a three-point margin over Kingston after trimming the Memos 7-1 before a so-so crowd here last cold eve. Looked a bit disorganized in the middle heat but had a good margin on play in the first and third to earn the duke handily. Memos were minus Taylor and Duke Doran, but the TPT-ers were without Denny Peterson, who suffered a bad knee in Orillia, and the locals drew five of the nine penalties. A speedy tussle, rugged in spots, but no outbreaks. Local scoring was well spread around, and Goalie Jack Donlevy in the home net was tough to beat all night. Bill McMaster used his body to good effect on both sides of the blue line.

Lindsay Grabs a Win

Lindsay cashed in on a local penalty in the third period last evening on Scugog ice to yank out an 8-6 OHA junior "B" victory o'er the Junior Petes. Latter are still ruling the roost in this group and tackle Collingwood here on Monday, but Lindsay has moved up over Port Perry into second place, two and a half games back of the Creighton crew. A rather scrappy contest between these oltime rivals Friday but it was kept under control by Jim Crombie, Kearns, McDougall, Coyle, Hook and Byrne were the pick of the Peterborough pack, while Lindsay turned in a sound chore to gain the verdict. They play Port Perry in the Ports' bailiwick this gloaming, and that might well mean a victory for the transplanted Oshawa team to further complicate things in second place.

* * * * * * *

Hefty hoop action around and about last e'en. Local high school boys' teams racked up a total of 375 points to 92 over out-of-town squads. Couple of high-scoring records fell to Kenner's Bill Hendry (with 46 points) and PCVS seniors with 107 as they limited Lindsay to 19 in that tilt. Kenner bantams beat Lakefield 104-2 for a record, broken later by PCVS. Kenner juniors won 58-18 over Lakefield. The bantam PCI-ers downed Lindsay 75-19 and PCVS juniors took a 41-43 win from the Scugog rivals. Collegiate colleens won 26-21 from Kenner. YW jousts saw CGE beat Nurses 34-25, as Black's edged Lindsay 33-32. Kitchener juniors and seniors play SPS teams this eve in OCC fixtures at St. Peter's, and the twin bill is followed at eight by Toronto Broadview "Y" seniors vs. Regents in an exhibition.

* * * * * * *

Dese, Dem and Dose

Lakefield puckists downed Lindsay 6-1 last p.m., and the same squads clash in Lakefield on Monday night. Marmora, Havelock and Hastings captured TVL tilts last night; games Monday: Marmora at RCAF, Havelock at Wellington, Bata at Hastings, Campbellford at Pt. Anne. Warsaw won from Hiawatha 7-6; Keene is at Apsley tonight, as Apsley goes to Hiawatha on Monday. Orillia beat Kingston last eve 6-3 to creep up to within a point of Petes. Couple of kids were hurt by flying pucks at Civic last night. A change in plans (not told to us in time for Friday's paper) had Mel Allen adressing high school boys here this aft, instead of in the a.m.p. Open annual meeting of the UEW soccer club at 2.30 Sunday aft in their rooms on Park St. Big curling bonspiel for the Canada Packers Trophy goes on today and this evening here. Canadiens still lead the NHL penalty parade with 677 minutes, while Boston with 401 is the cleanest club in the circuit. That windeth up another busy winter week.

Varsity Invited Play Against Miami

TORONTO (CP)—The University of Toronto football team has been invited to play against the University of Miami next fall.

Warren Stevens, Varsity athletic director, said Friday night he is considering the invitation.

"I wired them that we would try to clear a date and asked them about financial arrangements," he said. "If it wouldn't interfere with our college schedule, we'd be very interested in a Miami game."

Milt Schmidt Never Plays Bad Hockey Game, Best Two-Way Player

By JIM BASTABLE, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Milt Schmidt's mother gave big-league hockey one of its greatest stars because she thought football was too rough. If Milt never plays another game, many National Hockey League fans will acclaim him as the best two-way player who ever lived. When they think of Boston Bruins they think of Milt. It has been like that since Schmidt, a 35-year-old centre, joined the Bruins 17 years ago. He never burned up the league with his scoring but he was a handy man to have around when trouble started or the heat was on for a badly-needed goal.

Milt is one of the key men this year in the Boston battle to take the fourth and last playoff berth for the Stanley Cup playoffs.

Milt and the Bruins have two big games this week-end when they meet fifth-place New York Rangers twice. The Rangers whipped the Bruins 8-3 in their last meeting in New York Wednesday.

Two wins for the Bruins would give them 46 points and a six-point margin over New York. However, if the Rangers come through with two victories they will take over fourth place with a two-point edge over Boston.

COULD GET 20

Schmidt, a six-foot native of Kitchener, Ont., will be shooting for his 11th goal or 11th assist of the 1953-54 schedule during tonight's game in Boston. He could end the year in the 20-goal class. He has done that only four times since 1936.

"Every time spring rolls around I say I'm going to quit," Schmidt has said. "And then it comes fall and I get itchy-footed. It's in my blood. I love the game."

The returns are good. Milt draws about $15,000 plus bonuses every year.

Schmidt has had his share of physical troubles, though. Torn knee cartiledges and stitches are just a few.

NEVER BAD GAME

Coach Lynn Patrick is high on Schmidt.

"He never plays a bad game," Patrick says. "He never has a bad practice."

In two other games tonight, the league-leading Detroit Red Wings meet the Maple Leafs in Toronto and the last-place Chicago Black Hawks play second-place Canadiens in Montreal.

On Sunday Montreal returns to Chicago, Toronto is at Detroit and New York stays in Boston.

Martinez Drops Casillo 4 Times Wins On TKO

NEW YORK (AP)—Vince Martinez, flashing dazzling speed of hand, dropped Rocky Casillo four times Friday night to win on a technical knockout at the end of the third round of their welterweight bout at Madison Square Garden. Martinez weighed 149¾, Casillo 150 pounds.

The handsome Paterson, N.J., prospect showed better punching power than in any previous Garden appearance to keep Casillo bouncing up and down like a basketball.

A right hand to the jaw floored Rocky midway in the second. He rose to one knee at seven and got up at eight only to run into another barrage from Martinez.

FLOORED SECOND TIME

Casillo was floored a second time in the round and twice more in the third but continued to bounce up for more. Referee Ruby Goldstein stopped the fight after Dr. Vincent Nardiello of the New York state athletic commission examined Casillo after the end of the round.

In the dressing room, Jack Begun, Casillo's manager, said Goldstein shouldn't have stopped the fight.

"They shouldn't have stopped it" he said. "If the guy is going to get knocked out, let him be counted out. That way you find out whether you have a fighter or not."

Littler Takes 3-Stroke Lead

RANCHO SANTA FE, Calif. (CP) Gene Littler, the United States amateur golf champion from San Diego, took a three-stroke lead over the best of the pros Friday at the half-way mark of the $15,000 San Diego open.

On leave from the U.S. Navy, Littler added a six-under-par 66 to his first-round 67 for a 36-hole score of 133.

The leading professional was the veteran E. J. (Dutch) Harrison of Ardmore, Okla., with a 69-67—136.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver added a 69 to his first-round 71 for 140 and a tie for 12th place with six others.

Jerry Kesselring, the Kitchener youngster playing his first season as a professional on the winter circuit, shot a 72-73—145, two strokes under the total needed to qualify for third-round play.

John Hendrick of Ottawa shot a 78-79—157 and was eliminated from further play.

John Kay of Montreal also bowed out with a 77-76—153.

Don Bauer Joins Kitchener Dutchmen

KITCHENER (CP) — Veteran centre Don Bauer will join Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series for the first time this season when the Dutchmen play Windsor Bulldogs here tonight.

Bauer's job does not allow him to join the team before mid-season. Last year he picked up 45 points in the last 26 games of the season, scoring 17 goals and 28 assists.

JOHNNY BOWER, the New York Ranger goaler, who had the best of it for nearly the entire game, is shown above in one of the bad moments as Cal Gardner of the Boston Bruins nets the puck in the first period of a recent game in Madison Square Garden. The Rangers went on to win the contest by the one-sided score of 8-3. The two teams meet again tonight in Boston in a fight for the fourth and last playoff spot in the NHL.

Bentley Missing Three Games

NEW YORK (CP)—Coach Muzz Patrick of New York Rangers said Friday that veteran left-winger Doug Bentley will miss three games with the National Hockey League club while he settles affairs in Saskatoon.

Bentley, the 37-year-old former Chicago Black Hawk star who left his job as playing coach of Saskatoon Quakers of the Western Hockey League to join the Rangers Wednesday night, will be in the New York line-up at Boston Saturday and Sunday.

It was against the Bruins that Doug and his brother, Max, picked up eight scoring points as the Rangers won 8-3 Wednesday night.

After the week-end at Boston, Patrick said, Doug will miss games at Detroit, Montreal and Chicago before returning for a home-and-home week-end double bill against the Canadiens starting at Montreal Feb. 6.

CHAMPIONSHIP BOUT

CALGARY (CP)—Doug Harper of Calgary will defend his Canadian light-heavyweight boxing title in a 10-round bout here Jan. 27 with Yvon Durelle of Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., it was announced Friday. Harper won the crown from Durelle last year.

Chatham Beats Windsor 3-1 In Worst Brawl, Game Ends In Near Riot

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The hockey rule book went through the mill Friday night. So did a few of the players who played the three games in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series. About 2,300 fans in Chatham witnessed the worst brawl in the history of their arena. They saw a three-hour contest that was drawn out by a near riot in the third period. To add to the ruckus the game had to be played through an overtime period before Chatham Maroons bested Windsor Bulldogs 3-1.

A full force of arena officials and the playing of the national anthem finally ended the 30-minute fray after wild fights both on the ice and in the stands.

The donnybrook resulted in two match-misconduct penalties, one match penalty, five misconducts and one major. The Maroons were tagged with a match-misconduct and a match penalty. The rest went to the Bulldogs.

MORE PENALTIES

Another contest in Niagara Falls which saw the Cataracts best Stratford Indians 5-2 wasn't much better. It produced 17 minors, four majors and a misconduct.

The third league game in Hamilton was comparatively mild, seeing only six minor sentences handed out. Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen shut out Hamilton Tigers 2-0 while drawing five of the penalties.

Veteran Joe Carveth scored two goals during Chatham's victory, including the winning tally in overtime. Ed Didone added the insurance marker. Jack Power scored for Windsor.

The last-place Cataracts sandwiched three second-period markers between single goals in the first and third periods for their victory over Stratford. The trouble in this game started in the second period.

Eric Unger led the Cataract victory scoring three goals. Don Castelane and Ted Fauteux were the other snipers.

Dinny Flanagan and George Aitken scored for Stratford. Aitken's came at the game's final buzzer and was strongly disputed by Niagara Falls netminder Don Lockhart.

The Dutchmen made a single goal in the second period stand up until they scored their second marker into an empty net with one second left in the game. Art Hurst and Doug Verity were the snipers.

In a single Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A game Sault Ste. Marie (Ont.) Greyhounds increased their first-place lead by defeating Sudbury Wolves 6-3 in Sudbury.

Ted Roney, Ron Lay, Art Hurst, Jim McBurney, Ed Mulligan and Carl Smelle scored for the Greyhounds. Tatter McLellan, Hub Beaudry and Yacker Flynn divided the Sudbury total.

Windsor is at Kitchener and Hamilton goes to Stratford while Chatham meets the first-place Mercurys in Owen Sound tonight. Niagara Falls play in Windsor Sunday.

In the NOHA Sudbury meet the Greyhounds in Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., and North Bay Trappers are at Pembroke Lumber Kings in Saturday games. Sudbury goes to Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., for a game with the Indians Sunday.

Saskatchewan May Block Lions' Entry

By WILF CHISLETT

REGINA (CP)—A lion's roar will be heard today.

British Columbia Lions make their final bid for entry into the Western Interprovincial Football Union at the league's annual meeting.

It's expected they'll get in, but they could be turned down because of internal strife.

What looked like a calm meeting erupted Friday with an announcement by Saskatchewan Roughriders that they may block the B.C. entry. Only one dissenting voice is necessary to bar Lions and send them home like March lambs.

Rider officials charged Lions with signing Arnie Weinmeister, all-star former tackle with New York Giants of the National Football League, although by WIFU law he could only dicker with Saskatchewan. In a statement brimmed with venom, they accused both Weinmeister and Lions with "breach of faith."

VOTE AGAINST LIONS

The statement in effect said Saskatchewan will vote against Lions joining the league if Weinmeister, already signed to a two-year contract by the Vancouver team, isn't dropped. Riders also accused Lions of trying to steal one of their top players with a lush contract offer and bonus payments for university training.

British Columbia delegates to the meeting declined comment.

Don MacKenzie, new president, said he'll make his stand at the meeting and not before. Coach Annis Stukus, usually talkative to the press, only scowled when informed New York Giants plan to sue Weinmeister for breach of contract.

The Saskatchewan charge hinges on the team's negotiation list. At the top was Weinmeister. Riders had been after him for two years, partly because he was born at Rhein, Sask., and is classed as a non-import. Officials said they will present a motion that Weinmeister be barred from playing with any club in the conference. Regarding their other player, not identified, Lion's negotiations with him were an "infringement" of the Canadian Rugby Union's no tampering rule.

N. American Skiers Make Poor Showing

KITZBUEHEL, Austria (AP)—North American women skiers, who came here for some much-needed practice before the world championships in Sweden next month, were shut out Friday in their first competition against European stars in the third international Alpine ski festival.

A Canadian skier, Lucille Wheeler, 18, of St. Jovite, Que., Canadian junior champion, was disqualified in the ladies giant slalom event when she missed a gate soon after she started her run.

The event was won by Mirl Buchner of Germany.

Only one member of the four-girl U.S. team could place in the first 20 in the event.

Family Wiped Out

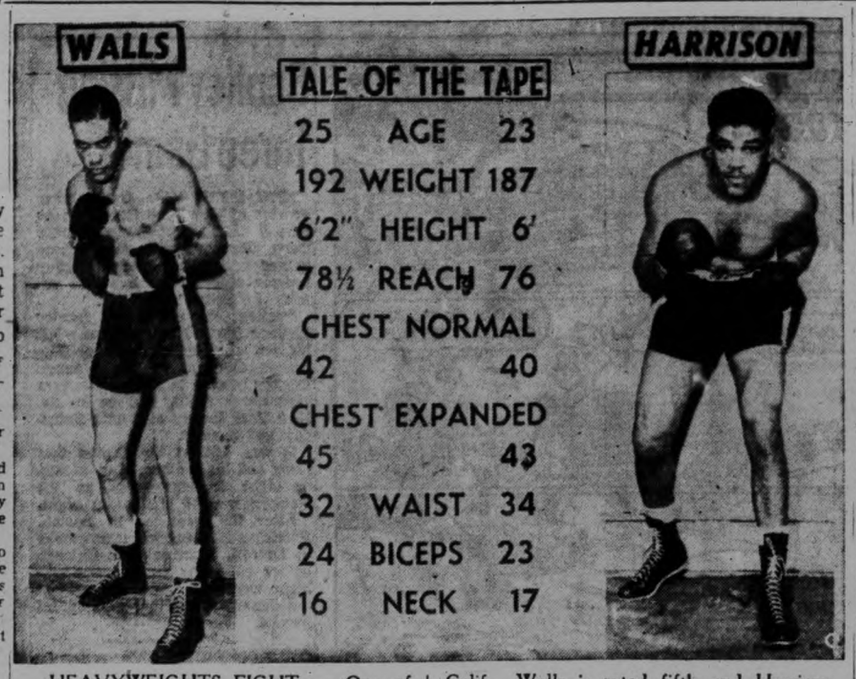
ROME (Reuters) — An Italian family of nine died of gas poisoning at nearby Frascati early today. Firemen, called by neighbors who smelled gas, found some of the victims still in their beds. Others had collapsed and died on the floor, overcome by the fumes while trying to reach doors or windows.

Sazio To Discuss Staying With Hamilton

HAMILTON (CP)—Ralph Sazio, assistant coach of Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four football league and B. F. Kearns, president of Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen of the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union, will discuss this week-end whether Sazio will remain with Hamilton or take on the job of coach and manager of the Dutchmen.

Kearns said from Kitchener Friday night that he hasn't heard from Sazio yet but adde that he hopes "to hear from him during the week-end."

Gerry Tuttle, last year's coach who was also the team's quarterback, said he wants a job as a "Canadianized-American" with a Big Four club.



HEAVYWEIGHTS FIGHT — One of Canada's most important heavyweight boxing matches is set for January 26 in Toronto between Earl Walls, of Edmonton and Toronto, and Tommy Harrison of Los Angeles, Calif. Walls is rated fifth and Harrison eighth in Ring Magazine's list of heavyweights. Walls, born in Puce, Ont., near Windsor, has a record of 28 knockouts, five losses and one disqualification since turning professional.

WOMAN SEEKS BALL JOB

WINNIPEG (CP) — The players signing up with Winnipeg's new baseball team will call their manager ma'am—if Marlys Davis gets the job she's after.

She made formal application Friday for the job of managing the Winnipeg team which makes its debut next season in the class C Northern League.

The 26-year-old blonde from Fargo, N.D., wanted to make playing her career but it seems girls with big league ambitions don't get taken seriously.

"The only alternative then," she said, "was to set my sights on a managerial career."

Mark Danzker, president of the club, which hasn't got a team name yet, said Marlys' application will be considered, along with several others put in by the menfolk.

Marlys, as a bit of personal history, says she doesn't give a hoot for kitchens and dishes. She likes diamonds though — baseball diamonds.

PLAN SWIM STRAIT

VICTORIA (CP)—Florence Chadwick has decided she will try to swim the 20-mile stretch of chilly strait of Juan de Fuca water between here and Port Angeles, Wash.

Miss Chadwick travelled over part of the course in a tug Friday and then telephoned her chief adviser, Marion Willcox in San Pedro Calif., to announce her decision.

"I've looked over the course and in my opinion the currents can be figured out, so we can get through all right," she said. "It's going to be a question of how much cold water I can take. I'm anxious to try it and I think I can make it."

A paint company here has offered Miss Chadwick $7,500 to attempt the swim and another $2,500 if she makes it.

The attempt will be made in late July or August.

LANDY MAY MAKE B.E.G.

MELBOURNE (CP) — John Landy, Australia's record-breaking miler, said Friday night he might be available to run for his country's team in the Empire Games at Vancouver starting July 30.

The runner, hoping to line up a program in the United States, said that if he is successful he will "be more than likely available" for the games.

Earlier, he had announced he would not be available for the Australian team.

He said Friday night he would compete in the games only on condition he did not have to fill in too much time before they started.

"If I can be kept running in America up to a few weeks before the games, I would be happy," he said.

TITLE FIGHT ARRANGED

QUEBEC (CP)—Fernando Gagnon, Canadian bantamweight boxing champion, will defend his title here Feb. 1 against Jersey Joe Edwards of Edmonton, it was announced Friday.

Gene Letourneau, national secretary of the Canadian Boxing Federation, said although no official request for the bout has been received, it will undoubtedly get CBF approval.

4 Rinks Headed Into Semi-Final

UTICA, N.Y. (AP)—Three United States rinks and one from Canada headed today into semi-final competition for the Mitchell Medal of the international bonspiel.

In quarter-final play Friday, Oshawa, skipped by Bard Cannings, downed Lennoxville, Que., skipped by Dave Clark, 10-5; Chicago skipped by Elmer Billow, scored a 12-4 victory over Utica No. 5, skipped by Dr. Preston Clark; Utica No. 4, skipped by Robert Davies, defeated Utica No. 1, skipped by Ward Murray, 10-7; and Schenectady No. 1, skipped by Ralph Homgren, trounced Kingston No. 2, skipped by G. G. Seymour, 12-8.

The finals are scheduled for Sunday. Thirty rinks are entered in the four-day competition.

Trabert, Seixas Win First Round

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Tony Trabert, United States champion from Cincinnati, and Vic Seixas, the Wimbledon titleholder from Philadelphia, won their first-round matches today in the Australian national tennis championships.

Trabert beat Warren Kennedy, an unseeded lefthander from Victoria 6-4, 7-5, 6-4 and Seixas defeated 20-year-old John O'Brien of Sydney 4-6, 6-4, 6-1, 6-3.

Warsaw Captures A Close EPHL Tussle

KEENE (ENS) — Warsaw eked out a 7-6 EPHL decision over Hiawatha her last night in a fast, tight tussle. There were but eight penalties handed out, five going to the losers. Neat goaltending was seen on both sides in the smart struggle.

Warsaw took a good lead in the first frame on goals by Griffins, Smith, Watts and Darling, as Matthews, L. Lonsberry and Barry earned an assist each. Heafield from G. Sellaby was the only Hiawatha count in the first. Next heat saw Hiawatha dominate on counters by D. Musgrave, Stock, L. Sellaby and Closs, with an assist each going to Stock, Cowie, and G. Sellaby. The lone Warsaw Tally was by G. Darling from Payne. In the third, Heafield scored from L. Sellaby, but Warsaw won it on goals by Watts and Evans, the latter's coming on a pass from Griffin. Teams:

Hiawatha: Goal, McDonald; defence, Anderson, Close; centre, Stock; wings, Cowie, D. Musgrave; alternates, E. Musgrave, W. Steenburgh, H. Steenburgh, Heafield, L. Sellaby, G. Sellaby, Morgan.

Klein Named Line Coach

TORONTO (CP)—Chuck Klein, coach of Toronto Balmy Beach of the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union last year, has been named line coach of Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four, it was announced Friday.

"Chuck did a wonderful job with Beaches," said Argo coach Frank Clair, "and it made me feel good to know we'd made such a fine choice in bringing him in. It's hard to find the type of man you want but Chuck has always been a lineman and he's well qualified for the job. And besides he understands my system."

Klein, formerly a highly successful coach at Cocoa high school in Florida, last year guided Balmy Beach to the Grey Cup semi-finals. Beaches lost but received high praise for their showing against Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Klein replaces John Kerns who has announced his retirement.

Lakefield Triumphs Over Lindsay By 6-1

LAKEFIELD (ENS)—Continuing their hot drive in the OHA intermediate "A" lakeshore race at home last night, Lakefield Lumbermen downed the strong Lindsay Muskies 6-1 before about 500 fans. It was a scrappy encounter, with Dean Wasson having an injury to his cheek in the first period but insisting on returning late in the second when Rocky Wilson was hurt.

Floyd, Hopkins, Birch and Cam Wasson stood out on the attack, with the whole club clicking well. Doug Hunter did a fine chore of checking Lindsay, and the defence was solid in front of nifty net-minding by Ray Harding. Crawford counted the only Lindsay marker, aided by Burns and Sinclair, but the Muskies fought hard to the finish.

These same squads clash again Monday in Lakefield, working a postponed game. Teams:

Lindsay: goal, Poole; defence, Burns, Green; centre, Hicks; wings, Corley, Davis; alts.: Parker, Crawford, Wyatt, Sinclair, Kelly, Weddup, O'Donoghue, Hennessy, O'Connell.

Lakefield: goal, Harding; defence, D. Wasson, Richlark; centre, Birch; wings, C. Wasson, Hopkins; alts.: Wilson, Reid, Caravaggio, Hunter, McCracken, Floyd, N. Wasson.

Referee: H. Payne, linesman, B. Kingdon.

FIRST PERIOD

Lakefield—McCracken (Floyd) 7:15
Lakefield—Birch (Floyd) 15:44
Penalties—Parker.

SECOND PERIOD

Lakefield—Floyd (Reid) 1:55
Lindsay—Crawford (Sinclair, Burns) 10:45
Lakefield—Reid (Caravaggio) 19:22
Penalties—Green, Weddup, Hunter (2), Wilson, N. Wasson.

THIRD PERIOD

Lakefield—C. Wasson (Birch, Hopkins) 8:15
Lakefield—Hopkins (Birch) 8:28
Penalties—O'Donoghue, Davis, N. Wasson, McCracken.

Judge Tests Toys

NORWICH, England (Reuters)—Judge Carey Evans went sailing toy yachts in a local pond Friday. After the demonstration, he agreed that the yachts were poorly made, and ordered that constructor Lister Wright pay wholesaler Arthur Salison $205 for breach of contract and loss of profit.

Record Year Lakefield Public Library

LAKEFIELD (ENS) — Miss Grace Yonge was named chairman of the Lakefield Public Library at the annual meeting held this week. Reeve William C. Grant presided for the election of officers and others elected were: book committee, Mrs. W. H. Fife and H. Wannamaker; publicity chairman, Mrs. L. J. Delaney. Mrs. J. W. Ridpath is librarian.

Mrs. Ridpath, in her anpual report, expressed appreciation for the "splendid co-operation" given her by board members, especially Miss Yonge and Miss Deidre Moher, who assists her at times during library hours.

Mrs. Ridpath said she felt the increased circulation showed the public's interest in the library. There are now 656 members of whom 189 are adults and 467 boys and girls. Of this number, 93 are out-of-town High School members and a special lunch hour at noon is given by Mrs. Ridpath for their convenience.

In January, G. Knox, who was then principal of S.S. No. 6, Smith, sent children to the library for books. In June most of these cards were turned in.

Miss Irene Madill and Mrs. Fife were given the opportunity to select books on the approved list for reading by the Missionary Department of the United Church. These books were taken to the meetings of the Missionary and Service Club of that church, for selection, and the club has read a total of 547 books during the year.

There was an increase in every department of the library except adult general. Total circulation was 11,519 books of which 5,500 were adult and 6,019 were juvenile. During the year, 854 books were added to the library and of this number 81 were donated.

There were 300 books discarded during the year, mostly adult books which had been on the shelves for years and were not moving. Any children's books discarded were generally because they were too worn for repair. Some books are lost from time to time by readers who leave the village and neglect to return their library books.

The grant was increased to the amount of $180 and of this over $50 was spent on refrence books. A new book cart and a heavy rubber mat for the reading room was purchased.

Continuing her report, Mrs. Ridpath said that "Young Canadian Book Week" had been "quite a success." Open house was held and a poster contest, judged by Oscar Schleinger, created considerable interest. Miss Benton's class from the public school visited the library for a story hour during that week.

Receipts were $3,123.51 and expenditures $2,682.26.

Faulty Putting Slows Up Marlene

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Betsy Rawls strengthened her lead to three strokes at the halfway point of the Tampa women's open golf tournament Friday, coming in one over par with 75-76—151.

Friday's best round was chalked up by Betty Dodd of Tampa, who shot a 75, even par over the 6,093-yard Palma Ceia course. Miss Dodd's 36-hole total was 154.

Marlene Stewart, British and Canadian amateur champion, from Fonthill, Ont., shot a 78 for a two-day total of 158 and an 11th-place tie.

Still handicapped by faulty putting, Marlene three-putted two greens on the first nine and did the same thing coming back for 40-38—78.

She said that she was pleased with her iron and chip shots—which gave her trouble Thursday—and hoped that she could control the putting today.

Convicts On Strike

TRIESTE (Reuters) — Convicts started a hunger strike here Friday, protesting against a delay in extending the recent Italian amnesty which released 20,000 Italian convicts over Christmas and New Year's to the Anglo - American zone of Trieste.

Lindsay Gets 8-6 Verdict Over Junior Petes To Reach Second Position

LINDSAY (ENS)—The Lindsay Juniors watched a four-goal first period lead vanish, but fought back for a well-earned 8-6 win over the Junior Petes before a crowd of 300 here last night. The win moved the juniors into second place in the group one point ahead of Port Perry. Murray Packer's insurance goal in the last minute was the night's fourth for the scrappy little winger, after Peterborough had come from behind to tie the score twice in the final period.

Lindsay were away fast in the first period, pumping four goals by O'Brien. Pearson scored the first, then Packer notched his first of the night, banging home Art Truax's rebound from close range. Hutton scored the third from the corner of the crease, and Packer added one more on a screaming backhander from 15 feet out.

The young Petes outscored Lindsay 3-1 in the middle session. Kearns opened the scoring with a hot drive from just inside the blue line. Bud McDougall got the second, picking up a lose puck in front of Kemp. Packer scored the home side's lone tally on a short backhand shot before Snape banged in Hook's passout.

TIED THE SCORE

The young Petes took advantage of two early Lindsay penalties to tie the score in the third. Ball netted the first on a line drive from the blue line, with Packer off. Kearns tied the game up with his second goal, pushing a rebound past Kemp with Hal Williams sitting out a minor. Bob Growden put Lindsay in front again on a nice passing play with Dan Pearson, but Gord Coyle put the visitors on even terms again seconds later on a solo rush.

Frizzelle's penalty gave Lindsay the win when Graham's shot from the defence slid under O'Brien at 12:25. The young Petes tried hard to organize an attack, but were foiled by Kemp on the few clear shots they were allowed to take on him. Packer put the issue beyond doubt with his breakaway goal.

Ref Jim Crombie had a busy night, as Kearns and Packer and Hook and Hutton kept up running feuds throughout the game. Serious trouble failed to materialize however.

McDougall, Kearns, Coyle, Byrne and Hook were best for the Creighton-coached Petes. Packer, Hutton, Truax, Graham, Teel and Kemp stood out for the winners who battle Port Perry for second place tonight in Port Perry.

Peterborough: goal, O'Brien; defence, Byrne, Frizzelle, Pue, Ball; forwards, Kearns, Hook, Uren, McDougall, Gardner, Ferguson, Coyle, Snape.

Lindsay: goal, Kemp; defence, McGill, Crawford, Graham; forwards, Hutton, Truax, Packer, Teel, Williams, O'Neill, Pearson, Growden.

Referee: Jim Crombie, Bowmanville; linesman, Lloyd Eberts, Lindsay.

FIRST PERIOD

Marmora Gets TVL Game From Trenton

MARMORA (ENS)—Marmora's TVL team continued their winning streak as they defeated Trenton admirals on the home rink on Friday evening by the score of 6-4.

Marmora led at the end of the first obtaining three goals without being scored against but as they went into the third they were only one goal up. Trenton tied the score halfway through this frame but Marmora got two more goals and held their lead until the end. Both goalies had as busy a night as they would wish for. The game was marked with 18 penalties and Leonard retired at 9:05 in the third from an injury. As has been the case with most games in the rink this winter, the attendance was about 300.

Marmora — Goal, Killian; defence, Gray, Leonard; centre, Maynes; wings, Lavender, Trumble; alternates, W. Jones, Mantle, Brooks, Smith, Loveless, Doyle, Nayler.

Trenton — Goal, Green; defence, Turland, Smith; centre, Beale; wings, M. Jones, Scott; alternates, McDonnell, Leavey, Istead, Baker, Graham, Campney; Watson extra goalie.

Referees—R. Carson, Belleville; G. McFaul, Belleville.

FIRST PERIOD

Marmora—Lavender (Trumble, Leonard) 11:18
Marmora—Jones (Brooks, Nayler) 12:42
Marmora—K. Trumble (Maynes, Lavender) 15:40
Penalties—Gray, Leonard, Lavender, Brooks, Baker, Leavey 2, Campney.

SECOND PERIOD

Trenton—Schmidt 6:42
Marmora—Lavender 8:41
Trentaon—Istead (Graham, Baker) 17:45
Trenton—Scott (M. Jones, Beale) 19:10
No penalties.

THIRD PERIOD

Trenton—Campney 9:10
Marmora—Maynes (Lavender, Doyle) 11:30
Marmora—Loveless (Gray, Smith) 12:47
Penalties—Gray, Leonard, Nayler, Maynes, Istead.

IN PLAYER "WAR"—Arnie Weinmeister, star tackle with New York Giants of the National Football League, is in the middle of a football war between United States and Canadian football teams for the services of American players. Weinmeister signed a contract to play with the new Vancouver Lions in the Western Interprovincial Football Union and Bert Bell, commissioner of the NFL, said: "The war is on."

Teepees Break Deadlock, Whip Galt 7-5

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series had its fill Friday night.

The league was full of games, full of goals, full of penalties and a protest was thrown in for good measure. And all this for one small change in the standings.

St. Catharines TeePees broke their first-place deadlock with Toronto Marlboros by defeating Galt Black Hawks 7-5 in Galt. Marlboros relinquished their half of the top rung when they were tied 2-2 in overtime at Guelph.

In Barrie the Flyers made it two in a row over Toronto St. Michael's College Majors by defeating the Collegians 5-3 in a game protested by the Irish before the first puck was dropped.

Kitchener - Waterloo Greenshirts whipped Hamilton Cubs 7-1 in Kitchener in the leagues other game.

61 PENALTIES

The four games produced 32 goals and 61 penalties, including three 10-minute misconduct and two five-minute majors.

The closest game was the cleanest. Ten minor penalties were handed out during the Marlboro-Guelph battle and the Dukes were tagged with six.

Bob Attersley and Ken McMeekin scored for the Biltmores, Gerry James and Mike Nykoluk for Toronto.

Thirteen penalties, including two majors, were assessed in the game at St. Catharines. The TeePees got seven minors and a major.

Brian Cullen bagged four goals and added an assist to lead the victory. Barry Cullen scored two, the other going to Elmer Vasko.

TALLY FOR GALT

Neil McDonald scored three goals and an assist for Galt. Ed Switzer and Frank Bettiol tallied the other Hawk counters.

St. Michael's lodged a protest with referee Hugh McLean in Barrie before the game started. The Collegians sa.. the Flyers didn't play the starting line-up they had announced.

Cleland Mortson and Johnny Martan each scored two goals for Barrie with the remaining tally going to Dan Poliziani. Bill Colvin counted twice for the Collegians, Paul Knox getting the other.

PENALTIES EVEN

The 10 penalties, which included two majors, were shared evenly by the two teams.

The Kitchener - Hamilton clash contained 28 penalties. Greenshirts were tagged with 15 minors and the Cubs took 12 minors and a misconduct.

The Greenshirts built up a 5-0 lead in the first two periods before allowing Hamilton a goal. Gary Collins was the only two-goal man in the Kitchener line-up. Singles went to Howie Glover, Grieg Hicks, Bruce Jones, Buddy Horne and Doug Vaughan. Brian Kilrea scored for the Cubs.

Barrie is at Hamilton in tonight's only game.

Galt plays an interlocking game with the Quebec Junior Hockey Association Marquis in Jonquiere Sunday. In other Sunday action Kitchener meets St. Michael's and Hamilton plays Marlboros in Toronto.

Doctors Pledge Support For Queen's

TORONTO (CP) — Queen's University medical graduates now practising in Toronto Friday night pledged their support of a campaign to raise $50,000 towards the $750,000 building program of their alma mater.

Dr. G. H. Ettinger, dean of the medical faculty, was the main speaker at the meeting of 125 members of the medical division of the Queen's Alumni Association in Toronto. Principal W. A. Mackintosh also spoke.

The building program will commemorate the centenary of the medical school at Queen's.

GOOD STUDENTS TAKEN

Dr. Ettinger said no Ontario student capable of absorbing a medical education has been turned away from Canadian medical schools during the last five years.

"In fact, we usually fear that the last 10 per cent of those we take will not be successful. This is perhaps justified, because 10 per cent of the freshman class usually fail."

He said there has been some public agitation for an increase in the number admitted to medical courses but he feels there is room enough for all the capable students.

Give Up Hope Of Finding Pilot

QUEBEC (CP)—The Quebec City Flying Club has all but given up hope of finding alive one of its members who disappeared Nov. 28 on a flight from Kingston to Montreal in club-owned Fleet Canuck.

Camille Decelles, a club official, said Friday search for Jack Lawson, 18, and the plane was halted late last month, but is expected to be resumed in the spring when the snow has gone.

Decelles said he would be surprised if Lawson is found alive, although the young pilot was described as a "tough guy."

Lawson, of Baie Comeau, Que., and Quebec City, was on a three-week trip when he disappeared. On leaving Kingston, he was quoted as saying he would fly on to Quebec if he found Montreal's Cartierville airport closed down because of darkness. He left Kingston late in the day.

Disbar Lawyer

TORONTO (CP)—Samuel Max Mehr, Toronto lawyer, was disbarred from practice in Ontario Friday by the Law Society of Upper Canada. The discipline committee said Mr. Mehr "failed to account for a sum of money received on behalf of a client." His disbarment also means that his appointment as a notary public has been revoked as well as his appointment as a Queen's Counsel.

ICE CUTTING OPERATIONS have started on several lakes in the Peterborough district and from all reports the ice is only fair. This week Jack Coones stored away more than 1,000 blocks from a small bay on Sandy Lake near Lakehurst. Coones (top photo) operates the saw, biting through 18 inches of slush and blue ice, while another loosens the blocks. A well-matched team of whites (lower photo) wait patiently in the winter sun while ice blocks are loaded on a sleigh.—(Examiner Staff Photos).

Ice Cutting Begins Early On Sandy Lake

Probably the first ice-cutting of the season in Peterborough county began this week on Sandy lake, 35 miles north of the city. Already more than 1,000 blocks of 18-inch ice have been cut by Jack Coones whose icehouse is located on the south shore of the lake, five miles from Buckhorn.

Taking advantage of cold weather and an especially thick ice formation, Mr. Coones and five men have been working on the lake sincce Tuesday. Since no other competitors are active yet in the area, he has the pick of the ice-fields and hopes to reap a tidy profit even though a top layer is softer snow ice.

On the job with Mr. Coones are his son Jim and three Lakehurst residents, Lloyd Calvert, John Brown and Elwood Adams. Mr. Coones himself operates the giant ice saw, two men cut and load the chunks on sleighs and two haul the ice to Mr. Coones' icehouse.

Begin Broad Investigation On Effects Of Smoking

WASHINGTON (AP)—The broadest investigation yet undertaken to attempt to determine "if there are any serious effects on health from the use of tobacco" among otherwise healthy people has been launched by the United States public health service and the veterans' administration.

Questionnaires are being sent to 300,000 veterans of the First World War who hold U.S. government life insurance policies. One of the prime objectives is to attempt to determine if there is "truly convincing evidence" of a relationship between heavy smoking of cigarets and lung cancer.

The intent is to get the life experience of each veteran with relation to any use of tobacco—either in cigarettes, pipes, cigars or by chewing or using snuff. Then, a "follow up" study will be done at the time of the veteran's death.

GET GOOD IDEA

Dr. Harold Dorn of the national institute of health, one of the directors of the survey, told a reporter:

"Since between 4,000 and 5,000 deaths will occur each year in a group of this size and age-level, we will have a fairly good idea of the effects, if any, in about two years. But a really detailed analysis will probably not be possible for about four or five years."

Dr. Dorn said the veterans' group was chosen because it represents a large segment of the population and also because the fact that these men have life insurance policies makes it possible to do the follow-up studies.

Dancers Give Cheques Back

TORONTO (CP)—Canada's National Ballet dancers have answered a call to the rescue of their financially-stricken company.

They have turned back part of their pay-cheques to help out in what general manager Walter Hoburger said Friday is a "desperate financial situation."

The company, now on a continent-wide tour of Canadian and United States cities, needs $50,000 before it will feel secure, Mr. Homburger said.

The tour began in Peterborough Nov. 16 and has taken the company to Ottawa, Quebec City, Halifax, Fredericton, Saint John, N.B. Sackville, N.B., and in Montreal this week. Other Canadian cities scheduled for visits before the group carries its tour into the U.S. are Toronto, London, Brantford, St. Catharines and Hamilton.

Flying Clubs Holding Silver Jubilee

OTTAWA (CP)—The old and the new in Canadian aviation will come together here Monday and Tuesday at the silver jubilee of the Royal Canadian Flying Clubs Association.

Business sessions will be interrupted the first day when the 100 delegates from 37 flying clubs across Canada adjourn to Uplands airport to inspect the RCAF's CF-100 all-weather jet fighter and Comet jet transport.

"We don't have too many of those in our clubs," said secretary-manager G. C. Hurren of Ottawa.

Main speaker at the anniversary banquet Tuesday will be Sir William Hildred, director-general of the International Air Transport Association. Guests will include Governor-General Vincent Massey, Defence Minister Claxton, Transport Minister Chevrier, G. R. Macgregor, president of Tran-Canada Air Lines, and the chiefs of staffs of the armed forces.

Trophy for the highest standing in pilot's licence tests last year will be presented to Flt.-Sgt. John Northey of Trail, B.C., a member of the Air Cadet League, by Air Marshal Roy Slemon, chief of air staff. Northey had 30 hours' flying at the time on the test.

SAFETY AWARDS

Twenty-one of the 37 clubs will receive safe-flying awards for accident-free records during 1953. The awards will be presented by Air Vice-Marshal A. T. Cowley, director of air services in the federal transport department.

Tuesday's luncheon speaker will be Air Vice-Marshal J. G. Kerr, air officer commanding RCAF training command.

Among fliers on hand will be E. R. McFarland, president, and four former presidents of the association, D. K. Gorath of Edmonton, Phil Crabb of Winnipeg, M. A. Seymour of St. Catharines, Ont., and S. R. Bernardo of Brantford, Ont.

Soldier Faces Murder Charge

SOEST, Germany (Reuters)—A Canadian general court martial will try Pte. George Mitchell, 22, of Winnipeg charged with murdering a 56-year-old German widow.

A Canadian Army spokesman said today the trial will begin Feb. 8 at the barracks of Mitchell's unit, the 2nd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, at Hemer, near Iserlohn, Westphalia.

The widow, Frau Elisabeth Sieling, was found stabbed and robbed near her house in Iserlohn last Dec. 15.

An eyewitness told German police he had seen a man in Canadian uniform stab her in the back with a butcher knife and, after robbing her, drag her several yards down a dark street.

Mitchell will be tried under Canadian law. The death sentence would be mandatory if he were found guilty.

Find Prince Albert Cold As North Pole

VANCOUVER (CP)—How's the weather at the North Pole.

Similar to Prince Albert, Sask., said the weatherman.

The closest report from the icy polar region Friday came from weather ship LB-2, stationed at 84 north latitude, 83.2 decrees west longitude.

The report to the weather bureau here was terse and without comment: 52 below.

A similar temperature was reported from Prince Albert.

Child Killed

TORONTO (CP) — The second child fatality here in 24 hours occurred Friday when four-year-old Yvonne MacAskill was struck by a truck after alighting from a street car with her mother. Thursday, nine-year-old David Kamins became Toronto's fourth traffic fatality of the year when he was struck by a bus while running home from school.

NO RICE FOR SALE—Food stall in Tokyo has customers, but no rice for them unless they can find it on the black market.

Economics And Political Collapse Threat To Japan's Sovereignty

By EDWARD R. KENNEDY
NEA Special Correspondent

TOKYO (NEA)—Japan is entering her second year of post-war sovereignty threatened with economic and political collapse.

That is the opinion of both Japanese and foreign observers here studying the easily discernible signposts of a shaky financial structure and a Diet more noted for shenanigans than stability.

Signs are easy to spot. The average Japanese household requires an income of about $90 a month for a family of five on the rice standard. The average income is about half of this.

The result has been an endless cycle of borrowing to make ends meet until even the thousands of pawnshops have been forced to change their security requirements in anticipation of complete collapse. No longer does a housewife use the back door to the pawnshop — she walks in unashamed and gossips with other women about the high cost of living.

The black market in rice is flourishing as government rations remain at a quota that feeds a family of five for only about 11 days of the month. Those who have earnestly tried to substitute bread and wheat products are discouraged at the soaring price of hard-to-find butter that makes bread palatable to them.

Behind these obvious signs is a sleek facade of post-war reconstruction that fools no one. It has been accomplished by easy bank credits that are finally reaching the point of no return. This dismays the Japanese who did not build modern productive industries, but erected plush office buildings and restaurants, bought high-priced cars and threw lavish parties to entertain customers for non-existent merchandise.

Japanese laments are loud. They blame prohibition of trade with Red China. They blame occupation reforms. They blame the war and they blame the government. They do not blame themselves for not re-establishing industries on a modern basis.

"Before the war, Japan used to export a mass of inferior goods at cheap prices," one businessman commented recently. "Now we are trying to flood the world's markets with inferior merchandise at tremendous prices—and the world's buying none of it."

Throughout southeast Asia, as well, the Japanese are losing out on contracts for steel mills, steel and heavy equipment because of the successful competition of British, American and West German firms.

Confused economic conditions go hand in hand with political crises here. "Democracy" has been used as a camouflage phrase for irresponsibility, corruption and inefficiency on the part of politicians. The people themselves use "democracy" to support any cause from the length of students' haircuts to the repeal of taxes.

With each election, Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida has found it more difficult to maintain his control and has been forced to control deals which weaken his government's strength. And it is reported that the Geisha house proprietors' lobby still swings more influence in the government than any political party.

The bubble of sovereign prosperity and stability may burst about six months from now for several reasons:

Lack of rice—natural disasters have depleted this last year's crop and there will not likely be any reserve stock for the period between May planting and late summer harvesting.

Lack of U.S. procurement orders—cessation of Korean hostilities caused a sharp drop in armament orders and contracts are now tapering off to end in the late spring. Unemployment will be even more widespread.

Lack of bank credits — overextended banks are worried about the unsecured loans now out and if there is a Socialist-inspired vote of no confidence in the government, loans will be quickly called in.

Lack of trade balance—Japanese reports are not increasing, yet the need for imports in 1954 is greater than ever.

Lack of a balanced budget—the government has made rosy promises of a balanced budget for the next fiscal year, which begins in April, despite the obvious trend of inflation that has devalued the yen 10 per cent in the last eight months. But they also talk about tax reductions and other inflationary measures.

With these uncheerful prospects ahead, the Japanese man in the street sucks in his breath, cocks his head to the side and breathes out, "Ah so!"—the national byword that means just about anything you want it to mean.

Barn, Contents Burn

DELHI (CP)—Fire Friday destroyed a large pack barn of tobacco on the farm of Camiel Sinnesael eight miles north of here. Damage was estimated at $25,000. Lost in the barn was 13 kilns of tobacco.

Appoint Bursar

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Allan F. Judd, a bank accountant, has been appointed bursar of Huron College, University of Western Ontario it was announced Friday night. Mr. Judd is the son of Dr. W. W. Judd, general secretary of the council for social service of the Church of England in Canada.

Kinmount Bridge Approved In Committee

LINDSAY (ENS) — Victoria county council bridge committee yesterday approved the building this year of the new bridge at Kinmount. The price quoted earlier during negotiations with Peterborough county council, was $60,000, which will be divided equally between the two municipalities.

Victoria county will budget for their share of the cost of the bridge in this year's estimates including Peterborough county's share as an account receivable, pending submission of the expenditure to the 1955 council.

Another bridge project which has been previously discussed by the two counties, the Pigeon lake causeway, was deferred for further consideration by the bridge committee.

The roads committee, after hearing Engineer H. D. Wiford's annual report for 1953, voted to boost the levy for roads in 1954 to six mills, up one-half mill from 1953. This would increase the funds from taxes by some $13,000 over 1953 and would account for construction, especially mulching of county roads, that would be done during the year.

Chairman Sherman Moore, of the roads committee, said that his group felt the mill rate should be boosted this year, to take advantage of a general decrease in county rates. Warden Robert Bradt supported the chairman, pointing out that the county was not even maintaining an even pace with the road-building program necessary.

The Lindsay representative, Reeve Richard Butler, voiced his approval of the plan personally, but stated that he could not vote for the boost in view of town council's opinion of the county road taxation system. He was the only dissenter when the mill increase was voted on.

Former Red Officer Imprisoned 14 Years

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—A former Russian army officer, described as the most dangerous spy ever brought before U. S. courts in West Germany, was convicted Friday of espionage against the United States and sentenced to 14 years in prison.

Georgi Vladimirovich Khorumzhii, 36, was found guilty with his German-born wife, Elizabeth. She was sentenced to two years imprisonment.

Publicity Can Be Embarrassing In Film World

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Filmland follow-ups:

Usually I write 'em and forget 'em. But some stories, like certain generals, don't fade away. Such as the one with Dick Powell and his direction of "The Caine Mutiny Court-martial."

You may remember that Powell told about how Henry Fonda got moody over direction of the play. But Dick claimed that the bulk of the show was his work, although Charles Laughton took over the direction in the last week of rehearsals.

Producer Paul Gregory read the story in New York and blew his top. He ordered Powell's name removed as director. Powell then blew his top and said Gregory was trying to wriggle out of paying the director's fee. Dick went into a huddle with his lawyers and plans to sue.

Then there was Jane Russel's break with boss Howard Hughes over her dance in "French Line." She agreed with the censors that it should be cut from the picture. Some critics printed that her outburst was probably a publicity stunt.

JANE GOT MAD

Russell's temper flared at the idea. She even threatened a hit in the face for one of the critics—Dick Williams of the Los Angeles Mirror.

Actually, Jane's siding with the censors was spontaneous. She wants to avoid being a controversial figure in the future. With her figure, that's difficult.

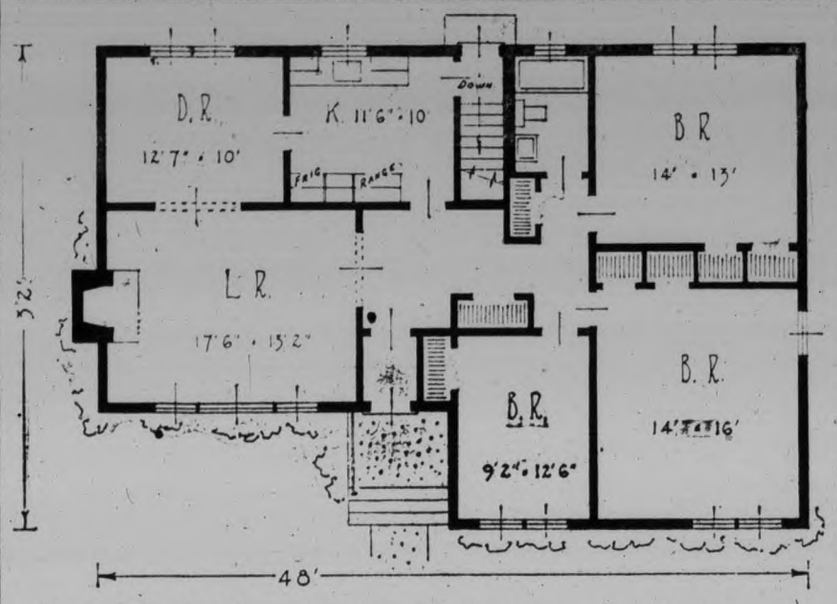
What about our girl Ida Lupino? She told all about how her estranged husband, Howard Duff, didn't go for the "domestic bit" and how she felt sorry for him because he would feel lonely later on. Well, maybe he felt remorse after reading her words. At any rate, he came home the next day. Stand by for later developments.

Plans Cancelled To Hear Gouzenko

TORONTO (CP) — Hamilton Boulter, president of the Royal Canadian Military Institute, said Friday night plans for Igor Gouzenko to address institute members next week have been cancelled.

It was reported earlier that Gouzenko, former Russian embassy code clerk in Ottawa who exposed a Soviet spy ring in Canada in 1946, would speak, possibly wearing a mask and perhaps under RCMP guard.

The institute is an organization of former military men.



RELEASE No. 62-671—Look familiar? This very same plan was shown in a previous issue built of brick and met with such widespread approval with our readers that we are now showing it in frame construction. Built with white clapboard, this stunning bungalow is topped by a black roof and trimmed with black shutters and a vivid red door. The large central hall with two cupboards provides excellent traffic circulation to every room with the exception of the dinette. Unusual in a home of this size—just 24,300 cubic feet—are the spacious bedrooms, large double closets, and good window ventilation. Added features included are the large open fireplace, the separate dining area, and the step-saving kitchen which is readily accessible to the rear entrance and the full-size basement. Built by Leo Lanouette in a fine residential development in Quebec City, it is located on a dead-end street making it a quiet, safe place for the younger fry. Packed with convenience features and with an exterior second-to-none, it's a home you would be proud to own. For working drawings, write Home Building in Canada, 2842 Bloor St. W., Toronto.

Find Markets In Moscow Not Place For Big Bargains

By BILL BOSS

MOSCOW (CP)—Moscow's central market might be a marketplace anywhere in the world.

The farmers and their portly wives remind me of those at home and the bargaining between them and their customers is just as keen.

In Moscow, produce sold in the market is more expensive and is inferior in quality to that sold in the shops. With no rationing and cheaper prices, one asks why people go to market at all.

"Because," said a housewife, "sometimes we are in a hurry and haven't time to wait in a queue if the shops are crowded; this is quicker but more expensive."

BRING SURPLUS PRODUCE

After they have delivered state-required quotas, farmers bring their surplus produce to market where the state also operates stalls.

Most stalls are indoors. There are great halls with stone counters, some with show cases. The buildings specialize in fruits and vegetables in one, meats in another and meats and dairy products in a third.

Moscow is a city in which a high-school teacher earns 800 rubles a month, his principal 1,800 and a barber 1,000.

(The artificial exchange rate set by the Russian government is 25 cents a ruble (100 kopeks) but the real purchasing value of the ruble is only from five to eight cents because of inflated prices. Consequently the barber's monthly wage of 1,000 rubles ($250) are worth only $50 to $80 under Canadian conditions.)

We were especially interested in the price of potatoes, a staple which, I have been told, the Russians hope in time to provide free to the public. A state-operated stall sold a medium-sized brand at 40 kopeks a kilo (2 1-5 pounds). That made the spuds about 18 kopeks a pound.

For people in a hurry many were bargaining, but there was a queue at the state stall for the cheaper price.

There wasn't an unblemished apple by the time we arrived, but the price was 15 rubles a kilo (six rubles 80 kopeks a pound). The store price was half that.

Indoors, the state ran a cabbage stall. It, too, had a queue. Its price was one ruble 50 kopeks a kilo (68 kopeks a pound), while the farmers were asking between three and four rubles.

OTHER VEGETABLES

Other vegetables available were carrots, between 2 and 2.50 rubles a kilo (90 kopeks to one ruble 10 kopeks a pound,) and onions, at two rubles. Carrots brought the same price whether scrubbed or not; onions were the medium-sized cooking variety.

Most expensive item was dried mushrooms at 80 rubles (36 rubles a pound.) In the shops they sell for 25 rubles (11 rubles a pound) but are not always available. They are sold looped together on a string.

Nothing is wrapped at the market except meats. You pile vegetables in your shopping bag. Milk, honey and yogurt are poured into containers you bring with you. Fowl are carried away by the legs or neck.

HANDLING VARIED

One farmer and his wife, with white aprons and cuff protectors, had their beef cuts spread out attractively under a showcase and sold everything at 12 rubles a kilo (five rubles 45 kopeks a pound) including good-looking steaks.

Others had their meat on an open counter and customers used long-handled steel forks to pick them up for inspection. Still others allowed customers to handle the meat freely.

Beef varied from nine to 17 rubles (four to seven rubles 73 kopeks a pound,) the latter for steaks. Lamb was consistently 17 rubles, whether in chop or roast, but pork varied from 17 rubles for roasts to 21 for chops.

I asked one farmer to weigh a small roast. At 2½ kilos (5½ pounds) it was worth 41 rubles. He might have been in Canada when he made the grand gesture: "Take it for 40."

Best quality meat in the stores costs 5 rubles (six rubles 80 kopeks a pound.)

Bacon, extremely fat, was 30 rubles (3 rubles 63 kopeks a pound). In the stores its costs 11 rubles a pound.

Two Lions Clubs Mark Birthdays

KEENE— (ENS) — The second anniversary of the founding of Norwood and Keene Lions Clubs was observed at a joint birthday dinner on Wednesday evening at Assumption Hall on the old Keene road.

Ninety guests sat down, including representatives from Toronto, Peterborough, Campbellford and Cobourg, as well as from Norwood and Keene. Dr. A. R. Atkinson, Norwood, was chairman, with Dr. Wilson Ford, Keene, co-chairman.

Head table guests were: Lion Ernest Houghton and Mrs. Houghton, Toronto; Dr. and Mrs. A. R. Atkinson, Norwood; Dr. Wilson Ford, Keene; District Deputy Governor Harry McCarthy and Mrs. McCarthy, Cobourg; charter president Norwood club, Larry Obie and Mrs. Obie; charter president Keene club, David McNevan and Mrs. McNevan.

The guest speaker, Ernest Houghton was introduced by R. H. Gardiner, Norwood. Mr. Houghton spoke on the course of Lionism, what it means to Lions individually and to the community as a whole. Thomas Weir thanked the speaker and presented Mrs. Houghton with a gift.

Dancing was enjoyed for the remainder of the evening. Spot dance prizes were won by William Buck and Mrs. Stewart Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. David McNevan, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Garden, Mr. and Mrs. Heffernan, Ivan Beggs and Mrs. David McNevan.

Install New Officers Of Mission Band

SPRINGVILLE — (ENS)—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Johnston, Nancy and Linda was the scene of the first meeting of the new year of Springville Mission Band.

The new officers installed were: president, Linda Northey; secretary, Karen Dunford; treasurer, Donna Northey; peace secretary, Edith Lillico; temperance secretary, Nelson Northey; announcement secretary, Keith Johnston.

The meeting opened with the theme song, "Round the World". Sixteen boys and girls answered roll call.

Keith Johnston gave the peace report and Nelson Northey reported on temperance.

Plans were made for a crokinole party at Mr. and Mrs. C. Johnston's on February 5.

The junior members of the Band were entertained by Mrs. Gordon Darling with stories, songs, games and coloring pictures.

The senior members of the Band had a meeting dealing with life in Japan. Mrs. Johnston had arranged a table display of maps and pictures of Japan and articles made in Japan.

A period of silent prayer for the Japanese people was followed by prayer offered by Keith Johnston and Karen Dunford. The offering was received by Nancy Johnston.

Games and singing were enjoyed. Refreshments were served by Linda Johnston, Debbie Darling and Keith Johnston.

Discuss Allowances With Ottawa Govt.

TORONTO (CP)—Welfare Minister Goodfellow and senior officials of his departn ent will confer in Ottawa Monday with federal officials concerning plans for federal contributions to provincial disabled persons' allowances.

It is reported here Ontario's disabled persons' allowances act may be used as a model for federal legislation providing grants to provinces giving such aid.

At present, only two provinces, Ontario and Alberta, are eligible for the federal contributions, promised in the speech from the throne last November.

Two Men Arrested In Lab Payroll Theft

TORONTO (CP)—William Devlin 28, and John Pinches, 21, were arrested Friday night in connection with Friday's theft of the $2,200 payroll of the Posen and Furie Dental Laboratory.

The payroll was snatched from company secretary Mrs. Barbara Grainer. She jotted down the number of the getaway car and gave it to police.

Fine Vessel

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Danish East Asiatic Line's motorship Kambodia which recently visited Vancouver was a long time reaching the seaways. She was launched at Copenhagen in 1943 but Danish shipyard workers on one pretext and another delayed her completion until the war had ended and the German invaders had disappeared. She first went to sea in 1947.

Fireplace Is Focal Point In Every Living Room

Probably no interior architectural featuure of a home receives more attention from family or friends than the fireplace. As it is the focal point of almost every living room in Canada, its esthetic value far outweighs its practical value.

Fortunately, the homebuilder has an infinite variety of fireplace treatments to choose from, and one of the most pleasant tasks in planning a new home—or remodelling an old one for that matter — is collecting a scrap book on fireplace designs. Then, when the time comes to talk things over with the architect, it is surprising how quickly his pencil can sketch your heart's desire. Armed with the knowledge of your likes and dislikes, his experienced hand can create a fireplace styled just for you! It may be Pioneer Colonial, refined Georgian, or streamlined Modern, but in any event it will be in keeping with your preferences, and around it will develop the decorative scheme and personality of your home.

Good opening proportions are important, from the standpoint of both decoration and utility. The height usually ranges from 28" to 32", with the width starting at 28" and increasing to 36" or more, according to the size of the room.

RADIATES MORE HEAT

Since the shallow fireplace radiates more heat than the deep one, there is no advantage to be gained in having a depth more than 24". The usual depth for rooms of average size in seldom more than 22", and in most even less. And 18" depth is a sensible minimum.

With the dimensions fixed, the shape of the fireplace is of next importance. The rear wall, starting at a point about midway between the hearth and the throat (or, in simpler terms, about the fourth or fifth brick up), should slope forward at an angle not more than 30 degrees from the vertical. To obtain the greatest amount of heat radiation, the sides of the fireplace should be splayed toward the back, and might even slope slightly toward the centre. The amount of splay which provides the maximum amount of heat is approximately 5" for every 12" in depth.

To protect the floor from sparks and embers, the hearth itself may extend about 16" to 20" in front. The back hearth should be provided with an ash-drop .

Many people take advantage of the metal heat-circulation forms available. As well as giving auxiliary heat, these allow any exterior finish, and preclude faulty operation due to incorrect throat or smoke chamber designing.

Roseneath WA Has Balance Of $417

ROSENEATH — (ENS)—Total receipts for 1953 were $986.06, Mrs. Fred Norris, treasurer of the WA of the United church, reported when the annual reports of the society were presented.

Included in the expenses listed by Mrs. Norris were: donation of $100 to the church treasury; gift of $50 to the Rev. and Mrs. Donald Stagin. (nee Clarice Atkinson), missionaries in the Sudan Interior Mission in French West Africa; $20 to the United Church M and M fund; 20 toward redecorating the interior of the parsonage. Miscellaneous included good cheer and flowers purchased in cases of illness and bereavement, leaving a balance on hand of $417. 12.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Leslie Sherwin. President Mrs. Earl Waldie presided with Mrs. Ella Brown as pianist.

Mrs. Charles Sandercock was in charge of the worsihp service and chose as the theme "The New Year". Mrs. Alex Horner gave the scripture reading.

A number of letters of thanks from good cheer recipients were read by the secretary, Mrs. Arthur Braithwaite.

Plans were made to enter an exhibit in the special prize at Roseneath Fair, "Let's Have a Bazaar".

The WA expressed their willingness to cater to a pot-luck supper at the annual congregational meeting. The date has not been set.

Mrs. Frank Adams and Mrs. Alvin Rosebush were in charge of the program. Mrs. Bart Thackeray, district president of West Northumberland Women's Institues, gave a talk. A quiz on trees and a word contest were also held.

The meeting closed with Mizpah benediction. The hostess served refreshments.

Spanish Governor Visits Gibraltar

GIBRALTAR (Reuters)— Seventeen British guns fired a salute of welcome Friday to the Spanish military governor of Algerciras as he stepped ashore for a courtesy visit to "The Rock."

Gen. Jose Cuesta Monereo and his senior officers came from their town across Algeciras bay from this fortress for an official visit to Lt.-Gen. Sir Gordon MacMillan, governor-general of Gibraltar.

While demonstrators through Spain shouted denunciations of Britain's possession of Gibraltar, MacMillan proposed a toast in Spanish to Generalissimo Franco. Monereo returned it with a toast in English to the Queen.

MacMillan will pay a courtesy call at Algeciras Saturday.

Frozen Pipes Must Not Thaw Too Quickly

By MR FIX (NEA)

Frozen plumbing pipes, says the plumbing and heating industry, are an inconvenience, but not a calamity. They become a calamity, however, when allowed to thaw too quickly, for the sudden expansion causes the pipes to burst.

Most home owners are familiar with the most-publicized methods of thawing frozen pipes, with blowtorches, soldering irons, electrical heating cables, hair dryers, heat lamps and other means of delivering localized heat.

But spokesmen for the industry don't consider all of these methods foolproof. Most of all, they distrust the use of a blowtorch or other strong flame because of the chance of causing a too-quick thaw and consequent split pipes. And the danger of setting fire to wooden joists is obvious.

The one method they recommend to prevent sudden expansion is that of wrapping heavy rags or towels soaked in hot water around the pipes. It's a tedious procedure and a little messy, but safe. Some of the other pipe-thawing treatments are safe, too, so long as they are used with caution, and ever so slowly.

Another precaution to take in thawing pipes is to open the faucet on the frozen line and start the defrosting process at the faucet.

Prevention being better than cure, water pipes exposed to freezing temperatures should be covered with a commrecial insulation composed of a layer of hair felt and another of wool felt. There are insulations made especially for this purpose that come in three-foot lengths and are split on one side to slip around pipes. They are fastened with metal bandsf.

When a house is to be vacated during cold weather and the heating system turned off, the first step to prevent freezing of the plumbing is to shut off the water supply at the main shut-off valve at the street or in the basement near the water meter. Then open all faucets, beginning on the top floor — and leave them open.

Drain the remaining water from the main pipe valve in the basement. Open the clean-out plugs at the bottom of traps under sinks, toilets, bathtubs and wash basins, and drain water into a pail. Bail all water out of toilet bowl and flush tank.

If traps are filled with kerosene all bad odors from waste pipes will be sealed out of the house proper. Toilet traps take two quarts of kerosene. And remember to fill the basement floor drain.

Drain water from all pumps, including pumps in washing machines and dishwashers, to prevent costly breakage.

Hot water tanks must be drained, of course. Open the faucet at the bottom and the vented tube (if there is one) at the top.

In houses heated by hot water or steam, the heating pipes and boiler should be drained after turning off the main water supply in the basement or at the street. There should be a drain-off valve at the lowest point in the heating system for draining the boiler. While draining the boiler, open its water supply valve so no water will be trapped above it.

As water in radiators lowers, open the air valve of each, beginning at the top floor. This releases condensation.

When the heat is turned on again, remember to refill the heating system before lighting the boiler.

FIX-IT FORUM

Q.—What kind of cement is used on foam rubber?

A.—Special latex-bonding cements are made for this purpose, but most rubber cement is quite satisfactory.

HASTE MAKES WASTE in many ways, but especially so in the thawing of plumbing pipes. Move cautiously to avoid bursting the pipe.

3-Man Board To Decide About Fund

SARNIA (CP)—A joint meeting of city council and the tornado relief fund committee Friday decided to set up a three-man arbitration board to decide what to do with $35,000 left in the fund.

A public hearing will be held by the board before its decision is made and it will also receive letters from those interested in the dispute.

The $35,000, left after individual claims of tornado damage were paid, has been a subject of dispute between council and the fund committee for more than a month. The committee recommended using the money to pay part of losses suffered by business men and owners of uninsured autos. Council said the money should be turned over to the city to be held for future disasters.

PART OF FUND

The money was part of a fund collected for the relief of victims of a tornado that swept through Sarnia last May.

Thursday, a union that contributed $1,500 to the fund asked that the unspent part of its donation be returned. It did not approve of using the money for business relief nor o fturning it into city funds.

The arbitration board will consist of Judge E. A. Shaunessy, Judge C. S. Woodrow and Magistrate J.C. Dunlap.

Centreville Church Have Annual Meeting

MILLBROOK (ENS) — Annual congregational meeting of Centreville Presbyterian church was held in the church Tuesday night. The Rev. W. H. Heustin, the minister, acted as chairman and Dickson Hutchison as secretary.

In giving the report of the session Mr. Heustin expressed gratitude for support and co-operation given by each organization throughout the year. There has been great interest in and support of the budget fund which includes missions, support of colleges, and the larger work of the denomination. Young people attended camp at Glen Mohr camp near Beaverton and were active in Young People's Society and in the choir.

During the year there were four baptisms, three marriages and three funerals.

Miss Alice Berry reporting for the WMS told that three life memberships and a junior certificate had been presented. The WMS allocation as well as the allocation for the budget fund had been well exceeded.

The report of the Mission Bands was given by Mrs. Clifford Hall, leader of the junior band.

Mrs. Harold Tate presented the report of the Ladies' Aid in the absence of Mrs. Jack Whitfield, treasurer. Mrs. John Gainer moved a vote of thanks to the board of managers and the entire congregation for help given the ladies in their projects throughout the year.

Mr Harold Tate, treasurer of the board of managers, reported a substantial balance after meeting the expenses of the past year. A new cement platform had been built at the church entrance and an oil burner installed.

Mr. and Mrs. Tate, Mrs. Grace Muspratt, the organist, members of the choir and the Ladies' Aid were thanked for faithful service during the past year.

A vote of thanks was moved to the minister and his wife for their work and he in turn thanked the people for their loyal support.

Elected to the board of managers for three years were Willis Hall, Walter Lord, Jack Whitfield, Russell Bonner and Dickson Hutchison. The two latter were re-elected as chairman and secretary, Mr. Tate as treasurer and Dawson Rutherford and Jack Whitfield appointed auditors.

At the annual meeting of the church school held immediately before Mrs. Edwin Eagleson read the report of her husband, the secretary-treasurer. Average attendance for the year had been 41. The secretary-treasurer and his assistant, Cameron Bonner, were re-elected. Willis Hall and Mrs. G. Muspratt were appointed auditors. The organist and assistant are to be Miss Mary Eagleson and Miss Lois Campbell.

The resignations of Mrs. Howard Brackenridge and Miss Shirley Campbell as teachers of the junior girls' class were accepted. M. Jay Whittington and Mrs. J. E. Robinson were appointed to fill the vacancies, and all other teachers were re-appointed.

The thanks of the minister and congregation were expressed to the superintendent, Ernest Brackenridge, his assistant, Edwin Eagleson and all other officers and teachers.

Both meetings were opened with worship and closed with prayer by the minister.

WI Sponsors Dance For Married Couples

COLDSPRINGS (ENS)—Approximately 250 attended the married couples dance sponsored by the Women's Institute. Mrs. Herb McKinley and party group were in charge.

Door prizes were won by Mrs. Jack Clapperton, Baltimore, and Mrs. H. McKinley. The wedding anniversary prize was won by Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Willis.

Net receipts were $57.

Congregation Hear Reports Of Havelock United Church

HAVELOCK (ENS) — The annual congregational meeting of Havelock United church was held in the Sunday school auditorium.

The minister, the Rev. R. G. Newman, was elected chairman, and Carman Coon was appointed secretary.

Following a devotional period, the reports for the year were given.

The Sunday school, under the leadership of James Watson as superintendent, enjoyed a successful year. The report, presented by the treasurer, Robert Watson, showed an enrolment of 92, with an average attendance of 63. There are 16 teachers and officers. Receipts were $421.34, and there was a balance of $93.55 on hand. Collection for rally day was $12 and for the M and M fund $57.69.

TREASURER'S REPORT

G. T. Buchanan, church treasurer, presented a report showing receipts of $4,206.92.

Mrs. H. Agnew, treasurer of the Missionary and Maintenance fund, reported $956 had been forwarded to headquarters and rally day collection of $12 had been sent in direct. There was a balance of $51.93.

The Women's Association had another successful year, with receipts of $1,429 and a membership of 42. They provided new dishes and a gas stove for the church kitchen, as well as painting the parsonage kitchen. They gave liberal donations to the church board, the United church Training School, the flood relief fund, the M and M fund, and the Fred Victor Mission. Cheer boxes had been sent to the sick and shut-ins at Easter, Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Mrs. R. G. Newman reported for the WMS, showing 12 annual and 15 life members on the roll, and $259 had been forwarded to the presbyterial treasurer. A layette had been sent to the Victor Home and a bale of clothing sent to Korea.

The Mission Band met their allocation and a CGIT group was organized in April, under the leadership of Mrs. Newman. There are 13 members with an average attendance of 11. This group gave a donation of $4 to the Mission Band.

The Evening Auxiliary also met their allocation and sent a bale of clothing to Korea.

MINISTER'S REPORT

The Rev. R. G. Newman reported there were 15 baptisms, 13 burials, and 12 marriages. The congregation had suffered a serious loss in the deaths of four esteemed members, Caleb Coon, Mrs. George Chiles, Clarence Weymark, and Wiliam M. Platt.

Anniversary services had been held, with the Rev. J. W. Wilkinson of Oakwood, a former pastor, as guest speaker. Other speakers during the year were Mrs. R. Bonney, Miss Ruth McLeod of Formosa, Cleveland Robb, Herbert Hoard, the Rev. G. Andrews, a representative of the Ontario Temperance Association.

In June, the Brotherhood of St. James' United church, Peterborough, visited Havelock and conducted the evening service. The session in 1953 planned an every-member visitation in Havelock for the distribution of communicants' cards and missionary booklet.

Fred Rogers, clerk of session, reported that Communion was held four times, with an average attendance of 104. Sixteen persons had joined the church, 11 by letter and five on profession of faith.

RUSH POINT REPORT

Mrs. C. Curtis presented the report for the Devotional and Handicraft club of Rush Point. There were 11 meetings held with an average attendance of 37.8. There was a balance on hand and donations had been made to the piano fund and British-Dutch relief. In addition, cheer boxes and flowers had been sent to the shut-ins at Christmas.

The Rev. R. G. Newman reported that the YPU had a balance of $63.

Earl Pollock gave the report for the Rush Point Sunday school, which was open from the second Sunday of April until the end of the year. The total attendance for that period was 709, an average of 19.16, they had a small credit balance.

Mrs. James Watson reported 46 names on the cradle roll.

The report for the Belmont area mission was as follows: Rush Point, receipts, $273.73; expenditures, the same amount; South Lake, receipts, $146.57; expenditure, $133.50, balance of $13.07 to M and M fund; Victoria, receipts, $318.56; expenditures, the same amount.

A car was purchased for the use of the student minister.

Donations to the Ontario Temperance Federation: Havelock, $31.15; Trent River $11.00.

OFFICERS ELECTED

The following officers were elected: Session (three years) James Watson; G. T. Buchanan, Harry Agnew, Robert Newman, Harry Tinney, C. Steenburgh; (two years)—Frank Pollock, Fred Rogers, Wesley Johnston, Lloyd Parnall, Earl Stillman; (one year)—E. C. Pace, Charles Roberts, Earl Pollock, E. W. Seeney. Refreshments were served by the ladies of the congregation after the meeting.

2-Party System Of Government Needed - Drew

EDMONTON (CP) — George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, reiterated Friday his claim of Canada's need for a straight two-party system of government.

Mr. Drew, in an address to the Alberta Progressive Conservative Association annual convention, said a review of government failure in other countries revealed that Canadians must soon indicate whether they want to retain the bi-partisan system.

He referred to the political situation in France and Italy, and suggested that failing administrations and inability to choose political leaders in government is a result of a multiplicity of political ideals.

FORCE PROBLEM

Even the United States constitution would be as unworkable as that of France under equal multi-party conditions, he said.

Statistics of last year's federal election revealed that if Canada wants "the checks and balances of a two-party system, they must build and support the Progressive Conservative party."

Election results had strengthened the claim that the Progressive Conservative party is "the only party in Canada which offers a possible alternative to the Liberal government."

Hamilton Dorman Heads School Board

STIRLING (ENS) — Hamilton Dorman was elected chairman of the Stirling public library board. He succeeds R. A. Paterson who retired after two years service. Everett Ketcheson was elected vice-chairman.

Mr. Dorman suggested that a parent-teacher organization be organized in Stirling.

The following committees were chosen: teachers' committee, C. E. West, H. R. Tompkins, and E. Ketcheson; finance committee, R. A. Paterson, E. Ketcheson and one to be chosen; property committee, C. E. West and one to be chosen.

R. W. Meiklejohn was engaged as secretary-treasurer at a salary of $300 a year. Chief Eggleton was re-appointed school attendance officer.

Appointments to the library board were J. L. Good, R. A. Paterson and H. R. Tompkins.

After a lengthy discussion, the board decided to revert the school hours to 1:30 to 4 instead of 1 to 3:30, as several complaints were coming in that the children didn't have long enough with only one hour at noon.

A gift of 50 chairs for the school auditorium was received from the Hon. J. R. Cooke Chapter of the IODE.

Use Drunkometer In Driving Case

TORONTO (CP)—Garnet Edgar, 22, of Port Weller Thursday was convicted of drunk driving, in a case in which "drunkometer" evidence was given.

Edgar was sentenced to seven days in jail.

Police testified they gave Edgar a "drunkometer" test — blowing into a balloon—after stopping his car Dec. 23. An officer said analysis of Edgar's breath showed it contained 1.9 parts of alcohol per 1,000.

Magistrate W. W. McKeown said that even without the drunkometer evidence he would have "come to the same conclusion."

INTERNATIONAL PAWNS—Slavoljub Djurovic gathers his sons Goran, 6, and Srdjan, 4, into his arms in the Supreme Court Building in New York City. Djurovic is involved in an international custody battle with his wife, Zivka, who wants to take the children to Yugoslavia. Djurovic wants to remain in America and bring the children up as American citizens. He told the court that he does not wish to return to his native Yugoslavia because he fears "certain political reprisals."

Announce Grants

TORONTO (CP) — A grant of $93,381 toward the cost of an addition to the Huron county home at Clinton was announced Friday by Welfare Minister Goodfellow. Mr. Goodfellow said also a payment of $10,216 has been made toward the cost of a female ambulator unit for the Grey county home bringing provincial payments to a total of $25,718.

Welland Wins Suter's Praise For Production

WINDSOR (CP)—Graham Suter, British actor and producer, said Friday night the Welland Little Theatre's production of "Come Back Little Sheba" by William Inge was the high point of the Western Ontario Drama festival so far.

Mr. Suter is adjudicator for the four-day affair which features the best five plays of the Western Ontario Drama League preliminary competitions.

Mr. Suter said the Welland entry was a magnificent effort. He praised the acting and staging of the unusual story of an alcoholic and his dowdy wife.

His only criticism was for small points of direction but he said the play never lost its pace and had a high degree of persuasiveness and invention. Mr. Suter said the story was well brought out by Frank Gorbet's direction.

Lillian Phillips as "Lola" was an actress with an excellent sense of character and artistic discipline.

Of Shirley Tarr as "Marie," he said she had an excellent grasp of the part and maintained its integrity throughout.

The Woman Of Samaria

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.

The "Good Samaritan" of t Parable in Luke 10 shares Nc Testament fame with anoth Samaritan, a woman of John 4.

She was apparently of lesse importance than the good Sa maritan of the Parable. If I hav called her "good" it is because c what is associated with he through conversation with Jesu at Jacob's well, rather than be cause of any merit in her.

As a matter of fact, she wasn a woman of good reputation. Sh had had five husbands and wa living with a man who was no her husband. Jesus made it plain that He knew all about her.

We do not know the upshot of the story, or whether the woman, like another woman "which was a sinner" (Luke 7:36-47), experienced a change of heart and life.

But Jesus must have seen some good in that woman or He would hardly have spent so much time in conversation with her.

The story, which occupies the major part of John 4, as I see it, emphasizes these things:

1. The humanity of Jesus and His unconventionality, with His complete freedom from the prejudices—racial and religious — that in our own time have been all too evident in many of His professed followers.

2. The realism of Jesus in disregarding the limiting customs and manners of the time. It was not only against usage for a man to be conversing thus with a woman in a public place, but when the woman was a Samaritan, and of none too savory life, it made the matter even more contrary to all convention.

It was no wonder that the disciples, as they returned from the city, "marvelled" (John 4: 27). A modern minister might well have feared for his reputation in a similar encounter. Jesus had no fear of "what people will say" where goodness and human values were involved.

3. The great words concerning worship (John 4: 23, 24) that came out of the conversation and that have given that conversation supreme importance.

4. The acknowledgment by Jesus of His messiahship. "I that speak unto you am he."

5. Finally, the woman's witness and the fact that many believed in Jesus, not only because her witness, but because they d found Him for themselves. ohn 4: 39-42).

In every respect, in the facts nd details, as well as in the telling, it is a remarkable story, and is well that the Gospel of John dds so much to the incidents in he three former Gospels.

Prairie Lady Seeks Sisters

WEST WELLOW, England (CP) Six sisters greeted Mrs. Evie Sterling, 59, when she returned for a visit to her childhood home in this tiny Wiltshire village after 40 years on a Saskatchewan farm.

The six women were waiting at the quay in Southampton when Mr. and Mrs. Sterling arrived aboard the Queen Mary. Since all six could not go aboard the ship, they delegated the eldest, Mrs. Ada Lock, 70, to act as a welcoming committee of one.

Later the Sterlings were whisked off to the Red Rover inn here, owned by the husband of another sister, Mrs. Margaret Clark, for a party. All six sisters live in West Wellow.

The Canadian couple will stay in Britain three months, but they have not decided what they will do during that period. Said Sterling, still dazed by the warmth of the welcome on his first visit to Britain: "We haven't thought about that yet."

In the meantime the Sterling's 500-acre, mixed-grain farm at Shellbrook, near Prince Albert, is being operated by their three children, Gordon, 38, Joyce, 37, and Robert, 32.

Happy Centenarian

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mrs. Hannah Jane McInnis said she was "healthy and happy" as she celebrated her 100th birthday here. Native of Summerside, P.E.I., she is the mother of 13 children, with 24 grandchildren, 30 great-grandchildren and nine great-great-grandchildren.

PETERBOROUGH EXAMINER

VOL. CVII. No. 19 — SATURDAY, JANUARY 23, 1954

IN 1912 the De Laval Company came to Peterborough and selected a site on Park St. south at Lansdowne. At that time that whole section of the city was open country. From a small beginning the De Laval has grown to-day to be one of the city's major industries. Previous to coming to Peterborough the company had an office in Montreal but chose this city as the place for its manufacturing. —(Examiner Staff Photo)

2 Companies Aided City's Growth

De Laval, Nashua Located In City Total Of 75 Years

The years of the De Laval Company of Canada and Canadian Nashua Paper Company in their operations in Peterborough are now together three-quarters of a century.

A generation has grown up since each of them for disparate attractions decided to locate here: De Laval in 1912 and Nashua Paper in 1920. Those influences are largely forgotten by citizens who remember their coming, and are entirely unknown to the others who have become residents since then.

De Laval Company was looking for a small city to which they intended to remove from Montreal. They were interested in the increasing dairy industry of Ontario, and also in the evidence in western Canada indicating that many of the farmers were not putting all their eggs in the grain basket.

PETERBOROUGH OR COBOURG

Choice finally rested between Peterborough and Cobourg, and the decision by the late Joseph Stoddard, of New York, vice-president and general manager of the De Laval Company, swung to this city. Several of the influencing reasons were the presence of internationally known manufacturing companies such as Canadian General Electric Co. and Quaker Oats Co., to mention two.

Mr. Stoddard and his visiting associates, including the late W. R. Breyfogle, then sales manager for Canada in Montreal and afterwards general manager of the Peterborough plant, saw here signs of a progressive community with diversity of industries, capable municipal administration, and the community assets of churches, schools, hospitals, parks, theatres and retail stores, the Otonabee river and Kawartha lakes.

VACANT BUILDING

Nashua Paper was chiefly attracted by the vacant buildings which had been first erected for the Canadian Cordage Co., and afterwards used for a time during the First World War as a shell factory. Their intention was to begin on a small scale and enlarge with the business they developed.

De Laval Company was prepared to construct a plant with ample room for the expansion they expected. Both accomplished their separate objectives. De Laval transferred their office staff and a nucleus of production employees, and are now one of the leading manufacturers of dairy equipment in Canada, and have many sales connections and offices throughout the country.

They were guided here by the geographical location of the city, Nashua Paper by an available building, temporarily supplying their needs until they were ready to establish their industry in permanent quarters.

FIRST MANAGER

Robert Brown became the first manager of the Nashua Paper, succeeded by the late John R. Marshall, then the late E. G. R. Clarke, today by Hugh M. Niven.

At De Laval, W. R. Breyfogle, an active promoter of Peterborough, continued as manager until his death, followed by Cecil G. Upper and today by Andrew Purdon.

DE LAVAL COMPANY

W. R. Breyfogle is recalled as the first general manager of De Laval Co. of which he was also vice-president.

This company had been operating in Montreal, and as their business began to devolop in volume they were impressed with the increasing demand from this province and the west. That promising trend prompted a survey of Ontario.

Peterborough was chosen for its central position between Ottawa and Windsor. Rail freight service was satisfactory, especially with an outlet to the north by way of the CNR through Lindsay skirting the congestion and delay in the Toronto terminal yards.

De Laval Company announced late in 1912 their decision to build in Peterborough, and Mr. Breyfogle became general manager in Febraury 1914. He continued to direct the company until his death at midsummer in 1944, a span of 30 years.

De Laval was already in a stage of advancement when it decided to locate here, could estimate immediate space and mechanical requirements, and provision for the future. They led the way to the eventual occupancy of the large block of land now comprising the sites of their own industry, Peterborough Lumber Co., Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Co., and Martin-Hewitt Containers Ltd.

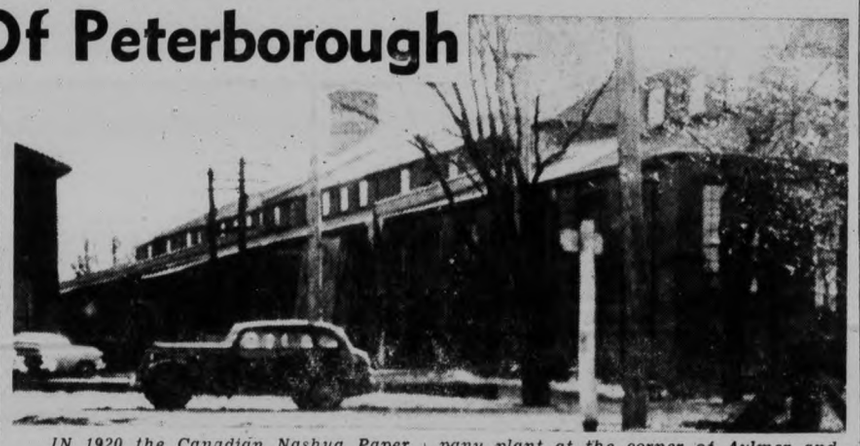
Builders Of Peterborough



IN 1920 the Canadian Nashua Paper Company came to Peterborough and commenced operations in the old Cordage Company plant at the corner of Aylmer and Perry Sts. During the First World War this plant had been converted to making munitions. —(Examiner Staff Photo)

No Snaring Foxes Council Decides

Two of the northern townships in Peterborough county are trying to get permission for holders of licensed traplines to snare foxes.

Sidney McCauley, the 1954 reeve of Burleigh-Anstruther township, introduced a resolution to permit residents of Burleigh-Anstruther, Chandos and Belmont-Methuen townships, to snare foxes on their own registered traplines.

He was supported by a fellow northerner, Clive Hoard, reeve of Chandos; but the two Belmont-Methuen county councillors turned thumbs down on the idea. It would be a hazard to dogs running about in the township, they said.

"There are a lot of dogs running in Belmont and they'd get snared," objected Gardner Gawley, deputy-reeve of Belmont-Methuen. Mr. Gawley moved an amendment to the motion excluding his township. He was seconded by George Newton, the reeve.

When it came to a vote, the amendment carried.

The way it stands now: County council will write to A. B. Wheatley of Lindsay, district forester, asking him to recommend that permits be granted to trapline owners in Chandos and Burleigh-Anstruther. The application will require the final approval of the department of lands and forests.

TWO MEN who have had much to do with the building of Peterborough are George A. Macdonald (left) and the late John R. Marshall. Mr. Macdonald has for many years held an important position on the De Laval executive. He has also been alderman, mayor and utilities commissioner. Mr. Marshall previously to becoming general manager of the Nashua Paper Co. was sales manager and it was during the time he was head of the company in this city that the new plant was built. Mr. Marshall served his community as member of the board of education and later chairmain of the board of governors of the Civic Hospital when that building was planned and constructed.

Monday Closing Meets Opposition From Retailers

By DICK CAMPBELL

The hassle over Monday closing picked up momentum today as most Peterborough retailers expressed unalterable opposition to a five-day-week bylaw proposed by local grocers, butchers, fruit and vegetable dealers. Most favor or are at least willing to accept a five day-week, but feel that uniform Wednesday all-day closing would be preferable to the Monday closing proposal, now in the hands of city council.

The community as a whole cannot afford to have stores shut down two days of the week, said Harry Cherney of Cherney Bros. furniture store. He said that all types of business would suffer if the public were forced to accept the proposal for Monday closing.

Mr. Cherney said that he was not opposed to the principle of the five-day-week, and that, ultimately, most retailers fighting competition from banks and factories would find a 5½ day week unprofitable. He said, however, that if there is to be a five-day-week, closing Wednesday mornings would most benefit the retailers and the general public.

If the grocers, close Monday, said Mr. Cherney, other stores will suffer because a large proportion of a store's business is derived from impulse buying. In other words, a housewife downtown to buy her groceries, may gravitate into another retail outlet and buy goods she would not have made a special trip to get.

If grocery stores are closed Mondays, and retail stores are closed Wednesday afternoon, said Mr. Cherney, out-of-town purchases in Peterborough may fall to a trickle.

People from surrounding towns like Marmora, Campbellford or Lindsay might take their business to other centres if a state of confusion existed in Peterborough store hours. This, he said, would have a detrimental effect on the community as a whole, including the grocers and others in favor of Monday closing.

Fred Correll of Correll's Ladies Wear said that he is opposed to stores being closed either Monday

To Tighten Control Parks Dept.

Committee Passes 8 Recommendations For More Efficiency

A general tightening up of operations in the city's parks department was indicated Friday afternoon when the parks committee recommended to council a number of changes in the department on the basis of a report by Ald. Bob Knox.

The following recommendations were approved:

1—To keep departmental costs down to a minimum of 1½ mills on the general tax rate.

2—To instruct the superintendent to keep the chairman informed at all times of works progress, expenditures and any damage to equipment.

3—To close the city's greenhouse on Townsend St. and purchase required plants from commercial florists, until it can be shown that it would be more economical to operate the greenhouse again.

4—To authorize the chairman and superintendent to purchase plants at their own discretion.

5—To inform the property committee that the parks committee will have no further use for the house in front of the greenhouse after March 31.

6—To move the superintendent's office and equipment to the department's workshops under the Hunter St. bridge.

7—To obtain prices for a new power lawnmower and haymower.

8—To advertise for tenders on the sale of the department's road grader.

Ald. Knox, who made it quite clear he intended to maintain close supervision of his department, informed the committee that he would be issuing monthly reports and would welcome any suggestions they had to offer for making improvements.

Although Ald. Knox at first indicated he would like to keep expenditures down to one mill, it was pointed out that the department spent about $72,700 last year. One mill under the re-assessment would be about $55,000. Ald. Knox said that his one-mill figure did not include the cost of trimming and cutting trees.

"We shouldn't spend more than $70,000, regardless of the mill rate," he said.

NEED NEW TRUCK

Mayor Norman Graham, however, pointed out that the superintendent would require a new truck this year. "The present truck (a 1941 model) should be off the road," he said. Superintendent Armar Butcher added that the department's tractor required a major overhaul or it would have to be replaced.

Ald. Knox proposed to maintain a strict accounting of costs by use of the city's new accounting machine.

"That would be a help to me," Mr. Butcher said. "That's been one of our bugbears all along. We don't get some of the figures for weeks after a job is done."

The decision to close the greenhouse was a result of an investigation by Ald. Knox of damages caused by bursting water pipes a week ago Thursday. Several elbows in the pipe-joints froze and burst, damaging 50 or 60 plants in the greenhouse.

It was reported to The Examiner on Tuesday by Mr. Butcher that a city employee detailed to keep the furnace hopper filled with coal had forgotten his duties with the result that the fire went out.

At Friday's meeting, Ald. Knox recommended closing the greenhouse because of the cost of putting it back in working order and the high cost of operating it. He and Mr. Butcher had made a survey of local florists and the chairman had concluded it would be cheaper to have the city buy plants than for the department to raise them.

Mr. Butcher explained the reason the department had undertaken to operate a greenhouse was that during the labor shortage of recent years, suppliers had been unable to deliver the plants required. Now that there was more labor available, better service could probably be obtained from commercial florists.

"It will be one less headache for me," he said. "If we can get the service, I'd rather close the greenhouse."

IN RESERVE

The greenhouse will be kept in reserve, in case it should prove more economical for the city to raise its own flowers. Meanwhile, Mayor Graham, who moved that it be closed, added the condition that the superintendent was to have use of the greenhouse at all times, should he need it for "hurrying plants along."

As for moving his office to the workshop under the bridge, Mr. Butcher stated he would prefer the ove. The policy had been set years ago of having all works department offices in the same place on Townsend St. Cost of setting up the new office was estimated by the superintendent at about $350.

In suggesting the move, Ald. Knox pointed out it would enable the superintendent to be nearer his men; the timekeeper could

SEA CADET PO Raymond J. Willis, 16, of 400 Wolsely St., will leave late this month to join a cruise of the HMCS Micmac to Bermuda and the West Indies. Ray is one of six sea cadets in Ontario given this appointment.

Cadet To Join HMCS Micmac For Cruise

Raymond John Willis of 400 Wolsely St., 16-year-old sea cadet, is off to the warm Caribbean next month. Raymond is one of six cadets from Ontario picked to join HMCS Micmac on a training cruise to Bermuda and the West Indies.

Mr. Willis, a grade X student at PCVS, has been with RCSCC Howe, the Peterborough sea cadet command since he was 13. He was able to join the unit though underage because the Howe's CO thought him a promising candidate since his older brother, Gerald was a sub-lieutenant in the corps.

Although the February 3 cruise is his first to the West Indies, cadet Petty Officer Willis, a gunnery instructor, is a well-travelled young man. He took a two-weeks course at HMCS Stadacona in Quebec. Later he was taken on tour of HMCS Cornwallis, the naval training station in Halifax. Earlier he was with the cadets at Camp Ewing, Choisy, Quebec.

Each of the sea cadet groups in the province is entitled to submit nominations of top candidates for cruises with the navy. The Navy League makes the final choices.

Three months ago Petty Officer Willis was also named as the Howe's choice for the Commonwealth cruise aboard the Royal Tour ship, HMCS Gothic, but was not picked by the Navy League.

The aim of the sea cadets, said the Howe's business manager and former CO, John Raine, is "definitely not to recruit boys for the Navy." Naturally some join and "the navy considers these its best recruits," but the "basic purpose of sea cadet corps is to build boys' characters."

The present complement of RCSCC Howe is 65 cadets. The ship is in the corvette class, which means that it may enrol up to 100 candidates, but there are no drill facilities for this number.

Cecil Richardson Named Assistant To Postmaster

Thirty-nine-year veteran of the Peterborough post office, Cecil Richardson has been named assistant postmaster. He assumes the office left vacant by the promotion of Claire Stuart, now postmaster.

Mr. Richardson, born here and educated at Peterborough collegiate, began working at the post office in 1914 as a temporary clerk.

One year later he became a permanent clerk and in 1924, a senior clerk. He remained in that position until the office changed in 1946 when he was granted the title of supervisor, Grade II.

A resident of 587 Homewood Ave., Mr. Richardson has been supervisor on the evening shift for the past 25 years.

City Seeks Approval Of Land Deal

Need Private Bill To Validate Purchase Of Township Property

When the private bills committee of the Ontario legislature meets next month, they will be asked to consider two petitions from the city of Peterborough, one asking for legislation to permit the building of a Memorial Centre in Exhibition Park, the other validating the city's purchase of property in North Monaghan township.

The first petition was announced some time ago. The second was authorized by a bylaw passed at a special council meeting Friday afternoon.

The land in question includes the city's industrial property, consisting of about 153 acres fronting Highway 7A, west of Erskine Ave., and the site of the landfill garbage disposal project.

Although deeds conveying the property to the city were registered in 1946, 1950 and 1953, the question of the validity of the purchases arose recently when the city sought authority from the department of municipal affairs for selling part of the industrial property to Kawartha Plumbing and Heating Supplies Ltd., who propose to erect a new warehouse there. The sale has been delayed for some time by the department's failure to authorize it.

ACT AMBIGUOUS

According to city officials, doubt as to the validity of the city's purchase of property in the township arose over an alleged ambiguity in the Industrial Sites Act of 1937, the provisions of which have since been incorporated into the Municipal Act.

While the act provides for the purchase by municipalities of property for industrial sites, it did not specify that the property must be within the boundaries of the municipality. Nor did it expressly prohibit the purchase of property outside the boundaries.

The city owns several properties outside the city and has passed bylaws in connection with them, which the municipal board has never questioned. But Municipal Affairs Minister George Dunbar is said to take the view that the Municipal Act prohibits the sale of land outside the city boundaries by council and a private bill of the legislature is required to validate the city's original purchases.

The bylaw passed by council Friday authorizes the presentation to the legislature of a petition for a private bill to legalize the purchase of the land and make the city the legal owner of it.

2 Labor Unions Stage March In Quebec City

By RICHARD DAIGNAULT

QUEBEC (CP)—Two of Quebec's three main labor organizations staged a march of protest and a mass meeting Friday night urging the provincial government to abandon two proposed controversial measures.

...rs of the Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor and the Quebec Federation of Industrial Unions (CCL) streamed into Quebec from all parts of the province and marched cheering and singing through the streets of the old city.

The Quebec Federation of Labor (AFL) was not represented.

The demonstration was organized to protest bills 19 and 20, now before the assembly. One measure would outlaw Communist-dominated unions, the other decertify public service unions staging strikes.

POLICE STAY AWAY

No police were on hand as delegations from Montreal, Trois Rivieres, Shawinigan Falls, and Eastern Townships points arrived by special train in sub-zero weather.

The march was made without police permission.

After sandwiches and hot coffee in the CCCL headquarters, the workers filed uptown jamming the 1,300-seat palais Montcalm auditorium to hear their leaders denounce the government measures.

Main speakers were Gerard Picard, 43-year-old CCCL president, Philippe Vaillancourt, regional director of the Canadian Congress of Labor, Romeo Mathieu, international representative of the United Packinghouse Workers of America, (CIO-CCL), Jean Marchand, CCCL secretary-general, Bill Dodge of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees (Indep.), who spoke briefly in English, and Leo Guindon, president of the Alliance of Montreal Catholic Teachers.

Mr. Guindon, whose 2,000-member Teachers' Alliance was decertified as a result of a strike of Catholic teachers in Montreal in 1949, said Mr. Duplessis made laws to get what the courts would not give him.

The Supreme Court of Canada revoked the Quebec labor board's 1949 decertification, a decision the Quebec government now has appealed to the Imperial Privy Council.

Park St. Church Plans For Addition

The annual business meeting of Park St. Baptist Church, was held Friday evening with the pastor, the Rev. A. S. Roblin in the chair.

After a brief worship servi... conducted by the pastor, printed reports of the various organizations of the church were considered. The members were heartened by the very definite progress reported in all departments.

The total amount received during the year was $13,176.31 of which $2,226.77 was for Mission Work.

To plan building a much needed addition to the present church building, a building committee was formed, chaired by Mr. Roblin A fund has been set up and it is hoped to raise up to $40,000 for the addition.

The church under the leadership of Mr. Roblin, looks forward to a year of much blessing and usefulness, in the service of our Lord and Master Jesus Christ.

Officers elected for 1954 were:

Church clerk, Mrs. G. W. Herzog; treasurer, George Spicer; financial secretary, Roy Lane; Honorary Deacons, E. W. Young, Maurice Dunkley and J. W. Thompson; acting deacons, P. Wicks, G. W. Herzop, E. Bills, H. Wall, R. Rogers, N. Hamilton, C. Corbett, R. Springham; finance board, F. Barrie, C. Dayman, A. Taylor, J. Findlay, P. Schorf, F. Edwards, R. Goudey; Anson House rep., Mrs. E. Sisson; chairman of youth work, Mrs. A. S. Roblin; chairman of boys work, Mr. G. W. Herzog, chairman of sports, V. York; boys workboard reps., G. Bartley, V. York, G. Herzog; girl's work board rep's., Mrs. J. Barry, Mrs. R. Springham; reporting clerk, Miss Olive Tedford.

The church sanctioned the election of Sunday school superintendent, Mr. Corbett; president of Sr. women's mission circle, Mrs. A. S. Roblin, president of young women's mission circle, Miss Z. Tedford, president of the ladies aid, Mrs. A. Taylor, president of the BYPU, Miss Irma Dayman.

Scots of Peterborough Celebrate Burns Nicht

Against a backdrop of knobby male knees and with the pulse-stirring skirl of the bagpipes providing mood music, the Gaelic colony of Peterborough gathered in the Aragon Friday night to pay tribute to the world's greatest lyric poet, Robert Burns, and to wrap themselves around some haggis.

It was 195 years ago Monday—January 25, 1759—the place was ye banks and braes o' bonnie Doon in Ayrshire and the event was the birth of a genius. Burns' troubled 37 years on earth, turning out such gems as Tam O'Shanter, The Cotter's Saturday Night and the Address to the Unco Guid were sketched lovingly last night by the Rev. A. E. Larke, long-time chaplain of The Canadian Scottish Club of Peterborough.

HAGGIS PIPED IN

More than 50 Scots were on hand as the haggis was piped into the Aragon hall by piper Tom Kay. Val Smith gave the address to the haggis whereupon the guests hove to.

Haggis, for the uninitiated, is a carefully brewed mixture of sheep's intestines steamed in the stomach of some animal. It is the national dish of Scotland, and any Scot would sooner be shot at sunrise than admit that other foods might be more palatable. No casualties were reported from the Aragon Friday night, though some guests were said to look a little green.

Few of our local Scots had the temerity to wear a kilt last night. The piper was suitably garbed, complete with tam and sporran, but only a sprinkling of knees peeked out from below colorful tartans. Said one Scot: "Pity we have to have business suits at a Burns Nicht."

Special guests Friday night were recent arrivals from Scotland. One such was Jack Wilson, arrived only last week from Montrose in Rothshire. Mr. Wilson, an engineer, is thinking of settling in Peterborough with his wife. He is staying with John Galloway at 107 Aylmer St.

Asked his impressions of Canada, Mr. Wilson said he was very glad to be here. The pace of living in Canada is a bit more frenzied, but he expects to settle down and carve a future here or in Toronto.

TOAST

In giving the toast to the "Twa Counteis," M. E. Clarke suggested that Scots enjoy a fierce pride in race matched by no other. Scots are, however, loyal to Queen and Commonwealth, the lifting of the Stone of Scone notwithstanding.

The man with the happiest chore to perform last night was Roy Gilchrist, who proposed the toast to the lasses. Scottish lasses, it is said, are the most comely of any in the world.

Bagpipe music filtered through the hall intermittently during the evening. Bagpipe music, incidentally, is an unique cross between the music of paradise and the moans of souls in torment. It is like no other music in the world, a fact which has caused some irreverent souls to say: "praise be".

After a toast to the city of Peterborough by Hugh Waddell, Scots settled down to a round of community singing (featuring Burns' lyrics of course. Mr. Larke also led the group in a Gaelic rendition of the 23rd Psalm.

Friday night's banquest was the third annual Peterborough Burns Nicht. It was organized by Canadian Scottish Club president Tom Nimmo, who opened the program with the Selkirk prayer.

Armed Students March In Parade

CAIRO (Reuters) — Egyptian girl students with sub - machine guns slung across their shoulders marched proudly past President Mohammed Naguib today at the head of a parade of 40,000 armed and uniformed youths.

The parade, largest ever held in Egypt, celebrated the first anniversary of the "Liberation Rally," which was founded six months after Naguib seized power. All other political groups have been banned, and the rally is designed to become both Egypt's lone party and national guard.

All Cairo was in festive mood as the armed girls paraded and won admiring glances from Egypt's leaders.

Jet planes of the Egyptian Air Force roared overhead as 250,000 people thronged the square where Naguib and other revolutionary leaders took the salute.

Installation Service Keene WMS Executive

KEENE (ENS) —The Women's Missionary Society of Keene United Church met on Thursday evening, with a good attendance. Mrs. Herbert MacFarlane presided.

The worship service — the church, and image of the Kingdom, was conducted by the president. She welcomed the members who ventured out under bad road conditions.

The installation service was conducted by the pastor, the Rev. H. B. Herrington, who paid tribute to the great work the ladies are doing. He said the willingness and co-operation of the ladies has done much toward making the year's work so successful, and "we go forward with fresh courage and enthusiasm."

Reports were given by several of the officers. The minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. C. Mather, and adopted.

A solo, "The Beautiful Garden of Prayer," was rendered by Mrs. Rennie. The business was conducted by the president, who drew attention to the Presbyterial to be held in Mark St. Church, Peterborough, January 26.

The treasurer, Mrs. Fred Nelson, said $510 had been sent to the Presbyterial treasurer. Mrs. H. B. Herrington gave the Mission Band report. She reported $122.14 sent to the Presbyterial treasurer. Mrs. S. Comrie gave a reading on Christian stewardship.

The meeting was brought to a close by Mr. Herrington pronouncing the benediction.

The following officers were named for 1954:

President, Mrs. Herbert MacFarlane; vice-president, Mrs. Stewart Davidson; secretary, Mrs. C. Mather; treasurer, Mrs. Fred Nelson; Christian stewardship secretary, Mrs. S. Comrie; Christian citizenship secretary, Mrs. John MacFarlane; community friendship secretary, Mrs. David McIntyre; associate helpers, Mrs. Edna Tucker; missionary monthly, Mrs. Alf. Fletcher; supply secretary, Mrs. Angus Adamson; press secretary, Mrs. H. B. Herrington; Mission Band leaders, Mrs. H. B. Herrington, Mrs. Roy Richardson, Mrs. Don MacFarlane.

Expect 200 Farm Delegates

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Farmers from many parts of Canada are expected here for the 18th annual meeting of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture which starts Monday.

Some 200 delegates are expected to attend the conference which will discuss agricultural price supports, marketing arrangements, foreign markets and other problems. Among the 200 delegates will be Roger Savary of Paris, France, representing the International Federation of Agricultural Producers.

Tuesday will be a big day for the meeting. Agriculture Minister Gardiner will speak during the afternoon and External Affairs Minister Pearson at night. Federation president H. H. Hannam of Ottawa will also address an afternoon session.

French Forces Kill 109 Vietminh Rebels

HANOI, Indo - China (AP)—French and Viet Namese forces, spearheaded by tanks and other mobile units, killed 109 Vietminh and captured 181 others in mop-up actions today in the Red river delta, the French high command said.

The fighting was heaviest in the Kesat sector, 25 miles southeast of Hanoi, where 67 Communist - led rebels were killed and 64 captured.

French fighters and bombers hammered Vietminh supply bases and troop centres in northwestern Indo-China.

The actions came as 4,000 French Union troops regrouped in the Tuy Hoe beach-head after a successful landing on that fertile coast area Wednesday.

City, Clergy Bid Farewell To Archbishop Gerald Berry

Archbishop-Elect Gerald Berry was guest of honor Friday afternoon when council members, civic officials and clergy of the city gathered in the mayor's parlor at city hall to extend him an official farewell before his departure for the Archdiocese of Halifax.

Mayor Norman Graham acted as official host for the city and wished Bishop Berry success in his new church duties.

The past nine years had been his first experience of living in a smaller city, said Bishop Berry, who was educated and served his priesthood in Montreal before being named Bishop of Peterborough in 1945. But he had enjoyed his life in Peterborough and had learned a great deal here.

HAS ADVANTAGES

"Cities the size of Peterborough have very definite advantages over bigger cities from the point of view of social problems such as delinquency and from the religious standpoint," His Excellency said. "The problems are smaller even in proportion to the populations.

"In cities the size of Peterborough, the number of those registered as having no religion at all is smaller than in larger cities," he said.

"If I have been able to assist the city fathers in some of their work, I wish only in return to express gratitude for the courtesy extended to me," he concluded.

Speaking for the clergy, Archdeacon W. P. Robertson said he was very, very sorry personally to see Bishop Berry leave the city.

"His courtesy and kindness have been everywhere appreciated," Archdeacon Robertson said. "And he has borne himself with dignity at all times."

Archdeacon Robertson commended His Excellency chiefly for work he had accomplished in ecclesiastical buildings in Peterborough, particularly "that gem in the south end" (church of St. John the Baptist).

He said Bishop Berry would now build up the morale, faith and spirit of his people in Nova Scotia who, he promised, "will take you to their hearts."

Church Finances Show Balance

STIRLING (ENS)—The annual business meeting of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church was held in the church parlors, preceded by a pot-luck supper.

The Rev. W. H. V. Walker opened the business meeting with devotional exercises, after which Don Fargey, chairman of the board of managers, took the chair.

There were seven new members added to the church in 1953, seven baptisms, four weddings and four funerals.

The financial report by Harper ollins, showed all indebtedness met, including the installation of an oil-heating unit, and a balance on hand.

All reports of the various organizations showed a successful year.

Harper Rollins, A. O. Dalrymple and Don Rodgers were reappointed to the board of managers for three years. The ushers were also re-appointed.

Lindsay Rink Wins Women's Bonspiel

LINDSAY. — Mrs. C. M. Laidley's Lindsay rink won the main event in the two-day district bonspiel here last night.

Mrs. Laidley's rink defeated Mrs. Gilchrist, of Oshawa, 11-7 in the final game of the main event. In the consolation event, Pearl Parliament's Oakwood rink defeated Mrs. Rita Moseley of Lindsay, 9-7.

Twenty-four rinks from the district, and including one Huntsville quartet, contested the bonspiel.

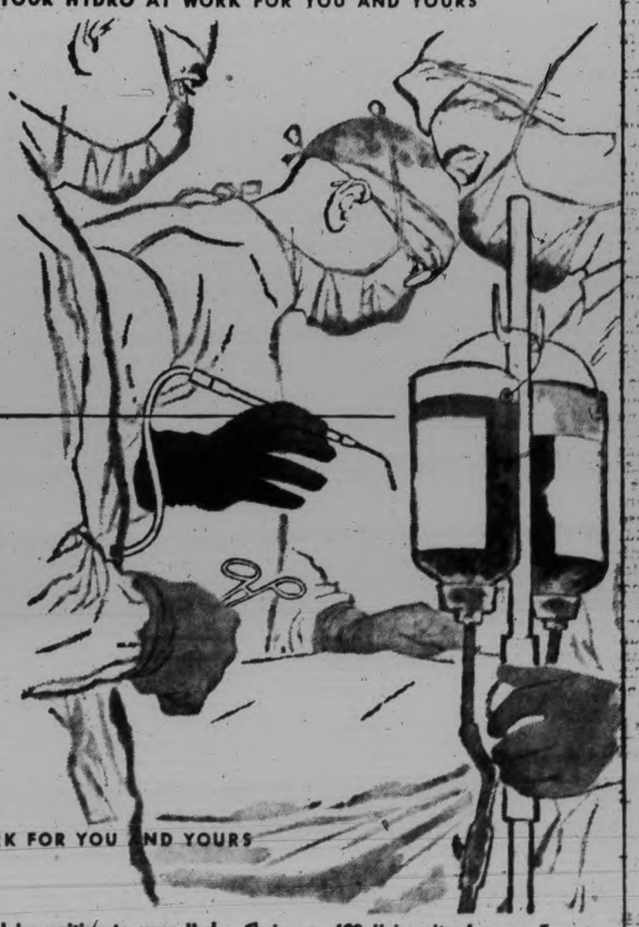
Miracle Surgery

THROUGH ELECTRICITY



Surgery today has been revolutionized through the use of electricity. Specialized electric lighting in the operating room gives added sureness to the surgeon's probe and destroys bacteria. Intricate electric scalpels make possible new and miraculously skilful operations. Minute light-bulbs give a greater range of vision during delicate internal operations.

In your home, too, electricity is enabling you more and more to make life easier and to enjoy it more. Yet this power, supplied by Ontario Hydro, is so inexpensive. For benefits per dollar it is your best buy in better living.

Uranium Murder In Mexico World's First

NEW YORK (CP) —The case of the uranium poison murder in Mexico is probably the world's first of its kind, the New York Times says today in a Mexico City dispatch.

"The intriguing part of the mystery," says the dispatch by Sydney Gruson, former Toronto newspaper man who is The Times' correspondent there, "is where the poison came from." Uranium is no easier to get in Mexico than it is anywhere else, and the cost runs into several thousand dollars an ounce.

Lucina Alvarado Tessada has been charged with the murder of her husband, Alfonos, Tampico business man, who died during a visit to Mexico City three years ago. When undertakers started embalming the body, the dispatch recalls, they found it difficult to inject embalming fluid because the arteries and veins had hardened.

Authorities then found traces of radioactivity in the body. Judge Salvador Martinez Rojas, who is in charge of the investigation which led to the widow's arrest only recently, said the dose of radioactive material found in the body would cost $10,000.

The dispatch quoted the judge as saying "I think that authorities both of Mexico and the United Nations should investigate this case."

Navy Stoker Jailed For 15 Months

DEVONPORT, England (AP) — Henry Maurice Kirk, 24-year-old stoker mechanic on the Royal Navy carrier Eagle, was sentenced today to 15 months detention for maliciously damaging 11 engine pressure gauges with a spanner.

Kirk pleaded guilty at a court-martial.

Defence counsel Lt.-Cmdr. Donald Ian Stuart testified Kirk was unhappy in the navy and wanted to be a farmer.

"The act was not more than an expression of pique," Stuart explained.

Tom Cavanagh Has Most Striking Display

First prize in the dominion-wide Christmas window contest sponsored by Frigidaire Products of Canada Ltd., was awarded for the second year in succession to T. J. Cavanagh. The prize of $100 was awarded when judges picked Mr. Cavanagh's Peterborough window as the most striking display in stores across Canada.

The second prize of $75 was awarded to Gaston Desnoyer, of Sainte Therese, Que.; third prize of $50 to Paul Leprohon, of Sherbrooke, Que.; and fourth prize, to Halwig Motors Ltd., of Kitchener, Ont.

The company brought about 50 employees from Montreal, men experienced in the manfacture of cream separators, and the nucleus of an office staff. At the peak of their production De Laval had a payroll of between 350 and 400 employees; the present staff is around 325 and 330.

NASHUA PAPER COMPANY

The late John R. Marshall was manager of Canadian Nashua Paper Company Ltd. from 1927 until his retirement in 1945.

Preceding him was Robert A. Brown, now the president of the Canadian company, residing in Nashua, N.H.

When Mr. Brown came to Peterborough in 1920, he had to apply himself to a preliminary job of renovating part of the old Cardage Works, Aylmer St. south, and putting it in suitable condition for manufacturing occupancy. He had an organizing staff of half a dozen helpers, and as he put his industrial house in order he ended his first year with about fifteen employees.

The Cordage buildings had been used during the first World War as a munitions plant, producing artillery shells. The property had come into the possession of the city, and it was only as a temporary location that it was rented by Nashua Paper. They were content to establish their buiness in those quarters, incurring expense bills for maintenance and reinforcements, especially of floors, and bided their time while looking about in their last stage of tenancy for a permanent site.

Those plans were probably tentatively drafted during the managership of Mr. Marshall, and were put into effect under his successor, the late E. G. R. Clarke.

Announcement by the company that they had purchased a block of land at the corner of Braidwood Ave. and Monaghan Road gave further impetus to the residential projection south from Lansdowne St. The manufacturing buildings and offices in their attractive modern design were occupied in 1947. They have become a show place in that new south end of the city particularly in their expense of lawn with background of shrubbery, and in the trimness that extends into their parking lot.

The number of employees today at Nashua Paper is in excess of 130.

Mr., Mrs. Edward Jessup Married 50 Years Ago

LAKEFIELD (ENS)—Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jessup of Lakefield on Friday celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. The couple were married 50 years ago at Brudenell, Renfrew county.

Mrs. Jessup, 69, the former Nellie Helmer, was born at Palmer Rapids and Mr. Jessup, who is now in his 83rd year and in indifferent health, was born at Cobden.

After their marriage they farmed for 16 years in Brudenell and moved to Barnette, Wis., where they farmed for another five years. On their return to Canada, the Jessups settled in Madawaska.

Mr. Jessup worked in the woods in winters and also tried gold mining for a few years. Eleven years ago they moved to Lakefield.

The Jessups celebrated their anniversary quietly as Mr. Jessup is not in good health.

They have two sons, William and Wesley, both of Lakefield; a daughter, Margaret, died some years ago. They also have 13 grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

Monday Closing

or Wednesday, and says that it would be best for the community if the stores operated on a six-day-week. He said, however, that he would not oppose a full holiday Wednesday if stores could recoup expected losses by staying open Friday nights.

A five-day week for employees is "something else again" said Mr. Correll. He felt that most stores could work out an arrangement whereby staffs could so stagger working hours as to work only five days, with the stores remaining open for six.

ADOPT ARRANGED PLAN

J. H. Jamison, manager of Eaton's Peterborough branch, said that he could have no opinion on the controversy one way or the other. Generally speaking, however, chain store policy is to remain neutral until a decision is reached. Then the chain stores would side with the majority.

Mr. Jamison pointed out that Eaton's College St. store in Toronto is open six full days per week, in order to meet competition from Simpson-Sears. Employees, however, have a five-day-week.

Peterborough shoe stores are split on the relative merits of Monday and Wednesday closing, said Horace Coon, manager of Neil's shoe store. He could not speak for all the shoe stores but felt that some sort of five-day-week is inevitable.

Ron Knox, eorge St. jeweller, said that stores in this classification stand firmly opposed to any Monday closing. He, too, had no objection to the five-day-week principle but felt that Monday was the worst of possible days.

SEEK RECONCILIATION

The official position of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce is to effect some sort of reconciliation which will benefit the public as a whole and will be fair to all retailers.

"I hope the grocers and butchers look at things from a city-wide angle," said James M. Fraser, manager of the chamber. He hoped that those in favor of Monday closing could be won over to approval of closing all day Wednesday. He said that the grocers, butchers, fruit and vegetable dealers would benefit from such an arrangement.

Mr. Fraser also suggested that local barbers, closed all day Wednesday, have a direct interest in the Monday proposals. Other sources suggested that if the Monday closing petition is passed to become a law, barbers might fall in line with the grocers and reopen Wednesday, with Monday as a long holiday.

One barber who declined to be named said that while barbers might switch to Mondays, that this would not be as good an arrangement as the present one. He said that Monday is a good day in the barbering business, as men like to start the week fresh. If some stores closed Monday, the public might assume the barber shops were shut too and business would suffer.

The suggestion for Monday closing was first made last summer but, as one retailer put it, "we were sure nothing would ever come of it."

Recently the issue was pressed by Don Lewis, chairman of the retail section of the chamber of commerce and a grocer. As a result a petition was put in the hands of city clerk E. A. Outram.

If the petition is found to be in order, the city has no choice but to confirm Monday closing for the classifications requesting it.

SPECIAL MEETING

At a special meeting called by the chamber in an attempt to reach a last minute compromise, the Monday group turned down a suggestion that the issue be deferred until the views of all retailers could be learned. The various classifications chairmen at the meeting felt they could not speak with authority for all members of their respective groups.

Meanwhile it was learned that not all grocers have strong feelings about Monday closing, but wish to see some sort of five-day-week effective immediately. Since a majority of the grocers favors Monday, on the grounds that perishable goods would spoil if stores were closed Wednesdays, others have fallen in line.

The larger grocers like Loblaw's and the A and P, inasmuch as they are chain stores, declined to sign the petition in favor of Monday closing. They have indicated, however, that they will not interfere with the bylaw in any way. Chain retail stores like Zellers, Kresges and Woolworth's, while generally in favor of keeping stores open as many days as possible, will make no official pronouncements.

It was pointed out by one retailer that, inasmuch as the chain groceries are neutral and would, presumably prefer a 5½ or 6-day week if possible, the grocers in favor of Monday closing are a relatively small minority. Most downtown businesses, which form the bulk of retail dollar volume, are not enthusiastic abouut the plan.

But almost without exception, each retailer stressed that most stores opposed only Monday closing, not the general principle of a five-day-week. Wednesday morning business is relatively unimportant in most stores. The necessity for a five-day-week of some sort stems basically from the often wide wage differential between industry and retail proprietors.

Father Of Aquatots May Take Stand In Own Defence

By BEN FUNK

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Russell Tongay, husky father-teacher of the famed "aquatots," Kathy and Bubba Tongay, may take the stand Monday in his own defence against charges that he caused Kathy's death by forcing her to dive from dangerous heights.

Tongay's manslaughter trial was recessed Friday until Monday after county solicitor John Marsh had presented all but one of the state's witnesses.

Five-year-old Kathy died May 5 after practising dives from the top of the 33-foot tower at a hotel pool in Miami Beach. Dr. Victor Calderin said death was caused by peritonitis brought on by a ruptured intestine.

Both Dr. Calderin and Dr. Ben Sheppard, police medical expert, said Kathy's body was a mass of bruises.

Star witness for the state in Friday's opening day of testimony was Pete Desjardins, former Olympic springboard and high-diving champion. He testified that Tongay was not qualified to teach high diving.

Applause broke out in the courtroom when Desjardins said if Tongay had been qualified "he would not have let that child go up on that tower."

Judge Ben C. Willard reprimanded the audience for the outbreak and told the bailiff that if there were any further demonstrations all who took part should be arrested.

Desjardins testified that complicated dives from 33 feet require strength and skill which Kathy did not possess, and are so hazardous that "it takes a diver in the national championship class to try them."

Other state witnesses pictured Tongay as a stern, ambitious father who demanded dangerous dives from a fearful, crying Kathy.

Paul A. McDonald and his wife, Marilan, swimming instructors at the hotel, told of seeing Tongay order Kathy up the tower after she pleaded with him not to make her dive. She made many bad dives, they said, and once "came up screaming" after hitting flat.

Bubba, now 8, is the only survivor of three Tongay children. Russell Jr., died in convulsions in 1945 at the age of 18 months. An autopsy showed death was caused by a haemorrhage brought on by a head injury. An inquest was held but no charges were filed.

Little Evidence Presented Case Dismissed

LINDSAY (ENS). — Magistrate R. I. Moore, hearing his first cases since assuming the bench in Lindsay, Friday dismissed a careless driving charge against a Whitby man, Robert Edwards, when no evidence other than that gathered by police was presented to the court. The charge arose from a December accident in the village of Oakwood, west of Lindsay.

According to the evidence of Constable Jim Hall, it appeared that Edwards, driving his father's car with four passengers, pulled out of a county road into Highway 7, in the path of a car driven by Lorne Capstick of Lindsay.

HURLED THROUGH WINDOW

The Edwards car, after the collision, was hurled through the window of a store on one of the corners of the intersection.

Damage was estimated at $1,400 and Edwards' father, Albert Edwards, also of Whitby, and his wife, Mrs. Madeline Edwards, were injured.

Mrs. Edwards, Sr., is still in the Ross Memorial Hospital in Lindsay. Two other passengers in the car, Carole McFadden of Lindsay and Donald Henderson of Whitby, were unhurt, but Capstick also suffered serious injuries.

None of the persons involved in the mishap gave evidence, and defence counsel A. B. Greer of Whitby moved for a non-suit, contending that no evidence had been presented of the direction being travelled by the two cars. Magistrate Moore agreed, stating that he could come to no conclusion about the accident from the evidence of Constable Jim Hall of the Lindsay OPP.

'Fighting Beers' Driver Convicted

LINDSAY (ENS) — Magistrate R. F. Moore, Friday convicted a Lindsay man, Bert Robertson of driving while his ability was impaired, and fined the accused $50 and $18.50 costs for his part in a collision on one of the town's streets on December 29.

According to the evidence, Robertson, who admitted having had four beers at a company party held by the firm for which his wife worked, was on his way home when his car swerved to the wrong side of King Street struck a parked car, driving it backward some 18 feet. He travelled another 176 feet down the street before going into a ditch at Robertson's laneway. Robertson told the court that he had been fighting the wheel, since one of the front tires on the car was flat and had lost control of the vehicle.

The magistrate, however, commented, "I think rather he was fighting those four beers at the time". Robertson was defended by H. E. Richardson of Lindsay.

Parents Refuse Transfusion For Child

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Eight-year-old Margaret Prudum, whose parents refused Friday on religious grounds to consent to a blood transfusion in the event of surgery, is suffering a fractured pelvis and a damage kidney, attendants at Victoria Hospital said today.

No surgery has been attempted so far and hospital authorities said the passage of time decreases the chances an operation will be required.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Prudum, the parents, members of Jehovah's Witnesses have steadfastly opposed blood transfusions.

Made-up Men

LONDON (CP)—Males appearing on television sometimes wear more make-up than women, TV producer Barrie Edgar confessed. "Our 'blue' chins are not improved by the camera, and we have to plaster the darn thing. A woman needs just a little more make-up than for ordinary social occasions."

Peterborough is not the only city to experience confusion and chaos as a result of disagreement over different views on closing days. In London, Ont., Simpsons pioneered a move for Monday closing on the grounds first that remaining closed for two consecutive days contributes to greater operating oconomy and greater stability of sales and labor, and second, that Monday being washday, most women feel no urge to shop anyway.

In Toronto and Montreal most stores hire enough help to maintain five-day-weeks for staffs while the store operates six days. Althouught this is a popular view with some classifications, particularly the ladies' wear, it has been suggested that in smaller cities it is uneconomical to hire the necessary extra help.

Present position is that the Monday petition will be passed unless the gracers, butchers, vegetable and fruit dealers change their viewpoint. The aim of the Chamber of Commerce and of most retailers is to effect this change with no hard feelings on either side. Some sort of decision is expected by the middle of next week.

Montgomery To Help Award Fellowships

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (CP) — Harry T. Montgomery, Associated Press traffic executive, has been named along with two American newspaper editors to help award Nieman fellowships for a year of background study for newspaper men at Harvard University.

Montgomery was formerly AP correspondent in Canada.

Along with Sevellon Brown III, editor of the Providence (R. I.) Journal and Bulletin, Carroll Binder, editorial page director of the Minneapolis Tribune, will help select the 17th group of newspaper men to receive Nieman Fellowships.

Nominations for a Canadian associate Nieman Fellowship are being received until March 15 by R. W. Southam of the Ottawa Citizen.

Investigate Reports Of Higher Prices

KAPUSKASING (CP) — Merchants and labor representatives at a meeting Friday decided to investigate reports that food and rents are higher in this town of 5,000 than anywhere else in Ontario.

Vince Desjardins, chairman of a committee of the Trades and Labor Council representing union members in the town, said union members feel prices are too high.

He said the committee will investigate. Mickey Turcotte, Retail Merchants' Association president, said his group will help.

Further meetings will be held in the town 75 miles northwest of Timmins during the next few months while the investigation is being carried out.

To Tighten

keep a better check on the men's time and there would be a man to keep time sheets.

Ald. Knox also asked that a work board be devised for scheduling each employee's job a couple of days ahead. But the superintendent said there were two objections to this, the weather and the public.

"The work is laid out ahead of time by the foreman, as it is," Mr. Butcher said. "He knows if it rains he has a job to do. We have operated that way ever since I have been superintendent because when I first joined the department, if it was wet, the men went home. There's enough work on hand now to keep the men busy for two weeks if the weather's bad."

FALSE ECONOMY?

Ald Gordon Powell suggested that the cost of administering a job schedule for the 16 employees of the department might be more than the resulting economies.

A number of pieces of equipment were "bushed", according to the superintendent, including five or six lawnmowers, a haymower, a tractor and a truck. One of the mowers had "come out of the ark," he said.

Mr. Butcher suggested buying a large power mower which would cut a swath of 76 inches, in place of the 30 inches cut by the present mowers. With it, one man could do the work of two.

The purchase of a new haymower, to be drawn behind the tractor, would enable more tall grass to be cut and would particularly improve the appearance of Civic Hospital grounds.

"For four or five years they've been talking about setting money aside for replacing equipment but nothing has been done about it," the superintendent said.

The committee recommended that the superintendent and chairman obtain prices on the two new mowers and that the clerk advertise for sale the department's road grader, which is seldom used.

Cold Wave In W. Canada Blamed For 19 Deaths

EDMONTON (CP) — The weatherman had good news today for frigid western Canada: Temperatures are expected to moderate Sunday.

Sub-zero temperatures for the last 10 days have claimed at least 15 lives while fires have killed four persons and left residents of Blairmore, Alta., shivering in 30-below weather after their central heating plant was destroyed. Total fire damage was believed about $500,000.

Maximum temperatures in the three Prairie provinces averaged between 20 and 25 below Friday while snow was general in southern districts. Medicine Hat and Swift Current were the warmest spots with temperature readings of near 10 below.

SNOW GENERAL

Winter was well-entrenched in British Columbia. Snow flurries were general over the south but the north was clear and crisp. While the coldest place in B. C. was Prince George with a low of 35 degrees below zero, Vancouver had a snowy 28 above and Victoria 38 above.

The cold wave, severest in four years, resulted in record consumption of natural gas by the 55,000 customers in Edmonton and District served by Northwestern Utilities, Ltd.

The company reported that 185,000,000 cubic feet of gas were used Thursday. The previous record of 185,000,000 cubic feet was set Jan. 15. Incomplete figures show that 166,000,000 cubic feet were used in Calgary Jan. 15.

HOME DESTROYED

A family of three was believed to have died Friday in a fire which destroyed their farm house near Plumas, Man., about 90 miles northwest of Winnipeg. Mr. and Mrs. Peter Knutson and their son Kenneth were thought to have been trapped in the building.

Mrs. J. W. Van Meer died Friday when fire destroyed her farm home 20 miles west of Edmonton.

The boiler room of the West Canadian Collieries' Greenhill mine at Blairmore, 100 miles south of Calgary was destroyed by fire Friday. The boiler room was source of heat for many Blairmore residents. The town's schools are closed and 350 men are out of work.

The weatherman said clouds would limit overnight lows to near 30-below at most western pints.

75 Cars Leave On Club Trip

TORONTO (CP)—About 75 cars left here Friday on a 1,340-mile trip to Peterborough, Kingston, Montreal, Maniwaki, Barry's Bay, Huntsville and back to Toronto. And they must be back by 7 a.m. Monday.

Entrants from Ontario, Quebec and nearby states are taking part in the rally, sponsored by the British Empire Motor Club, to test driving skill, navigation and timing ability.

Quebec teams will start and finish in Montreal, covering the same route as Ontario teams.

Below-zero weather is forecast for most of the route.

Cars must check in and out of designated points, and pass through undisclosed check points at specified times. Any car which breaks highway traffic laws is immediately disqualified.

Dies Of Heart Attack During House Fire

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—An elderly woman died of a heart attack and two men were injured during a fire that destroyed the one-storey frame home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Loune.

Mrs. Beatrice Eden, 70, a neighbor, died of a heart attack. Fireman Joseph Clayton, 44, injured his back when he fell into a well. Mr. Loune suffered burns to his arm from tar melting off the roof of the blazing house.

Two children, three dogs, six cats and a number of birds were removed safely.

Lindsay Rink Wins Main 'Spiel Event

LINDSAY (CP) — Mrs. C. M. Laidley's Lindsay rink Friday night won the Artistic Cup main event in the two-day district bonspiel here.

Mrs. Laidley defeated Mrs. Gilchrist, Oshawa, 11-7, in the final. In the consolation, Pearl Parliament's Oakwood rink defeated Mrs. Rita Moseley, Lindsay, 9-7.

Victoria Shows Some Surpluses Grants Made

LINDSAY (ENS). — The committee on finance and assessment of Victoria county council Friday began work on a heavy docket of business, which will probably not be concluded until some time today. General accounts and grants were considered, and the members of the committee were told of some of the surpluses which accrued during 1953.

Included in these were $337 at the home for the aged, $7,700 in the road system account, and $9,787 in the general account.

Grants made included the usual amounts to the warden, the agricultural societies of the county, public libraries, municipalities not in the county road system, the Ross Memorial hospital, Victoria county and Lindsay tourist associations, chamber of commerce in Lindsay, Bobcaygeon, Omemee, Fenelon Falls, and Coboconk, county ploughmen's association, county co-operative library, women's institutes, horticultural societies, county junior farmers' fund, department of agriculture, Kinmount, for construction of rest rooms, Salvation Army, Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

A resolution was passed, calling for the provincial government to examine the plans for the construction of the Sir Ham Hughes road plan for Highway 35 from Lindsay to Cameron. This plan, which has been broached to the department of highways before, would eliminate many of the bad curves on the highway between the Fenelon township boundary and the village of Cameron. In all, five persons lost their lives on the stretch during the past year.

Brockville Man Acquainted With Top East German Spy

BROCKVILLE (CP)—Capt. John H. Degraff, a former British espionage agent and Russian Army officer, said Friday he is personally acquainted with Ernst Wollweber, German Communist whose name was mentioned in a British government inquiry into the loss by fire a year ago of the liner Empress of Canada.

Wollweber is regarded as East Germany's chief expert on sabotage.

Capt. Degraff, 60, who now operates a small business here, rose to the rank of major in the Russian Army while working for Britain's crack MI-5 intelligence division during the First World War. The RCMP say he is "the genuine article."

He said in an interview Wollweber is chief of the sabotage wing of the Communist forces in Western Europe.

LED MUTINY

"I have known him since 1916 when he served on the Helgoland (a submarine) and was at that time one of the organizers of the 1917 mutiny in the German Navy," Capt. Degraff said.

"Between 1924 and 1930 Wollweber was called to the Soviet Union for political and sabotage training. He organized sabotage in 1938 on the German-Hamburg-America liner Reliance with the total loss of the ship."

He said Wollweber also organized sabotage activity aboard the Swedish liner Atlantic Ocean, the liner Queen Elizabeth and British aircraft carriers Triumph, Warrior Indomitable and Centaur.

Capt. Degraff, who claims there are 3,000 Russian-trained saboteurs living underground in Canada, said Wollweber has his own wireless station and is in direct contact with his agents all over the world.

Tree Preservation

SEVEN OAKS, England (CP)—Municipal authorities are trying to devise ways of saving seven oak trees from which this Kent town probably got its name. The trees are in danger of falling and as an experiment one will be strapped to prevent it toppling in a strong wind.

Cancer Society Program Geared To Help All Patients

The assistance to cancer patients which the local unit of the Canadian Cancer Society is geared to give is perhaps not being utilized by all who may have need of it.

This is a prime worry of those working on the welfare program in Peterborough. They must depend on the patients or their friends to ask for service and are never sure that all in the district are doing so.

At the office of the unit, 440 Water Street, cupboards are stacked with dressings ready to be supplied free of charge to patients who need them. One patient who lived outside the city quite a distance, last year received more than 1,000 special dressings, all made by an interested person here.

The standard sizes are kept in supply by various women's church groups and an IODE chapter. One group of women met just to make them and eight girls of the Mark Street church took this as their service project. Dressings are made to the particular needs of the patient when necessary. Absolutely all of them are thoroughly sterilized before they are given out.

The public is invited to help keep dressings in stock by donating old cottons. These are used for the economy angle and because of the softness. New gowns for both men and women have been made by an IODE Chapter.

Another phase of the welfare program is arranging transportation of patients to Toronto for diagnosis or treatment, and securing boarding places for those who may have to remain in the city for a time. The latter is done through co-operation with the Toronto branch of the society. When transportation by car has been necessary it has been provided voluntarily by local unit members.

There is also service as a liaison officer between the patient and some form of employment when the case permits. Workers too will take on the burden of working out financial arrangements for the patient. They will arrange for beds in hospital and make appointments for treatments.

Services to make life brighter, as well as more comfortable, for the cancer patient have also been worked out. So far these have been home visits, bringing small gifts to the patient, and Christmas remembrances, and hospital visitation is to be arranged also. Letters of appreciation from some of the patients are treasured items in the office files.

Next Thursday evening, January 28th, Peterborough Unit of the Canadian Cancer Society will hold its annual meeting and the public may attend and hear facts and figures of the full service rendered during the past year. In April they will again be asked to donate to the fund which supports the research continually being carried on to find the cause and a cure for cancer.

Rich Colors Only Change In Italian Fashion Showing

By MICHELE JACKS

ROME (AP)—Italy's first show of 1954 spring and summer fashions opened today. Husbands might be joyous over the fact there isn't much change from last year, but what woman wants to wear last year's dress?

Almost a hundred foreign buyers were on hand for the season opener at Giovanelli-Sciarra.

The visitors had compliments for Italy's lovely silks and lavish display of rich color, but didn't say what models they were buying.

The first day's display had charm but no big surprises. Waistlines were natural. Hemlines stayed where they were. Necklines and sleeves showed little change.

Silver fox made a comeback in collars and cape borders. It was used for cuffs and a collar on a slim black woollen dress of princess silhouette, and as trim on a long straight cocktail coat.

Many suits and dresses had straight skirt lines, but for cocktail time they flared wide.

COCKTAIL CREATIONS

Black and white were favored in many cocktail and evening creations. A forest of day colors varied from pastels to flaming hues.

Foreign buyers showed interest in Giovanelli-Sciarra beach costumes. The house offered daringly scanty shorts with fancy tunics. Other beach and lounge costumes featured slim trousers, usually in black, which tapered to almost skin-fitting at the ankles.

Straw cloth stained jet black was featured in any beach and lounge costumes. Jackets to complete the ensemble often were lined with cardinal red silk.

Bows were abundant and big on evening gowns.

Vancouver-Born Singer Likes Singing In Britain

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON (CP)—Vancouver-born Irene Byatt, contralto singer who has been a professional less than two years, says she wouldn't trade the thrill of spell-binding an audience in a draughty British concert hall for the softest job going in a centrally-heated office.

The six-foot, two-inch singer, who weighs 210 pounds, concedes that concert singing is one of the toughest ways for a beginner to make a living. But "the most intoxicating experience of a lifetime" is to sing to an audience hanging on every note, Miss Byatt said in an interview.

Since her professional debut in October, 1952, the 27-year-old Canadian woman has sung in London's vast Albert Hall and other concert halls throughout Britain. She has appeared three times under the direction of Sir Malcolm Sargent.

"I've been lucky so far in the number of my engagements," says Miss Byatt, who adds that it took her 10 years to get where she is and that she still has a long way to go towards her goal as a first-class concert artist.

PLANS CANADIAN TRIP

To help expenses, she plans to repeat a five-month visit to Canada later this year. She returned from a Canadian tour last November. The second trip probably will include a visit to her home at Victoria, B.C.

She came to Britain late in 1950 on a Victoria Musical Arts Scholarship, and studied for two years under Roy Henderson, the late Kathleen Ferrier's teacher. Previously, she had studied at Victoria for four years and for two years at the Royal Conservatory of Music in Toronto. There, she won the Rose Bowl Award at the Kiwanis Festival.

Miss Byatt says the performance she would most like to repeat is the one she gave in Albert Hall, singing the contralto part in Handel's "Messiah," conducted by Sargent last Easter.

Miss Byatt, who currently lives with piano student Enid Edwards of Calgary, has no ambitions toward an operatic career. She is concentrating on German lieders,

Good Posture Gives Impression Of Health

By NANCY CLEAVER

What a pleasure it is to watch a child with good posture walking along the street, wide-awake, healthy, full of energy! He gives the general impression of a happy youngster in excellent physical condition. What about your own child's posture? Is it good, medium or rather poor?

Mothers and fathers are so busy and their children are so dear to to them, that it is hard for them take a critical look at the way their own youngster carries himself. "Asking a parent to be objective, is almost like requesting him to climb out of his own skin." one father protested. But it is important to check up on Junior's posture. Is his body held in a natural easy position with the weight resting on the balls and outer sides of his feet? Are his knees straight, his tummy held in? Is his head held up, with the chin in? What about his shoulder blades — do they not protrude unduly?

FACTOR IN FATIGUE

A child should gradually develop the use of all parts of the body with the right balance. Faulty posture is often a factor in excessive fatigue. Good posture and good health are dependent on each other.

YOUR CHILD'S POSTURE—It is a pleasure to see a child with good posture—and when he is small he is acquiring habits of sitting and standing which he will retain all his life.

A well-balanced diet is of great importance. To build bone and muscles, the child needs green vegetables, fruit, milk, protein in the form of meat, eggs, fish and cheese. Cod liver oil in the months when there is not much sunshine is also essential.

A child's clothes must allow for plenty of freedom for movement. Tight belts hinder the activity of the abdominal muscles. Care must be taken that a child's stocking garters do not pull down on the shoulders. The supports should be on the side of the underwaist, with a built up neck. Shoes, stockings and nightclothes must all be large enough for comfort

Some parents have the mistaken idea that any bed will do for a small child, so long as he gets to sleep quickly. Each child should have his own bed with a firm, flat mattress and springs. A pillow is not necessary, and if used should be a small flat one. The bed covering should be light and not too tight. A sagging bed can do real damage to a child's posture.

ASK DOCTOR

Ask your doctor about your child's posture next time he has his annual medical examination. Your doctor may comment on some defects in your child's posture and make some suggestions for ways to overcome faulty positions.

A child is much better with furniture built to his own size. Sometimes a child develops a slouching position when sitting because he is uncomfortable in his chair. His feet should not dangle insecurely in the air. A father who is handy with tools might be able to construct a child's table and chairs. Junior's own chair, which supports his back and feet, helps him to sit up straight and relieves his muscles of unnecessary strain.

At bath time, Mother can often encourage a little child to develop good habits of posture by praising the way he stands up straight and holds his tummy in. If a child needs special help in posture, instead of using a set of exercises which must be done as a duty, choose certain games which will accomplish the same end and be fun as well.

Oriental women, who carry articles on their heads, are famous for their graceful walk. If you have a daughter approaching adolescence, she might enjoy practising walking with a book on her head occasionally. Gym periods at school also encourage a good carriage. If you are concerned about your collegiate child's posture, the gym teacher might give you some excellent practical tips. Why not ask for them?

MARK ST. CHURCH CGIT

Games this week were conducted by two members of the senior group, Shirley Fell and Janice Berry. Afterwards the girls went into groups for worship service. It was decided to have a sleigh ride on February 16, and reminders were given about church services January 31 and February 7 for Christian Youth Week. Mrs. L. Pepper introduced the guest speaker, Miss Ball, one of the nurses in the emergency ward at the Civic Hospital. She talked and demonstrated first aid. She also answered many questions. Velma Hendren thanked the speaker.

Does Painting At Art Association

The Women's Art Association had something a little different at the studio meeting on Friday afternoon. Mr. John Bennett, art director of Northern Vocational School, Toronto, demonstrated his own technique in oil painting by doing a still life semi-abstract for them in the first 45 minutes of his lecture period.

The regular audience was interspersed with artists of city who came to absorb. Mr. Bennett remarked "If you get one small tip, it is probably worth while," and so they seemed to feel as they watched him intently.

He afterward displayed a number of pieces of his own work, including several of his "paste-ups" which are done with scissors and paste and advertisements and colored photographs in magazines. He said these were "100 hour jobs" and he believed that he had now overcome "this phase."

Best-liked were his "on-the-spot" water colors, particularly his outdoor still lifes of such things as cabbage, and plant life on the beach, and his "sumach series."

Trinity Mr. & Mrs. Elects New Slate

Sixty guests and members of Trinity Mr. and Mrs. Club enjoyed a New Year's party, Friday evening, with the following new executive in charge:

President, Mr. and Mrs. Burt McFadden; vice-presidents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Thompson; secretary-treasurers, Mr. and Mrs. E. Horton; social convenors, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence McBain; membership convenors, Mr. and Mrs. W. Cross; group leaders, Mr. and Mrs. F. Barnard, Mr. and Mrs. W. Evans, Mr. and Mrs. L. McBain, Mr. and Mrs. R. McDonald.

The Rev. G. S. Maxwell favored with three solos, "Friend of Mine," "The Nomad" and "I Love you Truly." The Little Theatre Group of Elmdale School presented a delightful two act comedy called "Here Comes The Bride." Mr. Eric Toller played several numbers on his piano accordian and lead a sing song.

Mrs. M. Elliott and Mr. Dean Cutmore were prize winners of a contest, called "Know Your Peterborough Citizens?"

Plans were made for the February meeting under leadership of Mr. and Mrs. W. Evans. Also, the presentation of a lecture on gardening and films on March 19, entitled "Beauty Your Home" was discussed.

The evening concluded with a delicious turkey luncheon.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard James Celebrate 50th Anniversary

Fifty "might happy" years were recalled by Mr. and Mrs. Howard James of 457 Bolivar St. as they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary today. More than 100 friends and relatives were expected to crowd the James home to reminisce about a crowded half-century.

One of the best features of being married 50 years, says Mrs. James, is that "you can love and enjoy your grandchildren without having the same responsibility you would have for your own." And Mrs. James knows whereof she speaks: she has four children and seven grandchildren, the eldest 15.

It was 50 years ago today that Howard James a young farmer from Oakwood, 6½ miles from Lindsay, married Violet Robinson, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Robinson. They farmed in the Oakwood district before moving to Peterborough 40 years ago.

In Peterborough Mr. James joined the Canadian General Electric Co. as a brass-moulder and Mrs. James settled down to raising four lively children, three sons and a daughter, all of Peterborough. Harry, Stuart, Jarvis and Laura (Mrs. Harold Hewitt) who all attended their parents' milestone party today.

First thing to strike the visitor's eye as he enters the James living room is a series of landscapes in oils on the walls. Three years ago Mrs. James took up painting as a hobby, found that she had a flair for it. She concentrated on producing outdoor scenes. She has a penchant for craggy outdoors pictures, with an especial yen for sunspangled mountaintops.

Nor does Mr. James believe in letting grass grow under his feet. Summers, he spends as much time as he can in his garden. Time was when he raised enough in his garden to make the grocers unhappy, but more recently he has contented himself with raising a few specialties like tomatoes.

In addition to her children, Mrs. James was assisted at today's open house by a niece, Mrs. I. James and a corps of her many friends led by Mrs. Eva Bester.

DOROTHY DIX

Eager To Wed But Finds Boy's Salary Too Small

DEAR MISS DIX: My fiance and I want very much to get married, but his job pays very little, and he has family obligations. He keeps promising to save, but never does. He and a sister have to support their father and another sister, who are both ill. Is there any hope for us?

ANGIE

LOVE TRIUMPHS

ANSWER: You do have a serious problem, Angie, but love has been known to overcome even tougher obstacles. Your fiance should, first of all, do what he can to improve his earnings. Living in a large city, as you do, there should be opportunities for better-paying jobs, or, at least, for advancement in the concern which employs him. Perhaps if he attended night school for a while, to increase his knowledge of the business he's in, his future might look brighter. As for the family obligations, you will undoubtedly have them, and a fair arrangement should be worked out among you, your fiance and his sister to care the dependents.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX I'm a high-school junior. Recently, I was asked to go on my first date by the son of my parents' best friends. While he's a nice boy, I found him rather boring, and refused the next date. My mother was so upset over my refusal that she has taken away all my social privileges. Now, I have no boy friends since my mother disapproves of everyone I bring home.

JOSEPHINE

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: While your mother holds the right of approval or veto on any friendships you make, you should have valid reasons for disapproval. She can't expect you to go out with a boy, and like him, on the arbitrary grounds that his parents are friends of hers. Perhaps you weren't particularly tactful in handling the situation, which might provide the basis for her severity. Tell Mom you want a chance to discuss the matter with her, and explain just why you didn't care for the boy.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: We're a young couple with many friends. However, one group of these friends considers us anti-social because we like to stay together on a date, while the other couples pair off with someone else's husband or wife. There's nothing wrong in their behavior, but we just like to dance together:

H. H.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Don't change, even at the risk of criticism. Young married folks have little enough time to play together; they need to make the most of it. Social pairing off with another's husband or wife may begin very innocently, but too often winds up in a broken marriage. No matter how broadminded one boasts of being about these social amenities, they almost always become a cause of jealousy, arguments, then quarrels.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am my husband's fourth wife, and we've been married three years. There is nothing that we agree on. We don't see eye-to-eye on money, friends, relatives, or amusements. Although he has a good job, he insists on my working, too, and if I'm home ill for one day, he nags me until I get out of bed in self-defense. He tells me the only reason he married me was because he thought I had been left a lot of money by my Dad: I was left a little, which my husband has spent by now. I am 44, he is 62.

PHYLLIS G.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your husband seems to be on a lifelong search for a woman who can keep him in the style to which he would like to become accustomed. Common sense should have told you that a man who had failed in three marriages was quite unlikely to succeed in a fourth. All the other wives couldn't have been wrong! You apparently feel that any man, at any price, is better than no man at all, since even with all your bill of complaints you still seem to loath to get out on your own. Surely you're able to support yourself; you now manage to support a husband. You must make your own decision: whether to continue in the misery of your present household, with no happiness, no respect, very little security, or leave, and win, at least, a chance for peace with respect.

Readers' Saturday Column By Mary Moore

QUESTION: Did you ever make almond icing out of sweet potatoes and icing sugar and I have forgotten what else . . perhaps you could tell me.

ANSWER:

MOCK ALMOND PASTE

(This paste will keep for about 2 weeks — not as long as true almond paste.) Bake 1 medium-sized scrubbed sweet potato at 400 deg fahr. until very tender. Scrape soft insides from skin and force through sieve. Sift ½ lb icing sugar (after it is weighed) and when sieved potato is cool, work it in gradually, also gradually add ½ teaspoon true almond flavoring and ¼ teaspoon rosewater. Keep creaming this until all sugar is added and mixture is very smooth; it may require a trifle more sugar, but do this cautiously as this mixture firms a little more when cold. Very lightly sprinkle baking board with icing sugar and roll out paste to size of cake. Brush top of cake with mixture of 4 tablespoons corn syrup and 1 teaspoon water. Cover with the almond paste, smoothing surface with rolling pin, and trimming off any overhanging edges. Twenty-four hours later cover with Ornamental Icing: Beat 1 egg white with 1¾ cups sifted icing sugar until they form a very thick paste. Then add 1 teaspoon lemon juice and ½ teaspoon glycerin, and beat until icing will hold its shape. Double this amount if you intend to use this icing to decorate cake after frosting it.

I believe the following is the other recipe you requested.

MARZIPAN STRAWBERRIES

(A confectionery suitable for Valentine party.)

This amount makes 70 or 80 "strawberries."

To 1 can sweetened condensed milk add 1 lb. dessicated cocoanut. (Buy 4 4-oz. packages as it is fresher because of the quick turnover.) Also add 1 tablespoon fruit sugar and ¼ lb. very finely chopped blanched almonds and 1½ packages of strawberry jelly dessert — dry from the package. (Note: buy 3 packages as you need ½ package to roll shaped "strawberries" in, but you may use extra so have the third package on hand.) Add 1 teaspoon each vanilla and red liquid coloring. Mix thoroughly. Chill overnight to make handling easy. Take up a teaspoonful into your palm and roll into a ball. Flatten the top and pull out a point at the bottom to stimulate the shape of a strawberry. Roll these in the leftover ½ package of strawberry jelly dessert to give a pebbled coating like a natural strawberry. For the hull or top green leaf use split sliced green cherry or green icing: 1 cup icing sugar, ⅛ cup butter (2 tablespoons), ½ teaspoons vanilla, 1 tablespoon (or less) cream and enough green coloring to make dark green. Fill icing tube with this, and holding each strawberry in your hand shape a round leaf at top of it, and if you are adept at this you can drag it away quickly to leave a tag end for a stem. Let dry on waxed paper at room temperature for 4 hours, then store in refrigerator to chill and harden until serving time.

QUESTION: Have you a recipe for Red Currant Preserves? I have recipes for the jelly but I should like to cook the preserves without the seeds getting hard. I have cooked them first without sugar and added sugar afterwards just before it is finished cooking, but this did little good — some people tell me they make a heavy syrup, then add currants and cook one minute. I hope you can help me with this problem as I would appreciate it more than words can express. Vera A. R.

ANSWER: It is quite safe to bring a heavy syrup to boiling, add your red currants, boil 1 minute, pour into sterile jars and nearly seal, then process in hot water bath 20 minutes at boiling point. This processing insures sterilization of the currants which they did not get in their 1-minute boiling period. To 1 pint boiling water add 2 lbs. sugar, (or a little less) and bring to boil. Add 1 lb. stemmed, cleaned, drained red currants in perfectly fresh condtion. After it comes to boil, boil 1 minute. Pour into sterile 1 pint jars, put on sterile rubbers and top, tighten seal to within ⅛ turn of tight, put in hot water bath and when it comes to boil, process 20 minutes. Lift from hot water bath at one, and cool out of draughts.

Designer Says Movie Stars Sometimes Worst-Dressed

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK (AP)—Some of the world's worst-dressed women are to be found among Hollywood stars, says Don Loper, designer of clothes, houses and movie sets and once an internationally known dancer.

"They go around in trousers and sweaters, or off-shoulder gowns," says this outspoken critic. "They haven't heard about the daytime dress."

There are, of course, exceptions, Loper hastens to add. Among these he lists Irene Dunne, Arlene Dahl, Claudette Colbert, Joan Crawford, Greer Garson, Lana Turner and Eleanor Parker.

In New York for a breather before journeying to London to open a men's and a women's branch of his California fashion salons, Loper was in a mood to get a few things off his chest.

"Here in the east nobody would think of going down town in a swim suit and shirt, but in Hollywood it's common practice. When the stars get out to the coast they start going native in dress.

"Take Hedy Lamarr, for instance. After being known as one of the most glamorous women in Vienna, as soon as she arrived in Hollywood she took to peasant blouses and dirndls."

COSTUMES FOR MAXINE

Loper began his designing career creating costumes for his dancing partner, Maxine Barrat, during their appearance in various Broadway hit musicals. From there he went to Hollywood to dance with Ginger Rogers in "Lady in the Dark," after which he was given a five-way contract as dance director, costume designer, coiffure designer, set designer and straight director. Then he opened his own salon.

Loper redecorated the Beverly Hills Hotel, the Ambassador Hotel in Los Angeles, Boca Raton and the Roney Plaza in Florida.

In the field of men's wear he designed sports shirts, waist-coats and ties, but wears none of these himself. His wardrobe consists exclusively of black suits, white shirts, black ties, socks and shoes.

BLACK FOR ECONOMY

Loper feels that any woman who devotes a little planning to a wardrobe can be well-dressed, even on a budget. He advises:

"If you have only a limited amount to spend, stick to one color, preferably black. Thus you need only one set of accessories.

"It's wiser to get one good dress than two cheap ones. Every well-dressed woman has learned to collect good clothes like she collects jewels and furniture. A good dress that is right for a woman never goes out of style unless her personality changes.

"Any successful dress should merely play up the good points of the wearer. The dress should never be more important than the woman."

DARTFORD, England (CP)—Officials of the big Dartford Hospital estimated that patients and staff consume seven tons of sausage each year. They figured the sausages would stretch nine miles, if laid end to end.

Mrs. W. Hill President Of Society

OMEMEE (ENS)—The annual meeting of the Omemee and District Horticultural Society was held in the council chamber on Thursday evening with twenty-nine members present, President Wesley Wilson presided. The secretary, Mrs. Moyer, read the Horticulture Societies Act to remind the members of the aims and objects of the society. Two books, "Gardeners Source Book" and "All About House Plants," were purchased and will be on the library shelves. The junior society has a record membership of 62.

Officers elected were president Mrs. H. W. Hill, 1st vice-president, the Rev. V. E R Zufelt, 2nd vice-president E A Corneil, directors Wes Wilson, Mrs V. Lang, Mrs. C. G. Shaw, Mrs. H Deyell and Mrs. Carl Atwell. Huber Burke was appointed a director for one year to finish the term of Mrs. Raffan. Dick Vaughan was named auditor. Mrs. Hill and Mrs. Atwell will be delegates to the Ontario convention with expenses paid to the amount of $30. It was decided to have roses for this year's premium. A $10 honorarium was voted to Mrs. Moyer, retiring secretary. Mrs. Atwell will be secetary for 1954. Announcement was made of the forthcoming illustrated lecture by the Dunham Nurseries at Christ church on Friday, February 12. A film "Garden Wise" illustrating the action of Krillium was shown by Mr. Zufelt and the meeting closed with "The Queen."

TRINITY CHURCH WA

The January meeting of Trinity United church WA was an occasion for a rededication of its members to the work of the new year. The accomplishments of the past year were summed up in reports which showed an increase in membership and in average attendance and a profitable year both financially and spiritually.

Mrs. H. Deyell read the WA Dominion president's New Year message. The association's motto and creed and the theme song was sung. Mrs. Moyer conducted the installation of officers.

Cards of thanks were read from Mr. and Mrs. Geo Griffin and from the M J. Sandy family.

Plans were discussed for ways of restoring the funds depleted by recent expenditures. A feature of the meeting was a shower for the new kitchen, by which many useful additions were made to its equipment. Verses composed for the occasion by Miss Mary Faulkner "Our kitchen shower" were much enjoyed.

Mrs. T. A. McConnell, leader of group one, conducted the devotional program in which she was assisted by Mrs. Elmer Mahood and Mrs. M. Jones. Mrs. E. A. Corneil sang "Building for Eternity." This group were also in charge of the social hour which followed.

HAVELOCK (ENS) — Chief Constable W. Hall was reappointed at a special meeting of the Havelock council as chief of police, village fireman, weed inspector, sanitary inspector and caretaker of the town hall and fire engines at a salary of $2,400.

Four tenders were received for the village garbage collection for 1954. John Leask received the appointment. His tender was $1,620. The other tenders were from Donald Johnston, $1,850; J. Fitzpatrick, $1,820; William Rylott, $1,650.

Mr. Jennings was reappointed assessor at a salary of $400.

Spanish Students Hold Demonstrations

MADRID (Reuters) — Hundreds of students today chanted "Gibraltar is Spanish" in an anti-British demonstration approved by university authorities at Santiago de Compostela in northwest Spain.

The head of the university there congratulated the students on their "fervent patriotism" in following the government's campaign against Queen Elizabeth's scheduled visit to Gibraltar. The "Rock" bastion next door to Spanish territory has belonged to Britain since 1703.

Spanish censors did not allow any mention in today's morning newspapers of the "give us back Gibraltar" demonstrations, but all newspapers published details of the courtesy visit Friday to Gibraltar by the newly-appointed commanding officer of the nearby Spanish military area, Gen. Jose Cuesta Monereo.

FRANK E. WOOD

Accountants To Hear F. Wood

Frank E. Wood, secretary-treasurer and director of Marathon Paper Mills of Canada, Ltd., will be guest speaker Tuesday night at a meeting of the Peterborough chapter, Society of Industrial and Cost Accountants of Ontario.

Mr. Wood is president of the national society of the accounting group. He was chairman of the Ottawa chapter in 1941, president of the Ontario society for 1946, and became a director and officer of the national organization in 1942.

The speaker will address the local group on the subject, "The Financial Function in Industrial Relations." Meeting is scheduled to be held in the Empress hotel at 6:30.

Large CGE Order For N. Zealand

The largest order CGE has ever received for a motor control centre is being processed in the Peterborough works. The unit will be instaled in a pulp and paper mill at Te Toko, New Zealand.

Building of the New Zealand mill portends a new trend on New Zealand industry. It is part of the "Murupara" project, biggest industrial scheme ever launched in New Zealand.

CGE is not the only Canadian firm supplying material and advice for New Zealand's expanding economy. The Abitibi Power & Paper Co. is supplying technical assistance to the Tasman Power & Paper Co., and the mill will be built by the Sandwell firm of Vancouver.

The New Zealand project is more than just a factory. An entire integrated town is leing built. Development includes a 40-mile rail line, a hydro power development, a deep water coastal highway construction and various services for the workers. The principle is much the same as at the aluminum plant in Kitimat, B.C.

The world's largest man-made forest will supply wood for the lumber mills. Planted by relief workers during the depression the forest covers 200,000 acres.

The Tasman firm will also take advantage of hot springs near Te Toko to cut heating expenses. The springs are a natural source of super-heated steam.

Delivery of the Peterborough-made equipment is expected to begin in March. The motor centre will be 412 feet long and will contain every kind of starter in the large horsepower size made by CGE. The centre will control a total of 23,000 horsepower.

Troops Occupy Bridge After Soldiers Vanish

CAIRO (Reuters)—British troops armed with sub-machine-guns today occupied a bridge and part of a railroad station at Tel el Kebir, in the Suez canal zone, following the disappearance of two British soldiers in the area.

At the same time, a column of tanks and armored cars occupied the right bank of a canal which runs through Ismailia in the Suez zone.

A British army spokesman said the Suez situation has "deteriorated considerably" in the last 48 hours. He made the statement after disclosing the disappearance of two British soldiers with a malaria control unit.

Four Vehicles Damaged In Collision

MARMORA (ENS) — Four vehicles were involved in a chain-reaction collision at Victoria Ave. and Highway 7 about 3.15 p.m. Friday, when one of them skidded while trying to avoid hitting a fifth.

Mrs. Lillian O'Connor, of Marmora, had stopped her car on the highway in order to turn up Victoria Ave. An eastbound car, driven by Edward St. Jean, of Ottawa, slowed down and went into a skid in an attempt to avoid the O'Connor vehicle.

The St. Jean car skidded to the left side of the road, colliding with a westbound transport of the Reimer Express Co. The transport was knocked across the road and crashed into a Doyle Co. bus parked on the Trudeau Motors lot. The bus in turn struck a parked Trudeau Motors panel truck.

Considerable damage was done to all the vehicles involved except the O'Connor car but non-one was injured.

Chief Kenneth Redding investigated.

Baptists Deny Espionage By Ministers

Following a report four Baptist ministers were imprisoned for espionage in Czechoslovakia, the Baptist World Alliance emphatically denied any attempt to carry on through the quartet any form of sabotage.

The Rev. C. O. Johnson, St. Louis, reported the arrest of the alliance's administrative committee and said Czechoslovakia charged the men with following instructions from the alliance to carry on espionage and sabotage in that country during the period following the close of the Second World War.

Two were sentenced to seven years in jail, one to 12 years, and one to 18 years. They were all deprived of their rights as citizens and their property was confiscated.

"Every Baptist knows that these charges are absurd," Dr. Johnson told the committee.

Urge Churchill To Stay On Job

LONDON (AP) — Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard appealed today to Prime Minister Churchill to stay on the job as long as his health permits.

Alarmed by rumors that Churchill intends to resign this summer, the mass-circulation newspaper owned by the Canadian-born publisher, one of the 79-year-old minister's closest friends, declared editorially:

"Churchill is the only person in the world capable of securing a settlement between East and West.

"That is why (the people of Britain) look to Churchill as to no other man for guidance and counsel. That is why the thought of his standing down fills them with utter despondency."

At a political meeting in Immingham Friday night, Cyril Osborne, a Conservative MP, said the current talk in the House of Commons is that Churchill will retire next May after the Queen returns from her six-month royal tour.

Decide Woman Died From Unknown Causes

LANARK, Ont. (CP) — A coroner's jury decided Friday that 88-year-old Mrs. Sylvestre Lauzon, whose decomposed body was found in a thicket near here last Oct. 20, died from "unknown causes."

Mrs. Lauzon left the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ina Yuill, of Carleton Place, Ont., Feb. 11, 1953, and was not seen alive again. Police were not notified of her disappearance until last April.

A parcel containing paris green, a poison with an arsenic base, was found near her body. An autopsy performed Dec. 10 after the body had been exhumed proved she had not died of the poison.

Knox Church Seeks Aid In Financing Renovation

The Wells financial organization, which specializes in planning church development projects, will take over a $90,000 restoration program at Knox United church this year. This suggestion was made by the congregation at the annual meeting of the church this week.

The restoration fund campaign has already made considerable progress, but it was felt that hiring the Wells group migh provide more co-ordination. Treasurer J. R. Sinclair presented the congregation with a progress report to date on this development.

A report from minister the Rev. H. G. Douglas indicated that Knox is a growing church. Nineteen new members were received in 1953. 52 children were baptized, 18 funeral services were performed and 21 marriages were solemnized. Present enrolment in the Sunday school is 343, including 78 children on the cradle roll.

APPOINTMENTS

The following appointments were made at the meeting: Elders (for five years) J. R. Sinclair, Keith Fairbairn, Lloyd Mitchell, Jack Taylor; Boar dof Stewards (re-elected for three years) Clark Weldon, M. McIlraith, M. Gardner, Ross Williamson, Fred Watson, Leonard Mahood, M. A. Ross, Harold Murduff; Trustees (for five years) Herbert McCannan, John Barnes, C. Gray, Tom Taylor, Howard Clegg; Auditors, Fred Watson, Stanley Adamson; Bible Society, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Wright; Ansoif House committee, Mrs. Charles Ross; church treasurer, J. R. Sinclair.

Reports were presented to the congregational meeting by the following: WMS Afternoon Auxiliary Mrs. M. Mesley; Helen Roger Auxiliary, Phyllis Kidd; CGIT, Mrs. H. G. Lewis; Mission Band, Mrs. Hanscom; Explorers, Joan Reynolds; WA, Mrs. John Donaldson; Sunday school, Harold Marduff; Married Couples Club, Donald Richardson; Trail Rangers, Clair Grainger; Knox Theatre Group, Fred Watson; Missionary and Maintenance, Roy Genge; treasurer's report, J. R. Sinclair.

Move To Incorporate Orono Meets Council Opposition

By MURRAY SMITH

COBOURG — (ENS)—Opposition to a move by Orono residents to have their police village incorporated into a village was voiced by a delegation which attended Friday's session of Northumberland and Durham counties council who denied the petition after a lengthy debate.

Earlier in the session, a petition from residents of Orono asked council for a bylaw which would raise the status of the community from a police village to a regular village. As a police village, Orono is administered, by trustees under the direction of Clarke township council, of which Orono is a part. As a village, the community would have its own municipal council and would be a separate municipality from the township.

It is not a case of a young community straining at its bonds, because the history of the village goes back a hundred years. However, the people of Orono feel that the time for self-government is overdue.

To become a village, as distinguished from a police village, the acreage must be 500 as compared to the present 225. The boundaries, therefore, would have to be extended to embrace the necessary acreage. But there are some who ask if the police village of Orono is working along the lines of acreage or assessment in establishing the new boundaries.

DELEGATION

Council was in some doubt Thursday as to the interpretation of two sections of the Municipal Act relevant to enlarging a police village to a village. The situation was further enmeshed when a delegation Friday contested the petition.

Before the delegation got into action, Reeve A. McKay of Clarke township declared that the petitioners were standing on their own feet as the move was strictly on their own initiative. The township council was taking no sides in the matter, he said.

"This petition has been drawn up and presented without the authority of the township. I want to make that clear," said Reeve McKay.

Spokesman for the deputation, O. S. Martin, said that he had come to Orono two years ago and purchased a seven-acre farm outside the village but within the boundaries of the proposed expansion. He felt the proposal before the ratepayers of Orono was not complete.

At the north end, a farmer was told that unless he was included in the new village boundaries he would not be able to send his children to school there. There was a variety in the information given in connection with where the children would be able to attend school.

MANY PROBLEMS

"We were told that five acres constituted a farm. Now we are informed that if we become part of the village we will not be considered as farmers unless we have a minimum of 20 acres; and that will put our taxes up. We are also interested in what happens to the road through Orono when the new highway is built. We feel that the entire matter should be hoisted for three months. By then we will have enough information to know what will happen. We would like to see all the taxpayers go into the proposition," said Mr. Martin.

H. Best said he was among others who signed the petition, only to discover afterward that the situation had been misrepresented to them. There were three matters on which informaion was wanted: rural and urban assessments and schools.

"The fact is, 73 per cent have signed the petition," it was pointed out by Reeve Jack Erskine of Cobourg.

"Yes, but a lot didn't know what they were signing. Certainly if the petition was circulated again, they would not sign. They told us the new deal would mean lower taxes. It was hurried through. People took the petition around to be signed instead of having the whole thing discussed at a public meeting. The boundaries and other things were not made clear," Mr. Best said.

TIME LIMIT

Warden Reg. McCann interjected with the comment that there was the legal requirement that it must be dealt with in three months, otherwise council would have to hold a special session. Counties Solicitor Harvey Brent agreed as to the time limit.

The method of procedure was a debatable point, he said. The act had provision for enlarging the village but it looked like a district trying to do it in one step, rather than the stipulated two stages. He doubted that the department would let them get away with it, or the move might invite legal action to quash the bylaw. Mr. Brent said he wouldn't be surprised to see the minister throw the bylaw out.

"There are two steps set out," said Mr. Brent. "First you should enlarge your police village to the size desired and after that seek incorporation into a village. It might go through the way it stands or it might not. I don't think it is the proper procedure.

"I understand that some went to Toronto and obtained the impression from the department that they were going at it the right way. However, the letter from Mr. Orr, the deputy-minister, seems to indicate a different view. We could deny the petition because it does not conform with procedure," said Mr. Brent.

FAVORS DELAY

Reeve Jack Erskine, of Cobourg, commented that it looked like an attempt to rush things through. Some had signed who now were opposed to it. He favored a delay in order to have time to obtain more information.

"Yes, we should either deal with it or reject it and give our reasons for so doing," suggested the warden.

Reeve Charlie Burrison, of Hamilton township, said that it was similar to his area, where children just over the line go to another school.

Reeve Horace Smith, of Port Hope, proposed that the petition be denied because it had not been properly presented, according to the advice from the counties solicitor, and that the parties concerned be recommended to go back and iron out the difficulties, after which it would be presented at the next session of council.

R. R. Waddell, Orono solicitor, said that a great many in Orono felt that the community was old enough to govern itself and don't want to be governed by Clarke township. Except in the case of Ted Woodyard, former counties councillor, there had never been an Orono resident on the township council of Clarke.

As far as schools were concerned, nobody could bind the village in that regard until the village is incorporated. Then they could negotiate with Clarke township as to school sections.

NO CASE LAW

Mr. Orr had pointed out that there had been no court decisions to define more particularly the difference between the two sections of the act which were involved, for the reason that the point hitherto had not been raised. He felt the police village was part of the township and by "district" was meant part of the township and the police village. Therefore it could not be considered a matter of taking two steps in one. In his opinion, the people who had signed and now wanted to withdraw, could not do so.

"However, even if their names were taken off, there would still remain more than 50 per cent represented on the petition."

"I was a member of the deputation who went to see Mr. Orr," said C. K. Miller, of Orono. "We told Mr. Orr that we wanted to enlarge the police village of Orono into a village and our present course of action has been in accordance with what he told us to do."

"It boils down to the fact that our solicitor is doubtful of the legality of the course of action proposed. What position will it place us in if we pass it against his advice and it is quashed?" asked Reeve Horace Smith. Deputy-Reeve G. H. Free of Campbellford interjected that the initial procedure in any event was for a census directed on the authority of the countries council. This had not been done. Warden McCann agreed.

"Orono is 100 years old and now in thirty days they want to cram something through," said Deputy-Reeve G. Rickard of Darlington, who remarked that he owned property in Clarke township. He asked if they were including all the police village area plus the added part; or were they leaving out part of the police village.

NEW HIGHWAY

He asked if this group had discussed with Clarke township the proposed incorporation before proceeding with the petition. There appeared to be certain irregularities in the boundaries. The new highways were being located with the intention of avoiding populated areas but the new village boundaries would defeat this intention because they would include the area through which the highway was supposed to pass.

"Was there a 'whip' used to get their signatures?" asked Deputy-Reeve Rickard. "I think it would have been better to consult the township council rather than put it through and have bitterness afterwards," he said.

Mr. Waddell declared that the present police village was 225 acres and a total of 500 was necessary to qualify for the status of village. In January of 1953 a public meeting was called to discuss it. He recalled that there were some of the township councillors there. At a subsequent meeting of the ratepayers of the village, a delegation was appointed to go to Toronto and report back.

Deputy-Reeve J. T. Brown of Clarke township said the council would not stand in the way. But the fact remained that the council knew nothing whatsoever about the boundaries until a week or so ago after the petition was filed with the counties clerk. There was one meeting advertised but he had missed the notice in the paper and didn't get to it.

SCHOOL PROBLEM

The township council members were in agreement that the boundaries as proposed, were not right. They did include some 17 properties in SS 12, Orono. This would make the matter of children getting to a convenient school a difficult situation. There were also some 15 to 18 properties taken into the area which would not provide sufficient financial support for school purposes.

"We have been educating them free for a long time," observed Mr. Miller.

"Mr. Miller told us that if we didn't sign we would be out of the school section. I didn't know until the court of revision sat that 20 acres, not five, was the minimum to obtain a farm classification for taxation purposes. I'd like to see the whole thing held up until this school matter is clarified," said Mr. Best.

Council wound up the discussion by passing a resolution denying the petition because it was contrary to the procedure set down in the act. The motion was carried unanimously.

What comes next is mostly conjecture. If the council of Clarke township and the police village trustees sit in together they might work out something which would eliminate the contentious parts of the proposal. Failing that, legal steps might be taken to decide what is to be done.

Orono is seven miles north-east of Bowmanville on Highway 35.

George Street Church Reports Resident Membership Of 1,778

George Street United church Friday evening held its annual congregational meeting. The minister, the Rev. Arnold A. Mathews, B.A., B. D., was the chairman, and the secretary was the recording steward, W. H. Frise.

Among the Vital Statistics presented by the session clerk, P. M. McCarrell, were: Baptisms during 1953—86, burials 34, marriages, 41. One hundred and twenty-six new members were received, bringing the total resident membership of the church to 1778.

One of the most encouraging reports was that of the treasurer of the Missionary and maintenance fund. Members had given through the duplex envelopes, the sum of $8,256. This was a gain of 20 per cent over 1952. The other missionary organizations of the church reported $876.05 sent to headquarters, bringing the total missionary givings of the Church during the year to $9,132.05.

The superintendent of the Sunday school, Quirt McKinney, gave a report showing progress. The average attendance at the afternoon Sunday School was 295. In addition, over 200 children attend the junior congregation, nursery classes, and young people's discussion group every Sunday morning. The wonderful assistance of Mr. and Mrs. Mathews in the Sunday School was greatly appreciated as it was in all the church's organizations.

G. D. Carlisle, treasurer of the trustee board, reported a healthy condition of the church's assets and liabilities. The property of the congregation was valued at over $269,000. The work of A. H. Lewis who acted as auditor was most commendable. Walker Jones gave an encouraging treasurer's report.

George Street church nursery department had a total attendance of 2,294 children as reported by Miss M. McEwen. Among the many activities of the woman's association, Mrs. C. Munroe mentioned the extensive renovating of the new coronation room. This organization had made 998 visits to the ill and shut-ins. Mrs. J. Bickell reported that 800 pounds of clothing had been sent overseas by the afternoon auxiliary of the W.M.S. and $1,420 was sent to the Peterborough pr ovincial treasurer.

Two beautiful solos were sung by Mr. Reg. Peters.

These were given as follows: committee of stewards by Stan Gilmour; woman's federation by Mrs. G. Gatfield; evening auxiliary by Mrs. C. D. Munroe; baby band mothers' auxiliary by Mrs. O. Mackie; junior congregation by Mrs. C. Wasson; Canadian Girls In Training by Miss Joan Loucks; cubs by Mr. Quirt McKinney; Fidelis mission band by Mrs. C. Potts; Invictae mission circle by Miss M. Brown; Explorers by Miss D. Foster; choir by Miss J. Trotter; "Mr. and Mrs. Club" by Mrs. Townsend, Young Peoples' union by Miss V. Powers; bowling club by Mr. E. Hales; ushers by Ray Stabler; benevolent fund by Mr. A. Brown; Mr. McCarroll, Session clerk, gave much of the credit of the success of the congregation to Mr. and Mrs. Mathews. He also praised the untiring work of Mr. and Mrs. Rowland Charles Allen and his choir members.

The chairman of the nominating committee announced that the names of the newly-elected members to the session and board of stewards would not be published for another week.

Mr. and Mrs. Mathews read the names of 34 former members who had died during the year and their memory was given the tribute of silent prayer.

The meeting was brought to a close by Mr. Rowland who spoke of the warm Christian friendship present at George Street.

The ladies of the church served refreshments.

Donates $250 Bursary For Grade 13 Pupils

CAMPBELLFORD — (ENS) — Principal of Campbellford High School, E. E. Darling has announced a new bursary starting in the school this year. The award will be known as the Peter Barnes' Bursary and is valued at $250.

The bursary is payable on receipt of a certificate from the institute in which the student is enrolled, stating that he has been in regular attendance in an established course.

Conditions governing the award will be scholarship, leadership, citizenship and need. Any pupil of Grade 13 who is proceeding to higher education will be eligible to apply for the award.

Mr. Barnes is a theatre operator.

Roseneath Fair Gate Receipts Record Total

ROSENEATH (ENS)—A. J. Campbell was re-elected president of Roseneath Agricultural Society at their annual meeting. Mr. Campbell is beginning his third year as president of this flourishing organization.

Following are the officers elected: president, A. J. Campbell; 1st vice-president, James L. Timlin; 2nd vice-president, Earl Drope; secretary, Clarence Varcoe; treasurer, Bart Thackeray; auditor, Rupert Nichol and Donald Sherwin.

The meeting was held in the township hall. President A. J. Campbell presided.

Treasurer Bart Thackeray, presenting the annual report, reported the largest gate receipts in the history of the fair. His report was confirmed by the auditors, Rupert Nichol and Donald Sherwin.

NEW DATES

Tentative dates for Roseneath fair are set for October 1 and 2 this year.

Delegates were appointed to Belleville District No. 3 fairs convention, Belleville, January 28. Delegates are—Clarke Mouncey, Hector Winkworth, A. J. Campbell, Walton Lean, C. W. Varcoe; alternates—Arnold Parker, Laurie Hope, Charles Childs, Archie McCracken.

It was decided to again sponsor a field crop competition in fall wheat and oats. The committee in charge are A. J. Campbell, Charlton Grigg and Bart Thackery.

Charlton Grigg was appointed local leader of the calf club, with Reginald Timlin assistant. Other members of the calf club committee are, Ross McCracken, James L. Timlin, Edgar Braithwaite, Delbert Varcoe and Flex McMillan.

A one-dollar bonus will be paid on all horses and cattle exhibited at Roseneath Fair in 1954.

Truck Upsets In Collision

Two accidents in the city Friday saw damage total of $1,500. No injuries were caused, but charges will likely be laid against two of four drivers involved.

Elmer Cowan, 24, of 279 William St., was driving east on Sherbrooke St., and Herman Ksander, 26, 162 Parkhill Rd. E., south on Rubidge St., when their vehicles collided at the intersection. Cowan's truck skidded 40 yards and upset. Damage was set at $900 to the truck and $400 to Ksander's car.

Sherbrooke is a through street at that point.

As William Clarke, 29, of RR 10, Peterborough, was driving south on George when his vehicle was in collision with one driven by Jack Sadler, 53, 258 Roger St. Sadler was turned left off McDonnel with the green light.

Damage was set at $100 to both cars.

Police say Ksander and Clarke will be charged.

George Nichols Given $148 For Suggestion

It pays to be imaginative in any business, but at the CGE it pays in nice crisp, green folding money. George Nichols of the shipping department is now $148 richer as a result of suggestions to management for greater efficiency in his department.

Mr. Nichols' double-barrelled plan involves omitting crates and boxes on individual pedestals and shipping up to six pedestals as a unit.

Another CGE idea man is James Essex, a die repairman in the wire and cable section. He earned $72 for his suggestion that a different kind of abrasive, designed to produce a smoother finish be used for semi-automatic polishing.

Other CGE award winners for plant suggestions include Roy Gilders of the machine repair section, and Maynard Bullied, a maintenance man. They won $31 and $14 respectively. Altogether $287 has been handed out to CGE employees for suggestions for practical improvements.

4 Women Slashed During Rush-Hour

MONTREAL (CP)—Police today sought a man who slashed the legs of four women Friday night and then mingled with rush-hour crowds.

Police said the attacker, "described by one of the victims as youthful and "foreign-speaking," apparently slashed the women with a sharp knife or straight razor as they boarded a street car.

Because of numbing, sub-zero temperatures, the wounds were not discovered until the victims boarded the street car and saw blood running down their legs.

Break Tie

STIRLING (ENS). — Earl Fox has been appointed to fill the vacancy on the Stirling board of education. The election resulted in a tie between Mr. Fox and Dr. E. A. Carleton.

Two By-Elections Held March 22 For Peel Verdun

OTTAWA (CP)—The first test of political strength in the federal field since last summer's general election will come March 22.

By-elections will be held then in the Ontario riding of Peel, held by the Progressive Conservatives since 1935, and in Quebec's Montreal Verdun riding, a Liberal seat since 1940.

Prime Minister St. Laurent announced Friday the date for the by-elections, which will fill half the four vacancies in the 265-member Commons.

The other vacancies are in Gatineau, Que., and Elgin, Ont. No by-election dates have been set.

Chief interest in the March 22 contests is expected to centre on Peel. Gordon Graydon, the opposition member from that riding for 18 years, was a national figure up to his death shortly after the Aug. 10 election.

A former national chairman of the Progressive Conservative party, he also served during 1943-45 as leader of the Progressive Conservative opposition in the Commons. Later, as foreign affairs specialist for his party, he attended United Nations sessions and many other international meetings.

For several years up to his death at 57, he had been deputy leader of the Progressive Conservatives in the Commons under George Drew.

CONTESTED BY LAWYER

To contest his seat, the Progressive Conservatives have nominated John C. Pallett, 32, a Cooksville lawyer. The Liberal candidate, nominated Friday night, will be A. J. C. O'Marra, a lawyer from the Toronto suburb of Port Credit.

The Verdun seat was opened up by the recent resignation of Paul E. Cote, 44, Liberal, to become a judge of the Quebec Superior Court. Mr. Cote, a Montreal lawyer, had been parliamentary assistant for labor since 1947.

Both major parties will be contesting the seat. Formed originally in 1933 and reshuffled in 1947, it was held first by a Conservative from 1935-40 and from then on by Mr. Cote.

There was no indication of when the Gatineau and Elgin by-elections would be held.

Commons standing: Liberals 171; Progressive Conservatives 49; CCF 23; Social Credit 15; Independent 3; vacant 4; total 265.

County To Pay Share For Indigents

County council on Friday approved payment of $14,700.08. to Civic hospital and $5,816.70 to St. Joseph's hospital to cover the two hospitals' losses during the year on Peterborough county's indigent patients.

A total of 1,931 patient days were spent by county patients at Civic. The loss is computed as follows: 1,902 days in the main hospital at $7.59 a day, and 29 days in the communiciable disease division at $9.10 a day. Total $14,700.08.

A total of 843 patient days were spent by county patients at St. Joseph's. The loss is computed as follows: 843 days at $6.90 a day. Total $5,816.70.

(In Civic the average cost of treating indigent patients, alone, was $13.70 a day. The average cost for all patients — private, semi-private, public ward, self-pay and indigent — was estimated at $15.22 a day.)

(In St. Joseph's the average cost of treating patients was estimated at $13.04 a day.)

PROVINCIAL GRANT

A statutory rate of $3.50 a day is paid by the county to both hospitals for all county patients, indigent or not. The Ontario government also gives a grant, thus helping to reduce the cost of hospitalization to the public.

Reeve James Gifford of Ennismore township wanted to know how it was that provincial government gave a grant of $1.70 a day for public ward patients in Civic and only $1.38 a day for petients in St. Joseph's. Mrs. J. A. Spurway, county clerk and treasurer, made inquiries and found that the grants are based on several factors: for instance, the percentage of public ward beds in relation to all beds, and the percentage of occupancy.

The county bill for indigent patients in 1953 was $2,330 less than in 1952. And there were 438 fewer patient days in the two hospitals; though individually, Civic had 98 days more and St. Joseph's 536 days fewer.

Revolutionary Gas Turbine May Improve Coal Industry

MONTREAL (CP) — A revolutionary gas turbine which may give strong impetus to Canada's coal industry was demonstrated in detail Friday by a group of young scientists from McGill University.

Mines Minister George Prudham, who witnessed the demonstration along with a group of members of Parliament and reporters, said the invention may be the coal industry's answer to the "more recent and glamorous oil and gas developments."

The coal-burning gas turbine may herald renewed hope for the coal economy of the Maritimes, Mr. Prudham said.

The experimental machine has been operating for some months but Friday was the first time it was exhibited.

FEDERAL PROJECT

The project was undertaken by McGill at the request of the federal government. The aim is to find a new use for Canada's coal supplies and free transport from over-dependance on oil.

Professor Donald Louis Mordell, an Englishman who worked on the development of jet war planes before coming to Canada, is the prime mover. The coal-turbine machine is worked on much the same principle as the jet engine.

Mr. Prudham said "the prediction of the Dominion coal board is that in another 10 years the coal industry will regain its ascendancy."

The basic advantages of the engine would be the cheapness of fuel and the elimination of "fly ash." The term fly ash is applied to the residue of unburned fuel which, in earlier gas turbines, was thrown with terrific force against the moving parts, causing mortal damage.

MP IMPRESSED

Clarie Gillis, CCF member for Cape Breton South, said he was impressed by the McGill experiments but noted an opinion by Prof. Mordell that no engine for actual work would be available for at least two years.

He said that President Donald Gordon of Canadian National Railways already had ordered the widespread use of diesels on the railway. The full advantage of Prof. Mordell's experiments would be better realized if this had not happened, said Mr. Gillis.

Prof. Mordell said that coal used in the experiments so far has come from Cape Breton mines. Only high-grade coal had been used so far.

Noted Canadian Honored By Colleagues At Dinner

OTTAWA (CP) — A distinguished Canadian who has received one of the world's most coveted scientific awards will be honored by his colleagues at a dinner here tonight.

The dinner is being given for Dr. C. J. Mackenzie, president of the atomic energy control board, recently awarded the Kelvin medal in recognition of his achievements in the field of science engineering. It is being sponsored by the Professional Institute of the Public Service of Canada which will award Dr. Mackenzie an honorary life membership.

Mr. Mackenzie, former president of the National Research Council and Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd., the crown company which operates the Chalk River, Ont., atomic project, is the first Canadian, and the first North American-born scientist to receive the medal.

Instituted in 1920 to commemorate the life work of British physicist Lord Kelvin, the medal is awarded every three years by the institution of civil engineers in London, Eng., following consultation among officials of major engineering institutions throughout the world.

Dr. Mackenzie will receive the medal at a ceremony in London later this year.

PRIME MINISTER TO SPEAK

The toast to Dr. Mackenzie will be proposed by Dr. W. P. Thomson, president of the University of Saskatchewan. Other speakers will include Trade Minister C. D. Howe, Prof. A. V. Hill, well-known British atomic scientist, Prime Minister St. Laurent, Dr. Mackenzie and Dr. Harold Senn, president of the Professional Institute.

As president of NRC and later Atomic Energy of Canada, Dr. Mackenzie was responsible for direction of Canadian activities in the field of atomic energy until his retirement last October.

Dr. Mackenzie says the secrecy which has cloaked the development of atomic energy so far has not hampered scientific progress. However, he says he agrees with President Eisenhower's proposal that an international agency should now be established to promote the use of atomic power for peaceful purposes.

He says the time has come to get rid of some of the secrecy surrounding research into industrial uses of atomic power.

Name E. Moloney President Of Agricultural Society

LAKEFIELD (ENS)—Lakefield Agricultural Society held its annual meeting in Memorial Hall.

President Roland C. Darling stated he felt the fair was much better in 1953 than it had been in previous years, but the weather influenced the attendance, which was not as large as it might have been otherwise. F. A. Lashley, president of Ontario Association of Agricultural Societies opened the fair.

Howard Beavis, secretary-treasurer, reported total receipts of $3,077.86 and expenditures of $2,-944.50.

NAME COMMITTEE

Charles Bolton, Bruce Dunford, Ross Wiles and Ralph Beavis were appointed a committee to try and get more members to join the society.

A report of the District 4, convention in Port Hope was given by Mrs. Howard Beavis, reports of the various departments were given by the directors in charge.

B. F. Blake of the Lakefield Chamber of Commerce was present and suggested that the chamber would like to have members from the Agricultural Society join with them. The parade, held on fair day and sponsored by the C. of C., was dscussed.

It was suggested that principal E. G. Sloan, who makes out the lists of work for the public school exhibits, should be contacted with a view of getting the list to the various teachers and schools as soon as possible so pupils might work on the projects during the winter months.

Mrs Braden Bullock and Mr. E. Moloney were appointed delegates to the annual convention in Toronto in February.

NEW OFFICERS

Past president, R. C. Darling; president, Ed Moloney; vice-presidents, Ross Wiles, Charles Bolton; secretary-treasurer, Howard W. Beavis; auditors, George Spence, Allan H. Clark; honorary directors, Reeve William C. Grant, Lakefield, Reeve Gordon Fitzgerald, Smith township, Reeve Roland Tedford, Douro township, reeve David McIntyre, Otonabee township, G. K. Fraser, MP, Harold MPP, T. Braden, H. D. Coons, Mrs Gavin Graham, Mrs Albert Darling, Mrs. S. Higgins, William Tedford

Directors, Stanley Wood, Earl Rosborough, L. Hawthorne, C. V. Coons, Ralph Beavis, Harold Mullen, Braden Bullock, Bruce Dunford, Roland Darling.

Associate directors, Alex Graham, Joe Coughlin, Ken Rollins, R. Wiles, Jr., Emmett Moloney, Roy Slater, Arthur Charlton, Max Wilson, Frank Baldwin, S. R. Henderson, Stewart Clysdale, Roger Charlton, Stewart Cullen.

Lady directors, Mrs. C. V. Coons, Mrs. W. H. Fife, Mrs. S. A. Grylls, Mrs. George Carey, Mrs. Carmen Payne, Mrs. T. Payton, Mrs. Harold Hamblin, Mrs. Harry T. Hill, Mrs. V. Deck, Mrs. Braden Bullock, Mrs. L. Foster, Mrs. Elmer Trethewey

September 17 and 18 were set as dates for this year's fair, but they will not be definite until other sources have been consulted.

Ladies' Division Of Fair Officers Named

ROSENEATH —(ENS)— Mrs. Charles Sandercock was elected president of the Ladies Division of Roseneath Agricultural Society at their annual meeting. The election was conducted by Mrs. James L. Timlin, past president of the society. Following are the officers elected:

President, Mrs. Charles Sandercock; vice-president, Mrs. Clarke Sandercock; secretary, Mrs. Reginald Timlin; assistant secretary, Mrs. Arnold Parker; pianist, Mrs. C. W. Varcoe; assistant pianist, Mrs. James L. Timlin.

Delegates were named to District 3 convention at Belleville, Jan. 28. Mrs. Earl Waldie, Roseneath, is president of this district. Delegates are: Mrs. James L. Timlin, Mrs. William Halstead, Mrs. Flex McMillan and Mrs. Charles Sandercock; alternates: Mrs. Clarence Parker, Mrs. Harold George, Mrs. Bart Thackeray, Mrs. A. J. Campbell.

Delegates to Ontario Fairs Association, King Edward Hotel, Toronto, Feb. 10, 11, 12: Mrs. Robert Winkworth, Mrs. Neil Sherwin, Mrs. Harold George; alternates: Mrs. Reginald Timlin, Mrs. Clarence Parker, Mrs. A. J. Campbell, Mrs. Bart Thackeray.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. A. J. Campbell. The president, Mrs. Charles Sandercock, presided, with Mrs. Ray McCracken as secretary.

NEW PROJECT

Plans were made for a new project in ladies' work, "Let's Have a Bazaar." This will be open to all the ladies' organizations in the township. The articles are not necessarily hand-sewn. Six prizes will be given, $6, $5, $4, $3, $2 and $1.

Mrs. Arnold Parker and Mrs. Flax McMillan were named a committee to arrange for the February meeting in banquet form at Maple Lodge.

All ladies were appointed to work in the same divisions at fair time as in the previous year.

Mrs. William Halstead was appointed to present the Roseneath report at the Belleville convention.

A special feature of the 1953 exhibits were the specials in arts and crafts, comforters and quilts.

Mrs. Campbell served afternoon tea.

Millbrook Fair Best Ever Set June 9 Date For '54

MILLBROOK (ENS) — At the annual meeting of Millbrook Agricultural Society in the council chamber, June 9 was set as the date for the 1954 fair.

President Roy Ferren of Cavan was in the chair and called on the directors of the various classes for reports.

All were agreed that the 1953 show was the best ever held here, with the exception of the swine section. On account of the hog cholera epidemic in the province last year, no swine show was held. Both horse and cattle exhibits were considered excellent. Mr. Lashley of the department of agriculture had stated that he was amazed at the quality of stock shown.

Reporting for Clysdale classes, Leonard Smith stated that while the horses shown were good—one owned by Jay Whittington was later a winner at the Royal Winter Fair. Yet some years there had been more entries.

OUTSTANDING TEAM

Ken. Moncrief said the Percherons put on a good show. One exhibitor in this section went on to the Royal Winter Fair to win first in a class of 18 for a heavy draught team, first in an open class for purebreds and grade, first in the four horse hitch, 2nd in the six horse hitch and 4th in the yeld mare class. The exhibitor was Gar Robinson of Cavan.

Jay Whittington reported this was the first year there had been a class for Belgian horses. The results were so encouraging he thought definitely it should be continued.

Harry Young thought the Jersey cattle showing excellent and that the new loading platform was a great improvement. Stewart Donaldson reported that in the good showing in the Shorthorn section there was also a Royal winner.

Mervin Smith said there were 100 head of beef cattle shown with more exhibitors then ever before. The calf club was also the best ever.

Jay Whittington stated the society was in a better financial position than ever before. This and the success of the show were due to a great extent to the work of the president and secretary-treasurer, Mrs. P. J. Bentley.

NEW OFFICERS

Mr. Whittington was in the chair for the elections, when the following were elected: president, Roy Ferren; 1st vice-president, L. W. Smith, RR 1, Millbrook; 2nd vice-president, Ted McDowell; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. P. J. Bentley; auditors, Herbert Kerr and T. W. Belch.

Fifteen active directors were elected: L. W. Smith, Charles Fisher, R. O. Larmer, Stewart Donaldson, Roy Ferren, Jay Whittington, J. J. Powell, Leonard MacNeil, Mervin Smith, Ted McDowell, Gordon Staples, Fred Lowery, Ken Moncrief, Gerald Larmer, Harry Young.

Honorary directors are: John James, MP for Durham; Hon. Major John Foote, MLA; George F. Harrington, reeve of Millbrook, and Lloyd Hooton, reeve of Cavan township.

NEW FEATURES

Added attractions for the fair which were discussed were: prizes for the oldest man and woman present; a prize for the person coming from the greatest distance and for the one with the largest family; school singing contests and a beauty contest.

It was thought last year's plan for having a section of seats reserved for elderly and diabled people should be repeated, so that those who were not able to walk around could see the judging.

It was thought that the small piece of land adjoining the fair grounds and owned by Mrs. Mulligan could be purchased.

Since the judging platform and fence surrounding the ring had been damaged, it was decided to keep the gates of the fair ground locked.

SCHOOL IN NORTH WARD

Harry Winch, Noah de la Plante and Leger D. Letellier were tenants of meat shops in the market arcade which had a wide entry off the east side of George St. approximately where Jim Hum's cafe is located.

J. W. Miller, father of Gordon and Norman Miller, took a lease the store next to the CPR ticket office at $250 a year.

Ratepayers voted Sept. 2, 1889, for a bylaw appropriating $18,000 for the North Ward public school, now Queen Alexandra, and also for the building of two additional rooms at South Central School, Rubidge and Sherbrooke streets.

Heads UN Commission

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)— Dr. Enrique Rodriguez Fabregat of Uruguay was chosen Friday as this year's chairman of the 14-member United Nations peace observation commission, set up to study any situations threatening world peace. Fabregat succeeded Oscar Thorsing of Sweden. Leslie Knox Munro of New Zealand was named vice-chairman.

Led Astray, Youth Fined Not Jailed

The story of a 17-year-old Lakefield youth, allegedly led astray by morally unsuitable characters, prompted Magistrate W. R. Philp, QC, to give the boy, Walter Lane, another chance to make good.

In court Thursday, Lane was charged with the theft of two cartons of cigarettes and a "mickey" bottle of whiskey, the property of Hazel Ward, owner of the restaurant "Shiners Lunch" at Lakefield. Lane was also charged with failing to report under the terms of a suspended sentence.

On the first charge he was fined $20, costs $13.50, and on the second, $10, costs $2.50.

Eddy Prentiss, who also lives at the restaurant, testified that Lane and a man described as Coombs, had been at the restaurant on the night of December 23. At 3 a.m. Coombs and Lane had not left, so he had gone to bed leaving them alone in the room downstairs. Shortly after, they did leave and next morning the cigarettes and whiskey were found to be missing. Subsequent inquiries led to Lane being charged.

Questioned by Crown attorney John A. Bradshaw, QC, Prentiss denied that there had been any drinking in the restaurant that night.

Lane, who was represented by Mr. Trevor Clarke, had a different story to tell. He related that Coombs, Prentiss and himself had consumed a "good many" bottles of beer that night. The beer belonged to Prentiss, or possibly Mrs. Ward.

OFFERED TO PAY

Lane admitted to having taken the cigarettes and whiskey. However, he told the court that he had later offered to pay for them.

Defending, Mr. Clarke said he was not trying to excuse the boy, but it appeared obvious that he had been exposed to strong temptation.

"I don't think a prison sentence would do this boy any good," he said. "Perhaps your worship could see fit to place him on probation."

Mr. Bradshaw: "I am convinced that Lane is telling the absolute truth and the morally guilty person is Prentice."

Seeing that Lane was already on probation for a previous offence, the magistrate said it would be out of the question to give him a second period.

"He is undoubtably guilty of the offence, but because of the background of the affair I will impose a fine this time," added Magistrate Philp.

Turning to Prentice the magistrate commented: "I regret that I have to give you any witness fees, but it has to be done."

Lane pleaded guilty to the second offence concerning the suspended sentence.

Girl Strangled

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — A 12-year-old girl, playing dress - up in her mother's clothes, died of strangulation when a cloth belt caught on a door handle and slipped around her neck as she fell. The girl's body was found by her father, Gordon A. Collinsworth, when he returned home from work. The mother had gone out to a social gathering.

Creek Yields Bodies

TOLEDO, O., (AP) — Led by a bloodhound, police chopped through the ice in Swan creek Friday and found first a red corduroy hat and then the bodies of two children. More than 1,000 persons — police and volunteers — hunted through the city for 24 hours before the bodies of Douglas Chaney, 7, and Eddie West, 6, were found huddled together in five feet of water. Three times a bloodhound ended its trailing at the same spot on the creek's bank.

George Street Sunday School Elects Officers

The annual meeting and installation of officers of George St. United church Sunday school was held Wednesday in the auditorium with about 60 teachers and officers present.

The Women's Federation under the convenership of Mrs. H. Nicholls were supper hostesses. Mr. Charlton McBride thanked the group. President Mrs. Robert Hutton said the Federation would make the supper an annual event if it were wanted.

Superintendent Quirt McKinney expressed his thanks for the co-operation and assistance given him by his co-superintendent, Mr. Otto Mackey who will soon be leaving the city. Reports show a definite increase in attendance in all departments.

The following slate of officers was presented and was installed by the Rev. A. A. Mathews: superintends, Quirt McKinney and Stewart Sparling, with Charlton McBride as assistant superintendent; superintendent junior department, Garnet Dainard teachers superintendent, Leo Copp; grading superintendent, E. Hales; primary, Mrs. Pent Wellwood beginners, Miss Gladys Walker; cradle poll, Mrs. Pearl Clark; general secretary, Lloyd Gilmour; general treasurer, W. Frise; supplies secretary, E. Ingall, assistant, Denton Gilmour; recording secretary, Earl Wellwood; King's bank treasurer, Don Hamblin; lantern operator, David Mathews and Clark Hayman; pianist, Miss Dorothy White auditor, S. M. Ward.

Junior congregation superintendents, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Wasson and, Mrs. C. Brickmen; Nursery church, Miss Myrtle McKeown and Miss Eva Brown.

Representative to the official board, Leo Copp; Scouts and Cubs group committee, Arthur Bacon, Harry Walsh, W. Frise, G. Dainard Cub Master, Q. McKinney; boys work committee, Harry Walsh, S. Frawbridge, Allan Milburn, Robert Outram, Stewart Sparling, Donald Bark; girls work committee, Mrs. Armstrong, Mrs. Leo Copp, Mrs. V. The financial report was presented by Mr. Frise who also read report of King's Bank which showed $500 had been sent to the missionary maintenance fund.

CANADIANS ON GUARD—Members of Canada's 25th Canadian Infantry Brigade continue to watch the line of demarcation in Korea, but binoculars have replaced gunsights. Pte. J. S. Robinson, of Huntsville, looks over the territory that once was pounded day and night by the brigade's guns.

2 Europes Meeting At Crossroads To Solve Future

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP) — Two Europes meet at the crossroads Monday to try to solve the apparently unsolvable: What's going to happen to Germany?

With the opening of the four-power conference in Berlin, diplomats have another chance to do something about the country whose name throbs in the sick brain of Europe.

The issue is whether Germany is to be reunited on Western terms, which Russia won't accept, or on Russian terms, equally unacceptable to the West. Meanwhile, the country lies partitioned into a free federal republic of 48,000,000 persons and a Russian-controlled "democracy" of some 18,000,000.

Behind this is the broader battle of the two Europes—western Europe torn by old tensions, reduced by war to a narrow flank of freedom on the borders of the Iron Curtain, and eastern Europe firmly if restlessly, under Russian control.

Recalling the bitter lessons of their feebleness in the Second World War, the countries of free Europe have been trying ever since then to strengthen themselves by political, economic and military moves toward unity, but the plans are shaky and the Berlin conference may have a decisive effect.

Thus, the hard-shelled brooding enigma that is Germany remains the key to a many-faceted problem.

Reliable reports tell of poverty and gloom in the Eastern zone. A young West German who recently cycled through the Russian-controlled areas wrote in The Times that people in the smaller places there could hardly believe there were stores where bicycles, watches, radios and cameras could be bought.

"These obscure villages," the West German wrote, "are bitter indictments of the regime in eastern Germany."

DIFFERENT STORY

Western Germany is another story. With a frenzy for work the tough, thrifty citizens of the federal republic are breeding a new industrial juggernaut out of the rubble of defeat.

"Those babies really know how to work," the military men say. "If Canadians think we can keep up with them on a five-day week and what have you, we've got another think coming."

In the trade drive, some German industrialists speak of Canada as ultimately becoming their No target.

With all the stories about West Germany's "fantastic" comeback, few writers try to predict where these energies will lead. One view is that up to now the Germans have been concentrating on earning enough to keep themselves alive and get re-established, and that the question of their political alignment is still uncertain.

Westerners Have Novel Name For Fog, They Call Call It 'Smice'

By PHIL ADLER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP) — Out here they call it "smice."

In New York it's "smaze" and in London they call it "smog" but on the Canadiar Prairies the weatherman uses "smice" to describe fog—the super-cooled variety common with severe sub-zero temperatures.

Smice rears its misty head during the night, sharply reducing visibility but it is otherwise harmless. It looks like hoarfrost when settled on the ground.

Until the word was coined this week by a forecaster in Regina, smice was called ice fog. It has been common on the Prairies since frigid air from the Arctic moved in a week ago.

Smice is caused by cold air condensing water vapor in the form of ice crystals. The situation is aggravated by moisture from chimneys. The moisture is transformed into ice crystals almost instantly. Then the fog hugs the ground to a height of about 100 feet.

COLD SPOT

Smice is common when the temperature falls to about 20 or more degrees below zero. But the weather has provided more than adequate assurance of ice fog during the week.

Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba are gripped in an average temperature of 35 below.

One of the coldest spots on the continent Thursday was Val Marie in southwestern Saskatchewan where the mercury dropped to 59 below.

But the consolation-minded weatherman says there is warm air just three miles away—straight up.

Industrial Stock Market Strength Noted On Three Exchanges

By BOB JOHNSTONE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Industrial stock market strength continued this week on Toronto, Montreal and New York exchanges.

Papers, motors and steels were the strong elements in Toronto and Montreal; railroads and aircrafts set the pace in New York. The strength was confined to industrials however, as mines were weak, although western oils were stronger.

Toronto observers saw industrial strength in every session as the profit-taking recession expected to follow last week's gains failed to stop the advance.

Year-end earnings reports, an increasing possibility that Canada will build her own St. Lawrence seaway and an expected shot in the arm to industry from cheaper Alberta natural gas are credited with the strength.

Lower base metal prices were cited as a possible reason for increased industrial strength. They feel manufacturers will benefit from lower raw material prices.

Mining issues were weak as golds and uraniums and New Brunswick base metals slipped.

On the weekly comparison, industrials were up 2.54 at 320.69, golds were down .74 at 70.25, base metals down 2.13 at 139.36 and western oils up .76 at 92.12.

The Montreal market showed a strong beginning with beverages, banks, carriers and steels leading, but the trend became irregular, and although the close was higher, prices were mixed. Steels and utilities were strong.

Banks were up .09 at 37.05, utilities were down .1 at 94.3, industrials up .3 at 185.7, combined up .1 at 155.2, papers up 16.81 at 796.48 and golds up .41 at 51.60.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up $1.50 at $112.40.

On the bond market, two $15,000,000 issues were quickly taken up: One of Canadian Breweries, and the other of British Columbia Electric.

Hoping To Rehire CNR Workers Soon

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian National Railways hopes that 800 employees to be laid off next week soon will be rehired, Leopold Langlois, parliamentary assistant to Transport Minister Chevrier, said Friday.

Replying in the Commons to a question from Howard Green (PC—Vancouver Quadra), Mr. Langlois said the employees are being laid off because rail traffic is declining and staff adjustments are necessary as a result.

"It is hoped, though, that traffic levels will soon be restored and the railway company will soon require again the services of those who are to be laid off," he added.

Car-Train Crash Fatal

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Charles Baker, 32, died Friday night after his taxi struck the rear of a passenger train and was carried a mile down the tracks northeast of here. Police said Baker was alone in the cab when he struck the train.

Car Stuck In Ditch Not Motor Vehicle

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Magistrate F. G. McAlister ruled Friday that an auto stuck in a ditch is not a motor vehicle and dismissed a charge of drunk driving against Frank Annis, 59, of Leaside.

Provincial Constable George Gilliam testified he found Annis drunk and trying to back his car out of a ditch near No. 2 highway Thursday night. He said the car could not be moved and a tow truck had to be called.

Magistrate McAlister agreed with defence counsel that since the car could not be operated, it was not a motor vehicle.

Former Judge Dies

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Finley Ewart Perrin, 85, a former judge of Oxford county, died Friday. He was appointed judge of Oxford county in 1932 and retired in 1944. In 1938 he married Margaret, daughter of John Whyte of Stratford. She survives.

Omemee Church Names Officials

OMEMEE —(ENS)—It was a happy and thankful congregation who met for the annual meeting of Trinity United church Wednesday evening in the basement of their recently extended and redecorated church, after carrying on at a disadvantage elsewhere all summer and fall. After the church was finished the basement was still unfit for use, and this was the first get-together of the congregation since its completion.

It began with a supper, after which the business of the evening followed with the Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt presiding and George Bannon as secretary. Mr. Zufelt reported officiating at 16 funerals, seven marriages and 24 baptisms on the Omemee charge during the year. A period of silent prayer was observed in memory of the dead.

Reports were made by the following:

Geo. Bannon, for trustee board; C. R. Vaughan, for the board of stewards; A. N. Weir for the building fund; S. D. Vaughan, for missionary and maintenance fund; Mrs. A. N. Weir, for the women's association; Miss C. Connell, for the woman's missionary society; Mrs. S. D. Vaughan, for mission band; Mrs. H. Deyell, for baby band; Miss Phyllis Nelson, for Sunday school, and W. D. Weir, for the choir.

Approximately $13,500 was raised for all purposes.

Since improvements had been made on the church at an expense of over $15,000, it was decided to raise the insurance to $50,000. A motion was passed to dispense with evening service during July and August. A discussion on films on temperance and missionary education resulted in a decision to continue their use once a month at the evening service during the winter months. The congregation favored subscribing for the "Observer" for each active church family.

Retiring stewards C. Best, H. Deyell, M. J. Sandy and D. Hicks were re-appointed, and Victor Gray was named to replace E. Rodman who has moved away. To serve as elders in the place of the late C. R. Hart and P. Pace, I. Connell and V. Gray were appointed. Delamere Kennedy was appointed to take the place of the late Alex Lang on the trustee board. Owing to the resignation of Miss C. Connell and Miss Jessie Lamb as auditors, Miss Mary Faulkner and Mrs. Jane Bradley were appointed.

W. D. Wilson's motion of appreciation for the services of the Rev. and Mrs. Zufelt, Miss Lillie Race as organist, choir leader, Mr. W. D. Weir, and the choir, was heartily endorsed by all, as was also a motion of appreciation of the large amount of time given by Mr. and Mrs. T. A. McConnell to the building project. The secretary was instructed to send a letter of acknowledgment to J. Carnegie for paint donated for the church.

LINDSAY WOMAN DIES OF BAD BURNS

SPECIALLY-PROCESSED BARLEY was purchased and shipped to Korea from Peterborough today by the Unitarian Service Committee from the milling plant of the Quaker Oats Company. The shipment consisted of four carloads. Director of the committee's welfare committee, Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova, in uniform above, samples the grain in the company of Quaker president Reginald Faryon and part of a group of boys of Queen Mary School who make periodic contributions to Korean relief. The Peterborough shipment will help feed 125,000 Korean children for three months.

Say Furnace Explosion Fired Clothes

Refuses To Be Moved To Hospital Or Have Treatment

LINDSAY —(ENS)—Mrs. Jenny Haywood, 64, died in Ross Memorial hospital Sunday midnight as a result of burns received Saturday while she was stoking her furnace. Gases in the jacket of the furnace exploded as Mrs. Haywood opened a damper.

Flames leapt from the furnace, almost enveloping her body. Her dress and underclothing ablaze, Mrs. Haywood ran upstairs to douse the fire in the kitchen sink, then rushed almost naked to the home of neighbor Ralph Hutchinson to ask for help.

Failure to get to the hospital soon enough may have been a cause of Mrs. Haywood's death. It was not until Sunday noon that she could be persuaded to leave her home.

FINALLY CONSENTED

Then she agreed to go to hospital only because she was assured she would be back in an hour or two and because her husband and brother, Jack, fearing for her life, threatened to carry her bodily to hospital if she resisted.

Mrs. Haywood was told not to touch the furnace while he was away from home, her husband, M. Ambrose Haywood said. Saturday night he went to his job as caretaker in a Lindsay beverage room.

Summoned home to his wife, Mr. Haywood said he was "very shocked" by her appearance. "She wouldn't go to the hospital then, or take a hypodermic needle, but on Sunday I decided if she stayed here she'd die." But then it was too late.

Mr. and Mrs. Haywood were childless, have live in Lindsay for more than 20 years.

Mrs. Haywood's burns to body, arms and legs were treated by Dr. P. Marioni.

Million Dollar Fire Sweeps 4 Aurora Stores, Cafe Worker Dies In Blast

AURORA (CP)—A $1,000,000 fire which cost one life in sweeping through four stores on this town's main street was brought under control today at 12:15 p.m., three hours after it started. Firemen gave the estimate of the loss. Killed in an explosion which the firemen said touched off the blaze in the town 20 miles north of Toronto, was Walter Ho, 40, Canadian-born Chinese, an employee of a restaurant in the block of 10 to 12 stores. Firemen from neighboring and distant centres joined in combatting the flames, which for a time threatened the entire block. Earlier at 11 a.m., firemen said five buildings were burning out of control.

Police said Ho was blown from the rear of Ray's lunch by the blast, which originated in the Thompson furniture store next door.

WALLS BLOWN OUT

The explosion, of undetermined origin, blew through the walls of the furniture store and the restaurant.

Flames engulfed the two buildings and spread to a Loblaw groceteria, Morning's drug store, and a fifth building.

Firemen sent emergency calls for help to fire departments in communities up to 15 miles away. Rigs were sent from North York, Stouffville, Newmarket and other centres.

The block of stores is on No. 11 highway, main street in the town of 3,400 persons.

One eyewitness said it looked as though the fire "might go through the entire block of 10 to 12 stores."

GOODS SAVED

Nearly all stores were being emptied of furniture and goods.

All apartments over the stores in the threatened block were evacuated. Residents of the apartment over Boswer's Hardware escaped minutes after the explosion and managed to save most of their belongings.

Thompson's was a large, well-stocked store with an embalming business in the second floor. The roof collapsed as flames licked the side of the building.

Newmarket hydro-electric workers cut off the power, blacking out a rural area of about 20 miles. They reported lines passing over the burning area were in danger of falling.

Police and firemen, fearing further explosions, fought to hold back hundreds of spectators pressing toward the burning buildings.

100 Escape Blaze

TORONTO (CP)— About 100 employees escaped safely today when a three-alarm fire blazed through the National Rubber Company plant on Wiltshire avenue in northwest Toronto. Dense clouds of smoke from burning rubber rose in towering columns that were visible three miles away. The fire was still blazing at 1 p.m.

Hemingway, Wife Safe After 2 Crashes

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP)—Novelist Ernest Hemingway and his wife were safe and unhurt today after two plane crackups here in the big game wilds of central East Africa.

The couple's chartered sightseeing plane was damaged Saturday when they landed alongside the upper Nile to take pictures. Later a rescue plane cracked up as it tried to take off with them. No one was hurt.

The United States couple with pilot Roy Marsh left Nairobi, Kenya, Saturday for a 600 - mile flight to the 400-foot Marchison Falls of Uganda.

As Marsh landed the small Cessna plane for Hemingway to take pictures near the falls, the undercarriage was damaged and the party could not take off. The plane had no radio, and when it failed to return, East African Airways launched a search.

PLANE SPOTTED

The Cessna was spotted Sunday by Capt. R. C. Jude, piloting a British Overseas Airways Corporation airliner. He said it was about 300 yards from the Victoria Nile river, three miles below the falls, and in the middle of scrub trees and thick bush. He said that he saw no signs of life but that the aircraft did not appear badly damaged.

The Hemingways and Marsh meanwhile had hailed a launch taking tourists to the falls. It brought them to Butiaba, 40 miles south of Lake Albert, where a rescue

Undersecretary Hume Wrong Dies In Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—The undersecretary of state for external affairs and former ambassador to the United States, H. Hume Wrong, died here Sunday at 59.

External Affairs Minister Pearson, a close friend of Canada's second highest foreign affairs officer, described Mr. Wrong as "the finest type of public servant" and said "No man has made a greater contribution to the building up of Canada's foreign service or to the wise administration of Canada's foreign policies."

HUME WRONG

Prime Minister St. Laurent said "Canada has lost a great public servant" and he has lost "a good friend and wise counsellor."

FAMILIAR FIGURE

Mr. Wrong, a familiar figure to most international diplomats from his service on Canadian delegations to wartime and post-war conferences, spent more than half his almost 27 years in the diplomatic service in Washington, where he helped establish the first Canadian legation. He was a friend of the last four United States presidents.

A tall, slim and scholarly man, Mr. Wrong was one of Canada's most polished and seasoned diplomats. He died of a heart ailment.

Barley Starts Off To Korea

Life will be less bleak for thousands of hungry South Korean children because four freight carloads of pressed Canadian barley left the Quaker Oats Co. yards here today on a mission of mercy. Public response to the barley-for-Korea campaign is "wonderful" says Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova, executive secretary of the Unitarian Service Committee which organized the drive. But at least $50,000 more is needed if a pledge to feed 125,000 children is to be fulfilled. This morning's consignment is the second batch of USC barley to head for young Korean mouths. Four loads left Saskatoon December 29, another four will leave from there next month, and there will likely be at least one more load from Peterborough.

The dollars and dimes of all Canada have financed the barley-for-Korea campaign. Dr. Hitschmanova pointed out that school children, the aged, residents of sanitaria and hospitals and the destitute have contributed out of proportion to their means, because "they know what it's like to be hungry".

MOST FROM B.C.

Biggest share of contributions so far has come from British Columbia. Here a campaign by Bruce Hutchison of the Victoria Times led to an avalanche of contributions amounting to 75 per cent of cash raised to date. Dr. Hitschmanova hopes that the rest of Canada will follow this example to send the barley-for-Korea drive over the top.

Last August Dr. Hitschmanova was in Korea under the sponsorship of the United Nations. She found that the greatest need was not for wheat, but for barley which, when processed, can be used as a substitute for rice. Since rice is the staple item in the Korean diet, and since Canada had a whopping barley surplus last year, she decided to launch a campaign.

The war is over in Korea but the struggle for survival is endless, said Dr. Hitschmanova. Hundreds of thousands of emaciated, children depend on the generosity of the western world to survive. If this help is not forthcoming, she said, thousands will

Madrid Police Drive Back Demonstrators

MADRID (Reuters) — Spanish police quelled a furious anti-British demonstration by a huge crowd here today by firing hundreds of shots into the air and charging repeatedly into the ranks of the demonstrators.

For 2½ hours the crowd, estimated at 10,000, surged against police ranks in an effort to reach the British embassy. As the police drove them back with clubs, the demonstrators replied with a barrage of rocks.

Eighteen policemen and about 30 demonstrating students were injured. Spanish army officers escaped uninjured from three cars assaulted by the angry mob.

The demonstrators were protesting Britain's continued possession of Gibraltar, long sought by Spain. A planned visit by Queen Elizabeth, due at the strategic naval base in May, has fanned the dispute into new activity lately.

The demonstrators, mostly students, turned from good humor to anger as the hundreds of police used their clubs freely to break up the crowd's advance. More than 20 times they formed into stone-throwing assault parties, only to be hurled back in confusion by police charges.

Abandon Effort To Get McNulty

CALGARY (CP) — Inspector James Melville of the St. Thomas, Ont., police force Saturday received instructions to abandon efforts to gain custody of Frank McNulty, formerly of Peterborough wanted in St. Thomas on charges of murder and arson and under three-year sentence for arson here.

McNulty will be sent to Prince Albert penitentiary to serve the three-year term. Proceedings will be launched after his arrival there to have him taken east to face the other charges, it was reported.

The 40-year-old salesman admitted at his trial earlier this week that he tried to set fire to the Salvation Army hostel here Jan. 15.

The St. Thomas murder charge arises from the deaths of two men in a fire at a YMCA building Nov. 15, 1953.

Britain Nearing End Of Food Rationing

LONDON (Reuters) — Britons came within sight of the end of food rationing today with announcement that butter, cheese and shortening will be off the coupon list May 8. This leaves only fresh meat and bacon still rationed.

In the House of Commons today, Dr. Charles Hill, parliamentary secretary to the minister of food, said he hoped to announce shortly the date for the end of meat rationing.

Flyer Hits Napanee Car 8 Killed At Rail Crossing

NAPANEE (CP)—Eight of the nine persons in an automobile were killed Saturday night when a crack Montreal-Toronto passenger train which usually goes non-stop through this eastern Ontario town demolished the car at an unprotected level-crossing. Only occupant to survive was Joan McQuaig, 10. Her condition in Kingston General Hospital is reported good.

Killed were Harry Lewis, 64; his wife, Bessie, 48; their son, Joseph, 12; Clifford Thompson, 40; 11-year-old twins, Sandra and Sharon McQuaig; Borden Cox and Mac Fox. All were from this district.

Police Chief Harry Benn of Napanee said he doubts the driver, believed to have been Clifford Thompson, ever saw the train.

MILL BLOCKS VIEW

A feed mill close to the tracks blocks the view of the crossing to a driver approaching from the south. Lights in the yard shine all night. The crossing has no wig-wag warning signal.

The train, plunging through the early-evening dusk, caught the loaded car squarely in the middle. It ripped the seats and body of the car right off the frame and scattered wreckage for 400 yards.

ENGINEER SAW CAR

"I had my arm up and was just finishing blowing the signal for the crossing for the last time when I saw the car right in front of us."

Name Kellock For Conciliation

OTTAWA (CP)—Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock of the Supreme Court of Canada today was appointed chairman of a federal conciliation board to deal with the contract dispute between the railways and their non-operative employees.

MORE

The 60-year-old justice was named by Labor Minister Gregg after union and company nominees on the board failed to agree on a chairman.

The other members of the board are A. J. Wickens of Moose Jaw, Sask., union nominee and M. M. Porter of Calgary, named by the railways. Both are lawyers.

The disputants asked the labor department to set up the board after failing to break a deadlock on union demands for "fringe" benefits.

Bull in China Shop

MAINZ, Germany (Reuters)—Customers in a China shop at Alzey, near here, dived for cover when they saw a bull crash through the plate-glass window. He had broken free while being taken to a slaughter-house and headed for the china shop. Drivers caught the beast before he could wreck the shop.

Prairie Cold Wave Lingers

EDMONTON (CP) — A blizzard raked the Pacific coast today while the Prairies remained in the deep freeze.

The snow was light but general over Alberta and Saskatchewan, and was heading for Manitoba. Biggest Prairie fall was at Cowley in southwestern Alberta which reported 1.4 inches.

Coldest spots west of the Lakehead were Smith River, in northeastern British Columbia, and Watson Lake, just north of the B.C.-Yukon border. Both were 53 below zero overnight.

The weatherman has dashed hopes of any early end to the Arctic weather which has kept the Prairies in sub-zero cold for 13 consecutive days.

60,000 More Children At Schools In 1954

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Sixty thousand more children will attend Ontario schools this year than in 1953 and more schools are needed in every part of the province, an official of the Ontario department of education said Saturday.

J. A. G. Easton, the department's technical advisor, addressed the winter conference of 65 members of the Ontario Association of School Business Officials.

Burglar Spends Two Days On Shelf

MONTREAL (CP) — A 25-year-old burglary suspect was in hospital today after spending two days with a broken ankle on a wide shelf near the ceiling of a store he allegedly attempted to rob.

The dust-covered suspect, identified by police as Donald Hanley, was discovered and arrested during the week-end and brought to hospital for x-rays and treatment.

Police said Hanley told them he fell two storeys Wednesday night and landed on a toilet bowl at the bottom of a ground-to-skylight shaft in a four-storey building on St. Catherine street.

The next day Stan Ikeman, owner of a store in the building, reported a $150 theft. Then for two days he heard noises at the top of a shelf in the store. He thought rats were responsible.

OTTAWA (CP)—The government has decided to launch court prosecutions in connection with an alleged 41-year price-fixing combine in Canada's $124,000,000 electrical wire and cable manufacturing industry, Justice Minister Garson announced today.

Bidault Proposes Priority Given To Germany, Austria

BERLIN (AP)—Foreign Minister Georges Bidault proposed to the Big Four today that German and Austrian problems be settled ahead of any discussion of Asian problems.

Bidault's statement was made at the opening session of the Big Four conference in Berlin called to ease world tensions.

At this first such meeting in five years, Bidault said:

"Clearly our meeting should be devoted to European problems. I do not believe that agreements reached on a broad plane will be advisable or even effective. We do not see why the fate of Austria should depend on that of Korea, why there should be established a link between the unification of Germany and a change in the international accords governing Communist China."

SOVIET WARNED

This proposal by the French foreign minister served direct notice to Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov that the Western powers are united in their opposition to his request for a Big Four meeting with Red China sitting in. Molotov made this proposal after his arrival in Berlin Saturday.

Foreign Secretary Eden, State Secretary Dulles, Russia's Vyacheslav Molotov, and France's Georges Bidault began their historic but not too hopeful Berlin sessions in the Allied control authority building in the American sector.

It was Molotov's first visit to West Berlin since the 1945 Potsdam conference. It was Dulles' first major diplomatic mission since he became secretary of state.

15 MINUTES FOR PHOTOS

Their first business was to pose for photographers of four nations and two half-nations, East and West Germany. They allowed 15 minutes for the picture taking.

DULLES LEAVES FOR MEETING—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles is shown leaving for Berlin to attend the Big Four Foreign Minister's meeting, which opens today. He said the big issue will be whether Europe's fate is to be unity and peace or division and war. Bidding Dulles farewell are French Ambassador Henri Bonnet (left) and British Ambassador Sir Roger Makins.

Don't Go Far Enough

Ottawa Criticizes Randall Proposals

OTTAWA (CP) — Top federal economists and trade experts both acclaimed and criticized the United States Randall commission proposals to reduce American trade curbs.

They praised the presidential commission's general tone and approach to the vital problem of finding ways of building up Western economic strength against the spread of communism.

But they expressed concern over dissension in the 17-man body and feared the commission's favorable work may go down under looming congressional fire.

MUST BE REDUCED

Experts here agreed with the commission that American tariffs must be reduced to promote freer world trade, but some expressed disappointment with the "narrowness" of the proposed three-year, 15-per-cent cut in American tariffs.

And while they were heartened by proposals to eliminate the restrictive "Buy American" act which puts a lid on the extent of U.S. government purchases abroad, officials also were critical of the suggested scrapping of the International Wheat Agreement.

The commission said the controversial IWA had led to over-production of agricultural products in the U.S. and abroad, but one expert here suggested it was the "high" U.S. price-support program and not the IWA which had led to American over-production.

Report of the commission set up by President Eisenhower to survey U.S. foreign economic policy and make recommendations for changes was released in Washington late Saturday.

TERMED HELPFUL

Trade Minister Howe said the report will be "very helpful" to Canada and the Western world.

Other officials observed that twice last year Prime Minister St. Laurent had called on the U.S. to exert world economic leadership to prevent depression and Communist aggression.

Russia, taking advantage of a lull in the cold war, was holding the "bait" of trade pacts before the eyes of many trade-hungry countries. There also is the possibility of rifts among the free countries as signs point to increasing competition for existing markets.

India Votes Against Freeing PoWs In Korea

By GEORGE A. McARTHUR

PANMUNJOM (AP) — India joined Communist Poland and Czechoslovakia today in a 3-to-2 vote of the Korean repatriation commission disapproving the release of nearly 22,000 anti - Red Korean and Chinese prisoners of the United Nations command.

Swiss and Swedish delegates backed the Allied action.

Commission chairman Lt. - Gen. K. S. Thimayya of India said the vote was taken to get the five delegations' views on the record. The outcome had been expected.

On three previous occasions, India had sided with the Red stand that the prisoners must be kept in captive status until their fate is decided by a Korean peace conference.

The UN command released the prisoners as civilians Saturday, asserting that was required by the armistice.

The 14,000 Chinese were on their way to Formosa where the Chinese Nationalists received the first 4,000 warmly. The 7,500 anti-Red North Koreans were undergoing processing in deep South Korea.

REDS SIT TIGHT

There was no word on 21 Americans, one Briton and 325 other pro-Red prisoners abandoned in the neutral zone by Indian guards at midnight Friday.

The Communist command had refused to accept custody of the 347 to back the Red propaganda position that India should hold the prisoners indefinitely until a Korean peace conference.

There was speculation on the Allied side that the pro - Red PoWs would remain in their unlocked compound until Indian troops leave Korea on or before Feb. 22.

Montreal Man Held On Forgery Charge

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — A Montreal resident was remanded Saturday until today without bail on a forgery charge involving a $1,000 bond, one of $200,000 worth stolen five years ago at Maxville, Ont.

Roland Palardy, 43, of Montreal, was charged with having forged the name of Alexander Dingwall McIntosh on the registered Canadian government victory bond. The theft occurred at the Bank of Nova Scotia in Maxville the night of Nov. 30, 1948, or early the next morning.

Police said some money was obtained on the bond at a bank here, and the arrest was made at a second bank after the manager examined the bond and became suspicious.

die, and those who survive will be embittered against the west.

COLORFUL SEND-OFF

A colorful ceremony launched the food train this morning. A crowd of more than 100 was on hand to hear Mayor Norman Graham tell Dr. Hitschmanova "because of your untiring work we do know that many, many hungry mouths will be fed."

Reg Faryon, president of the Quaker Oats Co., sketched the history of the barley experiment. He said the scientists working in Tokyo had found that barley could be pressed and rolled so as to have the same consistency as rice after cooking. This top-grade barley has a very high food value at a relatively low cost.

It's the children who have contributed most to a "great effort of thousands of little peole," said Dr. Hitschmanova. Typical of these is the class for boys at Queen Mary school in Peterborough on hand for today's ceremonies. These lads, under the direction of teacher R. Scrutton, have sold their woodworking projects, and their personal toys to raise money for Korean children.

The children of both Korea and Canada are their country's greatest natural resources, said the doctor. She was particularly pleased that children of Canada realized their responsibility to children of other lands.

No Korean child has an enviable standard of living, said Dr. Hitschmanova, but perhaps the best-off are those in orphanages. The ones who suffer most are members of war-shattered and demoralized families, often fatherless, who must beg and scrounge for food that is not there.

The pressed barley used for these children was first developed by the Quaker Oats Co., and it is this firm that backed Dr. Hitschamanova's proposals. The barley will supplement great quantities of milk and other foods already being supplied to Korea by the Unitarian Service Committee.

WORLD-WIDE RELIEF

Petite and redheaded, Dr. Hitschmanova came to Canada in 1942 at the request of her exiled Czechoslovakian government. She founded and became first director of the Unitarian Service Committee, a world-wide agency doing relief work all over the world.

Dr. Hitschmanova travels 50,000 miles a year over the globe, and crosses Canada regularly, looking first for peoples who need help, and second for ways of financing that help. She became a Canadian citizen in 1948 and in the rare moments when she has time to relax, lives in Ottawa where the Unitarian Service Committee headquarters are located.

On hand at the ceremonies about noon today in front of four flag-bedecked freight cars were Mayor Graham, representatives of the Women's Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion, a delegation representing the Peterborough Council of Women, president Reg Faryon, general manager James Wharry and export sales manager E. J. Wolff from Quaker Oats and several dozen interested citizens and school children.

Steel Cable Rips Loose 10 Men Hurtle To Death

LABRIEVILLE, Que. (CP) — A tough steel cable ripping from its mooring caused 10 men to hurtle to their death in a shaft at the Berimis power project, a coroner's jury was told during the week-end.

Witnesses testified at the inquest at Labrieville Saturday night the 10 men were pitched 75 feet when the cable became unhitched, tilting a working platform to a 45-degree angle.

One man on the platform was rescued. He grasped one of the remaining cables and clung to it in mid-air until saved.

RULED AN ACCIDENT

The jury ruled the disaster, which happened shortly before midnight Friday, an accident. Details were not available until the district coroner, Dr. Guy Ouellet, returned to Forestville.

Communications out of Labrieville, near the huge Hydro-Quebec power site, were poor and news got through slowly and sketchily at first.

The project, where 3,000 men are building Canada's second largest power dam, is in the wilderness 175 miles northeast of Quebec City and sixty miles north of the St. Lawrence river.

Work was going on under flood lights when the accident happened.

Eleven men were riding a working platform carrying shoring timber down to the mouth of a tunnel. The 10-foot logs are used to buttress the tunnel which will funnel water for temporary power production at the dam.

Six cables lowered the platform into the shaft. One cable tore loose from its anchor, snarled a second cable which became unhooked from a pulley, and threw the platform forward at a 45-degree angle.

Logs and men tumbled to the stone bottom of the shaft. Nine died instantly, one survived five hours.

Rescuers found a pump in the bottom of the shaft had been stopped by the broken cable and water was rising in the shaft. They hurriedly recovered the bodies.

Three of the victims were from Ontario —Viko Puspok and Romeo Marois of Niagara Falls and Giordano Gillinetto, Toronto. The others were Donald Langelle, Malagash, N. S.; Magella LeClerc, Herve Bertrand, Elie LeBeuillier, all of Rouyn, Que.; Vianney Theriault, Macamic, Que.; William Biard, Noranda, Que., and Edouard Pomerleau, Beauceville East, Que.

INQUIRY PROMISED

Donald Robertson, president of the Angus Robertson Construction Company of Montreal, the men's employers flew to the scene and promised a full investigation. Hydro investigators were also sent to Labrieville.

The Bersimis project is being built at a cost of $180,000,000. Only the Kitimat development in B.C. is larger.

Selkirk Rink Defeated 11-9

OWEN SOUND (CP) — Mrs. L. E. Woolley's Toronto Granite Club rink, the defending champions, advanced to the quarter finals of the Ontario Ladies' Tankard here today defeating Mrs. C. Gooch of Hamilton Victorias 10-5 in their first-round game.

Closest match of the morning was that in which Mrs. Ann Fair skipped her Owen Sound rink to an 11-9 win over Mrs. V. Selkirk of Peterborough.

Mrs. M. F. McIntosh, Woodstock, defeated Mrs. Harriette Smith, Bracebridge, 9-6, and Mrs. R. McIntosh, Bobcaygeon, downed Mrs. B. W. Fox, Guelph, 14-7. Mrs. N. Kay, Lindsay, lost to Mrs. M. C. Code, Toronto High Park, 4-9.

Mrs. C. B. Schmidt, Kitchener, was defeated by Mrs. K. McLaren, Hamilton Thistles, 3-10.

Mrs. T. Doughty of Peterborough and Mrs. Robertson of Brantford advanced into the quarter-finals when two Kingston rinks defaulted. The quarter-final matches will be played this afternoon.

Farm Federation Discusses Markets, Stable Prices

LONDON, Ont. —(CP)—Twenty-seven directors of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture sat down today to discuss "the two biggest current issues in Canadian agriculture"—markets and stable prices. The directors' meeting starts the 18th annual meeting of the federation which will hear top government and agricultural speakers in its week-long run and, probably, heated discussion from the some 200 farmers expected to attend.

H. H. Hannam, president of the national farmers body for the last 13 years, said Sunday: "Our very ability to produce creates in itself problems of marketing and disposal."

The federation had "long been advocating" improvement in "orderly marketing at home" and "orderly disposal of surpluses in the international field."

Robert McCubbin, parliamentary assistant to Agriculture Minister Gardiner, will substitute for Mr. Gardiner, who was earlier scheduled to speak at the afternoon session. External Affairs Minister Pearson speaks at night and Mr. Hannam will also speak Tuesday afternoon.

A special program of the Farm Radio Forum will originate from the meeting tonight with A. D. Dunton, chairman of the CBC, its guest speaker.

Public sessions throughout the meeting will give farmers from many parts of Canada a chance to air their views on questions of concern to them.

Resolutions discussed in open session at which anyone may speak must be reviewed by the board of directors before becoming federation policy. The directors represent provincial fedration of agriculture and other farm bodies and are the only official delegates to the meeting.

2. The German question and problems of insuring European security.

3. The Austrian treaty.

Canada Needs Roads More Quickly

By FORBES RHUDE

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canada needs faster than she is building, John N. Flood of Saint John, N.B., president of the Canadian Construction Association, said today.

Notwithstanding the relatively large road programs carried out in recent years, economic development has been so rapid that the increase in volume and speed of highway traffic is causing a steadily-growing backlog of road requirements.

Addressing the annual meeting of the CCA, Mr. Flood said, however, that the needs are receiving greater recognition "and the considerable progress in the construction of the Trans-Canada highway is especially gratifying.

Mr. Flood said the broad base of Canada's development is steadily spreading.

REVIVAL IN NFLD.

"Newfoundland is experiencing an industrial renaissance. The rich industrial potential of Cape Breton is being enhanced by construction of a major causeway joining the island with the mainland.

"In New Brunswick the discovery of massive mineral deposits will, we hope, be followed by the development of a hydro - power program with resulting economic benefits to the province and Canada.

"The rapidly - approaching development of the mineral wealth of the Quebec-Labrador area holds promise of great resources. Central Canada is maintaining its leadership in industrial activity and gas pipelines from Alberta to the west and east coasts should enrich the whole country."

Against this background of increasing demand, costs must be kept at levels that will attract investors, Mr. Flood said.

"It is the responsibility of contractors, manufacturers, fabricators, and of labor to make their individual contributions to the maintenance of a satisfactory volume by producing construction projects, speedily, efficiently and economically."

RCAF Mercy Flight Bringing Food For Starving Eskimos

EDMONTON (CP)—Buffalo meat and rolled oats were to be flown today to aid a nomadic Eskimo band and its near-starved dogs who wandered into the tiny Arctic settlement of Perry River, about 1,100 miles north and east of Edmonton. The Eskimos, who missed the annual caribou migration and had a scanty fall's fishing, are reported in no danger; an Eskimo trader named Angulalik is feeding them at his Perry River post.

The request for immediate assistance came Sunday in a wireless message from Cambridge Bay, about 150 miles northeast of Perry River in the Queen Maud gulf about 80 miles inside the Arctic circle.

Constable Ferguson said the 12 Eskimo families are thin, with little food in their snow houses and no caches left. They are using their own food to keep their dogs alive.

Angulalik's food supply was not sufficient to meet the natives' demands. However, Constable Ferguson said the dogs would die if food didn't arrive before Wednesday.

Ferguson also asked that "urgent instructions" be given him over the CBC news broadcast. He said he would remain at Perry River until food arrived.

The two-engined Dakota scheduled a stop at Fort Smith, N.W.T., just north of the Alberta border, to pick up the buffalo meat and oats. It was then to attempt a landing at Perry River during the arctic twilight—about 8 a.m. to 12 noon this time of year.

The RCAF plane left late Sunday night from the communications and rescue centre at nearby Namao air base. It was piloted by Sqdn. Ldr. Mel Bryan of Fort William, Ont.

The northern mercy flight will be the second in about two weeks for the RCAF. Previously, they evacuated RCMP Constable Eric Oxholm from his post at Spence Bay, about 200 miles northeast of Perry River. He was brought to an Edmonton hospital suffering from a lung ailment.

It was not known how Ferguson's message was relayed from Perry River to Cambridge Bay, where the army operates a wireless station.

Would Lower Trade Barriers

WASHINGTON (CP)—Lowering of trade barriers against goods imported into the United States was one of many proposals submitted Saturday in a report by a 17-man commission on U.S. foreign economic policy. Headed by Clarence B. Randall of Chicago, chairman of the board of Inland Steel Company, the commission was set up to advise the U.S. government on a program directed toward putting the world on a more stable economic and financial keel through U.S. leadership. The dissension-riddled report recommended authority for President Eisenhower to negotiate a gradual 15-per cent cut in U.S. tariff rates and greater reductions in a limited field of imports.

The dissents contained throughout the report indicate that the commission's recommendations will meet with Congressional ire.

In the main, the report recommends:

U. S. "acquiesence" in increased trade in non-strategic goods between western European and Iron Curtain countries;

STUDY IWA

Close study of operations of the International Wheat Agreement with a view toward its possible abandonment when it expires in 1956;

A three-year extension of the reciprocal trade agreements law with "broad powers" for the president to arrange with other countries "a reduction of tariff rates on a gradual basis;"

An end to U.S. economic aid to other countries on a giveaway basis but the continuation of some aid in the form of loans; continuing military aid to allies;

A gradual approach toward free exchange of one international currency for another;

SIMPLIFY CUSTOMS

Studies designed to simplify U.S. customs procedure toward removal of some of the irritations and deterrents to imports;

Denial of tariff concessions on goods made by foreigners whose pay is below the standards of their own countries;

Stimulation of overseas investment and U.S. travel to other countries.

The report also spoke out strongly against "inflexible price supports or fixed prices" for the U.S. farmer.

Eisenhower said in a memorandum on receipt of the report that he was confident "that, on the basis of the report, it will be possible to develop a program that will advance the best interests of the United States and of the Free World."

PUBLIC REPRESENTED

The Randall commission, ordered created by Congress last August, is made up of five senators and five members of the House of Representatives, six Republicans and four Democrats, and seven representatives of the public named by Eisenhower.

The commission found "the International Wheat Agreement has contributed little to the solution of the wheat problem for the U.S. and the world at large."

Under the IWA such countries as the U.S., Canada and Australia contract to export wheat at prices which in recent years have been below the free market price. The commission said this has had the effect of stimulating over-production in the U.S. and abroad, and has tended to obstruct rather than facilitate normal readjustments of U.S. agriculture.

plane landed to take them to Entebbe.

The rescue plane was damaged taking off and failed to become airborne. One report, unconfirmed, said it burned. Again nobody was hurt.

The author and his wife then took to the road for the 185-mile trip southeast to Entebbe.

Hemingway and his present wife were married in 1946. She was Mary Welsh, well-known magazine correspondent. His first three marriages ended in divorce.

The novelist and his wife live most of the time on a farm outside Havana, Cuba, but now are on a five-month journey through East Africa, scene of some of his most famous short stories.

The couple's plane mishaps occurred in one of the wildest and most beautiful areas of the British protectorate of Uganda, a section teeming with crocodiles, elephants, buffalo, lions and other big game.

His last book, a short novel The Old Man and The Sea, won the Pulitzer prize for fiction in 1953.

Hemingway's other novels include Farewell to Arms, For Whom The Bell Tolls, and Death In The Afternoon.

He has survived three wars, the First and Second World Wars and the Spanish civil war. All of them have provided material for his works.

than a half-hour early to have a preliminary talk on conference arrangements, such as the choice of a chairman. Attention was centred on any meeting of these two principals particularly in view of the impending discussions on world atomic energy control proposed by President Eisenhower and received sympathetically by Moscow.

Dulles, Eden and Bidault already had held three preliminary talks here to perfect their strategy. U.S. officials were convinced they had a solid front which their Russian adversary would not be able to break.

The Berlin conference seemed more likely to result in a strengthening of the drive for West European defences against Soviet power than in solving the problems of German unity, Austrian independence and cold war tensions generally.

TENSION SAID EASED

Yet some Western diplomats felt the mere fact of the meeting had already produced some lessening of tension.

The Big Four ministers' last meeting, their eighth, was in mid-1949 after the Russians lifted the Berlin blockade.

Since then, the West has integrated and built its strength. Both the United States and Russia have exploded hydrogen bomb devices. Joseph Stalin has died and Georgi Malenkov became premier of the Soviet Union.

Bootleg Tourist Operators Under Fire

SUDBURY (CP) — Reg Thrush, Chapleau, secretary - manager of the Northern Ontario Outfitters Association, said today the Ontario department of travel and publicity permits "bootleg" tourist operators to do business.

In a speech prepared for delivery to the association's annual meeting, Mr. Thrush criticized the Ontario government for "issuing licences" in closed areas to persons who carry on a business similar to that of the licensed tourist outfitter."

Mr. Thrush said the association had been granted a closed area where no more outfitters' licences could be issued.

"But all over our area persons are doing a tourist outfitters business without an outfitter's licence," he said. These persons include storekeepers, overnight cabins, private camp owners, so-called sportsmen's camps and motor courts."

Members of the association come from a 400,000-square-mile area of northern and northwestern Ontario.

LUMBERMEN UNFIRE

Mr. Thrush said the Ontario department of lands and forests which licenses outfitters also licenses lumbermen "and these lumbermen have been known to block our spring trout-fishing grounds with spring drives of logs and pulpwood."

He said every legitimate tourist operator should realize that the business is a "primary industry, the same as lumbering, farming, fishing or mining."

The overnight cabins, hotels, restaurants and motels "are a development on the route our guests travel to get to their ultimate hunting and fishing grounds — our camps," Mr. Thrush said. He also drew attention to what he called the chaotic condition existing in connection with guides.

SAYS LAWYER NEEDED

"The same department licenses guides and the problem of guides is province-wide," Mr. Thrush said. "When one of our guides takes out one of our old guests and rents his equipment, and we complain, the answer is 'The guide is entitled to sell the tools of his trade.' No one, to date, has been willing to prosecute."

"The attitude of the department is 'Our business is conservation. We have no funds or officers to make legal interpretations'", Mr. Thrush continued. "There is only one solution. We must have our own legal counsel."

He reported the association in the healthiest condition since its inception 26 years ago, with 18 local associations now functioning.

he said later. "The car didn't stop at all."

When the locomotive came to a halt, the tail end of the train was about 2,400 feet past the crossing in the north end of Napanee.

The children in the car had attended an afternoon movie in Napanee.

The crossing is commonly known as the Selby road crossing. It is about 600 feet west of the Napanee station and six blocks directly north of the town's main business intersection.

FUNERAL SERVICES

Funeral services will be held today for five of the victims and Tuesday for the others.

In Kingston hospital several hours after the smash, Joan McQuaig, whose injuries included a broken leg, opened her eyes. She murmured to the nurse who bent over her:

"My, you people are nice to me."

Then she lapsed once more into unconsciousness.

SPOTTED BEER ON TRACKS

The young survivor was found minutes after the crash by Jack Stinson, Napanee tax driver. He was on his way to answer an out-of-town call when he went to cross the tracks after the train had passed. He spotted a case of beer on the tracks, got out of his car and heard screams.

He walked over and found Joan and saw some "things lying around like bundles of rags — and I knew that no one else was alive."

Joan had been to a movie in town and was taking candy home to her sisters. At the hospital she stared at visitors out of shock-glazed eyes. "We were in the back seat. Somebody was sitting on somebody's knee. I was taking candy home for my sisters. It's there," pointing a heavily bandaged thumb at her bedside table.

The child's mother visited Joan early Sunday. As she sat at the bedside, she dreaded the inevitable question: "Where are Sharon and Sandra?"

It never came. Joan still does not know her sisters are dead.

Two Firemen Injured At Hamilton

HAMILTON (CP) — Two fires Sunday night caused damage estimated at hundreds of thousands of dollars and injured two firemen, one severely.

Acting Capt. Lee Mitson was hurled from a ladder 25 feet to the ground when battling a fire at a building occupied by the General Supply Company. He suffered a broken leg and possible back and pelvis fractures.

Another fireman, Al Ashmore, standing on the ladder below Mitson, was also thrown to the ground and suffered cuts and bruises.

Police roped off a large area to keep spectators at a safe distance from falling debris.

Shortly after this blaze had been put under control, firemen were called to the east end plant of Inter-City Forwarding Limited, which they found ablaze from end to end. Heavy trucks loaded with freight and a number of gasoline drums were inside the building.

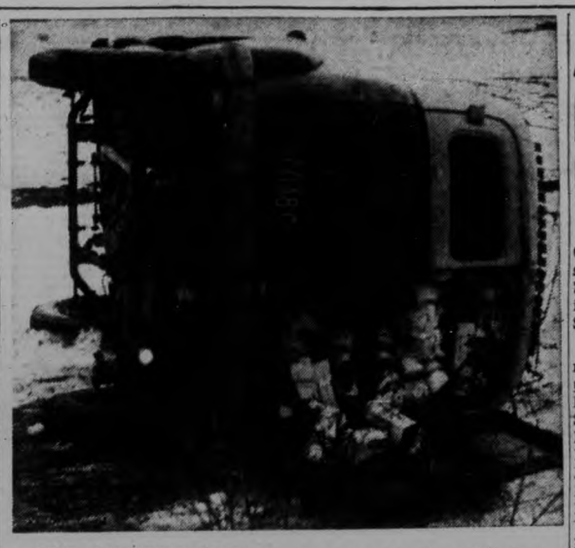
William J. Nesbitt

Funeral services for William James Nesbitt, late of 13 Moir St., were held Saturday from the Nesbitt funeral home for burial in Little Lake cemetery. Major H. G. Roberts of the Salvation Army officiated.

Pallbearers were Ronald Pace, E. Bartley, H. Beny, D. Cameron, H. Smith and G. Woodcock.



UNDELIVERED BREAD was scattered about Highway 30, seven miles south of Campbellford, when this bread truck, driven by Joseph Cooney, R.R. 2, Colborne, skidded on a corner, slid into a ditch and turned over on its side. He escaped serious injury.—(W. W. Reid Photo).
